UK Faculty Takes Six Fraternities Off Social Probation

The 24th annual First Regimental Drill Meet was termed the most successful thus far by PR Major Jack Wyatt.

Pershing Rifle cadets from John Carroll University, Cleveland, won first place in three divisions, entitling them to be Honor Company for the entire drill meet.

The University of Toledo was the runnerup Honor Company. UK placed second in the rifle competition and the highest individual scorer in the match was UK's Marshall W. Turner.

One of the main activities was the "Little Civil War," a traditional engagement between Ohio State's Union Squad and Kentucky's Confederate Squad. Each company gave demonstrations of the type of drill held in the 1860's, according to Union and Confederate militia manuals.

After the demonstration a mock battle was waged, uncontrolled except for safety precautions. The cadets, in Civil War uniforms and armed with muskets and cannons, reenacted the Civil War.

Ohio State won the trophy for the second consecutive year. According to an original agreement, they are entitled to keep it, but the present commander stated that Six fraternities were taken off social probation by a ruling passed by the University Faculty yesterday.

The Faculty approved a request made by the Interfraternity Council through the Committee on Student Activities that the academic requirements for fraternities be changed from the all-campus to the all-men's average.

Fraternities will not have to meet the all-campus standing until September, 1961.

Dean of Men Leslie L. Martin said last night that the Faculty approved the request to give "fraternities an opportunity to modify rushing procedures, pledging, and academic programs" before tightening the grade requirements.

Dave McLellan, IFC president, said the request was made to provide a chance to improve the fraternity system at UK. He termed the Faculty grant a "vote of confidence."

The postponement of the academic restriction for fraternities will provide two semesters to put the newly approved rushing procedure into practice.

The present ruling requiring the fraternities to meet the all-campus standing was put into effect last September. The campus average was 2.3.

Ten fraternities were placed on social probation as a result of the Faculty ruling that they equal the all-student average.

Fraternities removed from probation are Alpha Tau Omega, Kappa Sigma, Phi Gamma Delta, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Sigma Phi Epsilon, each with approximately a 2.2 standing.

Phi Delta Theta, 2.1; Sigma Chi, 2.0; Sigma Nu, 1.9; and Tau Kappa Epsilon, 1.8; will remain on probation.

Alpha Sigma Phi, which has left campus, would have been among those taken off probation. It had a 2.2 academic standing.

McLellan said IFC petitioned the Honors Day Program To Recognize 200

Winners of the Sullivan Medallions will be announced and more than 200 students will be honored for academic excellence at the annual Honors Day program today.

Dr. Charles E. Snow, professor of anthropology, will be presented the newly established "Distinguished Teacher Award" at the convocation at 10 a.m. in Memorial Hall.

The Sullivan Medallions will be presented to an outstanding man and woman of the graduating class by President Frank G. Dickey.

The recipients were selected because they have given "evidence of the possession of such characteristics of heart, mind, and conduct which evince a spirit of love for and helpfulness to other men and women."

The 200 honor students represent the upper three percent of their respective colleges.

Dr. Snow will receive a grant and speak to the convocation on "Higher Education and Race."

Chosen for the award by student members of the Honors Day committee, Dr. Snow is being recognized for distinction in classroom teaching and the successful use of television instruction in regular college classes.

A native of Boulder, Col., Dr. Snow received an A.B. degree from the University of Colorado, and his graduate degrees from Harvard University.

During World War II, Dr. Snow held important posts in the War

Faculty Delays Action On SC Constitution

By BOB ANDERSON
Kernel Managing Editor

Approval of Student Congress' new constitution was sidetracked again last Thursday when a Faculty committee delayed action on it.

Dr. Stephen Diachun, chairman of the Faculty Committee on Student Organizations, said the constitution "needed more study" and was being referred to a subcommittee.

Bob Wainscott, acting congress president, said yesterday, "The Faculty has not vetoed the constitution, they just haven't passed it yet."

Although Dr. Diachun said he thought "some parts (of the constitution) were unworkable," Wainscott expressed the hope that the document would pass the Faculty with no major changes.

Wainscott said parts of the constitution questioned by members of the Student Organizations Committee covered inequity, the representation clause paralleling that of the Faculty, faculty advisers, and student representation on Faculty committees.

No decisions were made at the Thursday meeting, Dr. Diachun said. He also emphasized that he was "in no position to speak for the committee."

Referring to the portion of the proposed constitution providing for student representation on Faculty committees, Dr. Diachun noted that UK President Frank G. Dickey approved of it and that he personally thought it was "a fine step forward."

Wainscott said members of the Student Congress Constitution Committee would work with the Faculty subcommittee of Graduate School Dean A. D. Kirwan, Dean of Women Doris Seward, and Dr. Virgil Christian.

The SC committee is also attempting to contact other members

UK Entry Is Third In Turtle Herd

By BILL NEIKIRK, Kernel Editor

After failures in basketball and football, UK has finally found its way back into the sports picture.

And it did it with a dollar and a competitor it had never seen.

Kentucky King, with odds against him of 100-1, placed third in the International Intercollegiate Turtle Derby at the University of Detroit last week.

The turtle finished behind entries from the University of Detroit and the University of Alaska.

Kentucky King was entered in the contest by the Student Union Board. The hard-nosed, hard-shelled reptile is of unknown parentage.

After being notified of the derby, the SU Board was given the chance to enter its own turtle or pay a dollar to have one entered.

Rather than search Botanical Gardens for a stray turtle, the board decided to pay the dollar.

Kentucky King came through nobly in the field of nearly 70 turtles.

The International Intercollegiate Turtle Derby was the last race of eight in the tournament. It is Detroit's big college weekend, similar to the Little Kentucky Derby here.

The story of the race received nationwide attention and will be featured in this week's issue of Sports Illustrated.

The SU Board will receive a trophy for the third-place showing soon, Mrs. B. B. Parks, SUB program director, said.

Kentucky King had to meet several stringent qualifications to be entered in the race, Mrs. Parks said.

He had to be green, approved by the American Turtle Club, be of minimum weight (.905 ounces) and under the maximum weight (1,010 pounds), be at least four hours old, not under the influence of stimulants, have four legs, and carry his house on his back.

Kentucky King also had to be freshly shaven.

Before the race, Kentucky King received a thorough checkup from the University of Detroit Biology Department to ascertain he was physically fit.

12 Will Be Honored At Pharmacy Banquet

The first annual Pharmacy School Honors Day Banquet will be held in the Lafayette Hotel at 6:30 p.m. today.

Twelve awards, including plaques, medals, and cash prizes, will be presented to outstanding pharmacy students. Awards will be given on the basis of scholarship, character, and contributions to the School of Pharmacy.

The Rev. Dr. Homer Vanderpool, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Ashland, Kentucky will speak on the topic "Line Up Your Ducks" a humorous speech he has delivered to several civic and student organizations.

The program will include songs by the "Stable Kings," a barber-shop quartet from the Versailles chapter of the SPEBQSA.

Honored guests at the banquet will be E. Crawford Meyer, president of the Kentucky Pharmaceutical Association, and two officers of the State Board of Pharmacy, J. Randolph Smith, president, and E. M. Josey, secretary.

Dr. Charles Walton, head of the Department of Meteria Medica in the School of Pharmacy, will preside at the banquet. About 150 people, including School of Pharmacy staff members and parents of students to be honored, are expected to attend.

Law Day Observance Held With Awards, Mock Trial

Louis Lusky, prominent civil rights attorney, was forced to cancel his speech at the UK Law Day observance Friday due to illness.

Prof. Jay W. Murphy of the College of Law spoke in place of Lusky at the morning convocation. His topic was "Criticism of the Supreme Court of the United States."

Murphy is a visiting professor of law from the University of Alabama and a noted authority on constitutional law.

Kenneth Kusch, Kenvir, president of the Student Bar Association, explained the purpose of law day to close to 150 people who attended the convocation in the Gignol Theatre at the Fine Arts Building.

Prof. Richard D. Gilliam Jr. presented the Westerfield-Bonte Publishing Co. award of a set of law books to each of the two law students who represented UK in the national moot court competition.

C. Dale Burchett, Gulnare, and Perry R. White Jr., Lexington, were the recipients of that award.

The head of the selection committee for the Louisville Title Insurance Co. presented plaques and checks for $50 to K. Sidney Neuman, Lexington, and Joseph B. Murphy, Campton, for winning the company's property abstract contest.

Neuman and William A. Logan, Brownsville, received plaques and checks for $50 from the Lawyer's Title Co., Richmond, Va., for achieving the best cumulative average in three property courses. The awards were presented by Jesse J. Dukeminier, professor of law.

A mock trial was held in the Lafferty Hall courtroom at 2 p.m. Friday. The case of the State v. Connie Contrite was heard by Robin Griffin, Lexington attorney.

Attorneys for the prosecution were James E. Prater, Hindman, and Henry Rupert Wilhoit Jr., Grayson. Defense attorneys were Burchett and John T. Bondurant, Lexington.

The trial was attended for the second year by students of the Fern Creek High School civics classes.

Some of the visiting students were jurors in the murder trial. Since the jurors could not agree unanimously on a decision, the panel was declared a hung jury.

Phi Delta Phi, international legal fraternity, presented two awards, one for oral advocacy, the other for outstanding contribution during the year to Phi Delta Phi, at a banquet that night.

Jude P. Zwick, Ashland, received the Harry McChesney Award and the A. B. McEwen Award was presented to Burchett.

A dance for all law students, faculty, staff, and their guests concluded the day's activities.

ANN EVANS ELECTED CWEN PRESIDENT

Ann Gordon Evans, Lexington, was elected president of Cwens, sophomore women's honorary, and installed last week at the annual initiation banquet.

Kathy Roper, Jasper, Ga., is the new vice president. The other elected officers were, Kitty Hundley, Lexington; and Patty Pringle, Greensboro, N. C.

Thirty-six freshmen women were initiated by the honorary. Cwens members are selected on basis of recognized potential leadership qualities, and maintenance of a 3.0 academic standing.

Second-Year Russian To Begin This Summer

For the first time during a summer semester at UK, students have an opportunity to take a second year Russian course.

Although the course is not listed in the summer schedule book, Robert P. Moore, Russian instructor, says the class will meet from 8:10-9:10 and from 10:30-11:30 Monday through Friday. It is Modern Foreign Language 261-262.

"The course is actually two semesters work," Moore said, "but I feel the chances are better for learning a foreign language during the summer semester because the student is not carrying so much other work."

"About half the time will be devoted to reading, the other half to grammar," Moore added. "The reading material will consist of selections from Russian literature and other non-literary work such as history and descriptions of present day Russia."

"By adding the second year to the summer schedule, students will be able to start the conversational course next fall," Moore stated.

Moore also said he hopes to arrange in the near future a gathering of all Russian students and others interested in the language to discuss the works of Russian literature and play some of the country's music.

He hopes to bring in someone who has traveled in Russia to show anyone interested slides about the country.

Moore encourages anyone interested in any course in Russian to come and talk with him at his office in Miller Hall.

'A Rushing Of Wings'

Phyllis Haddix and Doug Roberts rehearse a scene from the Guignol Players upcoming production.

Secret Rehearsals Held For 'A Rushing Of Wings'

By CHRISTA FINLEY

With degrees of secrecy and vagueness surrounding it, the premiere production of "A Rushing of Wings" is scheduled to open May 12.

Excluding the play's cast, there are very few people who seem to know much about the actual theme and setting of the play and they are hesitant to tell.

Ever since they began, rehearsals have been closed to anyone not directly associated with the play. Not even the playwright, Dr. Leary, assistant professor of English, has been allowed to attend.

One thing is certain, however, and that is the general feeling of enthusiasm and excitement shared by the cast members.

When the curtain opens Thursday night, it will open on a play which is one of the few original productions ever seen at UK and the first by a professional writer. If it is ever published and produced elsewhere, the UK cast's names will appear as the original cast.

One of the two plays given as the drama contribution to UK's Fine Arts Festival, "A Rushing of Wings," will be produced by the Guignol Players and directed by Charles Dickens, English instructor and director of the Lab Theatre.

Since rehearsals began, it has often been necessary to change parts of the play.

Dickens commented that besides changing the entire final scene, "there have been a number of things rewritten and even at one of the dress rehearsals, some of the lines were cut for dramatic expediency."

He feels that one of the most interesting things about doing a new script is that it is a test of your own theater knowledge, because in every new script the director feels certain things should be added, cut out, or modified.

"This, of course, tests your own literary judgment, your ability to know what the actors can handle, and your opinion of what the audience will be interested in," he said.

Most of the actors agree their particular roles are very demanding and yet they feel that it is a stimulating experience to know they are playing a part that has never been done before.

Those with the leading roles also agree that their parts are very complex and the most difficult they've ever done.

According to Doug Roberts, "acting a part that hasn't been tried before can be more benefiting in a creative vein to an actor."

His opinion of the play is that it is an enlightening piece of theater not only for actors and immediate personnel, but should prove to be so to the audience.

One of the most significant things to Linda Rue, is "the exciting experience of working in a play when you know that the author will be sitting in the audience opening night."

She commented that it was "a comforting experience to be able to discuss the play with the playwright, and at the same time a frightening experience to know that he will be viewing my performance in the role he created."

Of the play, Phyllis Haddix said, "the lines are incredibly beautiful. The actors have worked very hard and have great faith in Dr. Leary and in his play."

The role of Maria Tuminella, a 17-year-old daughter of an immigrant Italian factory worker, was written especially for Phyllis.

According to Dr. Leary, "Phyllis is not only a fine actress, but has unusual quality in her face and speech which any writer would want to try to capture."

The theme of the play concerns the "duality of truth" as shown in the role of Maria. Dickens called it, "the story of how a young girl's awakening to passion starts a controversy about the real nature of truth."

The members of the cast were selected by Dickens after private readings. They are Jim Sloan, Linda Rue, Doug Roberts, Phyllis Haddix, Paul Richard Jones, Sarah Milward, and Linda Crouch. George Smith is in charge of the lighting.

UK Arts Festival Offers Wide Variety

The UK Fine Arts Festival opened Sunday with an exhibition of paintings in the Art Gallery of the Fine Arts Building.

The festival will include two solo ensemble recitals by University students at 2 p.m. today in the Guignol Theatre; music by faculty composers at 4 p.m. on May 15 in Memorial Hall; and music by student composers at 2 p.m. on May 17, in the Laboratory Theatre of the Fine Arts Building.

The University Symphonic Band, Orchestra, and Choral Organizations directed by Bernard Fitzgerald, with guest soloist and conductor, Percy Grainger, will present a concert May 22, in the Memorial Coliseum.

Readings of poetry by faculty members, Robert Hazel, Dr. Paris Leary, Dr. G. T. Wright, and Keith Wright, all of the English Department, will be held in the Fine Arts Music Lounge at 8 p.m. today.

Two dramatic presentations are included in the festival. "A Rushing of Wings" will be presented in the Laboratory Theatre at 8:30 p.m., May 12-14, and "Ah Wilderness" will be presented at 8:30 p.m., May 18-21.

A collection of photographs by William Bayer is on display in the Fine Arts Building now as part of the festival.

The paintings in the art exhibit are on loan from the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum in New York.

The collection represents most of the important artists at the beginning of the present century, such as Klee, Feininger, Kokoschka, and Marc, of the Germanic countries; Kadinsky, Picasso, Gleizes, and Metzinger, the latter three representing Cuba.

There are also pictures by Leger, Delaunay, Modigliani, and a small pastel by Miro. To represent the "younger" generation there are pictures by the French painters Raoul Ubac and Jean Deyrolle.

Wait For An Injury

After the Delta Tau Delta hazing incident two weeks ago, fraternity members have cried "discrimination, discrimination" because other campus organizations were breaking the campus hazing rules and escaping without any punishment whatsoever from the dean of men.

Those sympathetic with the Delts were going off half-cocked and saying the fraternity got a "dirty deal" from the Dean of Men's Office simply because other nonfraternal organizations were practicing hazing without punishment. Many said it was unfortunate that DTD had to be the fraternity to get caught.

No matter how much discrimination, no matter how many other organizations are escaping, we can't muster up enough sympathy or pity for the Delts to agree that their punishment was too harsh. Hazing is simply too dangerous to go unpunished, even if it reflects discreditably on the Delts and on the fraternity system.

The issue should not be discrimination, but whether UK rules should be enforced before an injury occurs or after. As it was in the Delt incident, the Dean of Men's Office did not act (and could not because of a lack of knowledge about it) until after a pledge had to be hospitalized.

If any other campus organization—military, athletic, or honorary—had to have a pledge hospitalized, we feel sure it would have received just as harsh a punishment as the Delts.

Advice For Advisers

With hopes of allaying the confusion of last semester's preclassification, the Registrar's Office instituted another plan this week that could, if followed to the letter by students, be workable.

And last semester's maelstrom should be avoided if a new preclassification system has to be devised every semester. When the period for registering had ended, 2,000 students still were without class schedules. That was almost one third of the student body.

Much of the criticism for this was laid directly upon the students for not following directions and upon the registrar for setting up such a plan anyway. Most of the criticism was unwarranted.

But not so much attention was paid to the crackup in the advisory system. Many UK student advisers simply weren't familiar with all the phases of the preclassification plan and were just as confused as most of the students.

This was not as much the fault of the UK administration as it was the system. The line of communication between them was poor indeed during preclassification. How could

The sad and inefficient part of the hazing rule is that it is never enforced before someone is hospitalized.

The Interfraternity Council is now investigating and attempting to discover how the hazing rule should be interpreted and how much actual hazing is being practiced on campus. UK's rules merely say, "hazing in any form is prohibited." No one seems to know what "in any form" means.

One nonfraternal organization, the K-Club, has agreed that it has violated the UK rule. The K-Club president said last week that informal initiations were very rough, although they have been "lighter" in the past year or so. A K-Club member admitted that he had to go through a long paddle line and had to kill a goldfish with his teeth.

Yet this primitive sort of punishment is being allowed to go unpunished because no injury has resulted. Enforcement of the rule is so bad for the K-Club, for instance, that the adviser is not even present for the informal initiations in the Coliseum, though he certainly must have been aware of what was going on.

The same holds true for other organizations. Hazing is always held behind closed doors, where there are no faculty advisers and no one to enforce UK rules against it.

We despise the fraternities' cries of discrimination just as much as we despise the K-Club's and other groups' animalistic informal initiation ceremonies and the University's failure to act until someone is badly hurt.

students be familiar with the plan if their own advisers were not well versed in all the steps of it?

Once the administration decides upon a preclassification program that is the least evil and least disgusting (there has never really been a satisfactory registration system), it should make an effort to inform all student advisers of the procedures either by means of a printed booklet, a convocation, or perhaps by staff bulletin.

Under the old registration system, the rules for classifying were listed in the front of the schedule book. Since preclassification now has yet to be made permanent and has been changed in several ways, no longer do the schedule books have the rules listed.

We believe a booklet, pamphlet, or some other method of communicating the preclassification system to the advisers is almost compulsory because of its complexity. If there is not any effort made to do so, we can expect another semester like the last in which 2,000 students were left stranded in postclassification lines.

Or else, we can go for 3,000 next time.

More Atomic Training

To The Editor:

To Larry R. Strong:

It is amazing how a person can go through life with a great talent and potential, yet never realize that he possesses it.

I have so much more hope of success now that my dramatic abilities have been brought to light by the eminent drama critic Larry Strong.

Mr. Strong, with the insight and genius of Cecil B. DeMille, has created a series of roles that when slapped into one dazzling script would rival the greatest movie ever produced, "The Horn Blows at Midnight."

Doubtless, Mr. Strong has developed a great love and passion for the affirmative qualities of ROTC. This poor soul has found a cause to give his little heart to, and we be unto those who deprecate it by pointing out its incompetencies.

My point in the article, so dramatically analyzed, was just this: that ROTC, in the age of nuclear armament, is operating on an outdated plan of instruction.

In Mr. Strong's innocuous rambles, he either didn't deduce this or failed to accept it as important.

How will learning to keep in step, to go "hup, ho, yer left-raht-leyuff," help a soldier in an atomic attack?

Mr. Strong stated that drill maintains dignity, enables a company to keep in step, gives one bearing and pride, and therefore is of essential and prime value.

Now, that is all well and good if you are going to strut jauntily down the avenue or across the fields like a bunch of boy scouts on a hike.

How are dignity and pride going to hold up in the face of nuclear threats? These things are idealistic trivialities. We must have concrete and factual answers to the problem.

Admittedly some specific points of importance are found in the aerospace science program. They give introductory information on the latest missiles and aircraft.

Information such as this, in both the introductory and advanced stages, is of the type that should be emphasized. If more time were spent on instruction on material such as this, the services might be regarded in a higher light.

This would promote real dignity; something which is sadly lacking as evidenced by the kindergarten type squabbles between the services lately.

Perhaps Mr. Strong can specifically cite the concrete validity of maintaining these useless impediments (drill and boot polishing).

I can't; I've only served three years in the service. I haven't had the advantage of enlightenment offered by ROTC.

Until then, I shall endeavor to concentrate on my new found dramatic ability. I will leave the diaper-inspecting to Mr. Strong.

Trouble In The Zoo

The Hiccuping Python

You think you've got troubles? How'd you like to be curator of New York's Bronx Zoo, with a hiccuping python and a misogynist tiger on their hands.

Spring is the time for budding romance and expectant motherhood in the Bronx zoo. But something went wrong. The mother python, after laying a clutch of 40 seven-ounce eggs, curled herself around them—and promptly started to hiccup. Humans are usually advised to stop a hiccuping spell by swallowing water and then holding the breath; or by having someone suddenly scare them.

But how do you scare a python, or make it hold its breath?

The case of the misogynist tiger was even more serious. His name is Lai. He had been "hand-raised"; liked to have his keeper rub his head between the ears, and on occasion would even purr like a tabby. Dacca, the lady, was also born in captivity, and a friendly creature.

Dacca and Lai were put in adjoining cages to nurture romance. But when the door between was opened to facilitate consummation, Lai leaped at Dacca's throat. She fought to defend herself, but keepers had to use poles and cold water to prevent a fight to the death.

Lai is being sold to some other zoo. But that still leaves the problem of the lady python's marathon hiccuping. Life is getting more complicated all the time. Even in a zoo.—The Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch.

Coed Shapes Art Form

By JAN BERRYMAN

Carolyn Kelley, junior topical major, says the sculpture she's now carving shows the complementary intersection of dancers.

This semester Carolyn is taking advanced design. This class is to develop creative capabilities in students who have shown outstanding work in previous required sculpture courses.

In her beginning sculpture class Carolyn carved a five foot column of cherry wood which was displayed in the student exhibition last spring.

The flat surfaces of the sculpture retain the smooth-rectangular shape of the column, while the series of sliced concavities arranged in a spiral movement upward show the texture of the cutting instrument.

Carolyn's sculpture this semester is an invention for her. The problem involves two positive shapes and the negative shape of the space in between.

The two pieces are made of different wood—one piece being of red oak, the other of black walnut. They are related by the similarity shape. They echo and play complementary form one against the other. When touching, the two pieces fit together.

This sort of exactness in carving takes much patience.

According to Raymond Barnhart, professor of art, Carolyn has much integrity and ability to take instructions. She puts much into her work.

Most students successful in the creative arts are generally successful students. Carolyn has a 3.2 overall standing at the University.

Carolyn has been taking art courses regularly since junior high school in Charleston, W. Va. She continued courses at Parkersburg High School in Parkersburg, W. Va.

While at UK, Carolyn's extra-curricular activities relate closely to her art training. She is a member of the Publicity Committee of the Student Union Board.

At present, Carolyn is making plans for this year's displays.

After college, Carolyn plans to go into the field of advertising design.

Summer Fun? . . . No Sir! UK Coeds Choose Work

By EMAJO COCANOUGH

Along with writing term papers, cramming for last-minute exams, going to the races, and getting sun tans, UK coeds are making plans for the summer.

Many are planning to attend summer school here or at other colleges, while others are hoping to enjoy at least one more care-free summer.

But some coeds are planning to work this summer, and many have already found jobs.

Peggy Brumleve, junior English major from Louisville, plans to work in the purchasing department of DuPont, Inc. Her job is part of the college employment plan for sons and daughters of employees.

Sophomore music major Linda Lietz is going to be an elevator operator for a large department store in Chicago.

Ruth Ann Shepherd, elementary education major from Winchester, plans to work at Cumberland Falls State Park.

Elizabeth May is planning to work in an architect's office in Prestonsburg where she will do some drafting work. She is a

Math major Cecily Sparks will serve as a technical assistant in the Bell Telephone Laboratory in Whippany, N. J.

Pat Greene will be a summer missionary in Michigan as a representative of the Baptist Student Unions of Kentucky. She is a junior elementary education major.

Gayle Glashagel, junior physical education major, has a counseling job for a speech and hearing clinic to be conducted at Penn State.

Sociology major Judy Hamilton will be the water-front director at a YWCA camp at Versailles.

Carolyn Cox, junior from Frankfort, plans to be a secretary in the State Highway Department.

Earrings Pinch?

If you've been annoyed by earrings that pinch, this should be of interest. The latest type fastens with magnetism rather than screws, wires, or clips. A small magnetic disc is placed behind the ear lobe with the earring in front. When not in use, both parts are placed on a magnet to renew their some attracting force.

UK Male Views Weddings

By BILL TWAY

June is not far off and along with baseball, picnics, and swimming, we hear the familiar sound of wedding bells.

While most of us are in college we are sure to see some of our close friends walking down the aisle. This also means that some of us will take part in a wedding, or two, or even as many as four during the summer.

Weddings are basically the same, but small town weddings have a particular significance.

Almost everyone knows everyone else and this can bring about a problem—who to invite and who not to invite. Regardless of where you draw the line, there will always be someone with their feelings hurt. Of course, you can always have a very small wedding and avoid the problem.

Being an usher in a small town wedding is always amusing. There are elderly ladies who are invited to most weddings and wouldn't miss any of them.

If you happen to be an out-of-town usher and by chance have to usher an elderly lady into the church, she might ask in amazement, "Well, who in the world are you?" If this happens, just hold your breath and place her in the nearest seat.

Small town weddings are notorious for the tricks played on the bride and bridegroom. Several nights before the wedding it is customary for the bridegroom to have a bachelor dinner, this offers a perfect occasion for embarrassing tricks.

Taking part in a wedding as a bridesmaid or an usher isn't really too bad. There are times when your job is to help either the bride or bridegroom from becoming too nervous.

It all sums up to information for future reference. You might even need moral support someday.

Faculty Acts

Faculty to have the requirement lifted after consideration of the number of social activities and events in which the fraternities are asked to participate.

And now that they have been granted an interim they are "endeavoring to increase fraternity scholarship to meet the all-campus average when the extension is ended.

Dean Martin earlier attributed the large percentage of probations to the higher standard, not lower fraternity standings.

Before the 1959-60 fall semester, fraternities had to meet only the all-men's average, but a Faculty ruling forced them to meet the all-student's average.

When the women's averages were included in the qualifications, the standard jumped to 2.3 and only nine fraternities remained off the probation list.

Under the previous ruling, Alpha Gamma Rho, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Farmhouse, Delta Tau Delta, Kappa Alpha, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Kappa Tau, Phi Sigma Kappa, and Triangle were the only fraternities which could legally hold social events with outsiders invited. Fraternities on probation are permitted to hold their annual spring formals with permission from the Dean of Men's Office.

Advice By Eva Gabor Interests UK Femme

By KATHY LEWIS

After reading Hal Boyle's interview with Eva Gabor, I'm beginning to wonder if maybe American women are going about things the wrong way.

Miss Gabor feels that a woman should always look feminine. Many of us spend hours in the sun trying to achieve a look which, in her opinion, is extremely unfeminine.

According to Miss Gabor, a woman should always wear a hat and never take off her gloves, because they add to her glamour.

She should never wear low-heeled shoes. To quote Miss Gabor, "It's better for a girl to go barefooted." She says that flowers are for vases, and corsages make a woman look like a "circus horse."

She believes that American women generally dress well, but they make a mistake in dressing for each other rather than for men. If this were not true, why was the chemise so popular a couple of years ago? I certainly never heard and man say he liked this style. We also wear flats when we know that most men literally hate them.

Of course many of Eva Gabor's suggestions are a bit extreme and impractical for college coeds. I certainly can't imagine walking to class attired in a cocktail dress, heels, gloves, and a hat.

However, the basis for her opinions should not be overlooked. . . . a woman should look and act as feminine as possible according to her particular circumstances.

Become Your 'Real Self'

By ANNE WRIGHT

Distinction is a quality that many strive for but few achieve. This seems strange when one stops to think that each of us is different. On top of our uniqueness, however, are imposed layers upon layers of conventions in behavior, dress, make-up, and so on until we come to resemble each other superficially more and more.

To gain individuality, then, is not a matter of adding, but of stripping away the camouflage until the real person is revealed. It is this misunderstanding of the approach which, I think, makes true individuality so rare.

Being your "real self" is not easy. The girl in her teens customarily goes through a period of imitating one idol or another.

Being yourself takes both experience and courage. This is the reason why a woman is usually considered to be at her best during her 20's and early 30's. At this time, she is old enough to know herself, and young enough to make the most of it.

Barring such obviously disagreeable traits as aggressiveness, cattiness, argumentativeness, and unreliability, there is no personality type which cannot be attractive.

Rupert's Condition Indefinite As Net Team Meets Vols

Kentucky's tennis team will leave for Knoxville today where they will meet Tennessee's Volunteers tomorrow.

UK's hopes will be riding on the rackets of No. 1 man Cal Barwick and No. 2 man Don Sebolt. Backing up these two senior racketmen will be Don Dreyfuss, Dick Thomas, Bill Dailey, and Tom Lantz.

The condition of senior George Rupert is still indefinite and it is not known whether he will be able to compete. Rupert has missed the past several matches because of a recurrent foot injury.

Rupert had played in the No. 3 spot for the Cats and had a singles record for the year of 9-3. Rupert combined with Dreyfuss to form UK's top doubles combination.

Kentucky was scheduled to play Dayton yesterday on the Coliseum Courts, but Dayton was delayed in making their appearance and nothing definite concerning the match was available at press time.

The UK net squad lost twice on the road last weekend.

It dropped an 8-0 verdict to Vanderbilt Friday at Nashville and then fell, 6-1, to Western Kentucky at Bowling Green Saturday.

Coach Moore's men played without the services of No. 3 man Rupert and No. 4 man Dreyfuss. Rupert was out with a foot injury and Dreyfuss was taking a medical school exam.

With Rupert and Dreyfuss out of action, Coach Moore was forced to forfeit one singles match to Vanderbilt as Southeastern Conference rules call for six singles matches to be played for a complete team match.

Coach Moore surrendered the No. 3 singles match due to the loss of Rupert. He then moved his No. 4, 5, and 6 men up one position to play out the match.

The No. 3 singles win went to Vandy's Ted Duncan by virtue of the forfeit.

In the No. 1 singles, Julian Carr defeated UK's Barwick, 6-0, 6-3. Hugh McClellan took the No. 2 match by winning over Sebolt, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Dailey, playing in the No. 4 slot for Kentucky, dropped his match to Paul Young, 6-1, 6-1. Vandy's Ron Spevack took the No. 5 singles, 6-1, 6-2. Chris Cattrell rounded out Vandy's sweep of the singles, 6-1, 6-0, over Thomas.

In the No. 1 singles, Julian Carr defeated Barwick and Sebolt, 6-1, 6-3. Hugh McClellan took the No. 2 defeated Dailey and Thomas, 6-0, 6-1.

At Bowling Green, the Kentuckians dropped a 6-1 verdict. Here, SEC rules did not apply and only five singles matches were played with no forfeits as Western played with only five singles men.

UK's only win of the day came in the No. 1 doubles match as Barwick and Sebolt defeated Don Meyer and Dan Day.

In the singles, Western's Meyer conquered Barwick, 6-2, 6-3; Bill Pedigo surpassed Sebolt, 6-0, 6-2; Day overcame Dailey, 6-1, 6-0; Don Traugbner topped Lantz, 6-1, 6-2; and Hank Horlander vanquished Thomas, 6-2, 6-0.

In the No. 2 doubles, Western's McClellan and Spevack defeated Dailey and Thomas, 6-0, 6-1.

Lloyd Misses No-Hitter, But Cats Win, 3-1

By STEWART HEDGER

Charlie Lloyd came within one pitch of a pitcher's dream, a no-hitter, but had to settle for a two-hit, 3-1 victory Friday as Kentucky defeated Vanderbilt at the Sports Center.

Lloyd pitched no-hit ball until two outs in the ninth. Then shortstop Harry Moodie worked him to a 3-2 count and popped a Texas League single which fell just beyond the reach of three hard-running Kentucky defenders.

Shortstop Parsons, leftfielder Ron Bertsch, and centerfielder Mike Howell converged on the ball, but no one could make the play.

On the preceding pitch, Moodie had popped a foul behind first which fell just beyond the glove of first baseman Lowell Hughes who made a fine effort trying to catch the ball for the vital third out.

Channing Workman followed Moodie to the plate and blasted a clean single to center to put the tying runs on base for Vanderbilt. Lloyd settled down to strike out Tom Samuels to end the rally and the game.

Despite the disappointment, Lloyd set one new Kentucky pitching record, tied another, and helped Wildcat hurlers to set a new team record.

Lloyd's appearance in the game was his 13th of the season. This surpassed the old record of 12 held jointly by Ray Mignerey (1949), Jim Host (1959), and Jerry Sharp (1959).

By winning, Lloyd ran his season record to 7-2 and tied Mignerey's record for the most wins in one season by a UK hurler. Mignerey won seven in 1949.

The righthanded junior-college transfer struck out 12 batters to run the UK team mark for the season to 187. The old record was held by the 1959 mound corps who struck out 185.

Pitching almost perfect baseball, Lloyd allowed only four men to reach base before the ninth. All four reached base by bases on balls.

Prior to the ninth inning, Vanderbilt did not leave a man on base and Lloyd had pitched to only 25 men—only one over the minimum.

Moodie was a thorn in Lloyd's side all day as he reached base on three of his four trips to the plate and was the only Vanderbilt runner to get past second base.

Moodie scored the only Commodore run when he led off the fourth inning with a base on balls, went to second on a wild pitch, took third on a fly ball by Workman, and came home when catcher Bob Linkner let rightfielder Bobbie Newsome's throw get past him after Samuels fled out.

Moodie also led off the game with a base on balls, but was picked off first when Lloyd caught him leaning in the wrong direction.

Kentucky scored in the first inning to take a 1-0 lead. Parsons led off with a double and Ken Beard walked. Bertsch hit a wind-blown fly which the rightfielder dropped. Bertsch reached first and Parsons took third, but Beard, forced to hold up to see if the ball would be caught, was forced at second.

MIKE HOWELL

No-Hitter Pitched By Mike Howell

Mike Howell pitched the second no-hitter in UK baseball history yesterday as Kentucky defeated Centre, 7-0, at Danville.

Howell faced only 33 batters over the nine-inning route and struck out 16. He finished in spectacular style as he struck out the side in the ninth inning.

Only six men reached base off the Port Chester, N. Y., southpaw. He walked five and his defenders committed one error behind him.

Only three Centre batters were able to drive a ball out of the infield off Howell. The entire game was played in a drizzling rain.

Howell, known to his teammates as "Duke" because of his admiration of Duke Snider and the Los Angeles Dodgers, moved his season record to 4-1. Last year his record was 3-0.

Dick Parsons led Kentucky's plate attack with a single and a triple. The Wildcats season record is now 17-8.

The only other no-hitter ever pitched by a UK pitcher was thrown last year by lefthander Jerry Sharp against Tennessee.

Conner bounced a ball back to the mound, but when the throw to first got past the first baseman, Bertsch scored.

Bertsch scored UK's second run in the third after being walked, going to second on a ground ball, taking third on a wild pitch, and coming home on Mike Howell's grounder to short. Bertsch was tagged out, but catcher Smith dropped the ball.

UK's third run was unearned as were all runs in the game. Beard walked in the seventh, went to second on a fielder's choice, and scored when Moodie threw wildly past first on a ball hit by Howell.

The two teams were scheduled to meet again in a Saturday double-header which was called because of rain.

Kentucky's hopes for a possible tie for first place in the Eastern Division of the Southeastern Conference were eliminated by the rainout.

Kentucky's SEC record stands at 9-7.

EUROPE MADE SIMPLE: No. 1

Summer vacation is just around the corner, and naturally all of you are going to Europe. Perhaps I can offer a handy tip or two. (I must confess I have never been to Europe myself, but I eat a lot of Scotch broth and French dressing, so I am not entirely without qualification.)

First let me say that no trip to Europe is complete without a visit to England—Scotland, Wales, Ireland, France, Germany, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Lichtenstein, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Luxembourg, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Finland, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Russia, Greece, Yugoslavia, Albania, Crete, Sardinia, Sicily, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Lapland, and Andorra.

Let us take up these countries in order. First, England. The capital of England is London—or Liverpool, as it is sometimes called. There are many interesting things to see in London—chiefly, the changing of the guards. The guards are changed daily. The old ones are thrown away.

Another "must" while in London is a visit to Buckingham Palace. Frequently in the afternoons Her Majesty the Queen comes out on the balcony of the palace and waves to her loyal subjects below. The loyal subjects wave back at the Queen. However, they only continue to wave as long as Her Majesty is waving. This of course is the origin of wave lengths from which we have derived numerous benefits including radio, television and the A&P Gypsies.

Be sure also when you are in London to visit the palace of the Duke of Marlborough. Marlborough is spelled Marlborough, but pronounced Marlboro. English spelling is very quaint but terribly disorganized. The late George Bernard Shaw, author of Jo's Boys, fought all his life to simplify English spelling. He once asked a friend, "What does g-h-o-t-i spell?" The friend pondered a bit and replied, "Goatee." Shaw sniggered. "Pshaw," said Shaw. "G-h-o-t-i does not spell goatee. It spells fish. Gh as in enough, o as in women, ti as in motion."

It must be remembered, however, that Shaw was a vegetarian—which, all in all, was probably a good thing. As Disraeli once remarked to Guy Fawkes, "If Shaw were not a vegetarian, no lamb chop in London would be safe."

But I digress. We were speaking of the palace of the Duke of Marlborough—or Marlboro, as it is called in the United States. It is called Marlboro by every smoker who knows flavor did not go out when filters came in. Be sure you are well supplied with Marlboros when you make your trip abroad. After a long, tiring day of sightseeing, there is nothing so welcome as a fine, flavorful Marlboro and a foot bath with hot Epsom salts.

Epsom salts can be obtained in England at Epsom Downs. Kensington salts can be obtained at Kensington Gardens, Albert salts can be obtained at Albert Hall, Hyde salts can be obtained at Hyde Park, and the crown jewels can be obtained at the Tower of London.

Well sir, now you know all you need to know about England. Next week we will visit the Land of the Midnight Sun—France.

And you also know all you need to know about smoking: Marlboro, if you want the best of the filter cigarettes—Philip Morris if you want the best of the unfiltered cigarettes.

of the Faculty committee to explain the constitution to them.

The delay could also upset plans to have a congress election under the new constitution next fall, Wainscott declared. There has been no date set for another meeting of the Committee on Student Organizations.

Dr. Diachun expressed the belief that the Faculty subcommittee would work as quickly as the congress committee desires and could possibly meet before the end of the semester.

It could also be possible, Dr. Diachun said, for the committee to meet during the summer. The full Faculty will not meet this summer unless a special meeting is called by President Dickey or by a written request of 10 Faculty members.

Wainscott said the congress will continue to meet and operate under the old constitution until the new one is approved.

Senior representatives who will graduate before the new constitution receives Faculty approval will be replaced under procedures provided for under the old constitution, Wainscott said.

That constitution did not provide for filling vacancies created by resignation or a representative's leaving the University for any reason.

The last instance of filling such a vacancy was February, 1959, when an Arts and Sciences seat was vacated between semesters.

Arts and Sciences Dean M. M. White then named three candidates and SC President Pete Perlman selected one to fill the seat.

Wainscott said the congress would meet next Monday to set up the Student Directory and K-Book committees and study the student insurance plan instituted by the congress last fall.
