21 GIRLS ENTERED IN KENTUCKIAN'S BEAUTY CONTEST

Nominees for Places of Honor in Yearbook Represent Many Organizations

VOTE WILL DECIDE ON HIGHEST 14 OF GROUP

Winning Eight Will Be Selected By Artist, John Dundon Announces

Nominations for the annual Kentuckian beauty contest closed on Wednesday afternoon, with 21 co-eds entered. These young ladies are representatives of the various fraternities on the campus and of the unorganized group.

For the past few years, the beauties have been selected primarily from mere glimpses of a photograph by an artist or illustrator. This year, the selection will be on a different basis. Of the 21 girls on the ballot, 14 will be selected by the students. In other words, the highest 14 candidates, as the number of ballots, will be the select list. Then this list will be turned over to John W. Dundon, editor of the 1929 Kentuckian, and the co-eds will be photographed. These photographs will be sent to some qualified artist, and the eight final Kentuckian beauties will be selected from these photos.

The balloting on these candidates will take place Monday afternoon, between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock. The ballots, giving the names of the candidates, are published in this issue of the Kernel.

Every regular student of the University is eligible to vote, but it must be remembered that only the regulars can be chosen. Any ballots not checked, or having over 14, will not be counted. Each student must sign his name to the ballot, and any attempt to stuff the box, or mutilate any of the ballots will result in the ballots being thrown out. The ballot box will be located outside the Kentuckian office, on the second floor of the armory. The ballots will be counted by the Kentuckian staff, in the presence of a member of the faculty.

Young and Carl, official photographers for the year, will return to the campus Tuesday for the final time. At this time, the 14 successful candidates will be photographed, many seniors or juniors. The pictures were omitted in the past two weeks, or any student desiring resittings must be present if his picture is to be included in the 1929 yearbook. All organizations should bear this in mind, as if all members have their pictures taken on Tuesday. It is also announced that all proofs will be taken in Tuesday. There are still spots among the students, and these must be in at that time.

Lexington Leader Will Have Guests At Game Saturday

The Lexington Leader will entertain more than 300 orphans at the football game Saturday afternoon between Washington and Lee and the Wildcats. A special section of seats has been reserved for them, and arrangements have been made with the Milward Funeral Home to provide a special truck for the crippled children.

To the majority of these children it will be the first football game they have witnessed. To allow for the comfort of their great joy and enthusiasm Sukey is appointing a special cheer leader for their section.

An added feature will be the ice cream and candy furnished for each and every guest. In order that the children may reach the field in perfect safety, transportation will be furnished by the Consolidated Coach Company, Barnes Brothers and the Kentucky Traction and Terminal Company.

The boys and girls of the Odd Fellows home, Pythian home of Kentucky, Children's home, Julius Marks sanatorium, Lexington Orphan asylum, Colored Orphan's home, Shriners' hospital for Crippled Children, and crippled children's hospital at St. Joseph's and the Good Samaritan hospital will be the invited guests.

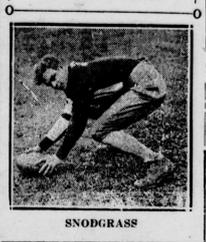

Annual SuKey Dance After W. and L. Game Is Banned by Senate

The annual dance held in former years after the Washington and Lee game will not take place this year, according to an announcement from C. R. Melcher, dean of men.

It will be the first time in several years that the Washington and Lee game will not be followed by a dance, the proceeds from which are used to increase the funds for sending the University band on its trips with the team.

James Hester, president of the SuKey Circle, said that there was a University senate rule to the effect that no dances may be held by University organizations before Thanksgiving, and that Dean Melcher gave as his reason for denying permission for the event that it would be better that no exception be made to this rule in the future as in the past.

'HAYFEVER' CAST HOLDS REHEARSAL

Guignol Production Will Open October 29 at Old Romany Building; Fowler Announces Change in Cast.

Rehearsals for the forthcoming Guignol production "Hay Fever" are being held nightly and Director Frank C. Fowler announces that he is very much pleased with the way in which the cast is responding to his training and that he is confident of success with such admirable talent with which to work.

"Hay Fever" will open on October 29 at the University theater building on Euclid avenue, former home of the Romany theater, to run until November 3. It is a comedy in three acts, and has had successful runs in both London and New York. The play is well adapted to amateur productions and will doubt prove popular with local audiences.

Mr. Fowler announces a change in the cast as published last week. Miss Margaret Lewis, C. A. secretary, will take the part of Myrtle Arundel instead of Mrs. Herbert W. Brown Jr.

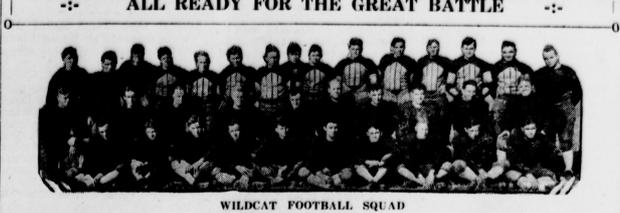

The first night performance will be formal this year with several prominent people in attendance. A number of special invitations have been issued, included among which was one given to Gov. Flem D. Sampson and Mrs. Sampson. Mr. Fowler will speak before the act on the aims and purposes of the Guignol and after the performance a reception will be held on the stage at which Mrs. Frank L. McVey and Miss Ann Callahan will pour.

Tickets are now on sale at the theater building and at the Postoffice building. At noon luncheon will be served at the judging pavilion. In the afternoon Deans Cooper will deliver an address of welcome.

Dr. G. S. Vickers, field manager of the Ohio Poultry association, Columbus, Ohio, will speak on "A State-wide Program for the Poultry Industry." The concluding lecture will be given by Professor Martin on "Kentucky's Plans For Poultry Improvement."

Last year people from twenty counties visited the Poultry Day exhibit. This year more people are expected to attend this year and plans have been laid for the most successful show in the history of the association.

UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUBS ANNOUNCE YEAR'S PROGRAM

Fifty-two Men and Fifty Women Are Chosen by Professor Lampert

COMBINED CHORUS TO PRESENT OPERA

Majority of Women's Club Members Prove to Be Talented Musicians

One hundred and two voices, 52 men and 50 girls, will compose the University Glee clubs. The University should enjoy one of the most successful musical years in its history. The material in both clubs indicates a decided improvement over that of last year.

A questionnaire circulated among the Glee club members shows that all the girls, with practically no exceptions, have had piano lessons. A large number of them have had previous voice culture and play a variety of instruments. Owing to the fact that many fine voices were discovered the club has been organized into a four-part chorus. The girls have learned a number of difficult compositions in a comparatively short time.

The Men's Glee club will be slower rounding into shape, Mr. Lampert said, due to the fact that they have not had the same musical background that prevails among the girls.

Among the activities planned for the singers this year is an opera, "Rosamunde," by Schubert, which will be presented by members of both clubs. If results justify it the two clubs will be combined into a University chorus, Mr. Lampert said. The clubs will be ready for their initial appearance soon.

Last year the Men's Glee club made a successful tour of eastern Kentucky while the Girls' Glee club sang at the University of Ohio and gave concerts at home. The men have planned a home concert this year.

Membership in the Men's club has been announced as follows: First tenor—M. N. Franklin, F. D. DeWeese, L. J. Alexander, G. F. Buskie, J. P. Patterson, H. B. Stone, J. Bentley, A. T. Graves, S. E. Clum, J. H. Calloway, M. L. Revelle, Toy Sandifer.

Second tenor—J. S. Kelly, J. R. Poole, W. M. Townsend, J. S. Williams, R. H. Warren, J. E. Bousch, O. R. Vestendorf, M. L. Nollan, J. H. Johns, P. W. Berry, R. L. Bradburn, L. H. McDowell, P. F. Powell, P. H. Johnston.

Second bass—R. H. Brown, A. M. Osborne, W. H. Adcock, J. Leith, G. H. Morse, J. B. Allen, J. B. Hughes, B. B. Bitterman, Mary Carter, Sally Clum, Lela Cullis, Helen Darnell, E. L. Derickson, Jane Good, Marjorie Gould, Helen Hall, and Emily Harjand.

The Girls Glee club is composed of the following: Sopranos—Margaret Allen, Marianne Anthony, Gladys Bell, Florence Bickel, Nini Budel, Jane Calcutt, Nell Clarke, Jessie Clements, Mary Crowley, Eunice Denton, Kathleen Fitch, Marie Flora, Anne Garrett, Kathryn Gault, Martha Hall, Mary Heavenridge, May Hutchinson, Mary Howes, Dorothy Jackson, Maxine Lewis, Bessie Mathis, Anne McFarland, Willie Mill, Flossie Minor, Kathleen Montgomery, Edythe Reynolds, Rosanna Rutenberger, Elizabeth Wilhelm, Lily Randolph, Anne Shropshire, Alice Whittinghill, and Virginia Young.

Student Council Elects Officers For Coming Year

The annual election of the Men's Student Council for this year was held last Tuesday, according to James Hester, P. Kappa Alpha, president of the council.

Junior representatives are Will Ed Covington, Pi Kappa Alpha, College of Commerce, and James Shropshire, Delta Tau Delta, College of Agriculture; Robert Darric, College of Engineering; Robert Sweetster, Sigma Nu, College of Commerce, and James Shropshire, Delta Tau Delta, College of Agriculture; John Whitehead, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, College of Arts and Sciences. Sophomore members are: George Cell, Alpha Gamma Rho, College of Agriculture; Ben Harrison, Triangles, College of Engineering. Ted Cassidy, Pi Kappa Alpha, College of Arts and Sciences, is the temporary freshman representative.

Other articles include "Greek Science and Obitier Dicta," by Dr. Glanville Terrell, of the philosophy department, and "The Classic Drama as a Fine Art," by Mrs. Florence Offutt Stout.

Of the poetry, "Oklahoma Autumn," by Harold H. Woolery, is said by Professor Farquhar to possess distinctive merit. Mr. Woolery was a former student of the University and is now a senior at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Two sketches, "Italian Street Scene," by Prof. Edward Fisk, of the law art department, and "Scene on Campus," by Mildred Stutz, together with book reviews and the special review service conducted by Prof. W. F. Galloway of the English department, go to make up the content of what will be in the estimation of many the best improvement of "Letters" that has yet appeared. The magazine will be on the campus November 1.

Miss Mary Dingman Discusses Child Labor Conditions in China and France

Miss Mary Dingman, industrial secretary of the World's Committee, Y. W. C. A., with headquarters in England, and also a member of the commission on Child Labor in China, was a visitor on the campus Wednesday and Thursday in interest of the welfare of the University Y. W. C. A.

Miss Dingman has traveled all over the world and has done much for the general improvement of industrial conditions, particularly in China, where child labor standards have been quite unsatisfactory in the past. When she was in China in 1925, Miss Dingman stated, that the standards for child labor were very low; in fact there were practically no standards.

During the week Miss Dingman did Y. W. C. A. work abroad, chiefly in France, where she remained for three weeks. She also spent much time in Jerusalem, and she states that the Jews there have very high educational standards, fine arts and music, and are very progressive in general. The Zionists have done much in starting new agricultural schools, which are doing well in view of the great interest, although the non-fertile soil is a great handicap. Miss Dingman found the industry of the organization interesting. In the United States, she is doing some research work in connection with the present industrial conditions. On October 13, she is sailing from Montreal and then on to Europe.

Strollers Change Trout Schedule

October 22 Is Day Set for Opening; Applications Must Be in Hands of Committee Friday, October 19.

The Strollers, student dramatic organization of the University, have postponed their annual trouts until Monday, October 22. The trouts will be held in the recreation room of Patterson hall, both afternoons and evenings and will continue for three days. The application committee is composed of Louis MacDaniel, Frank Davidson, Harry McChesney, Leonard Weiskley, Martha Minihan and Bob Thompson.

The date of the trouts was changed because the books were late in arriving and students were unable to get parts copied. Four one-act plays have been selected as a basis on which to judge dramatic merit. The following are the plays: "Before the Play Begins," one boy, one girl; "Moose," four boys; "Their First Quarrel," one boy, one girl; "A Rural Belle," one boy, one girl; "There are two copies of each play on reserve in the reading room. They may be copied but must not be taken from the reading room.

Application for trouts of the plays must be made by Friday, October 19, to Frank Davidson or Louis MacDaniel. Call Frank Davidson at 4194 or 6035 and Louis MacDaniel at 4651. The application must contain the names and telephone numbers of all persons in the play, the name of the play, and the director together with the price of each person trying out. The three most successful one-act plays will be put on "Amateur Night," Thursday, October 26, in the Men's gymnasium. The Strollers plan for "Amateur Night" to be better than it has been for the last several years. The winners of "Amateur Night" will receive two tickets to the Strollers play.

One must first become a Stroller "eligible" in order to tryout for a part in the fall play which will be put on sometime before the Christmas holidays. A part in a Stroller play entitles one to a Stroller pin. The trouts for the fall play will be held about a week after "Amateur Night."

FANS MAY WITNESS GREATEST BATTLE OF 'CAT ELEVEN

Visitors Have Quartet of Triple Threat Stars in Backfield

OPENS CONFERENCE SEASON FOR 'CATS

Critics Say Virginians May Be Threat in Race for Southern Honors

David and Goliah - Kentucky, Washington and Lee. Before a record crowd of about 11,000 fans on Stoll field tomorrow afternoon, the sixth chapter of one of Kentucky's greatest football feuds will be written in splendid colors. Again two great rival teams will draw up in battle array with their blue and white banners flying. Again the "Goliath" and the "David" are the champions of their people and Kentucky is host to her former conqueror.

From Virginia beyond the mountains comes the most sinister threat in six years of gridiron war, the Washington and Lee Generals, proud conquerors of Lynchburg, 56 to 0, and North Carolina State 38 to 6, to oppose Kentucky, queen over Carson-Newman by 61 to 0. Coach Gamage's tugle has sounded the approaching invasion, his splendid forces are marshaled, and war is about to start in the Southern Conference.

Williams is W. & L. Star

War is here, somebody croaked as he viewed the record crowd, but anyway, here's the lowdown on this heavy struggle. W. & L. got the breaks in her scruff with the Carolina game, but she's still holding. Again made quite a day of it due to the dashing propensities of this elongated Williams, which will register as an end to the "Goliath" for the visitors. He courted a fumble and an intercepted pass down the field for touchdown. Williams made the score look a little more healthy than it really was. He might not look so good tomorrow with Pete Drury and "Ball" Brown clinging to his service, passing attack may be better. Williams is a bad actor and he will bear watching. Williams can snatch passes out of ten feet of ozone, and he will be a terror to the South. A touchdown would have to do a balloon ascension to interrupt him. This, the General's second passing attack, may save the Wildcats holding the bag tomorrow.

But, get this in your ear trumpet! With Uncle Gamage and the best little ole line in the South on hand, Kentucky will not be without an ace in the hole tomorrow. Suppose Drury, Dees, Brown, Forquer, Thompson, and "Ball" Brown should hold a Wildcat runner in the General backfield just about the time this pass is intercepted. The South's line would run into approximately 1,350 pounds of dynamite, enough to blow up the whole Virginia army.

'Cats Will Oppose Star Backs

The W. & L. backfield includes White, a half punger, Lett and Tibbodeau, a couple of fast and clever ball-carriers, and Faulkner, a good block. The application committee should hold a Wildcat runner in the General backfield just about the time this pass is intercepted. The South's line would run into approximately 1,350 pounds of dynamite, enough to blow up the whole Virginia army.

And, speaking of going places, Portwood and Nowlin should hold on to staying at home that day. These boys can really take a pig-skin, and I don't think Captain Fitzpatrick and "Ball" Brown are the 200 pound tackles, can do much towards stopping them. Kentucky has eleven men on the team, one to carry the ball and ten to run in the interference. Where they stop nobody knows, but Carson-Newman chased them down the field ten times Saturday trying to find out.

Injuries Besset Gamage

Still, the 'Cats are in pretty bad shape. Colonel Glimk skinned his shin on one of the fighting parsons Saturday, and he's not likely to practice all week. Williams, Forquer, Thompson, Allen and Gentile are all ailing in sundry places, but they might be able to get back in time for the game. Coach Gamage should let them in the game. That stern master had his proteges playing the old game under the flood lights till almost 9 o'clock every afternoon this week, and the boys were shouting "Beat W. and L." like they meant it. No doubt the Wildcats are the underdog in this heavy tussle, but the worm may be in for a little turning around about that date.

Kentucky's line will average 192 and will outweigh the Generals six pounds to the man, but the W. & L. backfield, which averages 175 pounds, more than makes up this deficit in the team averages.

STUDENTS MAY HAVE PICTURES TAKEN AGAIN

The last chance for students to turn in proofs, have their pictures taken, or get resittings for pictures will be on Friday, Young and general photographers will return on that date.

Spirited Pep Meeting Will Be Held Tonight

In war-like parade to the Washington and Lee game, a pep meeting will be held in the Men's gymnasium, Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. A more determined spirit will be required to meet Washington and Lee than was needed to annihilate Carson-Newman last Saturday, and the cheering this week should be greatly improved in both quality and quantity.

The program, consisting partly of songs and cheers, will begin promptly. The band will lend itself to the occasion. Of particular interest will be the speeches by Captain Claire Dees and Coach Harry Gamage. At 9:00 o'clock students will march to the Ben All theater for more songs and yells.

The excitement will be high and interest will be intense when Bill Meeks plays on Stoll field Saturday. Probably no student in the University will be absent from the game, and no student will be sincerely disappointed at supporting his team will be absent from the pep meeting tonight.

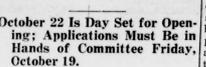

Moberty Will Head U. K. Cheer Leaders

Tryouts for cheer leader were held last Friday afternoon before members of the SuKey Circle. From the 18 boys who participated, three were chosen to lead the University cheerleaders in the Washington and Lee game of the SuKey Circle. William A. Moberty, of the College of Arts and Sciences, was selected as chief leader. Charles E. Williams, of the College of Arts and Sciences, was chosen as his assistant. Megaphones and sweaters will be given them this week by Sukey. Jimmy Hester, president of the organization, indicates that a fourth leader may be chosen in the future.

Illegal Balloting Results in No Vote

The straw vote that was conducted last week was declared void by the Kernel due to proven unfair methods of balloting employed by some students. The purpose of the vote was to determine the University's choice for president in the coming general election and many political enthusiasts were very disappointed at the attitude of some self-styled "workers" on the campus.

ers, forget that they owe support to each of their orders. Their interest subsides very shortly after the token of membership is obtained.

Columns might be written in an endeavor to find a suitable way, in the way of over-organization. What can be done to relieve this situation? Time, only, can reveal the key to our problem.

In closing, it will do no harm to repeat the words of a recent well-known graduate of our University, who by the way, is a member of quite a few organizations, among them Phi Beta Kappa. He said, "The exceptional student today is not the man who graduates with many honors, and with keys suspended from his watch chain, but he is the one who does not belong to a single organization." The words are merely voicing one of the many statements heard each year. It is said that a straw will indicate which way the wind is blowing. Surely these caustic comments point out that the fraternity system is being regarded with disfavor, to say the least. They certainly indicate the sentiment of popular opinion, and the reaction which is going on within the circle of the more intelligent of present-day fraternity men.

To get the best of life a man must give his best and then throw in a smile for good measure.

TOMORROW, THEY MUST

For the proverbial four score and seven years, it has been the custom, nay, the law—for University freshmen to occupy a cheering section to themselves at the football games. It has been the custom for them to remove their caps when the school song is sung or played. It has been the custom for them to know the school song and to know the various yells. It has been the custom for them to yell a little harder and a little more frequently than any other class.

It has been the custom for them to do these things even at the very first game of the season.

They did NOT do these things last Saturday.

Tomorrow they MUST.

And, too, it has been the custom for the upper-classmen to give support to the cheer-leaders. It has been the custom for their school as is possible from the grandstands.

They did NOT do these things last Saturday.

Tomorrow they MUST.

The freshmen must sit together in a section which will be provided for them. The freshmen must not take "dates" to the game. A special cheer-leader will be provided for them.

Do your stuff, Frosh! Give 'em what Sherman called war.

A wise man thinks before he speaks, but the fool in man after he has spoken.

THESE WICKED POLITICIANS

The Kernel has been complimented for conducting a straw vote and thus affording a few seniors in the College of Law an opportunity to show themselves thoroughly familiar with politics. To be sure they did not prove themselves past masters of the art and one must admit that the methods they chose to stuff the ballot box were, to say the least, rather crude. Nevertheless, one must give them credit for their attempt to live up to traditions. They positively did their best to impress on the world beyond the campus that University students are not just rabid hoys after all and that when it comes to this matter of running an election, they are just as capable as Boss Tweed or any of those glorious old boys in the Mauve Decade.

Personally The Kernel has no quarrel with them. After boys grow up it is to be expected that their manner and ways of thinking will change, it is to be expected that they will be interested in doing something more naughty than stealing mother's blackberry jam. Beyond the fact that about two hundred Kernels were mutilated and that a few freshmen could not understand why they were not able to get them, little harm was done.

The Kernel is content to let these mischievous persons rest on their merits. They doubtless feel themselves to be very villainous, but we hasten to assure them that they have really a great deal to learn of villainy. We find them guilty of extreme childishness and sentence them to read fifty pages of Blackstone that they may recover their dignity.

LITERARY SECTION

EPILOGUE

Aa, so for this have I worked my charms—
This small gold circlet, and your arms
Have locked me into a squirrel cage
Of domesticity, with each new day an unwrit page
To mark with oft repeated homely phrase.

Not many moons ago, I think,
You declared your love was food enough and drink,
And yet this very morning when I burned the bread
Your look was bitter, as cheap as wine. Oh, Hell, you said,
And scowling, read the comics in the morning paper.

—MARGARET CUNDIFF.

DILETTANTE

He pondered long with tearless eyes
Over a love that was dead
And tried to recall in his wishfulness
Some of the things she had said—
But his heart seemed to sing
And he memories fled
And he a-thinking
His heart should have bled.

Why, that very night in a cabaret
He looked on a woman and smiled, they say.
—BYRON H. PUMPHREY.

TODAY

Our love has lived for just a day,
But why he lived, we know not,
There will be other days and ways
To make us glad.

If life were long there might be time
To drop a tear,
But the flight of time is fast, too fast
To ponder here.

So turn your back on our dying love
And forget our dreams,
For all who find love lose it soon,
Fate surely dreams.

Let the night be filled with Love's sweet cup,
Nor drink with dread.
Tomorrow? Yes, tomorrow comes, but tomorrow
Will find us dead.

—ROBERT E. SHARON.

Music, Stage and Screen

By Thomas L. Riley

Sunday marks the opening of two pictures that are as far apart from each other as day and night, yet they will both draw well at the box office. One is the pictorial life of Christ and the other is the latest Clara Bow opus. It can readily be seen that the religious picture should represent all that is fine in the art of the cinema while the other needs no forward to warn movie goers that it just as clearly depicts it in its most perfect form. Culture against the banal—what a combination!

King of Kings—at the Strand
Perhaps more reviews have been written on "The King of Kings" than any other picture ever produced. All of these have proved inadequate just as a critical work on the Bible would be inadequate. Everyone knows the theme. No other story in history has approached this one in dramatic strength, pathos, beauty, and magnitude.

This "story of stories" has been made into a great motion picture under the direction of Cecil B. DeMille who, for once, made a picture that was a good money maker as well as a representative of cinema art. Great publicity has been employed to make known the fact that Mr. DeMille was under the constant supervision of a number of clergymen in the making of this picture. Perhaps that accounts for the startling account of Christ's life with no unfamiliar story that would, in all probability, spring from the typewriters of the scenario department of a motion picture producing organization.

"The King of Kings" shows the life of the Savior, nothing more, nothing less. The story was adapted to the screen by Jeanie Macpherson who has written the cinema version of almost all of DeMille's pictures. Her best piece of work prior to this was "The Ten Commandments," which also happened to be the greatest picture the director had made up to the time of "The King of Kings." As for Mr. DeMille, we will forgive him for giving the public such pictures as "Feet of Clay" and "The Golden Bed" for he has really contributed the almost perfect picture in "The King of Kings."

As for the other names in the case we need only to glance over them and realize that this picture can boast of having the biggest and best known cast of any yet made. Ernest Torrence, as Peter, is perfect. Victor Varconi, as Pilate, does splendid work. Jacqueline Logan, as Mary Magdalene, is well cast but our choice for the best performance goes to Joseph Schildkraut as Judas Iscariot. Rudolph Schildkraut in the role of the high priest is flawless. Other names of prominence are William Boyd and Virginia Faye.

The photography is, by far, the

The test was conducted by responsible witnesses who asked Mr. Menjou to smoke each of the four leading brands, clearing his taste with coffee between smokers. While the cameras recorded the test, only one question was asked: "Which one do you like best?"

"I've discovered a new way of mixing business and pleasure. The parts I play call for the constant smoking of a cigarette... I probably average one cigarette to every hundred feet of film. In the blindfold test I discovered one so smooth, so considerate of my tongue and throat that even the business of wholesale smoking while we're shooting scenes will be a pleasure. The cigarette I voted for proved to be Old Gold."

ENGINEERS HEAR THORNTON LEWIS

Former Student of University Declares "We Must Get Back to Fundamentals in Our Thinking."

"We must get back to the fundamentals in our thinking if we are to evolve into worthwhile members of society," declared Thornton Lewis, graduate of the College of Engineering at the University with the class of 1906, in a talk to the engineers at their first regular convocation of the year Wednesday, October 3, at 10 o'clock in Dicker hall. Mr. Lewis is now resident of the York Heating and Ventilating Company, of Philadelphia.

The subject of Mr. Lewis' talk was "The Type of Man Needed in Industry Today." "And let me tell you," declared the speaker, "a man bred and trained in Kentucky comes as near filling the specifications as any other person."

Mr. Lewis' gratitude is not expressed in words alone. He recently presented his Alma Mater with the company's most modern unit ventilating system. This apparatus will be installed in Dicker hall and will supply air from the outside at the rate of 4,000 cubic feet per minute. This air will be brought through a dust filter then heated and circulated in Dicker hall. Five hundred persons can be assembled in the hall with the windows closed and the circulation of the air by this apparatus will carry off four air, smoke and odors and supply at all times an abundance of warm filtered air.

The corporation of which Mr. Lewis is president, employs many graduates of the University of Kentucky. When questioned by the writer as to the relative merits of the Kentucky graduates when compared to men from other institutions, he said, "We employ men from many large universities such as Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, and I can truthfully say that the men from the College of Engineering at the University of Kentucky are in almost every case superior to the men from other colleges. The following University of Kentucky graduates are employed by the corporation: H. B. Hedges, '14; R. S. Arnold, '19; M. K. Clark, '27; C. L. Templin, '19; Julius Millard, '29; J. E. True, '24; E. B. Boston, '26; C. D. Graham, '23; E. Van Meter, '27; D. C. Edwards, '27; H. B. Orr, '21; R. R. Tallaferro, '18; E. Scott, '24.

Varsity Net Men to Report Monday

Coach Mauer will hold his first varsity basketball practice Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Men's gymnasium. All men desiring to try out are urged to appear.

The team will practice three times a week until further notice. Due to the many men now playing football, Coach Mauer will be forced to build his team from the material coming out for these early practices.

All men who intend to report Monday can get equipment any afternoon this week from the manager who will be in the training room of the gymnasium.

We are afraid that the team will greatly feel the loss of Jenkins and Jeffries, but with some of the letter men from last year hopes will be restored. With McGinnis, Dees, Owens, and McBrayer, and a few more of these "basketballers," Kentucky can face her hard schedule with little fear. Crump, Spicer, Bronston, Paul McGinnis, Trot, Johnson, Estes, Martin, Hoffman, and Murphy are all looked upon as favorable men and undoubtedly will appear in the Blue and White uniforms next week. Then, too, Coach Mauer will be looking forward to seeing some of his Kittens from last year appear this year as Varsity material.

Freshmen basketball men will be called out the last of this month.

GENERALS APPEAR DOUBTFUL OF RESULT

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 19.—Washington and Lee and the University of Kentucky will take the field at Lexington, Ky., Saturday on about even terms, if the opinion of close observers of football here are correct. After the Generals' victory over N. Carolina State, their first conference opponent, by a 38 to 6 score last week, it was thought that the Big Blue team was unusually strong, but, when a study is made of the breaks and individual brilliance that resulted in the big score, and it is realized that Williams cannot intercept two passes and recover a fumble with a clear field for a touchdown in every game, and that a run of 85 yards after the kickoff does not often happen, it is seen that the Washington and Lee victory exaggerates the real strength of the team.

Fear the Wildcats
On the other hand, the smashing margin of victory which Gamage's Wildcats forced Carson-Newman to bow before, when the dope favored Kentucky to win by only two or three touchdowns, puts a genuine fear in the hearts of Washington and Lee fans. A victory for the Bluegrass defenders is thought to be all the more probable after a study of the records of the teams' meetings during the past few years. In 1926 Washington and Lee won, 25 to 0, but the following year Kentucky came back strong and came within an ace of winning, the Generals coming off victors by 14 to 13 after the hardest fought battle of the year. Last season the invaders from Virginia again rolled up a 25-0 win, and, with the Wildcats acknowledged to be stronger than in 1926, when they almost won, Washington and Lee fans are slow to predict a victory for their favorites in this week's game, the sixth meeting of the two elevens in the present series.

A SILVER LINING
With victory comes rejoicing, with defeat, lament. Lo, all these years Kentucky has sent her warriors afield in the Southern Conference, and they have come home worn and afeared. The scapulae hung on their belts have been few. The Wildcats have been scheduled by Alabama, Vandy, and Tennessee as a good team to beat. Our games have always helped the standings of other teams. For six years our Wildcats have gone out to do battle with the Generals of Washington and Lee. The first game in 1923 culminated in a 6 to 6 tie; in 1926, in a 14 to 13 defeat. The Blue and White flag of Kentucky has never ascended the victory mast to fly in triumph over the Virginians. This year, Kentuckians, the Virginian hordes MUST be repulsed.

ELEGY WRITTEN ON A GRIDIRON
After Centre's 41-7 Defeat

The referee whistles the last of the play,
A bunch of "stewed" fans call it a day,
Centre homeward plods her helpless way,
Leaving the gridiron to the soft smell of hay.
Nades the fading "shines" on their throats,
Drunk or sober they crony with the goats
To Knoxville, to Knoxville, once they were crying,
But now look where their gold, white flag is lying.
"Save them from yonder hosts of Tennessee,"
Moaning Pottooth to the moon complained,
But they were all cock-eyed, you see,
And their score had few growing pains.

Beneath those ugly heads their helmets shade
Where hovers the Centre ego in many a mold'ring heap
All Colonels in eternal defeat forever laid,
Where their rude forefathers did never sleep.
For them no more the blazing victory shall burn,
They are busy housewifely now plying their evening care—
These praying Colonels, I mean—so do not spurn
Them, Kentucky, given them the air—Air!

THE SINGING MASTERS
Some people who go to school are intelligent—others are cheer-leaders. They are crazy or they wouldn't expect to get a yip out of the Kentucky singing school. Kentucky rovers don't go to the game to sit in the stands, they go to sit on their hands, and most of them lost their voices back on the farm calling hogs. A throat specialist would stare to death in Lexington, because the only thing a neck is used for around here is for dating purposes. I believe if a Kentuckian opens his mouth to yell, his teeth would fall out from disuse, and they all think a larynx is something to be gargled.

GET AN ELEVATOR
Once there was a Wildcat who couldn't kick goals after touchdowns, but he died before he got any goals to kick. There are dozens of games tied or lost every year by one point margins. Twice in six years Kentucky could have tied or beaten Washington and Lee by making good one point after a touchdown, either in 1923, or in 1928. Captain Dees had more chance of dribbling the ball over Saturday than he did of kicking it.

SOMEBODY SAID: The Wildcats have the "heaviest line" in the country, but I believe the sororities have.

Freshman Class Nominates Officers
Cassidy, Gorham, and Roberts Chosen to Represent College in Class Election

At the regular meeting of the freshman Arts and Science students held Monday in the Men's gymnasium, Ted Cassidy, of Louisville, was elected to represent his college in the race for president of the freshman class. Dorothy Graham and George Roberts, both of Lexington, were nominated for the offices of vice president and treasurer, respectively. Other candidates for the presidential nomination were James Ferguson, Clifford Arroy, Woodward German, and Graham Benson.

Mr. Cassidy has served as temporary chairman of the class in all previous meetings. He is well known among the members of his class and is a pledge of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. The selection of a candidate for secretary was postponed until the next meeting of the class. Much interest has been shown in this new method of selecting class officers. Heretofore, the officers have been elected by the whole freshman class as a mass meeting; however, this year each college will nominate a candidate and the election will be held in the near future.

Gentlemen:
While in Banff, Alberta, in 1906, I climbed Tunnel Mountain. At the top of this mountain there is a cairn of stones where tourists leave their cards with remarks about the scenery, etc. Not having a card with me, I left a tin of Edgeworth Shag, scribbled my name and address on a piece of paper, and said, "Have a fill on me."
I have kept up a haphazard correspondence with one of three who wrote me thanking me for the Pipeful of Edgeworth. What makes me write you is that today from Australia I received two slices of Edgeworth with the words, "Have a fill on me," so you see Edgeworth keeps friends friendly.
Yours sincerely,

RESERVE TEAM TO OPEN SEASON TODAY

Coach Harry Gamage's latest innovation, Kentucky's reserve team, will take the field this afternoon at 3 o'clock against the Lindsey-Wilson Junior College eleven at Columbia, Ky.
For the benefit of those who are not up on Kentucky geography, Columbia is located 40 miles southwest of Danville. Very little is known as to what kind of opposition the reserves may expect. The Lindsey-Wilson team is coached by a former Vanderbilt linesman and already has one scalp to its credit, St. Mary's college, whom they defeated last week. This should give them a decided edge over Coach Potter's team which has had only three weeks' practice. As an added disadvantage the personnel of the team is changed daily as men are promoted to and demoted from the varsity squad.

The reserve lineup is still undetermined, but will be picked when Coach Gamage has decided just what men he will need to help whip Washington and Lee's Generals. In the forward wall, Irving, a thoroughly experienced linesman, will probably hold down one of the tackles with Idleman as his running mate on the opposite side of the line. Campbell, a short, stocky guard, has shown up well and will pair off with Trot who is making his debut as a football player.

The backfield will include Dyard and Martin Brown, who are making a strong bid for varsity positions, and Collins who will do the kicking. Added strength in both line and backfield should be gained at the last moment when Gamage cuts down his squad. The reserves may be counted on for a good performance as promoter Coach Potter's team will be the reward for those men who stand up well under fire.

FEW UPSETS ARE SPRUNG IN S. C.

Vandy Furnishes Sensation of the Week by Defeating Colgate; Yale Meets Georgia at New Haven.

By "Totey" Rose
Football really got under way last week without a single upset in the Southern Conference. South Carolina, Alabama, Tulane, Washington and Lee, Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, and North Carolina were victors over strong opponents. Of these teams, Tulane, Washington and Lee, Vanderbilt, and South Carolina showed unexpected power in defeating their rivals.

In easy practice games the following Conference teams were victorious: Kentucky, Georgia, Florida, V. P. I., and Louisiana State. Clemson defeated Auburn in a game featured by the erratic playing of both teams. Sewanee was the only Conference team to lose to an outsider. Texas A. and M. with a powerful offense crushed the Tennessee boys by an overwhelming score.

Vanderbilt furnished the sensation of the week by defeating Colgate in a game that could be called a classic. Both teams seemed to be in mid-season form and played wonderful football.

Georgia Meets Yale
This week there are four interconferential games for Conference teams. Yale will meet Georgia determined to avenge the defeat of last year by the Bull Dogs. This will be the first hard game for both teams and Yale must be given the choice over the Southerners. Princeton will be host to Virginia and will most probably send the Cavaliers home with the short end of the score. North Carolina will journey East to battle Harvard and a close game is expected. Harvard should win but will have to extend herself fully to do so. Colgate will battle V. P. I. in the fourth inter-sectional game of the week.

In the Conference there are two outstanding games. Kentucky will play Washington and Lee, and Tulane will meet Georgia Tech. The Wildcats are favored to defeat the Generals, although W. and L. played brilliant football last week to down North Carolina State. Georgia Tech should win from Tulane, but there is a very good chance for an upset there.

Alabama Championship Contender
South Carolina will clash with Maryland and should win if she means anything at all in picking a winner. Florida should have an easy time in downing Auburn. Tennessee is expected nothing more than a workout from Mississippi. Alabama should continue her march toward the championship against Mississippi Aggies.

In the past the Aggies have always had the Indian sign on Coach Wade's eleven, but this year they will have to possess more than that to win.

Vanderbilt will again meet an outsider this week traveling to Dallas to meet Texas. Vandy seems to have everything this year and should return home the winner. V. M. I. will have an easy game with Roanoke. Sewanee will probably get a very disagreeable surprise in Transylvania as the Kentucky boys should put up a fine game.

The following is a schedule of the Southern Conference teams, and our choice:

To Win	To Lose
Colgate	V. P. I.
Florida	Auburn
Harvard	North Carolina
Alabama	Mississippi A. and M.
Princeton	Virginia
South Carolina	Maryland
Tennessee	Mississippi
Vanderbilt	Texas
Georgia Tech	Tulane
V. M. I.	Roanoke
Yale	Georgia
Sewanee	Transylvania
Kentucky	Washington and Lee

PORTWOOD MAKES FOUR TOUCH-DOWNS

The 1928 Wildcat football season opened last Saturday on Stoll field when Kentucky ripped, tore, slashed, and literally demolished the Carson-Newman eleven by a 61 to 0 score, which is the largest number of points scored by a Wildcat team in many years.

The victory was well earned and justified. For, after four weeks of continuous practice, the 'Cats took to the game like ducks take to water, and seemed to enjoy the fact that this was really a game and not a practice session with the freshman.

With Portwood, Covington and Ford carrying the ball behind what seemed to be perfect interference, led by formidable-looking linemen, Bull Brown and Floppy Forquer, this trio just naturally made a track meet out of the affair once they got their hands on the ball. Gib and Johnson were in the limelight, and, due to their excellent defensive work, behind the line, the Carson-Newman backfield was forced to take to the air, it being useless to try and penetrate the line for a gain.

Team Functions Perfectly
The whole Kentucky team functioned like a well oiled machine, every man doing his part. The ends, tackles, guards, and centers repulsed every thrust and pushed back the Transylvanians like they were bits of paper. The visitors did present one man who was by far the best on the team, Ellowitz, a triple threat man, who was in every play. Due to his excellent defensive work in bringing down the man with the ball, the 'Cats' score was lessened. He also had a little of the best of it in the punting, getting off several nice kicks that bettered those of Covington and Brown.

About the middle of the second quarter with the score 37 to 0, Coach Gabant sent into the game an entirely new team. They failed to do any scoring, but they did stop all the plays of the visitors and prevented them from scoring. At the start of the second half the first team went back into the game and on the first play after the kickoff, Warner Ford took the ball around left end for 80 yards and a touchdown, the longest run of the game. Another feature of the game was the playing of Carey Spicer and Hayes Owens, the latter being the mid-guard of the squad. Spicer thrilled the crowd by going up in the air after several passes and snagging one safely which he carried 15 yards for Kentucky's second touchdown. Owens performed like a veteran while in the game. Although he weighs about 130 pounds, he always found a hole in the opposing line somewhere and once he took the ball over for a touchdown.

Kentucky Suffers Penalties
Penalties prevented the Kentucky team from scoring at the beginning of the game, and it was only after seven minutes of play that the 'Cats' scored their first touchdown. In compiling the statistics of the game, we find that Kentucky was penalized 80 yards to 20 for Carson-Newman. Kentucky made 33 first downs on straight football, while Carson-Newman made only four first downs and those by means of penalties, two passes and one end run.

One disappointing thing that was brought out during the game was the inability of Kentucky to kick goals after touchdowns. Captain Dees made one attempt out of nine good for the extra point, and Portwood was unsuccessful with his one try. This is a vital thing, and it will be remembered that about three years ago the 'Cats' lost two or three games for the same reason. This defect will probably be remedied to some extent this week during practice, and, when the 'Cats' take the field against W. and L., the spectators will more than likely see a change. The box score:

Score by periods:	1	2	3	4	T.
Kentucky	18	19	12	12	-61
Carson-Newman	0	0	0	0	-0

HUGE NUMBER OF TENNIS ENTRIES

Six Three-Set Matches Provide Excitement In Intra-Mural Tournament; Doubles Play Is Slow In Beginning.

By Laurence Shrophire
The traditional dope-bucket, which has evolved into a near-ideal for so-called sport writers, has been so badly battered and roughly handled during the past two weeks that we have thrown up our hands in despair. The persons responsible for this outrage are that band of aspiring students who staged a parade across the intra-mural tennis courts in the first-round matches.

Since October 1, when the initial contests were played, frequent upsets and spirited matches have been the order of the day in Merwin Potter's bigger and better intra-mural tennis tournament. Many interested spectators have gathered at the university courts nearly every afternoon to watch their favorite stroke for the honor and satisfaction of entering the final rounds.

Large Number of Entries
The unusually large number of entries has made it most difficult for the intra-mural managerial staff to keep things moving. All contestants must cooperate with Mr. Potter in his efforts to speed up the play or else the finalists will be forced to perform on ice-skates and see snafus. The inclement and unoblivious weather of the past week has made it necessary to move the deadline for all first-round matches up until tomorrow. At press time, comparatively few forfeitures had been registered, which just goes to show how much interest is being manifested in the new type of program that Mr. Potter has arranged.

Many Three-Set Matches
The big court rodeo has uncovered a number of promising racketeers who may develop into varsity material. The singles bracket is covered with three-set struggles. Ed Riley warmed up enough to defeat Lilly, 2-6, 6-1, and 6-0. Stanley Milward's consistency enabled him to win from George Bolard by a count of 4-6, 6-2, and 6-1. White came into his own after a slow start and defeated Penny 4-6, 6-0, 6-3. Larry Crump outgeneraled Paul McDrayer for an interesting victory, 5-7, 6-1, and 6-1. "Scally" Roberts defeated Barton in a drawn-out affair, 7-9, 6-0, and 6-3. Masters and Hoffman engaged in a three-set battle of skill until the latter finally won, 6-3, 5-7, 7-5. Lamb outstroked Collier and triumphed by 6-1, 4-6, and 6-3. Harold Bird and Mose Howard hooked up in an old-fashioned stroking and volley duel that lasted until the wee, small hours before "Birdie" gained the necessary margin, 8-6, 6-8, and 10-8. The doubles matches were not as neatly completed as the singles but several exciting contests have already gone across the board. A promising pair of youngsters, Howard and Farquhar by name, eliminated one of the favorite teams, Kelly and Whitehead, in straight sets, 6-4 and 6-4. McLane and Reynolds outlasted the combination of Stone and Hamrick to win with a score of 4-6, 6-4, and 6-3.

Chicago Plans to Give U. K. Reception

Kentucky Alumni Will Give Royal Entertainment to Team and Fans

The Kentucky club of Chicago has announced the plans for the entertainment of the University football team and fans on Saturday, October 20, the day on which the Wildcats meet Northwestern University at Evanston.

The program, which includes a banquet and radio broadcast, was announced through C. Frank Dunn, secretary of the Kentucky Progress commission. Headquarters for the Kentucky rooters will be the Edgewater Beach hotel, which will be decorated with flags, hunting and University colors.

At the game several hundred rooters from the Blue Grass will be seated in a reserve section. It is thought that with the Kentuckians residing in Chicago there will be approximately 2,500 persons rooting for the Wildcats.

Saturday night at 6:30 o'clock the boys will be guests of honor at a dinner where, among other forms of entertainment, a film of 3,000 feet, showing the natural beauties of Kentucky, will be presented.

Following the dinner, the University band will broadcast a special program which will be concluded with a five-minute address by President McVey. A dance later in the evening will conclude the series of events.

The band will present the following program:

March, Robinson's Grand Entree—King.
Novelty, The Whistler and His Dog—Pryor.
Popular—Selected.
Ballad, Mighty Lak a Rose—Nevin.
Kentucky Suite: (a) My Old Kentucky Home—Foster; (b) Alma Mater—Lampert; (c) On, On, U. of K.—Lampert.
March, Stars and Stripes Forever—Souza.

Lexingtonians Urged To Support Wildcats

Mayor O'Brien Requests Citizens to Show Their Regard for University

Mayor James J. O'Brien and the Lexington Board of Commerce joined in a request Thursday that the people of Lexington, and especially the business men, make the Kentucky-Washington and Lee football game Saturday afternoon the occasion for a visible demonstration of their appreciation of the University and what it means to the city.

By attending the big game, the townspeople can give the students and faculty of the school an impressive testimonial of their regard for the institution, and at the same time witness the outstanding gridiron event of the season in Lexington.

"The business men of Lexington do appreciate the University," said Ed Wilder, secretary of the Lexington Board of Commerce. "They have shown this in a substantial way in the past by contributing to send the band to out-of-town games and by liberal support of the student publications with their advertising, but there is something engaging about the idea of the town turning out for the big game. It will give the business man an opportunity to take a more personal part in supporting the school."

Mayor O'Brien, when the plan was suggested to him, accepted it readily, with the same enthusiasm that other business men showed. There seems to be something appealing about the idea, judging from the whole-hearted response of all to whom it has been suggested. One reason is that people want to see a real scrap such as the Wildcat-General game promises to be. Washington and Lee is one of Kentucky's most respected rivals and one that the Wildcats are especially anxious to defeat. The games between the two schools have always been on a high plane, with an exceptionally fine spirit of clean, hard, sportsmanlike playing.

It is not just the financial support of the people of Lexington that the backers of the move want, but the moral support as well. Those who go will be pulling for State to win and that will be a help.

DELTA SIGMA PI MEETS

The initial monthly meeting of Delta Sigma Pi, professional commerce fraternity, was held yesterday noon in the Colonial room of the Lafayette hotel.

An interesting speech was made by John F. Brown, former student of the University and now a prominent lawyer of Lexington. He spoke on the subject, "The Relation of Politics to Commerce and Business."

Other talks were given by members of the commerce faculty who were honored guests at the luncheon. Fifteen members attended.

DR. NEWCOMBE TO ADDRESS STUDENTS MONDAY NIGHT

Dr. Rexford Newcombe will address the students of the University Monday night at the Roman theater. It was announced yesterday by Miss Ann Cullihan, head of the art department. Dr. Newcombe has been making a study of Kentucky architecture, and has written a book on the subject. He was formerly professor of architecture at the University of Illinois.

Civil Engineers Hold Second Meeting

The second meeting of the student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers was held Wednesday morning, and the following officers were elected: Shelby Kinney, president; Glen C. Cook, vice-president; John W. Pannel, secretary, and Warner Ford, treasurer.

Prof. D. V. Terrell read papers from the American Society of Civil Engineers. Several students, who had spent the summer working on projects for the state of Kentucky and the L. and N. railroad, gave reports on their work.

The student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers is composed of all Juniors and seniors who are taking civil engineering. The chapter will meet every Wednesday morning.

Book Store Closes Until Wednesday

The University book store will be closed until Wednesday in order that the institution may be moved into McVey hall, the new location of the store. Miss Carrie Bean announced that the postoffice will continue to carry supplies, and also the books on the required lists of the English department. Other books must be procured at the book store proper in its new quarters.

FENCERS TO ORGANIZE

Students wishing to try out for the Fencing team should see O. K. Barnes, Jess Laughlin, or Bob Warren, Lieutenant Kessler, who has fenced at West Point, will instruct the class. If sufficient interest is shown in the class a schedule will be arranged with some of the Eastern universities where such teams are considered among the major sports.
