JUNE 1995 PRIDE ISSUE

200 YEARS OF PRIDE

"Yankee Doodle went to London, just to ride a pony. Stuck a feather in his hat and called it Macaroni."

This little tune about the redneck American goes on to say all he's good for is dancing with the ladies. You may know it from singing it in grade school as it has been sung in this country for over 200 years.

What you may not have learned is that it was sung by the British about the Americans to taunt them. The red-coated soldiers thought little of the grunge look sported by the ill-bred farmers who dared thumb their noses at the King of England.

However, just as the word Yankee had been turned from insult into a badge of honor, as soon as the people of the Americas ousted the British after a series of amazing victories, the song Yankee Doodle became quickly popular. The inhabitants of the newly independent nation wore it as a badge of HONOR - and of PRIDE.

In the same way, we celebrate June as the anniversary of the Stonewall Rebellion and call it PRIDE MONTH. We take the insults that are flung at us - dyke, queen, queer - AND TURN THEM INTO TERMS OF PRIDE. It's an AMERICAN TRADITION!▼

ROMANTIC FRIENDSHIPS

Perhaps you have never heard this term, but during the Nineteenth Century and the first quarter of the Twentieth Century, romantic friendships were a common and accepted form of "intense friendships" between young women. Known as "smashing" in the expanding New England women's colleges of the same era, young women were expected and even encouraged to have crushes on older women or teachers. A young woman was said to develop a "crush," "spoon," "pash" (for passion), or "rave" on an older, admired woman.

Public affirmation of these crushes were allowed, but feelings were expected to be acted out in symbolic acts of homage to the older woman, such as making her bed, leaving some candy in her room, or writing her poems. Actual physical closeness or daily conversations were not expected, thus maintaining distance. The "ravee" was expected to offer affection and moral guidance to her "raves." "Desires" that might arise were thought to be adolescent

Dec 1994 - Bias-related killings of homosexuals are often gratuitously violent and many go unsolved, according to a report by 23 anti-violence groups. The report listed 151 murders in 29 states and the District of Columbia from January 1992 until early this month. Almost 60 percent involved four or

and to have only an "immature" sexual nature. (But they did call them "passions!") Of course, even adult women were not believed to be sexual in the same sense as men were at this time in history. The feelings of love and desire stirred up in these relationships were socially acceptable as long as they were controlled and directed into self-denial, spiritual sacrifice, and social service.

I first read of romantic friendships years ago and was able to ask my mother, who attended high school and college in the 1920's, if she was familiar with the phenomenon. Certainly, she said, she had carried books for an older girl regularly in high school and worn a token of affection in her hair. In college, she was the captain of a Crew Team (still a big women's sport at a few schools) and several younger women had crushes on her. She did not see these as particularly intense relationships, but remember they were for some of her classmates.

Can we guess which young women might have been most intensely involved? My father's favorite older sister, Mary Cabell (who I was named for), attended Mt. Holyoke College in 1913, and was refused readmittance in 1916 after taking a year off to travel with her family. no one at Mt. Holyoke was able to give an adequate explanation for their refusal of her re-entry. I suspect that her attempt at a romantic friendship became more sexually charged and less self-sacrificing than was socially acceptable. My Aunt Mary went on to become a doctor and lived with Gertrude, her lifelong "companion" in the mountains of North Carolina.

The support of romantic friendships as healthy learning experiences for young women began to decline in the late 1920's, perhaps not coincidentally as scientists began to write about women's sexuality. In this period, there were articles written by female college administrators and professors who spent their lives living with women companions, warning their students to avoid intense friendships with each other. Perhaps with an increased awareness of female sexuality, they were afraid of being discovered, or perhaps they accepted society's negative opinion of their relationships. Romantic friendships continued particularly at women's colleges into the 1940's and 50's, but were written about as less intense, nurturing friendships rather than as crushes or as passions. ▼

BANQUET ENTERTAINMENT DIFFERENT THIS YEAR

Unfortunately, this year the Lexington Men's Chorus will not be able to perform at the Volunteer's Banquet. They have performed at all three previous Banquets, and of course, they will be greatly missed. That's the bad news... The good news is we have been able to procure a most wonderful replacement. Roger Burnell, a Berea native, and an accomplished concert pianist, will provide the evening's entertainment.

Mr. Burnell is a graduate of the College of the Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati. He received both the Presser and the Clinburn Scholarships from that esteemed institution. Mr. Burnell went on to study in Europe and perform in concert across Germany and the Netherlands. We are very excited and fortunate to have Mr. Burnell.

We are also tremendously pleased with the speaker for this year's event, and for the first time, the speaker will be from outside of Lexington. In keeping with the great speakers of the past, and the versatility we wish to bring to this event, we are importing a wonderful woman from Louisville. Judy Dale will be our after dinner speaker this year. Ms. Dale is the district coordinator for the Great Lakes District of the Universal Fellowship of Metropolitan Community Churches.

Ms. Dale is a lay-person with the Church, and although she has completed all pastoral requirements, she chooses to be un-ordained, and serve the community in an administrative capacity. The Great Lakes District which she is charged to oversee comprises a total of eight states - therefore, she is constantly traveling. Her experience with and insights to other gay communities will, we are sure, prove most enlightening. We look forward to seeing you there for what should be the most exciting Lexington Volunteer's Banquet yet! ▼

PRIDE WEEK MONTE CARLO BOWLING

The Thoroughbred Invitational Tournament, Inc., along with the Rainbow Bowling League invite you to an evening of gay pride and fellowship at our Monte Carlo Bowling Night, 8:45 pm, June 23rd at Joyland Bowling Lanes (2361 Paris Pike).

The bowlers will compete in a secret doubles (partner will be arranged by lottery after registration), no-tap format with a continuous Monte Carlo payout. No average or previous bowling experience is needed; we're just OUT to have fun. Prizes to be awarded for the top three placing doubles partners as well as continuous winners in the Monte Carlo payout. There will also be a 50/50 raffle.

Entry fee for the three-game event will be $10 per person. 50% of the net profits will be donated to Aids Volunteers of Lexington. For more information call Shawn Fritz at 269-1262 or at KYEI@aol.com.▼

GLSO BOARD ELECTIONS TO BE HELD DURING PICNIC

Secretary	Matthew Reed
At-large	Jon Shelton
At-large	Craig Hudson
At-large	Tammy Strong

Board members who are not up for re-election and are serving another year are:

Treasurer	Mike Taylor
At-large	Rex Van Alstine
At-large	Sue Strong. ▼

GAYLINE ENDS LENGTHY RUN

This is to let everyone know that the GLSO Gayline has been disconnected as a part of a re-examination of our services due to our limited funds and the board's general perception that it was no longer functioning as a cost-effective service to the community.

For more than a decade of service, under the stewardship of a variety of caring, community-minded members of the Lexington lesbian community, the phone line provided support and information for the many people who experience problems due to their sexual identities and had no place to turn. It isn't yet clear whether this is going to

MISS IGBO MID-YEAR 1995 PAGEANT TO BE HELD

The Thoroughbred Invitational Tournament will sponsor the Miss IGBO Mid-Year 1995 Pageant, a fund-raiser for the International Gay Bowling Organization tournament to be held in Lexington on November 7-12, 1995. Contestants from the region will be judged on presentation, stage question, evening gown, and talent. Miss Kate from Cincinnati will serve as hostess and emcee, with special guests performing throughout the evening. The pageant will be held June 15, 1995, promptly at 9pm in Lexington's newest hot spot, Club 141 (located at 141 W. Vine St.).

Anyone interested in entering should contact Dave Campbell at 269-5983 or Steve Covey at 299-6088. An information package and application will be sent to you. The contestant entry fee is $25 and the deadline is June 13, 1995 at 9pm. Miss IGBO Mid-Year 1995 will receive $100 cash, a crown, a sash, flowers, and a plaque. Runner-up will receive cash, flowers and a plaque. Both will represent the IGBO Mid-Year 1995 Committee during the IGBABE Variety Show to be held November 12, 1995 at the Lexington Hyatt Regency to raise money for local AIDS charities.

DOMESTIC PARTNERSHIP BENEFITS OFFERED AT SOME CORPORATIONS

"Nationwide, about 140 major public and private employers extend medical benefits to gay and lesbian domestic partners, including Apple Computer Inc., Eastman Kodak, Levi Strauss & Co., Microsoft Corp., Sony Corp., Harley Davidson, Marriott Corp., Sheraton Corp., HBO, USAir and Xerox."

-From the Providence (R.I.) Journal.

The GLSO is currently unaware of any company based in Kentucky that offers similar domestic partnership benefits. Recently, the owner of a local company - to which one of our staff belongs - went to Humana Corporation and asked whether they would cover the domestic partner of their employees. Humana said that, in some other states, they cover domestic partners, when that state's law contains language about health benefits for common-law partners. That is, since Kentucky has no stipulation regarding protection for common-law spouses, Humana will not cover domestic partners of homosexuals, either.▼

GLAAD DIRECTOR'S STATEMENT ON VA SUPREME COURT DECISION AGAINST LESBIAN MOTHERS

April 21, 1995 - by Director Ellen Carton - The Gay & Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation (GLAAD) deplores the decision of the Supreme Court of Virginia to allow the state to remove a child from its mother's care because she is a lesbian. This decision sends a chilling message not just to lesbian mothers, but to all mothers who lead lives that narrow-minded individuals do not accept or understand. The freedom to support and nurture one's own family is one that every human being should enjoy. Lesbians and gay men have long known that we cannot count on our nation's courts to protect us against acts of discrimination or violence. In Virginia, we cannot even count on them to uphold the most basic level of human decency.

ONTARIO COURT OK'S ADOPTION RIGHTS FOR SAME-SEX COUPLES

Earlier this week (May 8), a judge of the Ontario Court ruled that 4 lesbian couples, who had applied for adoption of their partner's children, could do so. The judge went further to rule that Ontario's law disallowing same-sex adoption rights was in violation of the federal Charter of Rights and Freedoms.▼

LESBIAN ACTIVISTS TO ADVANCE RESOLUTION AT WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE ON AGING

Two lesbian delegates at the May 2-5 White House Conference on Aging advanced a resolution detailing issues of special concern to older lesbian and gay Americans. Del Martin and Phyllis Lyon will submit the resolution in response to the final conference agenda, published in the Federal Register on February 2, 1995, which excluded lesbian and gay concerns from explicit consideration. The original conference agenda, published in the Federal Register on October 12, 1994, included gay men and lesbians in a list of special constituencies to be addressed during the conference.

The Martin and Lyon resolution would ensure gay and lesbian visibility and sensitivity in future conference events and make several policy recommendations. The White House Conference on Aging is tasked with shaping guidelines for national policy on aging and the elderly. It is the fourth such conference since 1961.

Conference delegates Del Martin, 74, and Phyllis Lyon, 70, in 1955 co-founded the first lesbian rights organization, Daughters of Bilitis. Martin and Lyon have been partners for 42 years and have dedicated their adult lives to lesbian and gay activism. The pioneer activists have also co-authored several books including, Lesbian/Woman.▼

GMHC LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN DIRECTED AT HIV

Gay Men NEW YORK (Reuter) - Gay Men's Health Crisis, the nation's oldest AIDS service organization, Thursday announced its first campaign targeting gay, HIV-negative men to try to get them to use condoms. "Staying negative - it's not automatic" is the slogan of the campaign that will feature posters, displays in gay publications and cards distributed in New York City bars, clubs and gyms frequented by gay men. GMHC hopes the program will be picked up by other groups around the country.

Richard Elovich, director of GMHC's substance use counseling and education department, said the aim of the campaign was to encourage HIV-negative gay men to talk about when they have unsafe sex and why, rather than focusing on an ideal of using a condom during every sexual encounter.

GMHC also released a report calling for closer studies of the spread of AIDS and what programs work to convince men to use

The report said that young gay men in 1994 engaged in far less risky behavior than their counterparts a decade ago, but noted that "due to the extraordinarily high prevalence of HIV infection among gay men, even moderate levels of risk behavior may be sufficient to sustain the epidemic in the gay community into the next generation."▼

PROTESTERS STORM ANTI-GAY PSYCHIATRIST'S LECTURE

London, 29 Apr 95 - Lesbian and gay protesters today invaded a prestigious London school of psychotherapy, disrupting a speech by controversial U.S. psychiatrist Charles Socarides. The protestors stormed the podium at Regents Park College, covering Socarides with luminous pink sticky foam and blowing whistles and fog horns.

Demonstrators chanted, "We're not sick we don't need healing" and accused Socarides of leading a political war against lesbian and gay rights. They surrounded Socarides with placards reading "Cure Homophobic Psychotherapists" and "Mind-Fcker".

While 20 demonstrators chanted and blew foghorns, Socarides, covered in pink foam, was led away by security guards. Demonstrators occupied the room for about 10 minutes before being removed from the building by police officers. Some 40 officers were present but no arrests were made.

New York Psychoanalyst Charles Socarides is the leading exponent of attempts to "cure" homosexual patients by effecting a change to heterosexuality. He was the top medical expert presenting arguments against allowing gays in the U.S. military.▼

1992 - Commander Michael Trestrail, who joined the Royalty Protection Branch in 1966 and became Queen Elizabeth's bodyguard in 1973, is forced to resign after relation with a male prostitute is made public.

March 1992 Conservative British MP Alan Amos, aged 39, is forced from office after he was arrested and released without charge after being questioned about an alleged homosexual act on Hampstead Heath.

1991 - Gay and Lesbian Americans (GLA) founder, Michael Petralis, threw drink at Rep. Steven Gunderson (R-Wis.) at Alexandria gay bar.

1991 - Dept. of Defense Spokesman, Pete Williams outed.

July 1991 - Police uncover alleged sexual and physical assaults in North Wales children's homes that had been going on for over a decade. The former deputy head of Bryn Estyn children's home in Wrexham, Peter Howarth, who retired in 1984 shortly before the home was closed and former Bryn Estyn housemaster at a children's home in Gwynedd, Nefyn Dodd, become the subject of a police investigations that they subjected children to sadistic and humiliating treatment. Cartrefle Children's Home's head, Stephen Norris, is jailed for three years for sexually abusing young boys in his care over a seven-year period. Norris had been a housemaster in charge of the young boys' wing at Bryn Estyn, and two of his former colleagues there had also been convicted of sex offences against children in care. Fred Rutter, a former policeman, is jailed for 12 years for rape and buggery of young girls at a hostel for the young homeless. Another former Clwyd social worker, gay rights activist David Gillison, was given three years' imprisonment in 1987 for having sexual relations with a 16-year-old boy in his care.

1990 - Robert Indiana, an artist known for his block-letter representations of the word love was arrested on a charge of hiring a male prostitute in Rockland, Maine.

1990 - James William Dayton, 44, a computer scientist at the Naval Avionics Center in Indianapolis, ran a male prostitution ring known as "Muscles USA" and "Muscles Midwest" that offered young body-builders for hire through a computer network that drew clients from 39 states. Authorities say Dayton was believed to have matched at least 100 prostitutes and 300 patrons through a sophisticated electronic network whose clients included banking officials, a Roman Catholic priest and a policeman. Dayton died in March of a heart attack during a homosexual tryst at a motel in Ohio before he could be tried. Marion County Prosecutor Stephen Goldsmith.

1990 - Author Wendy Leigh publishes biography of Arnold Schwarzenegger which alleges that he used large quantities of steroids and that he engaged in homosexual activities with wealthy gay men. March 1992, SPY magazine publishes a nude photo of Arnold and further allegations of homosexual activity. The magazine later announces it will close due to financial pressure.
