Judgment Is Sought Against UK

$15,000 Suit Filed By Louisville Negro Awaits Court Action

By Helm Deiss

When a Negro teacher filed a $15,000 suit Monday against University officials for refusing to admit him to the Graduate School, the University's general opinion is that the situation was entirely a legal question, and one of the courts to decide.

As Vice-President Leo M. Chamberlain put it, "There need be no further comment beyond Dean Seay's statement until the court has acted."

Suit attitudes on the matter ranged from indifference to indignation, but showed mostly mild interest.

The suit charged President H. L. Donovan, Dr. Maurice F. Seay dean of the University, the Board of Trustees, and three ex-officio members, Frank Peterson, University comptroller, with "illegal and wrongful acts" when the Negro was denied entrance to the University Saturday.

The Negro, Lyman T. Johnson, had tried before to enter and was turned down by Seay. He followed this attempt with an appeal to the Board of Trustees, but no action was taken on it.

Stopped By Seay

Appearing during registration Saturday with a reporter, photographer, and the presidents of the Louisville and Lexington chapters of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the teacher was stopped by Dr. Seay in the enrollment line.

Johnson also charged in Federal District Court Monday that the Kentucky Constitution violated the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution.

The name of Comptroller Peterson, who is secretary of the Board of Trustees, was substituted in the $15,000 suit for the name of the late Dr. William D. Pinkstover, dean of the Graduate School, who died June 8.

Ex-officio board members named were Gov. Earle Clements, Basil W. Hodgkins, Superintendent of Public Instruction and Harry B. Walters, state commissioner of agriculture.

Johnson asked the court for a permanent injunction which would keep UK from refusing him entrance solely because of color.

Seay Makes Statement

Summing up the University viewpoint on the situation was a brief statement: "Lyman T. Johnson, Negro, of Louisville, Kentucky, was denied admission today (Saturday) to the Graduate School of the University of Kentucky. His admission is based upon a State Constitutional provision and a State law which requires that no person shall be a member of any of the state's educational institutions who is a member of any of the state's educational institutions." (Continued On Page Three)

Dr. Snow Is First In Lecture Series

The University plans a series of 10 lectures, under the direction of Dr. Amory Vandenberg, of the Department of Political Science, and a committee of faculty members this summer.

The first of the weekly lectures will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Union building from the Department of Anthropology, will be an illustrated lecture, "Glimpses of Oahu."

President H. L. Donovan will lecture on "Democratization of the German Educational System," at 8 p.m., July 7.

The series will end on August 11 when Dr. Vandenberg lectures on "Mount St. Helens in the United States—Should We Revisit?"

The purpose of the series is to inform the public of faculty members about international affairs and world peace plans.

Hiedelberg Drive Short Of Goal Says Dr. Kirwan

The drive for food and clothing for the University of Heidelberg has been a partial success, according to Dr. A. B. Kirwan, Dean of Men.

At present there are 140 boxes of clean clothing ready for shipment as soon as sufficient funds are available. All clothing was cleaned free by local laundries.

A total $500 has been donated by the faculty and students for food packages, each of which cost $10. All donations should be turned in at the office of the Dean of Women.

Dr. Carpenter acted as chairman of the drive for the Women's Club of the University, and Dean Kirwan acted as chairman for the men.

The drive will not end until sometime in the fall semester.

Library Service Offers Workshop For Beginners

The first workshop for beginning librarians ever held in Kentucky was held in Lexington last week at the Department of Library Science in cooperation with the Kentucky State Department of Education.

Miss Mary Ruth Buchanan, of the Enoch Pratt Library, Baltimore, Md., will direct the workshop.

Assisting Miss Buchanan for the first week are Miss Louise Gestin, 41 school library consultant, State Department of Education, and Miss Mary Best Cropper, library science department Murray State Teachers College.

Three members of the class are public librarians, the others are elements in junior and senior high school libraries.

At the opening meeting talks were made by President Leo M. Chamberlain, Dean M. M. White, Dr. Dally, Dean William E. Taylor, Miss Galloway and Miss Buchanan.

The workshop meetings are being held in the Social Science Building, and in the library science classroom.

Journalism School Cited By Council

The Department of Journalism was visited by the American Council on Education, in its official report on a recent inspection of departmental facilities, for the "valuable service it is giving Kentucky newspapers."

The department is one of 35 school and departments accredited in the country to be approved for the training of students in the profession.

It is the only school so accredited in Kentucky. Only four others in the southeastern section of the country made the subject list by having one or more of its sequences of study.

The community journalism sequence among the advertising sequences received special recognition by the American Council on Education for Journalism. Only seven other schools in the country were approved in the community journalism sequence.

A new dean of the Graduate School, successor to Dr. William Delbert Funkhouser, who died June 9, may be appointed at a Board of Trustees meeting at the end of the month, according to Dr. Donovan.

Dr. Funkhouser's successor will probably be a permanent appointment rather than an appointment as acting dean. Dr. Donovan believes.

Until the board meeting, Dr. Funkhouser's secretary, Miss Quentin Grable, will carry on the business of the Graduate School. Dr. Funkhouser died at 6:30 p.m. June 9, after an illness of several weeks. He was last at his office Jan. 5.

The campus was taken over by more than 1200 persons during the recent two week intercession, as the University planned host to conventions from all over the state.

Chief among these the Conference on School Planning, guided by the planning, designing and construction of new school plants in Kentucky.

Sponsored by the College of Education, and the General Education Board of New York, the conference was held to help solve problems facing inexperienced administrators in the spending of an estimated $60,000,000 on new school buildings during the next 10 years.

More than 80 educators attended the various sessions during the five days according to Dr. Ralph Cherry, chairman of the division of administration in the Education College and presiding officer of the conference.

Workshop Held
The College of Education was also the scene of a two-week School Planning Program Workshop for Fayette county school teachers, Dean William S. Taylor said.

Nationally known speakers served as instructors and advisors in aiding the teachers in planning the Fayette county school program for next year in certain fields.

Six hundred representatives of the 4-H Clubs of the state held a gathering on the campus during the first week of the vacation. The boys and girls took over parts of the residence halls for accommodations.

A group of firemen attended the fire school held here at the same time as the 4-H convention. Many of them were quartered in the men's dormitories.

Semester Switch Revises Count Of Credit Hours

By James Eddleman
Only 128 credit hours are now needed to graduate from the University with a bachelor arts degree. The number is reduced from the quarter total of 198.

Of course, the catch is that the units are now to be known as semester credits rather than as quarter hours and that students must divide the number of hours they have gained so far by two-thirds in order to find their number of semester credits.

Courses have been reduced to two-thirds of the credit value which they had under the quarter system. In other words, courses which were three hours are now valued at two credits. In cases where the division cannot be made evenly, it has been figured to the nearest hour.

The two-thirds cut in graduation requirements and in hours gained applies to all colleges.

Trustees Expected To Award Arena Contracts Today

Billied at first as a "million-dollar field house," the University of Kentucky's new basketball building may become a coliseum costing as much as $2,500,000. It was revealed recently when bids were opened for construction to finish the mammoth structure.

Low bids on four contracts to finish the project totaled $2,470,367. Work already under way or under contract represents a cost of $1,930,000.

University trustees will meet today at 10 a.m. and are expected to order the bids at that time. Engineers of the University say that another 18 months will be required to complete the coliseum, which will have a seating capacity of 10,000.

The Struck Construction Company of Louisville offered the low bid, submitted by the Hargett Construction Company of Lexington, was $1,960,145.

Other low bidders were B. & J. Jacobs Company, Cincinnati, $3,660,000, for heating and ventilating; George Proffers and Sons, Lexington, $1,825,740 for plumbing; and William Hopson Company, Lexington, $1,122,460 for electrical work.

Officials of the University have declined to comment on whether acceptance of the bids would be recommended. The amount already appropriated for finishing the structure is $1,700,000, which is $770,367 less than the indicated cost for completion.

Excavation and foundation work on the field house, being done by the Grayson Jones Construction Company of Lexington, is nearing completion. This work, begun more than a year ago, was awarded to the Jones Company on a bid of $274,291. Extra work required for the foundation will add about $25,000 to this amount.

Erection of the structural steel expected to start soon, will be done by The Midland Structural Steel Company of Chicago. Illinois. Its contract awarded last year on its bid of $728,900.

Wildcats to Battle Oilers At Tulsa Wednesday; Friday At Kansas City

Kentucky's Wildcats, the first college basketball team to ever participate in the historic Olympic games, leave their Bluegrass last Sunday by plane for Tulsa, Oklahoma, where they will play the Phillips Oilers Wednesday night in the first of three cage games before joining forces in England late this summer under the colors of the United States.

At the last report 28 nations (Russia excluded) had entered the basketball event. The United States and Canada, winner and runner-up respectively in the 1935 meet are top-seeded and favored to meet in the final, although Australia and Czechoslovakia have been mentioned as possible dark-horses to reach the finals with the United States.

During recent weeks the Wildcats have been feverishly preparing for the three-game series, and as a team and as individuals they are out to seek revenge for that March 31 defeat in the finals of the Olympic trials by a 33-49 score.

The way they have looked in recent practice sessions, they will be hard to stop. The ten man squad made up of eight Kentuckians and Vince Boryla of the Denver Nuggets, and Ray Lumpum of New York University, is rapidly rounding into shape despite the sweltering heat.

Beard, Barker, Rollins and Groza have already hit what seems to be mid-season form, and are in excellent condition, as is Boryla, the former Notre Dame star, who has played with the Denver Nuggets the past two seasons. Vince will no doubt see a lot of action Wednesday night. Besides fitting in well with the fast break, he is a steady, aggressive ballplayer, who drops them through the hoops with uncanny accuracy from the forward berth.

Ray Lumpum the newest addition to the Rupp squad, has been with the squad long enough to show much progress, but is expected to get into shape hurriedly.

On the fast break which seems faster than ever, forward Cliff Barker has been looking like a race-horse guard, and has consistently played the best brand of ball seen in practice this summer. There are many who think that Barker would have turned the tide in favor of Kentucky in the first game if he hadn't been injured.

Rapid Ralph Beard, who never seems to get tired, and Captain Kentucky Rollins, besides wanting to repeat two swell performances and defeat the Oilers, will be especially anxious to make a good impression on their future probable employers (the Oilers have expressed a desire to hire both following their graduation).

Big Alex Groza is itching for another chance to tame the seven-foot Kurland, and in the condition he is in now, might do it. Despite Alex's brilliant rebounding Kurland scored 20 points and practically held his team together, when the Cats were doing the impossible and matching the Oilers point for point.

Barnstable, fresh from the track team when practice started has shown steady improvement. Walt Jones gets better each day and hard working Joe Holland's rebounding has been superb. Jim Lane, sidelined with a foot infection until recently will probably be ready by next week.

Barring injuries, the Cats have an excellent chance of splitting the series and possibly taking the rubber game. The Oilers will still have their height advantage, but the Cats offset that by their amazing fast-break.

Many would point out that if two of the Cats were hitting on the same night, the Oilers would go under. In the first game, the Cats hit fewer than a quarter of their shots, compared to a season average of around a third, while the Oilers were having a hot night, scoring on one third of their shots. Beard and Barker were both hitting that night but Barker's injury forced him out of the game after less than ten minutes.

It does stand to reason that if the Cats are hitting on any one of the game nights, they will fast-break the Oilers into the ground. The added strength of Boryla and Lumpum in the Wildcat camp will probably be offset by the presence of Baylor's Jackie Robinson and Don Barkdale of the Oakland Oilers on the Phillips squad. However, Boryla is look-
