

A black and white photograph of a brick church building. The church features a central square tower with arched windows and a gabled roof. To the left and right are smaller gabled sections with large, ornate Gothic-style arched windows. A wooden sign is mounted in front of the central tower. The sign has two lines of text: the top line reads "St. Aloysius' CHURCH" and the bottom line reads "SUN. MASSES... 7: .9-11AM.". The sign appears to be made of two pieces of wood joined together.
