MENTOR OF KENTUCKY 'CATS

ADOLPH RUPP

Adolph Rupp came to Kentucky this year to take over the Wildcats who were vered in the art of the "slow break." Rupp had a new system, but critics were skeptical about his ability to introduce the new fast system to the 'Cats in one season. He had never coached a college team before. He won the majority of his games as a high school coach in Freeport, Ill., and this season has proved himself as a coach of the calibre that makes championship teams. Sports writers of the South have lauded him for his great work and the Kentucky team was a place as one of the seeded teams in the Southern Conference, which is being run off this week. Rupp developed a winning combination from green material and his team lost but two games this season. Clemson and Georgia were the two teams that defeated the 'Cats. Rupp is popular with the players and the fans and besides being a great coach, he is known by everyone as a good fellow.

RACKETEERS! RACKETEERS!

The subject of the basketball team being the only regular from last year who was absent. As yet no definite plans have been made for the coming season. Vol. X. LEXINGTON, KY., MARCH, 1929 No. 23

By EDNA SMITH
Maybe this was a take-off on Miss Margie.
"My shaving mug,
My shaving mug!
Oh! how I want my shaving mug!
I came to school St. Patrick's Day
And had gone—so far away.
I need it very much, you know
To water my flowers so they will grow.

"MARGIE," the Teacher.
Perhaps Miss Margie had a flower bed of robust flowers in the Journalism building, where the Journalism department once was situated.

You have often heard that old antiquated phrase, "bring home the bacon," have you not? Well, believe it or not, the Wildcats did just that little thing. A headline on one of the sports stories of 1929 reads: "Bring Back the Bacon" from Ohio. Well, take it from me such a phrase would be considered very wise now.

we do not have. It was in the form of an old fashioned "college night." All the men assembled and can you fancy in your wildest imagination that they reached the gymnasium at 3:30? On Still field, marched around the campus, built bonfires, had a dance, and lastly they made the rounds of the other boarding schools and sang songs to the inmates of the orphanage such a preceding would bring now.

One of the most exquisitely touching pieces that I have ever read in the Kernel is the eulogy on James Kennedy Patterson, president emeritus of the university, who died August 15, 1922. He was the ideal of a man through dangerous waters for 41 years and emerged victorious.

"They say that whiskey shortens a man's life. Yes, but she sees twice as much in the same length of time. At the same time, they imagine that they considered the welfare of the women. But, then, times have changed."

Kentuckians to Enter
Final Round Tonight

Captain Carey Spicer, "Lil" McGinnis and
Yates Lead Offense for Kentuckians;
Game Is Brilliant

ENTIRE RESERVE TEAM PLAYS

Maryland Wins Over Georgia Bulldogs to Clash with Ruppmen Tonight for Southern Honors

A snarling attack by the University of Kentucky basketball team last night won its way to the finals of the Southern Conference tournament in Atlanta by crushing the great Florida University Alligators by the overwhelming score of 56 to 36. Captain Spicer and McGinnis together with the brilliant Yates led the Wildcats on the offense while Bronston and Worthington played beautiful games on defense. Maryland defeated the Georgia Bulldogs in the second game of the semi-finals, by a score of 26 to 25, and will clash with Kentucky tonight for Southern honors.

Florida, a dark horse entry, was not expected to win their first game, defeated the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech and came back to top the Tennessee Vols Saturday night. The Florida boys were no match for the 'Cats in the game, and they had some good material on the sidelines who at the opportune time came to the fore with their valuable services.

Captain Carey Spicer was high-point man for the 'Cats with 21 points. Lil McGinnis scored 13 points and Yates had 12 to his credit. Kentucky has never displayed such a brand of basketball as they exhibited last night and look like sure winners tonight if they can show their true form. The entire reserve team played the classic games of the game and proved to Rupp that he had some good material on the sidelines who at the opportune time came to the fore with their valuable services.

The Kentucky theatre will give a play by play account of tonight's game which will start at 8 o'clock. Mr. Bamberger has announced that a new picture will be run. The 'Cats again thank the management for cooperation in securing details of this game for this morning's issue and the second statistics of the North Carolina State and Duke games.

On the first jump Yates tipped the ball to Spicer who was fouled by Dorsett. Spicer missed his free throw and Yates grabbed a follow-up ball at the basket.

Spicer Makes Free Throw
Florida retrieved the ball and two men broke out for the basket. Bronston broke up the play by knocking the ball out of bounds. Florida took a 1-0 lead. Clemmons lost his dribble under the basket and Bronston tossed it in to Spicer. Spicer missed his free throw and Yates tipped the ball to McGinnis who whipped a pass to Spicer under the basket. Spicer missed a crisp shot and Yates grabbed it off the board and whipped a pass to Yates down the floor. Yates sank his first goal under the basket.

COMPULSORY MILITARY

Definite action is being brought against the present system of compulsory military training in American colleges by a committee composed of 45 student leaders from the leading colleges in the United States. A petition advocating the abolition of compulsory military training, signed by ten thousand college students representing 55 different institutions, was presented by this committee to President Hoover Saturday.

The contents of the petition cited three definite and specific counts against the present system. The text of the petition is as follows: "We believe that military training courses tend to teach doctrines contrary to the principles of the American government. In this light, we cite a definition of democracy as involving 'agitation, anarchy, discontent' from Manual 2000-25 of the War Department. We object to the use of government funds to inculcate beliefs to which our government is unalterably opposed.

"We believe that military training courses seek to idealize war, and to inculcate a spirit of unquestioning military obedience which is an emotional armament of war. We quote with approval Mr. Raymond B. Fosdick's statement that military drill 'has as its chief result... a change in the mental outlook of young people so that they look upon war as a normal part of life and expect to take part in it. It habituates the thought of the participants to slaughter as a rational means of settling international difficulties, as a legitimate means of reaching decisions.' We consider that our military drill courses are not only inconsistent with the Kellogg Pact repudiating war as a means of settling international disputes, but constitutes a grave danger to world peace.

"We believe, finally, that insistence upon the compulsory feature of military training indicates that the majority of student opinion stands opposed to it, and constitutes its own confession of failure.

"Accordingly, we petition the Congress of the United States to consider the desirability of stating its opinion on a matter which so vitally concerns it, and to outlaw the compulsory feature of military training upon American colleges and universities."

After reading this petition we cannot help but ponder upon the value of the military department in this university. It is an establishment of fact that this department is one of the most progressive on the campus, that it is one of the best established, that it has the interest of the student body in mind that everything that it undertakes and that the students are interested in it. The department of advanced military has more men enrolled in it this year than ever before which is direct testimonial to the popularity of the military courses, as advanced military is not compulsory.

Summer training camps are becoming more and more popular with college students; a great number of the National Guard and it would be officers are college men. In other words the interest stimulated in military affairs during the school years extends into life even after the student is out of college.

Our military department has done a great deal toward the development of the campus. It has encouraged some of the strongest honorary societies to come on the campus and has developed and supported them in every possible way. A new honorary, "Pershing Rifles," is being established this week through this department. The Kernel feels justified in saying that as far as Kentucky is concerned that we are more than proud of our military department and we think that the abolition of it would be a positive detriment to the progress of the university.

THE IDLE SPECULATORS

The height of stupidity—the essence of nonsense, is found in that very popular form of student entertainment, talking for hours and hours without aim, plan or object.

Oh, no it isn't! The desire to talk is a natural outgrowth of the much discussed gregarious impulse. The desire to talk long and loud and freely is a result of the group urge for amusement. The desire to talk complete nonsense comes of the struggle to surpass one's fellow ramblers in foolishness. Just glance into a favorite student "hangout" and see how everything harmonizes with nonsense production from the young college folk draped carelessly about the room to the suffocating spirals of cigarette smoke over their heads. One wonders whether this production is detrimental or beneficial to the producers.

Clarence does not rise and read a typed outline of procedure before the talking commences. Instead he twists his ankle, peers intently under the table and severely asks Norman how many gallon of molasses there are in a square mile. Norman says there are twenty-odd and then asks someone else how much "It." Henry the Eighth had? Clarence tells him to look under a rock. Then things grow more and more fantastic. Everyone idly speculates about what was under the rock. Unanswerable questions are snapped through the air. Impossible arguments are propounded and are pompously reasoned to a logical conclusion. And you still wonder whether time is wasted or spent in this way.

Idle speculations such as these should not be considered a vice. They serve to pass many hours which could be spent in worse ways. They very definitely stimulate a quick thinking because everyone is alert to make all the "wise cracks" and witticisms he can. They train the mind to think logically, even though it is dealing impossible conclusions. They put a new element of companionship and friendship into college life. These boyish or girlish sessions should be approved for these reasons alone, not to mention the pleasure and relaxation that come from them. Almost everyone takes part in some group of idle speculators. They know that they are seizing something precious that can never come their way again.

AN AGE OF UNBELIEF

Out in the large world which knows not the limitations of national boundaries, the world of internationally recognized scientists, men are arguing, by means of their personal creeds and working discoveries, whether or not there is a God. In the thousands of rural and small town churches every Sunday morning congregations are growing more scanty.

The eminent scientist, Dr. Robert Milliken, claims that he has found beyond all doubt that there is evidence of the never ending work of the Creator. He bases his new theory on the continual atomic destruction, with consequent rebuilding process of the cosmic rays originating in the coldest depths of the interstellar spaces. All of which means simply, that Dr. Milliken sees in the rebuilding of the cosmic ray, the hand of a Creator, our scientific explanation of God.

The question arises as to what effect this startling new theory of Milliken and Einstein will have on the dwindling number of churchgoers all over the United States? Has the loss of the average church's grip on its followers become so loosened that the whole modern generation of thinkers and educated people and average citizens has turned atheist, agnostic or infidel? Colleges and universities, with their classes in science and philosophy, have their blame for the lack of interest in religion shown by the younger people. To many, science is a verification of the manifestations of a Supreme Being; college brings to them an even deeper faith and understanding.

The Philadelphia Bulletin says: "Man cannot dispense with science and live by creed alone. Nor can he dispense with religion regardless of his progress in science. The laws of nature are the laws of nature's God, who also is the God of man. What, then, is religion but the science of the mind and the soul of man?"

Has the church kept pace with modern trends of thought, or does it adhere so strictly to narrow creeds that it is blind to the new needs of its members? Perhaps so much science has been confusing, has expected an about-face in too short a time. A readjustment is necessary; of that there remains no doubt. Hope has been expressed that Doctor Milliken's comic ray holds satisfying assurance for those who are turning first one way, then another, in their search for truth. If so, then, he has more than served a troubled humanity.

LITERARY COLUMN

YOUTH
A golden moon in a starless night
Your dear face so drawn and white
A wistful breeze
A silence rare
A bleeding heart
And nobody cares.

A scarlet dress and a snow white cape
Worn for someone who cared too late
A tear dimmed kiss
With a sundog fair
The eternal love flame
But nobody cares.

A love ship laden down with gold
Brought me treasures oh, so old
A saffron robe
Sun tint hair
Throbbing music
But nobody cares.

Longing, seeking, adoring Youth
Selling all at the Devil's booth
A breathless laugh
From the Sun God fire
Her anguished sob
But nobody cares.

JEST AMONG US

With so many of them, we can understand why a fellow can easily find the most wonderful girl in the world!

The way time passes, it takes some powerful persuasion for us not to believe that clocks are two-faced.

Usually you stand on your standing and fall on your failings, but it's queer how easily you'll fall in your standing and stand in your failings.

The only fellow who can go out and make fly-catching his profession without being called crazy is the ball player.

"Don't sob brother, the wolf has never been at your door."
"No? Say, the wolf was in my room and had pups!"

The students of Rollins College of Florida say they are dissatisfied with the American educational system. Possibly they don't have the honor system.

This country was long celebrated for freedom of conscience, but now it is even more celebrated for freedom from conscience.

In other countries students start revolutions, but in the United States the starting of a new method of dissipation seems to be about the limit of their initiative.

We can't help but wonder what would have happened to General Butler if he had criticized the American premier, Al Capone.

Sneers Snickers Scandal

By WILLIAM ARDREY

Governor Ardrey, of Kentucky
We simply cannot help telling you that when our Dad is elected governor of this great commonwealth the inaugural ball will be one of the most truly brilliant, delightful affairs imaginable.

THE GIRL WITH A ROSE
During the past week we have learned that our public (we laugh bitterly) do not like to have us praise anyone even any at all and that if we must do it they would far rather we would choose someone who has never before been recognized as being outstanding. Perhaps later on we will yield to the demands of our vast army of readers and send tomatoes instead of roses but this week:

The perfectly devastating Georgia is chosen as our Rose Girl this week because she is one of the few ladies who was popular as a freshman and who has maintained that popularity, because she has been president of Kappa Kappa Gamma, because she has been active in campus activities, because we have never seen her munch chewing gum, because she does not laugh like a boarding school girl, because she has a delightful voice, because she is one of our truly sophisticated ettes, because, although a Kappa, we have never seen her snoot anyone, because she has been nominated for almost every beauty, popularity, May election that has been held since she came here to school, because she is different, because she has beautiful eyes, because she has never scolded us for our comments on her sorority.

Mary Elizabeth Weathers and Carolyn Ray do not have pins. We will be more than happy to correct any other errors we have made.

English reveals a fine array of critical appreciations that are most fascinating to the general reader. Though any review of the novel and its history must both delight and offend as it weighs the books one has loved and those one has hated by the writer's personal scale of value, the true book-lover can not fail to delight in Mr. Knight's agreeable style, his ardent and sincere likes and dislikes—his complete freedom from the literary affectations that so often destroy the value of clever criticism. One may not agree but one may always delight in his expression of opinion."

Ordinary Occurrences

It occurs to us that members of the student council may be gentlemen after all... that, contrary to reports, a Chi Omega did NOT climb out an upstairs window for a 3 a. m. diet... that we were right about the Wildcats... that it is really an effort to intensely dislike anyone and that it is hardly worth the effort... that we wish votes were our affairs instead of the S. A. E.'s... that one really misses "Shinney" Herrington from the Colonies... that no matter how light "Hell Week" is, the freshmen will think themselves horribly mistreated... that skating among the Greeks... that no girl can look charming on skates.

The Open Door Policy
Formerly Mr. Patterson's little girls were able to retire with their dates behind sheltering curtains for the more intimate and delightful phases of courtship, more recently were permitted to secret themselves behind closed doors. Very recently the doors were removed and one cannot but sympathize with the 3-delt who said, "And I came here for a good time."

Kappa Hospitality
Members of Lambda Chi fraternity were invited to an open house by the Kappa on Friday. They looked and looked, but nary a sandwich did they find. Nor any punch. Nor any tea, coffee, or beans.

Neighbors
For the Lambda Chi Alpha living next door to a sorority is a new and interesting experience. Our friends the farmers have in-

U. K. Representatives Attend Conference

Ten representatives of the Girls' Glee club of the university attended a conference of glee club officers and members at the University of Cincinnati, Saturday, February 28. The meeting was held in connection with the Play Day sponsored by the W. A. A. at Cincinnati. Meetings were held throughout the afternoon and a massed group of glee club members sang at the banquet in the evening. The speaker for the banquet was Dean Baigt, of Ohio University. Eight colleges through the middle west section of the country were represented.

Those attending from the university Glee club were: Buena C. Mathis, president; Imogene Young, vice-president; Roberta Hulleet, secretary; Mary C. Carter, treasurer; Mary G. Heaveridge, Floeste Minter, Mollie M. Offut, Loreta Bitterman, Ruth McFarland, and Elizabeth McDowell.

According to the President of Michigan State University, only one freshman in four has a chance to survive the "cruel grind of college." Love, dumbness, and faulty intelligence are the reasons for freshmen flunking out of college. They become just a little bored with it. As one of them so delightfully expressed it, "No one but the freshmen even bother to look any more."

Dear Old Dick
We heard from Dick Brewer, erst-while humorist, the other day who recently ran his Ford into a male mounted on a GMC truck and "with companions." Dick says that he spent seven weeks in a hospital trying to figure out something funny about a plaster cast, "and failed utterly."

ENGINEERS walking across campus to a lab in Sibley... arts students gathered on the porch of Goldwin Smith... lawyers on the steps of Boardman. Not much time between classes... but good for a pull on a pipe of good Edgeworth!

Cornell men know their smoking tobacco. And they're not alone in their choice. Harvard, Yale, Illinois, Michigan, Stanford, Dartmouth, Bowdoin—all report Edgeworth far in the lead. In 42 out of 54 leading colleges and universities Edgeworth is the favorite pipe tobacco.

Cool, slow-burning burleys give this smoke the character that college men like. Try a tin of Edgeworth yourself—pack it into your pipe, light up, and taste the rich natural savor of fine burleys, enhanced by Edgeworth's distinctive eleventh process.

At all tobacco stores—15¢ the tin. Or, for generous free sample, write to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va.

Ten Battery Candidates Report to Pat Devereaux For Initial Baseball Prep

Ten candidates for battery positions on the 1931 Kentucky baseball team reported for practice Thursday afternoon on Stoll field.

Devereaux had set the opening date for practice a week ago in the warehouse across from the school. Poor lighting facilities forced him to abandon his plans and the Big Blue mentor officially opened practice sessions yesterday.

There was much speculation concerning positions on the team this year. Three men were lost to the squad and the most dependable veteran pitcher, Rhodes, was lost by graduation.

Two veteran catchers, Stewart Augustus and Captain "Didlake" Barnes will be back on the firing line this year. Augustus alternated at second base and at the catching position.

"Red" Bach a junior, and a new man to the squad, and Graham Benson, another junior, are trying out for backstop positions. Laven, freshman catcher, who won his numeral, is another candidate.

Some of the candidates for pitching jobs are rather unique. The first man is McMurtry, veteran of last year, who is expected to bear the brunt of this year's mouty duty. Paul McBrayer, who pitched last year, may again assume the pitching role this season.

Two boys, in particular, will start the average reader and perhaps even Pat Devereaux himself. Louis Toth and Cecil Urbanik, two football stars, both veteran baseball stars from the 1929 squad, are trying out for the pitcher's position.

Toth alternated with Augustus at second base and Urbanik played

The Heavenly Night was followed by "The Devil to Pay" in London theater. Said to be a coincidence.

"The Kentucky will present "Rango" tomorrow. Produced in Sumatra jungle by Errol Sutherland, co-producer of "Grass" and "Chang." "Rango" tells a story of an orang-outang and his son in parallel with a savage man and his son. The every-present menace is the tiger. "Rango" which means orang-outang, is said to contain much that is unusual and thrilling in the way of novel motion picture entertainment. It is a Paramount release.

Quite a suspicious opening was presented Sunday at the Ada Meade of Billy Leitch's "Smiles of 31" musical show on the stage. This company is considerably better than the other organizations recently holding down the stage of Lexington's only "in the flesh" entertainment house.

CO-ED CAPTAIN Before Miss "Libby" Lilly, of Chicago, left her home city to study at Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, she was afraid of a gun. She has now lost her fears and has developed into a remarkably keen-eyed shooter. She averages 97 out of a possible 100 and is captain of the Tech girls' rifle team which is active in matches conducted by the National Rifle Association.
