THE UNIVERSITY

At this time we wish to express our appreciation of the editorial which appeared in the Lexington Leader of Wednesday, January 13, 1926, part of which is quoted below. The newspapers of our land have an influence so tremendous and far-reaching that it cannot definitely be estimated, and it is through this medium, to a great extent that an institution makes friends and goes forward. This is particularly true, when the time for a decision relative to its progress is at hand.

"The University has reached a stage in its growth at which it cannot any longer afford to develop haphazardly, and as chance permits. A comprehensive plan must be outlined and adhered to. It has arrived at its majority. It has become the second largest State University in the South. It can look forward to a student body of 10,000 in a comparatively short interval of time. It must build for the years of its stalwart and vigorous maturity, in competition with other great and expanding institutions of like character which are being generously supported by an appreciative public, and are being more and more thronged with ambitious and aggressive young men and women resolved to secure an education and prepare themselves for life in an era which will make greater demands upon human resources of intellect and skill and character than any in the past."

"Education is the only key to progress. Without it nothing can be done worthily and well. It will open up the vast resources, human and material lying unexploited in Kentucky. It will increase the wealth and augment the happiness and contentment of the citizenship. It will build better homes, better roads, better churches, better and larger banks, business houses, factories, mining operations, railroads and public institutions. It will solve our political and social problems, insure clean and efficient administration of the laws and of public affairs, remove inequalities and inequities, banish poverty and vice and shed a fresh lustre upon the fame of the old Commonwealth wherever the name of Kentucky is repeated.

"Great things have been accomplished. Thousands of young men and women have been set on the high road of success and honorable endeavor. Pricelless human material has been recovered from every nook and corner of the State. Immense wealth has been added to the store of riches accumulated. With inadequate funds splendid and lasting results have been achieved.

"But a new era is dawning. A larger program must be prepared and financed. The University must be set like a city upon a hill which cannot be hid, a center of light and learning which shall attract the admiration and enlist the sympathies of every citizen of the State.

"It can be done. It is to be devoutly hoped that the new General Assembly will honor itself by making a good beginning in the full sense of a great responsibility."

THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

The following is taken from the editorial page of the Lexington Herald of Monday, January 4, 1926. The Herald, through its columns, is always ready to befriended and boost the University in her plans for progress.

In a recent issue of the Kentucky Kernel there was published a most interesting review by Prof. George Roberts of the achievements of the College of Agriculture. This institution has played a most important part in the development of Kentucky. The University of Kentucky is the outgrowth of the Agricultural and Mechanical College which was established under the provisions of the Morrill Land-Grant act, passed by congress in 1862. Professor Roberts tells how John B. Bowman, regent of Kentucky University, in accepting the conditions of the legislature for incorporating the Agricultural and Mechanical College with the university, pledged that he would purchase an experimental farm for the sole and exclusive use of agriculture. With money raised by popular subscription 433 acres were purchased. The work and activities of the College of Agriculture, the extension division and kindred activities of the Experiment Station are reviewed by Dr. Roberts. While the details of the activities of this institution may not be fully known, there is hardly a farm or a house in Kentucky that does not have some knowledge of some phase of the work done by the College of Agriculture.

One of the greatest handicaps of the College of Agriculture, Dr. Roberts points out, is the lack of sufficient farm acreage for experimental purposes. Two years ago the college added 130 acres to the land already used.

Some may think without investigation that the extension and experimental work conducted by the state is done on a large scale at present. Investigation will show otherwise. A graphic illustration of this is given by Dr. Roberts who points out that there are more than 250,000 farms in Kentucky and there are more than 1,300,000 persons, or more than half the people of Kentucky, living on them.

Those who own, manage, or work on the farm of Kentucky do not have time or facilities for research, investigation and intensive, specialized study upon important subjects affecting agricultural development. A farmer without the privilege of such expert advice as is given from the extension division of the College of Agriculture is like a teacher or lawyer without the use of a library.

K. E. A. Formulates Plans for April Meeting

Headquarters of K. E. A., University and Alumni Association to Be at the Brown

The Kentucky Educational Association will hold its annual meeting in Louisville, April 21 to 24, with headquarters at the Brown hotel.

Extensive arrangements are being made for this occasion by the Louisville Alumni club, and those at the University most interested in the K. E. A.

The meeting opens Wednesday, April 21, with headquarters of the University of Kentucky and the Alumni Association, as last year, also at the Brown. The University of Kentucky banquet will be held on Thursday, April 22. The Louisville club is planning a dance as their part of the social program. This dance is to be held in the Crystal ballroom. Prof. A. E. Ligon, president of the K. E. A., professor in education, and principal of the University high school, has called several meetings of the K. E. A. committee from the University, and indications point to this being the best and biggest K. E. A. ever held in the state of Kentucky.

Grad Sends Address of Three on "Lost" List

Alumni Are Urged to Send in Addresses of "Lost" Members

If all of the members of the Alumni Association were as active in sending in addresses for Alumni on our lost list, as a few of them are, we would have no trouble keeping up with the whereabouts of our alumni. The latest such aid is from Herbert Graham '16 of Lynbrook, L. L. who sends us the following:

"Joseph G. Dodge ex-'21 is advertising manager of the New Era and a director of the Huntover Press, Inc., holding corporation of several Long Island newspapers."

"William K. Dorman ex-'22, at one time with the Lexington Herald, is advertising manager of the Great Neck Resort and the Enterprise of Oyster Bay."

Richard H. Jenkins '15, attorney in New York is Police Justice of Malverne, a thriving Long Island village.

"The Hatchet," official publication of the student body of the George Washington University, is the largest of any college weekly publication in the United States, with a circulation of 5,500 copies.

Former U. K. Professor Dies in Milton, Wis.

Prof. A. R. Crandall, Instrumental in Establishing of University, Dies at His Home

Word of the death of Prof. A. R. Crandall, one of the associates of the late Dr. James K. Patterson in the establishment of the University of Kentucky, has come to John W. Gunn '90, of this city. In a letter to The Lexington Herald, Mr. Gunn says: "I recently heard that Prof. A. R. Crandall, one of the most learned professors of that noble group of men who assisted the late James K. Patterson in establishing and maintaining the State College of Kentucky, now the University of Kentucky, was still living at Milton, Wisconsin. I immediately wrote him a letter of congratulation in which I told him something of the present condition of the University, the growth of this city and the history of a number of his friends and former pupils.

"This letter reached him while he was in full possession of his faculties, just five days before he died. I received a reply from his daughter this week, saying that her father had received and enjoyed my letter. She adds that Professor Crandall taught in the University at Milton until 1918, since when he has been living there in retirement. He would have been 86 years of age in September. He was the sole survivor of that very able body of men which consisted of James K. Patterson, president, and Professor Robert Peter, R. M. Helveti, John H. Neville, John Shackelford, James G. White, Maurice Kirby and A. R. Crandall.

"He died Tuesday, January 12, at 8 p. m.

"Kentucky owes him much for his work in helping to establish and maintain the University; for his many years of teaching the sciences; for his great contributions to our knowledge of Kentucky's geology and for the untold good his influence exerted upon the hundreds of men and women, his former students, who will deeply regret his passing."

Professor Crandall will be remembered by many of the earlier graduates and former students as Professor of Natural History and Director of the Mechanical Shops.

DON'T FORGET K. E. A. DATES—APRIL 21 TO 24

William T. Capers, bishop of the Episcopal church, Diocese of West Texas, San Antonio, Texas, is in Lexington this week, taking part in the celebration of the 30th anniversary of the bishop of Lexington. Bishop Capers lives at 108 West French Place, San Antonio.

'12 The Woodford Sun of Versailles, Ky., says:

"A Washington special was received yesterday of the transfer of Captain Julian L. Pinkerton, formerly of Versailles, from the position of United States vice consul at Port Elizabeth, South Africa, to that of vice consul in the general consulate at Lisbon, Portugal."

"This is Captain Pinkerton's second promotion within three months. It carries an increase in salary. Another advantage is that Lisbon is 8,000 miles near Kentucky than Port Elizabeth."

Captain Pinkerton entered the consular service a few years ago, at Lisbon, in a secretarial capacity. After a year and a half he returned to Washington to take an examination which he passed with great credit.

MCVEY SPEAKS IN LOUISVILLE

Falls City Alumni Made Plans for Big Kentucky Educational Association Meeting in April

FUNKHOUSER TO SPEAK

The January meeting of the Louisville Alumni Association was one of the very best meetings held by the Association since its organization more than a year ago.

President McVeey was the principal speaker. He outlined to the Association the work the University had done in the past few years. He pointed out the increase in the student body, the expansion in various departments, the addition of extra faculty members and contrasted this with the small increase in buildings, class rooms and equipment. President McVeey pointed out some urgent needs of the University and told the Association what the University was asking from the present General Assembly. These things were of great interest to the Association, for many of the old students had no idea the rapid progress the University had been making in the past few years.

The Louisville Association will be honored by Doctor Funkhouser for the speaker on February 8. A very attractive program has been arranged for this meeting.

Plans are under way at the present time for a dance during the K. E. A., which will be held in Louisville during April. The Louisville Alumni Association want to have the best social affair this April that has ever been held during any K. E. A. Some entertainment will be provided for those who do not care to dance.

All former students and friends will be invited to the dance. The price will be very small—so small that all members attending the K. E. A. will want to come. From the present plans the dance will be held in the Crystal ballroom at the Brown Hotel. The University will have their headquarters at the Brown. The date of the dance will be announced several weeks before the K. E. A., in order for all to have ample time to make other arrangements so no conflicts will come for the dance. The new President, Mr. Schimpeler is determined to make Louisville the outstanding Alumni Association in the United States.

Any one who expects to attend the K. E. A. and wishes to make any suggestions for the entertainment during the week of the K. E. A., address Louisville Alumni Association, 417 Brown Building, Louisville, Ky. C. V. Watson, Secretary.

P. S. The Louisville Alumni Association meeting the first Saturday, in each month at The Elks Club, at one-fifteen. All former students are welcome.

He was then sent to an African port as vice consul. He has filled three posts in Africa and now returns to a highly desirable position in Lisbon, where he got his start.

Mrs. Harry G. Strum, formerly Miss Frances F. McGuire is living at Clarksburg, West Virginia, where Mr. Strum is county agricultural agent.

Mrs. W. H. Bockman, formerly Miss Ruth McChesney, and until recently on our "lost" list is now living at 917 Swan street.

Col. Robert A. Burton ex-'92 has been helpful to us in sending the address of William Henry Jones. "Professor Jones is living at 412 Tampa, Florida, and is engaged in the real estate business, and making good. He made a splendid record as a teacher in Bowling Green.

"I am very much interested in the Alumni Association, and at any time I can render a service command me without reserve.

Captain Stonewall Jackson is professor of Military Science and Tactics, Cornell University, Ithica, N. Y. He was formerly with the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga.

U. K. BANQUET—APRIL 22—LOUISVILLE, KY.

'15 Paul E. Dixon, formerly of Bowling Green, Ky., is now living at Tampa, Fla. He has formed a law partnership with Attorney Thomas A. Gilespe, formerly of Springfield, Ill., and will have offices at Simms Arcade, corner Florida avenue and Cass street.

Harry C. Williams should be addressed 6450 Drexel avenue, Chicago, Ill. He was formerly office manager of the Williams Coal Company, Mannington, Ky.

'16 William Lee Smith, formerly located in the Furniture building, Evansville, is now living at the Lincoln hotel, Indianapolis, Ind. Mail should be addressed to him at P. O. Box 648, Indianapolis.

'18 We are in receipt of the following from H. B. McGregor.

"This is the first time in the over seven years since graduation I have sent you any record. Have taught school four years, two at Buena Vista, one at Corbin, and one at Corydon, Iowa. I organized Corbin's first football team. A neighboring coach in Iowa said our Thanksgiving lineup would have made a clean sweep of the Southern Iowa championship. An injunction against our eligibility list was removed after five weeks investigation by the State Athletic board. In basketball for the first time Corydon won a tournament cup.

"I received gratifying appraisals of my classroom work, but this is getting too personal so must close."

'21 Charles R. Rodgers, who was a student at New York University, New York, last year is now at 112 23rd street, Jackson Heights, New York City.

John March Land, field engineer and clerk, is now living at Richmond, Kentucky.

Marcus D. Haley is a member of the fourth-year class in the School of Medicine, Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. He is living at 2003 Broad street, Nashville.

'22 Neil M. Wilkerson is now a sales engineer in the Industrial Department of the General Electric Company, Chicago, Ill.

Announcement has been received of the formation of a law partnership between Bailey B. Baxter and Henry H. Cole at Tampa, Fla. The firm name is given as Cole and Baxter.

Mr. Baxter practiced law in Lexington for two years and has been in Florida for a year.

Miss Edna Snapp has accepted a position with the Southwestern State hospital at San Antonio, Texas, with the social service department. Miss Snapp is now visiting her mother at Paris, Kentucky, for a short time, having recently resigned her position with the Indiana University hospital at Indianapolis.

'23 Harry E. Hoffman is living at 408 East Duval street, Jacksonville, Fla. His business address is 135 East Forsyth street.

'24 Wyatt Marion Insko, Jr., is teaching in the high school at Morgantown, West Va.

John B. Loftus writes us as follows: "Please change my address on your mailing list to Crane Company, 502 Broad street, Charleston, West Va. I was transferred from the Cincinnati, Ohio, branch to the Heating Department at the above named January 1, 1926." We are in receipt of the following from Mrs. Harry B. Waller, formerly Miss Eva May Wesley, "Please send my Kentucky Kernel to Glendale, Ariz., as I am giving up my work here and returning to Arizona on account of the illness of my sister.

"I am enjoying my work here very much, teaching home economics and managing the school cafeteria.

"I like the people here and hate to leave, but it seems best to do so. I will teach home economics in the high school at Glendale, Ariz., next semester, and be at home to help take care of my sister. Best wishes to all for the year 1926."

'25 Miss Mary Elizabeth Atkins is teaching home economics in the high school at Bowling Green, Ky.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Barnett is teaching English and Latin in the high school at Grove Center, Ky.

Miss Elizabeth Cromwell is visiting her sister at Central Oriente, Oriente, Cuba.
