GOOD ATTENDANCE AT Y.M.C.A. BIBLE CLASSES

First Series of Meetings Close At Beginning of Christ-mas Holidays

The first leg of the Bible study courses ended with the holidays. The attendance has been unusually good up to this time, showing an aggregate attendance of all classes of 444 for the first week, 437 for the second week, 397 for the third week with one fraternity house unreported, 358 for the fourth week with one fraternity and three private home classes unreported, and 239 for the fifth week with four fraternity and four private home and 239 for the fifth week with four fraternity and four private home classes unreported.

The Alpha Gamma Rho and Kappa Sigma fraternities are leading in point of attendance, based on enrollment; the former having an attendance of 98 per cent and the latter having an attendance of 95 per cent. One private home class, 287 South Limestone, has an attendance of 100 per cent. There are other classes which have had a high attendance up to their last meeting but being tardy in their reports are not considered in the calculations at this time.

THE HOPE OF THE NEW YEAR

THE HOPE OF THE NEW YEAR
The Alumni office, in this, the first issue of the Kernel in the New Year, wishes to extend its greetings to the Alumni members and former students wherever they may be. The New Year is a time for looking backward a few moments and then facing resolutely forward. The backward glance at the beginning of 1924 will be one to encourage and invigorate, for 1923 was one of the best years in the history of Old State.

The short time devoted to retrospection will show that in 1923 the basketball building was begun and is now well under way. Plans for the memorial building were completed and are now in the office of the superintendent of the buildings and grounds, awaiting additional funds before construction is begun.

The Greater Kentucky campaign demonstrated that the alumni and friends of the University were willing to give material aid to its advancement and they did to the extent of more than $200,000.

On Tuesday the legislature conven ed at Frankfort. It is in their power to render valuable and much needed aid to the University or they can, by refusing larger appropriations, retard its advancement and discourage those who are waiting with hope for the long expected assistance. By bringing electricity down from the clouds over a kite string, it was a simple thing to prove that lightning was nothing more than a tremendous electrical flash.

For centuries before Franklin flew his kite in 1751 philosophers had been speculating about the nature of lightning. With electrified globes and charged bottles, others had evolved the theory that the puny sparks of the laboratory and the stupendous phenomenon of the heavens were related; but Franklin substituted fact for theory - by scientific experiment.

Roaring electrical discharges, man-made lightning as deadly as that from the clouds, are now produced by scientists in the Re-search Laboratories of the General Electric Company. They are part of experiments which are making it possible to use the power of mountain torrents farther and farther from the great industrial centers.

But nobody had thought to do it

ALL FOR KENTUCKY

If the motto "United we stand, divided we fall" could be placed before the eyes of every alumnus, student and friend of the University of Kentucky from now until the close of th tucky from now until the close of the current meeting of the state legislature, and to this motto be added the slogan "All For Kentucky," there would be much good resulting from it. His is a crucial moment in the progress of the University of Kentucky and there should be no effort spared, that will further its interests with this law-making body of the state that holds in its hands the fate of the institution.

The University has reached its lim its. It can go no further on its way to the ranks of foremost universities and colleges in the United States un-less there is aid from this legislative less there is and from this legislative body. The University at present is handcuffed. It can not move forward and in its present financial condition must either mark time or slip back-ward while other Universities whose possibilities do not compare with those of the University of Kentucky forge ahead of her because of greater financial resources.

The educational reputation of the State of Kentucky is a blot on the name of the fairest state of the Union. It ranks among the lowest in this respect. The University of Kentucky spect. The University of Kentucky is forced to turn away students each year because it has not the means by which to take care of these young men and women of the state who are thirsting for higher education. This is one of the blackest spots in the educational blot on the name of the state. These women were men and women are force. al blot on the name of the state. These same young men and women are forced to return to their homes and do without the education that would enable them to give to the state the best that is in them; give it for the betterment of the state and its citizens. This is one of the greatest drawbacks that afflicts Kentucky today.

There is a way that every student former student and friend of the Un-iversity can help. Every man and woman has some sort of influence. woman has some sort or intuence. Every man and woman can bring some pressure to bear that will go for the University. Every man and woman who puts his or her weight this obstacle and pushes with every ounce of strength will add that much the source of the second that the contract the second that the contract the second the second the second that the second the second that the second the second the second that ounce of strength will add that much toward the realization of this dream. Now is the time to show that much toward the realization of this dream. Now is the time to show the real love for your Alma Mater. Forget all internal differences and unite in one great move that will be for the good of Kentucky.

Sanguinary individuals, on the cam-pus and elsewhere, look on the pro-posed seventy-five million addition to the road bond issue with a shining op-timism that is almost cherubic in its trust and confidence. Surely, say they, if the legislature can not minister to the university through increased apthe university through increased ap-propriations, it will salve a long suffer-ing wound by letting the bond issue proposition go through. There are many, many good reasons why the twenty-five million issue for disburse-ment among educational institutions, et. al., may never come to pass, des-pite Governor Field's recommenda-tion that it may be included. tion that it may be included.

Beside the inconsequental fact that numerous vote-controlling organiza-tions throughout the state have declar-ed themselves against it, and the fact that a test vote in the senate forecasts a heart-breaking failure, certain doleful, if abstract aspects, cover the whole affair with an opaque coating of

Kittens Show Up in Good Form;
Hold Two Practice Sessions
Per Day

The University of Kentucky freshmen basketball team inaugurates its season Saturday Night, December 18, when the meet the first year men from Kentucky Wesleyon at the University gym. A good game is expective as the Winchester quintet is reported as having a very fast team.

The University of Kentucky freshmen have been showing good form against the varsity and each man is showing marked ability. The floor work and passing of the Kittens have been outstanding in their practices. Their shooting has been a little off so far but with more practice they should be able to offset this difficulty.

Coach Burnham will have a hard time selecting his first five, as he has about thirteen men that are showing the most ability and any one of them can be depended on to do his part. At center Besuden, McCann and McClanahan seem to be the best. They all tower above the six foot mark and can hit the basket as well as play the follor. Ramer, Palsgrove, Hendricks, Stevenson, and Wallace are doing good work as forwards and any one of them can well hold their own with any team. As guards Farrington, Brady, Scrivner, W. Smith and Rice are all showing up well and can prevent their opponents from making goals. The selection for the first game will likely be taken from the above mentioned men.

'Give me a log with Mark Hopkins at one end of it and myself at the other," said, in effect, President Garfield, "and I would not want a better college."

But if Mark Hopkins was an inspired teacher, it is just as true that James A. Garfield was an inspiring student.

Sometimes Garfield's praise of his professor is quoted in disparagement of present day faculties -the assumption being that we as listeners are sympathetic, all that we ought to be-and that it is the teacher who has lost his vision.

Is this often the case?

It is the recollection of one graduate at least that he did not give his professors a chance. Cold to their enthusiasms, he was prone to regard those men more in the light of animated text-books than as human beings able and eager to expound their art or to go beyond it into the realm of his own personal problems.

This is a man to man proposition. Each has to go half way. Remember, there are two ends to the log.
