June 20th 1866
At work about the farm to day,
21st Do Do do
22nd We had a fine rain last night and we have been replanting tobacco all day I finished planting and replanting my crop but the sun is verry hot and I fear the most of it will die
23d I helped to Burry at Little child of Mr Askews this morning its funeral sermon was preached by Mr Fallan this was the fourth time during one short month that I have been called upon to assist in burying the dead two of these were little children and two were men one in the prime of life and usefullness the other had allmost reached his three score and ten and this evening as I think of the many deaths that have occured during the present year I can but feel the importance of the warning prepare to meet thy god
