A Wave of Examinations Will Soon Sweep Over The Students

It Will Be A Serious Blunder If NYA Is Abolished By U.S.

If NYA is as one of us at one time thought it would be a serious blunder. Our leaders may think that they would help the war effort in eliminating the NYA, but in my opinion this action would show that they have a distorted sense of values.

He Was Willing To Take Jolt If It Set Others Straight

ON THE COLLEGE FRONT By JIMMY HURT
One of the Duke professors was hailed into court for violating the blackout regulations. But the fine was suspended because the judge found "in his own mind to violate the law."

THEY STUDY THE ART OF BEING HOSTESSES

"How to Entertain Soldiers on Leave" is the subject studied by group of Los Angeles City College. Known as junior hostesses, the group consists of 40 young business women and college girls ranging in age from 18 to 27.

PROBLEM OF CATALOGUES IS SOLVED AT SMU

Southern Methodist University has rallied to the paper shortage with an entirely new plan for 1942-43 catalogues. Instead of the usual comprehensive edition containing information about every college on the campus, each school is now placed in a separate booklet of about 30 pages.

QUOTES FROM CLASSICS

Today's classical quotation is again from Shakespeare this time "Julius Caesar."
"I come to bury Caesar, not to praise him."
The evil which men do lives after them.

Bottle Desire Grows From Infancy

By HAROLD WINN
Uncle Slug's desire to stop off at the corner for a short one is just a natural craving for a bottle carried over from the three-cornered pants stage, says a Boston psychiatrist who has made quite an extensive search about these bottle babies commonly called "drunks."

"I Believe In National Defense Against—"

"National defense" has been on the lips of every American for several years now, and the consensus of opinion seems to have been that the defense was made up of scrap iron, old papers, big battleships, and high explosives. President William Lindsay Young of Park college gives an entirely different conception of the matter. He says:
"I believe in National Defense against racial antagonisms, which weaken that social solidarity essential to a healthy nation."

Journalists Die Young

The typographical error is a slippery thing and sly. You can hunt till you are dizzy, but it somehow will get by. I believe in National Defense against State coercion of the individual's conscience, because such coercion destroys the character foundation of our nation.
I believe in National Defense against those who use patriotism as a cloak in order to reap profits from the present tragic world suffering.
I believe in National Defense against an economic system which lacks sufficient opportunity for the young, makes possible an army of millions of unemployed, and lacks adequate security for the old.

By Their Names You Will Know Them Nameplates Show Imagination

Did you ever stop to wonder where student newspapers get their names? We got to thinking about it the other day, so we started looking through the more than 50 papers that come into the office every week. By putting two and two together we got four that seemed satisfactory.

The first one we saw was The Kernel, and that appeared rather simple. The first thing one thinks of when Kentucky is mentioned is a white-coated Kentucky colonel sipping a mint julep. But the students who were choosing the name must have thought that a title like that would not exactly fit a student newspaper, but it sounded so wonderful. Thus The Kernel was probably born, keeping the sound of dignity and the look of choice bits of news.

Our next door neighbor, Transylvania, has a student paper called The Crimson Rambler. Crimson is the school color and lends brightness to the title. Then there is a rose called the crimson rambler because of its method of climbing all over the fences and prying into open windows, so it all seems logical.

Moving out of state we find the Arkansas Traveler from the University of Arkansas. Many students nowadays don't remember, but "The Arkansas Traveler" was a famous dance tune in our grandmothers' day, when the whole community gathered at the old schoolhouse about twice a year for a long evening's frolic.

To the east of Kentucky is George Washington University, and the name of its paper is The Hatchet. It did not take us long to figure that one out, but we immediately came upon a double meaning. Reckon they give the ax to anyone who gets in their way?

The name bestowed upon the athletic teams of Clemson college paved the way for a nameplate. The Tiger is met both on the sports field and in the journalism field. The Gamecock of the University of South Carolina is another which uses its fighting name in sports and intellectual matters. Now we wonder how the South Carolinians came to be called the Gamecocks.

Shades of Daniel Boone and a thousand other pioneers fall across The Trail Blazer of Morehead State Teachers college. They wish to light the way for new ideas on the campus and in student journalism.

Wabash college wants the world to make no mistake about who runs things around their newspaper, so they come out with The Bachelor spread in boldface type across the top of the front page.
Every one has heard of an emery wheel that is used to sharpen hatchets and hoes and other farm implements. The Emory Wheel we are thinking of is the one that is used to sharpen the wits of the students at Emory college. It is said to grind exceedingly small.

We Hit An Embarrassing Situation

THE FREE LANCE By BOB WARTH
While meditating from time to time to infer to another merely be the positive recognition from the time upon that Ultimate in Vir- cause the pigment of his skin is a government that it needs to be a "positivity" that Pinnacle of Excellence, triple darker or yellower as the case may be. In fact, we would much mean that there has been, so far as Right, Just, and Good—the Amer- icaner associate with a man like we know, no official acts—legisla- Richard Wright or, indeed nine-tenths of the student on this campus or, indeed nine-tenths of the faculty members, everywhere, has sought to glorify its own culture, character, and ideology at the expense of all other nations. This, unfortunately, is a necessary corollary to a feeling of national pride—how else may a nation build up its own ego than by using other peoples as a measuring rod? That is not to condemn wholesale all mani- festations of patriotic pride which are many times justifiable, but such sentiments grade from the innoc- ent superiority of Americans as a people to the "racial" group. However, as everyone knows, there have been numerous actions, such as, to name a few, the "grandfather clause" and poll taxes in the South which have effectively disfranchised the Negro, the discriminatory exclusion of Orientals from citizenship, the immigration laws, and various Supreme Court decisions which have upheld on technical grounds of Federal, state, and local statutes. These are the official ones only, as we have said. There remains a host of unofficial dogmas, coun- ter-traditions, intangible prejudices, and open discriminations which run the gamut from the ignorant, but brawling mob to the hoary dicta- tor that the President of the United States must be white, non-Semitic, and a Republican. The primary difference being that the safe Protestant.

Exhibit Of Paintings, Prints Runs Gamut Of Techniques

Painting and printmaking run the gamut of techniques, as exhibited in the Student Show in the Music room of the Student Union building. These students, under the teaching direction of Professor Edward Fisk, are quite evidently doing creative work and developing personal styles in many media. There are 21 students from the classes of 1941-1942 represented, among them are several graduating seniors, these are Bea Moretti, Gail Kirm, Corinne Carhart and Lavenia Warner. Bea Moretti has developed a personal style of humorous charm in her painting; among her prints the wood block or "Jo" is boldly and freely executed. The block which is exhibited with the cut is especially interesting in its rich blacks and yellow browns. A new print technique, new at least to this part of the country and seen heretofore only in the work of Mr. Fisk himself, the stencil, is present in several of Miss Kirm's work. The oil-on-glass, which are also by Miss Kirm, are decorative illustrations of Baudelaire poems. The prints of Corinne Carhart and Lavenia Warner exhibit still-life.

Other students exhibiting are: Agnes Jennings with her amusing "New Version" - Memorial Hall being a stock subject for most student painters; Peggy Hartman showing a still life; Virginia Calles exhibiting a very sensitively painted interior; Charles Boggs painting methodically an almost abstract still life, "Circles and Squares"; Carl Ratliff, who shows an interest in realistic still life studies choosing odds and ends as his theme; June Wyatt painting a nice piece for the Red Cross, showing another interior; and Kibler, with the only watercolor in the exhibit. Special note should be made of the five oils shown by Elsie Fleishman, whose work shows seriousness and intensity of study. Miss Fleishman handles her pigment in application exceedingly well for a student with only a year's experience in painting. Graduate Entries Also in the exhibit are works from the brushes, stylus, and crayon of graduates, among whom we may mention Jeanne Bowne's lithographs and oils, Susan Jackson's lithographs and Christine Brown's prints, which are well-remembered from past exhibits. We again have a chance to view Miss Brown's painting, "Gardenia Sciler". Among the drawings, Clay Lancaster has his little "Kenilchester", an interesting and imaginative documentation of Lexington. There is also Lancaster's delicate "Venus"

Engineers 'Dunk' On Site Of Ye Olde Roche Garden

By MILREED MURRAY

The only remains of a once beautiful rock garden is about to come into its fullest glory. In a week or two, while most students are buried in text books and term papers, the engineer's fish pond will look its best with the lilies blooming and the gold fish idly swimming about looking for a shady spot to hide from the eyes of curious college students.

About ten years ago, the late Dr. Paul Anderson was still head of the Engineering college, the pond was the center of a very informal garden of rocks and wild flowers, according to Gordon Thurman, superintendent of the engineering shops.

The flowers were gathered from all sections of the country and were placed in the garden under the supervision of Dean Anderson, who liked "fixing up the campus for the students to enjoy." Many of the flowers were transplanted to the botanical gardens after Dean Anderson's death and only a rhododendron bush and two are left, according to Thurman.

The same gold fish have seen several college generations come and go, since they were placed in the pond in the early '20's when it was built, and have not been disturbed since. They are left in the pond all winter and are fed oatmeal, bread, and such bits by members of the engineering department.

Engineering students laughingly recall that they almost made a swimming pool out of their pond two years ago when they "dunked" into it a student who had antagonized the college. Besides that, how-

Baseball Team Plays Host To "Spook" Team Tomorrow

By BOB ADAIR
Kernel Sports Editor

That spook team is on the way again. Tomorrow at 1 o'clock the Eastern State Teachers College Maroons will invade the Stoll field baseball diamond seeking vengeance for a narrow 3-2 defeat dished out by the Kentucky Wildcats at Richmond May 1.

Spook team? Yes, when the Maroons take the field some of the Wildcat fans who have never seen them in action will probably draw back in horror, faint from shock, or run to the anatomy for protection.

Why? Because when the Maroons rush onto the diamond, they will, in all probability, give the appearance of a horde of demons or a band of men from Mars. This will be true if the Maroons follow the custom of past years.

GRUESOME GREEN
In past invasions of Stoll field, the Maroons have always spread a mixture of mud and a green salve on their check boxes, close under the eyes. The green coloring makes the players look all the more gruesome and the mixture is applied in a slanting position, which may cause some of the fans to think the Japs have invaded Kentucky.

The purpose of this application of good earth and green stuff is to protect the players' eyes from the glare of the sun. Many teams and numerous individual big league stars of the past have used this method of lessening the possibility of losing a high fly ball in the sun.

The Eastern team is one of the few outfits which still employ this method of error insurance. Most players, especially outfielders, now wear sun glasses, but perhaps the Maroons are aware of the terror which their appearance throws into an enemy camp, and for that reason have clung to the old method.

The Teachers are also expected to enter tomorrow's battle with blood in their eyes because the Wildcats are the team they take most pleasure in beating and hate most to lose. To their loss to Coach Billy Black's Wildcats at Richmond came through Maroon errors and a perfectly executed squeeze play by the Cats.

Another tight game between the two teams is anticipated. The first game developed into a pitcher's duel between Marvin Akers and Gene Ball, the Cats collecting only four hits and the Maroons gathering only three.

TRIO OF THINLIES OFF TO SE MEET
Dunlap, Clement, Althaus Compete

Cosch Joe Rupert and three of his Wildcat teammates left Thursday morning for Birmingham, Alabama, where the trio will carry Kentucky's Blue and White colors into the Southeastern Track and Field meet.

Rupert seemed confident that Carl Althaus, Bill Dunlap and Coleman Clements, could hang up some points in the two-day meet, which will be held today and tomorrow. This trio has led the Wildcats through a fairly successful season and each of the conference barriers is a special list in his events.

Althaus will perform in the field events, and the hurdles and Clements will run in some of the distance events. Dunlap will probably enter the mile and two-mile runs since he is undefeated in both distances.

SAE'S AND AGR'S IN FINALS OF SOFTBALL LOOP

SAE Conquers ATO, AGRs Defeat KAs; Playoffs Are Wed.

SAE and Alpha Gamma Rho advanced to the finals of the fraternity intramural softball playoffs, Wednesday afternoon, by taking ATO and KA in two hard fought ball games. The independent league found the City boys sinking UK, Band and AXE dropping the New Englanders.

In a game packed with more thrills than a night on Bataan, SAE came from behind in the lucky seventh Wednesday to score eight runs, breaking up a good pitcher's duel between Bob Montgomery and Mondo Angelucci. The final count showed SAE on top, 9-5, after trailing by four runs going into the seventh.

Angelucci had everything under control until the big seventh, allowing only one unearned run, and three hits. Nevertheless, four successive singles by Big Jim Pursier, and Jerry Thornton's two run error in the seventh put SAE on top, 6-5, but they went ahead to lengthen their lead on Schlegel's four bagger, and Kohl's sacrifice. Ross finished the game for ATO.

ATO struck in the first inning to tie the score at 1-1, scored another in the third on Ross' single, Angelucci's walk, and Walsh's single, but not satisfied with this, Walsh connected with a long home run in the fifth to boost the lead to 3-1. Again in the sixth, the loser netted two more, and it looked as though they would win in a breeze. "The game's not over until the last man's out," yelled Pete Triplett, SAE first sacker, he meant what he said by the way they finished.

Although the encounter had all the thrills, a sporting event could offer the highlight of the game occurred in the first of the seventh when Billy "Cosey" Young stepped to the plate as a pinch hitter for SAE. Angelucci, in order to end the game quickly as possible, threw Young two strikes, and then tried to catch the quick pitch on Schlegel to catch the hitter off balance. Although the pitch was high, it worked to perfection, Young taking an off bat on his third strike swing.

Young Blows Up
Young, usually a tough pinch hitter, went wild after seeing what he had done, and then staged the feature attraction. He jumped high into the air, broke his bat against the catcher's mask, and then he punched like Superman. One of his brothers remarked that he might so root up a stump, but luckily there were none around. However, if anyone should get credit for winning the game, it could go to the man who tried. After Young's exhibition, the pressure was taken off SAE and they went ahead to net eight runs before the inning ended.

The winners gathered five hits off Angelucci, while ATO got seven off Montgomery. Both pitchers showed signs of wildness, but outside of that, a great game was turned in by both. Pete Triplett led SAE hitting with a double and single out of three trips followed by Schlegel with his circuit clout out of four tries. Pursier's single in the seventh accounted for two runs. Jiggs Walsh and Hack Ross led the losers with two hits apiece. Besides his two hits, one of which was a long home run to deep center, Walsh played an excellent defensive game on the third sack.

AGR had little trouble in taking KA, 16-9, to enter the finals. Bill Benaker, Mitchell Yowell, and Rose Leer paced the winners both offensively and defensively, and Long, Hill, and Daniel held up for the losers. AGR will play SAE for the fraternity championship, the winner of this contest will play the independent league winners for the university prize.

KERNEL SPORTS The Sporting Way

BY BOB ADAIR

Every year at about this time the Kernel sports staff attempts to name an all-star Intramural Diamond Ball team. . . The final play-offs are not yet completed this year and for this reason the judges had difficulty in making their selections. . . However a poll was conducted this week with Kernel writers and game officials as the judges. . . The team is not an official All-Star aggregation, but it will serve to give credit to some of the outstanding players in the Intramural leagues. . . Independent and Fraternity leagues are combined in the poll.

There was plenty of hot competition for the third base position, with Davis Vaughan of the Sigma Nu team and Jiggs Walsh of the ATO's being separated by only one point. . . Points were judged on the basis of the number of first and second team votes for each player. . . Three points was given for a nomination for the first team and two points was given for a second team nomination. . . Although Vaughan received one more vote for the first team than did Walsh, the latter received two second team votes while Vaughan got none. . . Therefore, on the point basis, Walsh was placed on the first team with seven points and Vaughan on the second team with six. . . Both players also received votes for the center field post.

CATS TURN ON FOR 18-7 WIN OVER SOLDIERS

Blast Ft. Darnall In 18 Hit Assault As Akers Notches

The Kentucky baseball team unleashed an 18-hit assault against the Fort Darnall General Hospital Army team at Danville Wednesday afternoon to conquer the soldiers 18-7.

Although the Fort Darnall infield is ranked as one of the best among army teams, eight soldier errors accompanied the Wildcats' avalanche of hits. The Cats took the lead in the first inning on a walk to Coach Billy Black, a single by Bruce Bonheter, on which Black scored when the center fielder fumbled the ball, and a two-run homer by Mill Tico.

Randall Hammer opened the three run second inning for Kentucky by blasting a home run and the Cats went on to score in all but one inning.
