2 groups plan SAB boycott because of slur

By ANGELA JONES
News Editor

Phi Beta Sigma announced its intentions yesterday to boycott all Student Activities Board functions if members involved with the printing of a racial slur do not resign.

The social fraternity and Simba Elimika, a student organization, protest the publishing of the original lyrics of "My Old Kentucky Home," which refers to "darkies" on the back cover of the "Wildcat Datebook 1991-92."

"I don't want to carry around something that reminds me of the way Kentucky used to be," said Ramonda James, president of Simba Elimika, a student organization interested in educating others about African Heritage.

SAB pulled the books from the shelf a few days ago and issued a public apology Wednesday stating the error was "not intended maliciously or purposefully."

But as a result of the error, a meeting was called yesterday to discuss racial sensitivity, and the Phi Beta Sigma president said "sorry" wasn't good enough.

"We're tired of taking 'I'm sorry' apologies," said Ricardo Nazario-Colon, president of Phi Beta Sigma. "We've been hearing that for the past 400 years and we're sick of it."

Nazario-Colon, of New York City, said the slur was one of several racial incidents he had encountered.

"I've been called 'nigger' 27 times in the three years I've been in Kentucky," he said.

SAB officials said the printing was a mistake and that the wording of the song was taken from Margaret I. King Library archives.

"My Old Kentucky Home," written by Stephen Foster, was first published in 1853.

"We did everything we could to amend the situation," said K. C. Watts, SAB president.

At the meeting, Dean of Students David Stockham recognized the continuous racial tensions at UK.

"This happened because racism exists — not because people want it to," he said.

Administrators, faculty and students discussed a few solutions to cultural ignorance on campus such as requiring an African studies

Turnout for tickets lower than expected

By MARY MADDEN
Senior Staff Writer

Despite the hype surrounding UK football this fall, UK officials are scratching their heads because ticket distribution is down.

Football ticket distribution began a week early this year and students may be unaware that tickets already are available, said Rodney Stiles, UK director of administrative services. He estimates that ticket distribution is down by about 30 percent from usual first-game distribution.

"They are running a little bit behind due to the fact that the word is not out (that distribution has begun)," Stiles said.

Football ticket distribution traditionally does not begin until after Labor Day. "This is the earliest it has ever started," he said.

Stiles noted that there still are plenty of seats available in both the upper and lower decks.

Guest tickets, priced at $12 and $16, also are still available. There is not yet a limit to the number of guest tickets that may be purchased.

However, if the number of available tickets begins to dwindle, a limit may be set, he said. Cash or check may be used to purchase the guest tickets.

Student and guest tickets may be picked up at the front of Memorial Coliseum from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily up to the day of the first game — or until all tickets have been issued.

Students must present a validated ID and student activity card or an ID and this semester's class schedule to pick up a student ticket. Each student may pick up as many as four tickets by presenting up to four IDs at the coliseum.

Stiles said distribution is farther behind in issuance of group seating. Because of that, officials are holding back some tickets in group seating in the event that an organization would like group seating but has not yet requested it.

"We hope that any campus organization that is registered with the Dean of Students Office will come by as soon as possible to request (group seating)," he said.

Top 20 teams clash at UK

By BRIAN JENT
Design Editor

The UK volleyball team does not believe in playing mediocre squads at the beginning of the season.

In fact, when the Wildcats take the floor for the first few times this year, they will be playing host three teams that are ranked in the Top 20 in the AVCA/Tachikara Poll.

"It is a good way for us to begin," UK sophomore setter Jane Belanger said. "The good competition will only make us better."

The Wildcats will begin the seventh annual Kentucky Kickoff Classic, sponsored by the Harley Hotel, against 20th-ranked Texas Tech tomorrow at 2 p.m. UK also will play at 8 p.m. against 13th-ranked Wisconsin.

The Wildcats play third-ranked Nebraska Sunday at 3 p.m. to conclude the tournament. Nebraska competed in last year's NCAA Final Four.

"The good news is, it is the first games for everybody," UK coach Kathy DeBoer said. "We will be ready for it though. I'm confident that we'll know a lot about ourselves after this week."

Since the tournament began in

Aug. 31	Wildcats vs. Nebraska	12 p.m.
	Kentucky vs. Texas Tech	2 p.m.
	Nebraska vs. Texas Tech	6 p.m.
	Wildcats vs. Kentucky	8 p.m.
Sept. 1	Texas Tech vs. Wisconsin	1 p.m.
	Kentucky vs. Nebraska	3 p.m.

1985, the Cats have never lost the Kickoff Classic. But this year could be different. The Texas Tech Red Raiders will be the first team to attempt to knock off the 22nd-ranked Wildcats.

Their chances look good, as the Red Raiders return nine players from last season's squad, which

Soviets fear a stronger Federation

By DEBORAH SEWARD

MOSCOW — Soviet lawmakers dealt a potential death blow yesterday to the Communist Party, suspending the crippled and discredited organization and freezing its bank accounts because of the party's leading role in last week's coup.

In Kazakhstan, there were rallies and protests amid fears that the Russian Federation, led by an increasingly powerful Boris N. Yeltsin, could try to seize parts of the Central Asian republic's territory where most of the inhabitants are ethnic Russians.

Amid concern about who controls the many nuclear weapons in Kazakhstan, the republic's president shut down its huge Semipalatinsk testing range. President Mikhail S. Gorbachev sent a delegation to Kazakhstan to keep things from "snowballing."

Ten dizzying days after the announcement of the coup that hastened the demise of the central government, Yeltsin went on the radio to calm the people.

"I want to firmly assure you that the collapse of the center is not the collapse of the country, moreover of Russia," he said on Radio Rossiya. Yeltsin welcomed the destruction of "that powerful, bureaucratic system, which has for six years stood in the path of transformations" during Gorbachev's rule.

Capping nearly a week of attacks on the Communist Party for its role in the coup, the Supreme Soviet legislature halted party activity nationwide.

The step — taken near the end of three days of marathon debates — was part of changes that restructured the pillars of Soviet society and raised fears of further economic turmoil, ethnic unrest and political chaos.

Without drama, legislators voted 283-29, with 52 abstentions, to suspend the party that had ruled the nation by fear and intimidation for 74 years, with a presence in every factory, school and city hall. They also froze its bank accounts and halted its financial operations, meaning party operatives cannot be paid.

"I frankly rejoice in ... the demise, the fall of the totalitarian non-democratic party," President Bush said in Maine.

Party archives were sealed, which could hurt party officials seeking jobs elsewhere.

The resolution urged the Soviet prosecutor to turn over evidence of official involvement in the coup to the national Supreme Court, which would then determine whether the party can resume operations.

Staff elects 15 to new UK council

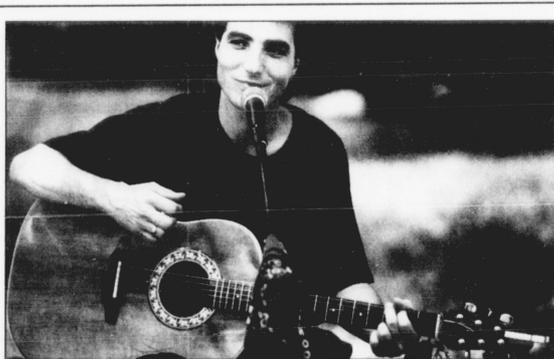

By DALE GREER

The first 15 members of UK's new Lexington Campus Staff Council were announced this summer by Robert Hemenway, chancellor for the Lexington campus.

UK staff workers, including part-time employees, cast more than 1,300 ballots in the council elections in June and July, said Mary Burg, assistant to the chancellor.

The high number of voters was "a clear indication of support for and interest in the ... council," said Hemenway, who chooses three council members to serve as officers each year.

Recruiting efforts draw new faculty

By GRAHAM SHELBY
Senior Staff Writer

As a child in the segregated South, Everett McCorvey's father told him, "That's just the way it is." "I remember as a kid not being able to go through the front of the (doctor's) office," said McCorvey, a vocal music instructor at UK.

McCorvey has come a long way from the mid-'60s segregation of Montgomery, Ala., where he grew up.

The 33-year-old is one of 10 new black faculty members hired under the University's minority incentive program in which the President's office pays the first year's salary for each new instructor.

UK's recruiting efforts have yielded 31 black faculty members as of this fall out of the University's 1,000 instructors.

"These increases reflect a University-wide march toward a campus which welcomes all groups in the Commonwealth," said Robert Hemenway, chancellor for the Lexington Campus. "We want a university which reflects the diversity of the state."

Some conservatives might fear such programs could lead to job quotas in which unqualified minority applicants may be hired over more qualified non-minorities.

McCorvey said he understands that concern.

"I know that there's a lot of controversy with the situation of quota hiring, and I think that there is a danger of someone being hired who is not qualified. I don't want to feel as if I'm hired as a result of a quota

Ex-governor unaware of investigation

Associated Press

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Former Gov. Martha Layne Collins said she has not been told she is a target of a federal grand jury investigation.

Collins also said yesterday she isn't worried about the investigation, which was begun more than three years ago.

"I think we had a good administration," Collins told reporters yesterday at the Capitol. "I don't know of anything that was done improperly."

It was her first public comment on the investigation, which has appeared to center on the financial dealings of the former governor's husband, Bill Collins.

In the last month, the grand jury in Lexington subpoenaed records and witnesses pertaining to bond issues during the Collins administration, which ended in December 1987.

The grand jury also showed an interest in the disposition of Kentucky Derby tickets obtained by the State Racing Commission in 1984 through 1987.

The witnesses included Ruth McElwain Childers, who was secretary of an investment company Bill Collins and two partners established soon after his wife took office.

Collins Investments Inc. solicited $3.5 million from people who did business with the state or received gubernatorial appointments during the Collins administration.

People under investigation by a federal grand jury often receive a notification letter, which entitles them to testify if desired.

Collins said she had not received a "target letter" and felt no need to testify.

'Starline' allows fee payment by phone

By LARA KALLMEYER
Contributing Writer

Since she has been a student at UK, Heather Horn has become accustomed to standing in the long lines at Student Billings to pay her tuition.

To Horn, a UK senior, waiting with checkbook in hand behind a swarm of students simply is a ritual each semester. But what she and thousands of other students on campus may not know is that Student Billings has initiated a new program for students who want to pay tuition but don't want the hassle of long lines.

The new program, called "Starline," gives students, parents and other bill payers another way to gain information about their accounts over the telephone. Callers can pay tuition by credit card simply by punching in their account numbers over the phone.

The process is very simple. To contact "Starline," dial 258-5901. After a brief introduction, the caller is asked to enter her or his social security number and birth date via a touch-tone phone. The purpose of the new program is to defer phone calls coming into the Students Billings Office and to reduce students' frustrations, said Linda Bradford, director of Student Billing Services.

For students like Horn, who says she will use the service, "Starline" is an unexpected blessing.

Missy Sorg, a third-year student at UK, said she used the service this week and found it simple. "I just made the phone call and found out that my tuition was paid for. It was easy," Sorg said.

The program began Aug. 1. Bradford said that before the program began, Student Billings was receiving about 15,000 calls per week. So far, about 4,000 people have used the new service. Bradford said the program keeps the students "much more informed." In addition to using the phone service to pay tuition or check the status of their accounts, callers can learn whether they owe money or if any money has been credited to them. She said she is confident that students, parents and other bill payers will take advantage of the program. The word STAR is an acronym for "students accounts receivable." The Student Billings Office requested and received money to fund the program from Chancellor for the Lexington Campus Robert Hemenway's Innovation and Excellence Fund.

This year's officers are Betty Williams, chairwoman; Larry Wilson, vice-chairman; and Judy Haywood, recording secretary.

Williams is an executive assistant in the College of Agriculture. Wilson is a carpenter in the Physical Plant Division and Haywood is an executive assistant in the College of Business and Economics.

Also elected to the council were Raymond Bivens, Anna Bolling, Anne Coke, Bob Gumm, Stephen Higgins, Wini Humphrey, John Lathrop, Darlene Mickey, Lloyd Powell, Wally Skiba, Bernice Smith and Fred Wells.

The council was formed to give University staff workers a stronger voice in policy decisions and will serve as a liaison between Hemenway and staff on the Lexington campus.

It also will conduct an annual survey of staff members to determine their concerns.

The group will not, however, act as a grievance committee, Burg said.

"In the past, staff have not been routinely involved in decision-making on the campus beyond, perhaps, the departmental level," Burg said.

"This gives staff a direct line to the chancellor."

Williams said the group will help bring the campus together.

"To me, the campus is like a small city," she said. "We have as many people here as a lot of small cities. Everybody wants to be recognized, so I think (the council) is a good idea."

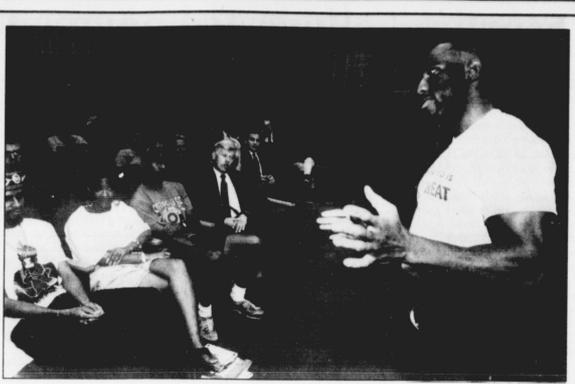

"You know, there's lots and lots of staff people on campus, and I think a lot of times they say, 'Well, we just get overlooked.' Now, they will feel more a part of the University."

All members serve on the council for three year terms, but some will serve for two years initially so that elections can be staggered over a two-year period.

Members are selected from four different areas of job classifications. Three council members must work in the administrative and professional field, four in office and clerical, six in service and maintenance, and two in technical and scientific.

The divisions are based on the number of staff that work in each career field at UK, Burg said.

The council will have its first meeting Sept. 11 at 9 a.m. in the old board room of the Administration Building.

Erny Whitaker, president of the Black Student Union, spoke yesterday at a forum on racial sensitivity. The Office of Minority Affairs called for the forum.

SAB

James, a business senior, suggested that it be mandatory for student leaders to take cultural diversity training before they take office. "I don't believe it was malicious, but we must be sensitive to all cultures," she said. Although the meeting was designed to discuss solutions to the problem, many students focused on SAB's error.

"I'm tired of these 'learning' experiences," said Vickie Afore, a junior planning to study medicine.

Afore said she was suspicious that the forum was just a formality and challenged the administrators to prevent similar incidents during her remaining two years at UK.

Debra Hodge, member of the Black Student Union, first cited the error. She said she is concerned that the incident is "just going to get pushed under the rug."

After employees of University of Kentucky Bookstores ripped off the back cover of the books and did not charge people for them, they didn't explain to students why the books were free, Hodge said.

"If we keep ignoring this kind of stuff, we're not solving the problem," she said.

system. ... Luckily, being a very confident individual, I know that I'm qualified," he said with a laugh.

McCorvey, a professional opera singer who has toured the United States and Europe with various companies, received his bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Alabama.

"I was contacted by the former head of the vocal music department here and she invited me to audition for the job," he said, adding that "I knew there was a directive from the President's office to try to recruit more minority faculty."

"I've always been interested in Kentucky so when this opportunity came up, I decided I wouldn't let it pass." Nevertheless, knowing the colleges were under directive to hire minorities, he said he wasn't sure how sincere a welcome he would receive.

"When I found out the percentage of minority faculty members, I thought at first, 'Is my reception going to be real or is it going to be superficial?'"

But after his arrival, he said the hospitality extended by the University community has allayed his fears. Everyone, he said, from the president to the chancellor on down has been "wonderful. Very open, positive and genuine."

McCorvey, who grew up attending the church sermons of Rev. Ralph Abernathy, a constituent of Martin Luther King Jr., said he supported UK's efforts to diversify the faculty and student body.

"If the University is going to have a diverse culture, they may have to go out and do some recruiting — not only of faculty but of students as well," he said. "For a city the size of Lexington, I think the University should be a representative of the community it serves."

Soviet

But it appeared unlikely the party could assert the control it once had.

Party leaders were deeply involved in the Aug. 18-21 coup that toppled Gorbachev. Members of its Politburo and Central Committee were on the eight-member committee that set itself up as the Soviet Union's government.

Gorbachev quit as party leader on Saturday, urged the party's Central Committee to disband and terminated party cells in the Soviet government, armed forces, Interior Ministry, KGB and other law enforcement agencies.

Yeltsin, who has taken the initiative in reshaping the nation's political structure, earlier had barred the party from his vast republic and sealed party archives.

Party chiefs in the republics have quit the Politburo or their party positions altogether, and many have led the drives to suspend the party's activities. Party buildings have been sealed, statues of party icons toppled.

As the party came under attack throughout the republics, new inter-ethnic problems began to arise.

Kazakhstan President Nursultan Nazarbayev said tension was rising in his republic because Yeltsin has not clearly renounced Russian territorial claims there, the Interfax news agency reported.

"This can force the republic to take the same steps as the Ukraine. Special danger lies in the fact that Kazakhstan is a nuclear republic," Interfax quoted Nazarbayev as saying.

The fragmentation of the union has raised the specter of new republics — some whose names were unrecognizable to Americans before this week — becoming nuclear powers overnight, with the attending hazards of attack or accident.

Kazakhstan is of special concern because it hosts 15-20 percent of the Soviet Union's fixed silo nuclear missiles, as well as two nuclear weapons testing ranges and a bomber base which probably is nuclear capable.

In his radio address, Yeltsin ruled out a division of strategic arms among the republics.

Nazarbayev issued a decree ordering the test range at Semipalatinsk. He demanded compensation for the "damage done to the health of the population" by tests at the base since 1949. There have been no tests there in two years.

Gorbachev told the Supreme Soviet he was dispatching a delegation to Kazakhstan because the situation "got more complicated." He spoke three times by telephone with Nazarbayev, a key Gorbachev ally in holding the union together.

"It is necessary that ... we do not let matters get to a situation where there is no escape. ... Things can snowball," Gorbachev said.

Russia and the Ukraine already have agreed not to contest each others' territory. That accord was part of a landmark military and economic alliance forged yesterday that bypasses the Kremlin and could form the basis of a new system of states to replace the Soviet Union.

Well, in a world where the political instabilities are so great that you can't even keep a joke about them current, there's got to be something around to distract you from world-changing, ultra-important events. Something to keep you distracted, uninterested and docile.

A little music is always good for soothing the nerves.

Maybe Neil Diamond. But meanwhile, back on the proverbial ranch, Lexington wasn't too terribly far from some damn good music. Think about it — we were equidistant from about three or four showings of the Lolloploozo. Our local scene is starting to sound a bit like Athens, Ga., before the companies got all over it. Louisville's not doing badly, especially all the cool albums that came out this summer. You know, things to want and buy, bands to worship and follow around like zombie slaves. Like Dead-heads, but with a greater selection and, ya know, wider variety.

First off. On the home front — can't say this one enough. If you like funk, and it doesn't hate you too much, then run down and catch a live performance by Ten Foot Pole immediately.

Their album, appropriately titled Ten Foot Pole, came out around the beginning of summer, and it's, well, it's damn sweet, with all the energy of a live show but with a cleaner sound and without the sweaty audience or the beer. The rendition of their theme song is especially strong — not to knock the latter. The album runs like a compilation of all the stuff you've really particularly liked at their shows.

These guys have a high standing in the local funk department. But the local scene is too complex to simply single out one great band.

Keeping a dash of funk adding a little speed and a little metal is Primus, with its new album Sailing the Seas of Cheese. You may have heard of them in a tiny clip in the new Bill and Ted film, but frankly if they had shown more of Primus, the protagonists would have had to quit, get jobs as garbage men and say "heinous" a lot.

Their songs "Jerry was a Race Car Driver," and their old standard "Tommy the Cat" kick hard. I went to see them live in Cincinnati, and all I can say is that it was worth every penny. Strange stage antics, solid drum and guitar talent and a six-string bass attached to a fellow who danced like a muppet on amphetamines. The review in short: Buy Cheese, catch 'em live.

On the rap front: I don't know a heck of a lot about rap, but Ice-T's new one, as they say, is a stone-cold kick-ass album. O.G. Original Gangster. T and the Rhyme Syndicate have thrown together another one — defiant, unrelenting and a beat from the first line to the last.

Songs like the title track, "Straight Up Nigga," a laid-back version of "Hustler," and "Lifestyles of the Rich and Infamous" show an Ice-T that has only gotten better with time. He even does a rock 'n' roll song, a straight-ahead thing called "Body Count."

I'll tell you, if they hadn't sent a radio-edited disk to WRL-FM (with sound effects in the middle of all those words that bug the FCC), there isn't a single song on the album they could play. Get it and play, kids.

For a little humor, help yourself to Cannibal Corpse's Butchered at Birth. Generic thrash metal with — literally — grunting as all the lyrics. Hilarious. "Covered with Sores" is a laugh riot. Not to be bought, but call up and request some from whatever place you think might play it.

And on the disappointing end, we take a look at Siouxsie and the Banshees' new release, Superstition. After the Creatures (a spin-off group of Siouxsie and Budgee) one might have had a lot of hope for it, but this one nails the coffin. After over a decade, they've finally gone techno-pop. "Kiss Them For Me" and the slow, melodic "Silver Waterfall" are great songs, and the rest aren't bad, don't get me wrong, but the time has come to face it.

The Siouxsie of The Scream and Tinderbox is old now. It may be worth getting, but don't expect it to sound like the same woman who followed the Sex Pistols around.

And now for the grand finale: a new Men Without Hats album. Yep, the high weirdos of Canada have returned after three albums of pure distilled synth-pop from long ago. And not a single keyboard on the whole thing. None. Nil.

Sideways, their newest release, is actually a rousing bunch of guitar stuff that sounds like old R.E.M. The title track is good, but "Ken-BarbieLove" easily is the best thing on the album. There's even a cover of "I am the Walrus!" What more could you ask for? Enjoy, kids.

Judge OKs rebates on Milli Vanilli recording

Associated Press

A judge tentatively approved letting Arista Records settle a lawsuit over Milli Vanilli Wednesday by giving partial refunds to people who bought the lip-synching duo's audio video recordings. The tentative agreement calls for the Los Angeles-based record company to refund $3 to people who bought a video or compact disc of the discredited duo. Those who bought a cassette recording would get a $2 rebate. And those who bought an album or a single of the pair would get a $1 rebate.

The settlement also calls for Arista to donate $250,000 to three charities: leukemia research, AIDS research and rain forest conservation.

The pop music duo of Rob Pilatus and Fabrice Morvan was stripped of its 1990 Best New Artist Grammy award after they admitted they didn't sing any of the songs on their debut Girl You Know It's True.

At least 26 lawsuits have been filed alleging that Arista defrauded fans by implying that Pilatus and Morvan sang on the best-selling album.

The Chicago lawsuit is the first to reach a settlement and could apply to anyone who bought one of the album's more than 10 million copies.

Cook County Circuit Judge Thomas O'Brien approved the agreement two weeks after he rejected an earlier proposal that would have required members of the class-action lawsuit to buy additional Arista records to receive a rebate. That provision was dropped from the new plan.

Attorney Tom Tyrrell, who represents one of the plaintiffs, said O'Brien will preside over hearings to gather reaction from members of various class actions filed around the country before giving his final approval. No hearing schedule has been set, but O'Brien is to meet with attorneys from both sides Tuesday.

Telephone calls to Arista's lawyers went unanswered late Wednesday night.

Depth, potential high as season swings into gear

By BRIAN JENT
Design Editor

UK volleyball coach Kathy DeBoer defines potential as "good things waiting to happen."

That definition is exactly how she views the 1991 volleyball squad, composed of two seniors, two juniors, six sophomores and four freshmen.

"I think this is going to be a very exciting year," she said. "We have a tremendous amount of ability and a lot of good things are ... waiting to happen."

The young but talented Wildcats hope to improve on last season's mark of 22-12, highlighted by a second-place finish in the Southeastern Conference and a trip to the NCAA Tournament.

This, however, will not be an easy task. But DeBoer believes her team's added depth will carry it a long way.

"Depth is going to be an advantage," she said. "We have nine kids that will probably be playing a lot." The Wildcats return five of six starters from last season's squad, which lost to the University of Texas at the NCAA Southeast Regional. And the team has added four talented freshmen — Molly Dreisbach, Krista Robinson, Melody Sobczak and Jen Wright — to its roster for support.

"The freshman class is one of the strongest classes that Kentucky has had," DeBoer said.

However, UK will not look for leadership from its talented core of freshmen.

Instead, team captain and middle blocker Kathy DeBuono, a senior, will be instrumental in keeping the team rolling.

Last season, DeBuono led UK in kills (391) and solo blocks (20). "The captain keeps the team focused," DeBoer said. "They set the stage for work habits. ... I see Cathy as being a strong captain."

In addition to DeBuono, senior Yvette Moorehead also will return this year. Although Moorehead has been troubled by tendonitis throughout her career, she has proven to be a substantial force in the Cats' rotation.

"She has been our utility player for us," DeBoer said. "She has played every position on the court in her past four years."

Besides the seniors, juniors Angela Salvatore and Eunice Thomas will also be influential forces this season.

"Angela worked hard to improve her defense and blocking over the off-season," DeBoer said. "She is physically strong as ... (is) Eunice Thomas. I'm thrilled with both of them."

Sophomore Carin Zielinski, who started last year and saw action in 120 of UK's 121 games, returns as an outside hitter.

"Her numbers were not that impressive as a freshman, but she played time and time again," DeBoer said.

If she's not in the starting rotation, expect to see junior Ann Hall in the game on defensive and serving situations.

"We got to get her in the back row even if she is not hitting for us," DeBoer said.

Despite the loss of setter Laura Linder, the focal point of last year's Wildcats, DeBoer is confident in sophomore replacement Jane Belanger's ability.

"You just go with something new each year. We look at each year as a new entity," DeBoer said. "A new volleyball team will be created around Jane Belanger, and we ask her to rise to the challenge."

Is she capable of meeting such a responsibility?

Her teammates seem to think so. "I think she will do well," DeBuono said. "I love to hit her, and she has a year experience under her belt."

Belanger also is confident. "I'm ready to get out there and play," she said.

Despite the talent, DeBoer's team is unproved until after this weekend's matches with Texas Tech, Wisconsin and Nebraska.

"There are some question marks," DeBoer said. "In order to be good, our outside hitting needs to rise to a higher level."

She also said serving must be improved for the team to accomplish its three goals: winning a Southeastern Conference Tournament, making the NCAA Tournament and being in a position to advance to the NCAA Final Four.

"Our blocking and serving is at a hit and miss right now," DeBoer said. "Most people are average at these. We have to get better."

But that does not discourage or put a damper on DeBoer's optimism.

"I think we are going to have an exciting year," she said.

And her players seem to think so, too.

"I think that we will be really high this year," DeBuono said. "We really have a good group of freshmen this year, plus our younger players are back."

Moorehead is optimistic about the season.

"I think this team has a lot of potential to go a long way," she said. "Maybe even final four potential."

Tournament

finished 30-3 and advanced to the round of 16 in the NCAA Tournament.

"This match is instrumental for UK to get off to a good start," DeBoer said.

"The Texas Tech match is extremely important for us to get out of the starting blocks," DeBoer said. "However, (Texas Tech) will not beat themselves. If we make mistakes, they will oblige (the Cats) by walking away with a victory."

After a 29-8 finish last season, the University of Wisconsin is looking to improve with its badgering defense.

The team made the NCAA Final 16 last season and won the school's first Big 10 title. Three players are returning for the Badgers this season.

"Wisconsin is one of the finest backcourt teams in the country," DeBoer said.

Nebraska is the tournament's early favorite.

Returning five of six starters, the Cornhuskers are primed and ready to repeat their 1990 Final Four appearance.

"Nebraska is one of the finest blocking teams in the country," DeBoer said.

The Wildcats, however, are not going to be intimidated by the strength of their first three opponents.

In fact, DeBoer's squad returned five of six starters from last year also, and the players said they have a good chance of winning their seventh straight Kickoff Classic championship.

However, DeBoer said, while the players are looking forward to facing the Top 20 foes, her team must remain "focused" to accomplish this task.

"Starting out with strong strong competition will raise us to a higher level," said Cathy DeBuono, UK's captain and middle blocker. "If we start out with the top (teams), we should be able to rise to the occasion all year."

New coaches, players add extra dimension

By BRIAN JENT
Design Editor

The UK women's volleyball program has many additions to its 1991 club.

Not only have they added four promising freshmen, but two new coaches join head coach Kathy DeBoer, in her eighth year at UK, in the team's quest to return to the NCAA Tournament.

"The change has been exciting," DeBoer said. "Braden is an excellent teacher of the game. She understands the fundamentals and is good working with people."

As Butler University's coach, Braden guided the Bulldogs to six winning seasons and two Midwest Conference titles, compiling a 169-114 record.

Despite having been head coach at Butler, Braden does not look at her new associate position as a demotion.

"This was a real unique opportunity," Braden said. "Working with Kathy DeBoer herself was an incredible opportunity. When she sat down and explained what my role would be, it was more than being an assistant to her. I would be assisting her, hopefully, ... to enhance what she has done here."

Meanwhile, Jaworski, last year's Penn State setter, brings a spirit of youth and determination to the volleyball hardwood.

"Michelle Jaworski brings to the court highly competitive experience. She brings intensity and ideas, looking at the game from a player's perspective," DeBoer said.

As a player, Jaworski was a two-time All-American. She also holds the NCAA record for career assists (6,596). Jaworski's transition from playing to coaching hasn't always been easy, but she

"It's hard not playing after a while and watching them have all the fun," she said. "However, coaching is a lot of fun, too. I haven't been coaching long except for kids but never college athletes."

Braden and Jaworski will be able to display their coaching expertise with "one of the strongest recruiting classes at UK," DeBoer said.

The average height of this year's recruiting class is 6-0, which should help UK's blocking game. "A lot of our height comes from our freshman class," DeBoer said. "They will bring us more support at the net."

Found within the ranks of the talented freshman core is Krista Robinson, the only player from Kentucky. The 5-11 outside hitter played high school volleyball at Notre Dame Academy.

During her four years of high school, she helped lead the team to two state championships.

"The premier player is Krista Robinson," DeBoer said. "She is a real dramatic player. She is a quick jumper with a quick arm."

Wisconsin playing with a new coach

Staff reports

Wisconsin volleyball coach Steve Lowe died from lung cancer on Aug. 22. Lowe had been hospitalized since July 27 with breathing problems. While in the hospital, lung cancer was diagnosed, which subsequently spread to his liver and bone.

Lowe had been the Badgers coach for the past five seasons. Last year, Lowe led the team to its first post-season NCAA appearance, first Big Ten Championship title and a 29-8 record while being named Big Ten and Midwest Coach of the Year.

Associate Athletic Director Cheryl Marrs appointed Margie Fitzpatrick as Badgers head coach for the year. Fitzpatrick was a second-year assistant to Lowe.

UK gives new students a 'Wildcat Welcome'

By JOE BRAUN
Contributing Writer

Laurie Pritchett had planned to make the most of her first year at UK by getting involved in a variety of student activities.

Pritchett, a freshman from New Albany, Ind., fulfilled that goal by attending UK's annual Wildcat Welcome this week at the Student Center.

The event, sponsored by the Student Activities Center, contained a sampling of the many clubs and organizations the University has to offer its students.

"The booths helped make me aware of activities like yearbook, student government and other clubs," she said. "Had I not gone to the activities fair I would have never known about the activities that were offered for me here."

Transfer students and freshmen like Pritchett were introduced to the extracurricular side of UK in an easygoing yet energetic environment.

Students ate lunch or sat in the grass, listening to musician Dale Stumbo of Tennessee sing and play guitar. Another highlight of the event was the distribution of free popcicles, which were handed out by various deans, doctors and directors from UK.

Anne Balest, assistant director for student activities, said the icy cold popcicles helped warm relations between students and unfamiliar administrators.

"It's important that everyone gets involved," said Balest, who coordinated the welcoming program, which was held at the Student Center Patio. "This gave the administrators a good opportunity to interact with the students on an informal basis." The Wildcat Welcome, which began Tuesday, concluded yesterday. Balest said the event was an extension of the school's Fall Orientation Program.

Although all registered organizations on campus were invited to set up a booth at the activities fair, not all groups participated.

At the fair, students obtained information on everything from religious organizations to the Sierra Club.

Dave Schlessler, vice president of UK's non-traditional students' organization (UKANS), said the organization was "good exposure for UKANS as well as the many other student organizations."

UKANS is in the process of conducting a survey to determine the demographics of the non-traditional student, and the fair gave club officials a good chance to interact with the new students at the University.

Mark Jordan, who works in the circulation department of the Lexington Herald-Leader, sold subscriptions all three days at the event. The Courier-Journal also had a booth at the fair.

"The fair gave organizations a good opening to the students," Jordan said. "I think that next year the event should be extended to reach even more students."

Veronica Chambers, a freshman from Ashland, Ky., said the fair helped her adjust to her first few days at UK.

"Overall, everything the University has presented for new students has been a real benefit to me," she said, "because as a freshman this is a whole new life for me."

Balest said UK officials may try to hold an activities fair at the beginning of the 1992 spring semester.

WASHINGTON — Parents backed by conservative groups in the past year sought to ban books ranging from Little Red Riding Hood to The Grapes of Wrath in what a civil liberties group calls "an epidemic of censorship" in public schools.

"This is a nationally driven movement that has embraced censorship as a political weapon," Arthur J. Kropp, president of People For the American Way, said yesterday in presenting his group's ninth annual report on school censorship.

The report cited 264 incidents of what it described as attacks on the freedom to learn in the 1990-91 school year, including 229 attempts at censorship. The figure represented an increase of about 20 percent from 1989-90.

The Rev. Lou Sheldon, head of the California-based Traditional Values Coalition, accused Kropp's group of "demagoguery" in labeling the right to criticize school material as censorship. "People, he said, 'don't want intimidation from the radical left.'"

Among the works challenged during the year were John Steinbeck's The Grapes of Wrath, Roald Dahl's The Witches, William Golding's Lord of the Flies, Robert Cormier's

The Chocolate War and Richard Wright's Native Son, along with Little Red Riding Hood, My Friend Flicka and Webster's Ninth Collegiate Dictionary.

Opponents objected to Little Red Riding Hood because her basket held wine, and to My Friend Flicka and the dictionary because they contained profanities. About one-third of challenges were successful, Kropp said.

As in past years, critics took aim at two classics of youthful rebellion: J.D. Salinger's Catcher in the Rye and Mark Twain's The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn. Some objected to what they called Twain's degraded depiction of blacks.
