HOUSE BILL 603

THE EDUCATIONAL BOND BILL

THE EDUCATIONAL BOND BILL

House Bill GoZ commonly known as the five million dollar educational bond bill has gone into the scrap heap and we think wisely so, when all phases of it are considered.

Governor Fields had a very well defined plan which would have raised money for the educational institutions had it been passed by the legislature. His method was to place a luxury tax on manufactured tobacce and soft drinks and an income tax. It is true that the latter might not have been popular had it become a law but the scale was not so high as the federal and such a tax could have been imposed without hurting anyone, and especially so when it would have been used for the adsencement of the higher educational interests of the state. As to the former, it would be a voluntary tax. We who use tobacco and drink the soft drinks would pay it of our own volition. These two plans would have brought in sufficient revenue to these institutions for them to have started on a real constructive program covering a period of years.

The Governor's plans were up-set by a group of business men who were in the class that would have been affected by the income tax and others who had tobacco interests. We are of the opinion that the chief objection came from the big tobacco manufacturing interests who were powerful enough to pull the wool over the eyes of some of our best business men. These men came to Frankfort and closeted themselves together with certain senators and representatives whom they knew to be leaders, in the restroom of the senate and there raised such a howl about the Governor's plans that it was thought that they could not be passed through the legislature. In order to lead those who were interested in funding the state debt, rebuilding the penal and charitable institutions; $4,000.000 to make the text regular election these three bond insues. They agreed to go even further and to work for their passage next November. These acts were drawn up and introduced and when they came before the changed to go even further and which would reap $400,000.00 and still another in the Big Sandy Valley with an allowance of $400,000.00.

It was obvious from the beginning that the men from western Kentucky realized that all that great section west of Louisville had been forgotten and men especially interested in the present four normal schools asked, since it has been so hard to secure appropriations sufficient to harely exist, what in the world would they get if four new normals should be established?

We were not willing to sit idly by and see the university get into a losing fight and one that would in our judgment result in more harm than good to it. It was for this and the reasons just stated that we had the bill amended in the senate cutting out the creation of the four new normals and saking that the university be given $4,000,000.00 and permitting the rest to go to the school of the blind, the school of the deaf and the colored normal and industrial institute; all of which are going schools but who need funds very badly for the purpose of making improvements and extensions. We were willing to go to the people of the whole state and ask their support of such a measure but we could not have conscientiously asked them to support it as it first passed the house. It is said that when the roll was called when voted upon by a viva vocie vote but that when the roll was called when voted upon by a viva vocie vote but that when the roll was called upon final passage of the bill with the amendment it lost on the roll call to the tune of 36 to 40.

We observed a sigh of relief coming from many of those who are really interested in the university when the result of this vote was announced and we surmised that they felt hat they had rather lose a good fight on the floor of the house than to be forced to go before the people with a flimsy proposition which had defeat written across its face in raised letters.

We were pleased to see the attitude of President McVey when he was told of the fate of this measure. He seems to share the same opinion as w from the soft his business when such movement had originated wholly outside of the business, and without consulting anyone closely connected with the business and without consulting anyone closely connected with the business and without consulting anyone closely connected with the business, and still that is what happend regarding this educational bond measure.

Senator C. M. C. Porter who is an alumnus of the university voted against this measure as did Representatives M. B. Daniel and W. O. Keller who are also alumni, but we do not have any censure for these young men for we know something of their real interest in the advancement of the university and have some knowledge of their ideas concerning this bond bill. It certainly was not a test of one's loyalty to his aims mater.

Some of our daily papers who were interested in the passage of this bill have written editorially since its defeat. We were present for about forty days of the session just closed and spent several nights conversing with senators and representatives and from this experience we believe that we are in a prefty good position to know that what has been said in this article is more nearly correct than can be said by someone who has not even been on the side-line. We do not wish to incur the disfavor of any of these fine dailies, they are all good friends of the university and we appreciate having them as our boosters but when we seen an editorial such as appeared in the Lexington Leader under date of Friday, March 19, 1926, we are just a bill was first introduced by Mr. U. C. Hutcherson Ropersentative Charles Ryan, voted against it; they both come from a large colored district in Louisville and would naturally like to see their constituents favored in every way that they can. Their action may have been prompted by the fact that the bill was amended to eliminate the colored in Louisville and would naturally like to see their constituents favored in every way that they can. THE NEGRO AND THE BUAN INSUES

The defeat of the proposed $5,000,000 educational bond issue will be traced to various causes, all of which may have contributed to its failure to pass the House of Representatives.

The defeat of the proposed $5,000,000 educational bond issue will be traced to várous causes, all of which may have contributed to its failure to pass the House of Representatives.

One very positive reason why it was lost in the House was the defeat of the amendments which made provision for additional aid to higher education of the Negro.

Representative Ryan, of Louisville, did not hesitate to say that he had withdrawn his support of the bill when the amendment to appropriate part of the proposed $5,000,000 issue for the purpose of Negro education was killed.

Mr. Ryan's position on this subject will be heartily approved by the average public-spirited citizen, regardless of political affiliations. The Negro cannot be expected to vote time after time for the expenditure of public funds for public purposes unless he is given reasonable assurance that he will be permitted to share, to a reasonable degree, in the advantages and conveniences which such expenditures are intended to create or provide. The Negro in Kentucky constitutes about 12 per cent of the population and the race as a whole, directly and indirectly, helps uncomplainingly to bear its part of the cost of government.

With respect to educational facilities for the Negro, Kentucky has been very derelict. Colonel P. H. Callahan, a leading Democrat, of Louisville, in a recent communication addressed to the editor of The Courier-Journal, called attention to the fact that the largest appropriations made for the higher education of the Negro in Kentucky have been $44,000, exclusive of $15,000 to the State Normal Schools at Frankfort and Paducah. Continuing in his discussion of the Negro in Kentucky have been $40,000, exclusive of $15,000 to the State Normal School of Negroes to the rank of a university, spending the past year $500,000 to construction and some $300,000 for maintenance while the State of Virginia has spent within the last two years has spent upward of $4,000,000 on higher education for Negroes.

LEGISLATION AFFECTING THE UNIVERSITY

Elsewhere on this page we discuss House Bills 585 and 587 which relate to the budget for the biannual period of 1926-27 and 1927-28 and House Bill 603, the educational bond issue bill. Here we deal with other measures relating to the university's interest.

Let us first consider bills introduced in the House in the order of introduction and their effect on the university whether passed or not, because it was our privilege to secure the death of a few bills that would have been detrimental to the institution.

House Bill No. 38—Introduced by Mr. Fred H. Coots, Henderson County. To change the fiscal administration of the state by creating a Budbet Commission, State Budget Office and Advisory Budget and Audi Commistee. This measure was never reported out of the Committee on Revenue and Taxation because it was found to be undesirable for many departments and institutions of the state.

House Bill No. 66.—Introduced by Mr. W. B. Belknap, Oldham County. To purchase from C. B. Patrick for $128.750 one hundred and three acres of land adjoining the Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, for use of the Station. This bill brought forth much objection due to the price to be paid for this land and was not passed but provisions were made in the two budget bills whereby the first and second payments could be made on this tract of land.

House Bill No. 96—Introduced by Mr. Grover C. Johnson, Hardin County. To prohibit the teaching of the theory of evolution in all schools supported in whole or in part by the state. This bill was reported unfavorably by the Committee on Kentucky Statutes and automatically killed by the rules of the house.

the house.

House Bill No. 162.—Introduced by Mr. C. H. Berryman, Lexington. To authorize a more complete endowment of the Agricultural Experiment Station. Passed house 72-0 and the senate 30-0. This measure gives assent to a bill passed by congress which gives to the Station more than $20,000.00 proved of great value to the farmers.

House Bill No. 619—Introduced by Mr. W. B. Belnap, Oldham Coun
To provide for a progressive tax on transfers of direct and collectal inheritance. Passed house 78-0 and senate 30-0. This measure is expect to add about $100,000.00 each year to the revenues of the university.

Senate Bills

In discussing senate bills relating to the university, we repeat some panion bills that have already been mentioned under the heading of house bills. Senate Bill No. 9.—Introduced by Senator Wallace Brown, Nelson County. To remove all state tas. from real estate and distribute funds from ad valorem tax in the same proportion now prevailing from real estate. Was never reported out of committee on Revenue and Taxation. Had it passed it probably would have decreased the university's revenues. Senate Bill No. 26.—Introduced by Senator J. W. Howard, Morgan County. To authorize the purchase of 103 acres of land adjacent to the Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, from C. B. Patrick for $128,760. This bill was never reported from the committee to which it was referred but provisions were made in the budget to make first and second payments on this land.

This bill was never reported from the committee to which it was referred but provisions were made in the budget to make first and second payments on this land.

Senate Bill No. 140—Senator C. M. C. Porter, Bullitt County. To authorize the incorporation of agricultural extension associations in the counties to cooperate with the University of Kentucky, College of Agriculture. Died in the orders of the day of the senate. This is a ccompanion bill of House Bill No. 384.

Senate Bill No. 174—Introduced by Senator E. C. Walker, Franklin County. To create Purchasing Agency for the Comonwealth of Kentucky, as the reached the orders of the day and its companion house bill number 227 was substituted for it and passed.

Senate Bill No. 284—Introduced by Senator E. D. Stephenson, Pike County. Providing a new state budget system. Passed senate 24-0 and house 76-0. While this bill affects all departments and institutions of the State, we were able to secure certain amendments that are supposed to eliminate all objectionable features to the university.

Senate Bill No. 214—Introduced by Senator John L. Thurmond, Christian County. To provide for submission to the voters next Nevember the question of the repeal of the inheritance tax. It was up for action but so strong was its opposition that the author of the bill requested it be recommitted to the rules committee where it was resting at the close on March 17. This is a measure very similar to House Bill number 179 and if passed would have reduced the university's revenues about 5100,000.00 annually.

Senate Bill No. 272—Introduced by Senator Arch L. Hamilton, Fayette County. To regulate selling agricultural seed and appropriation as it did, it required 21 votes to pass same.

Senate Bill No. 301—Introduced by Senator Garth Ferguson, Ballard County. To enpower the University of Kentucky to grain two and three year teachers' certificates. Passed senate 31-0 and the house 70-0.

We are glad to see that the normal schools averaged $302,500.00 each in special appropriations and wish that they could have secured even more. We know something of their needs and realize that none of their plants are as well equipped as they should be. It is their task to make better teachers for our rural and high schools and if they are to accomplish the best results they should have plants equal to those of other states.

The special appropriation of $185.75.00 given to the University of Kentucky is a mere pittance as compared to the amounts appropriated by all of our sister states for their universities. These states have given amounts running into millions of dollars and are building real universities for their young men and women. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars of the

Then we know that spring will come! When the swallow returns to the hill, And comes out the whipporwill; When God's creation begins to sing, Then we know it's time for spring.

When renewed rapture fills the earth And all creation laughs with mirth; Dull dreary winter then is dead, For soon the violets lift their head. Winter then can no longer freeze The dormant buds upon the trees; The anow can no longer cling, For the Father sendeth spring!

When the varam winds begin to blow.
And the tender plants begin to grow:
When the trees put forth their curly to the control of the control of their curly to the control of their curly
to the control of their curly breeze;
When April showers begin to fall.
Feeding nature one and all,
Sprinkling the swallow, on the wing.
Then we know it's time for spring.

When the sun o'er us hotly loom And creation bursts forth in blo Then we are carried like a drean Down beside the rippling stream Where the boy slips from school Throwing off its binding rule: There he sits and whistles and si Then we know it's time for spring

The following letter, commending the recent military edition of The Kernel, was lately received by Col. Horace P. Hobbs, head of the Military department of the university, from Col. Geo. D. Freeman, Jr., who pre-ceded Colonel Hobbs in his present office. Colonel Freeman is now sta-tioned at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. When the lad throws his shoes aside, His feet no longer cased in stocks of pride; When he cunningly slips from home, And scales the highest mountain dome;

When he takes the paw-paw's skin
And produces a terrible din;
When the hills with whistles ring,
Then we know it's time for spring.

When the apple trees dress in white And the birds sing their delight; When the pee-wee builds her nest, While the robin struts his vest; When the winds lose their chill, And are quiet but never still, When the days laxiness bring, Then we know it's time for spring.

The University of Kentucky again gained deserved prominence when Dean Paul F. Anderson, of the College of Engineering, gave a masterful address on "The World Demands a Scientific Ventilating Standard," in response to one given by C. E. A. Winslow, a graduate of Columbia University in New York City, on "Objectives and Standards of Ventilation," at the thirty-second annual meeting of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, held in Buffalo, N. Y., January 27, 28 and 29. Economics Frats Pledge

Those pledged to Phi Upsilon Omi-cron were: Miss Edythe Cundiff, of Dean Anderson, when interviewed by a Kernel representative recently, stated that the country considered a graduate from that college of the University of Kentucky the best fitted man obtainable in the United States in various phases of engineering constructive work. He also said that the field for these graduates was so great that if he had thrie as many students as enrolled at present he could place them all without any trouble. This is because of the high standard which the College of Engineering of the University of Kentucky has established in the opinion of these companies. As illustrations of some recent achievements of graduate engineers of this university, the New York City telephone exchange system, the largest in the world, was designed by a University of Kentucky graduate; all of the new improvements made recently in Madison Square Garden were made under the supervision of a graduate of this institution; the Biltmore hotel at Los Angeles, Calif., largest notedly, in the west, was constructed by an alumnus of this school. Hundreds, even thousands of similar illustrations are available.

ARE YOU TEACHABLE? Who are the most teachable students in a high school or college? Some say that it is the freshmen and seniors, becaue you can tell them something. The reason for this is that those students who are just entering college feel uncertain as to whether they are going to make good or not. This inspires them to keep on their toes and makes them feel that they must work if they expect to make a name for themselves.

But after they get into the sophomore class, they feel altogether too comfortable. They are somewhat assured of their position, and no doubt have, by this time, discovered some points where they can skimp their work. They are not so readily accessible to suggestions from their teachers.

have, by this time, discovered some points where they can skimp their work. They are not so readily accessible to suggestions from their teachers. But by the time they become seniors, a new spirit comes over them. Their course is nearly over and they begin to think about what is ahead of them. They are beginning to relaize that soon they must get out and struggle with the world, and they see more readily the need of all the preparation they can get. Also they realize that what they have learned is really very little and there is a great deal that they do not know.

These two points of view are not only found in the college student. They may also be seen in every community, in every workshop and in every place of business. We are constantly running across the "know it all" people. These people have certain points of view and it is almost impossible to make them change these points; it seems almost impossible for them to make progress and learn anything new.

When people stop being teachable they stop making progress. When a person thinks he knows all there is to know about his job, the chances are strong that he will never get a better one and it is also often doubtful if he will be able to hold the one he has. The world is constantly changing, and ideas and standards change. We must have the teachable spirit if we expect to keep up with the procession.

Have you got this spirit or are you one of the "know it alls?" Look yourself over and if you decide that you belong to the latter class, remember that "he who thinks he knows the least and has the desire to learn is the wisest."

Mr. Winslow's address was taken from a thesis on "Window Ventilation," which he had written in order to obtain a Ph. D. degree at Columbia University. Mr. Winslow maintained that window ventilation was more helpful and beneficial to mankind than the scientific methods of logical ventilation. Dean Anderson, in his reply to Mr. Winslow, stated that "this crude theory of window ventilation occupies the same relation to modern methods of mechanical ventilation that the old sailing vessel bears to the superb modern trans-Atlantic liner." Dean Anderson's able reply was published in the March issue of the JOURNAL of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers and held a position of outstanding importance in this publication. This problem of a scientific ventilating system is one of the pressing matters for discussion among engineers of the day and the University of Kentucky, through the efforts of Dean Anderson, is playing a large part in solving the ventilation problem.

Dean Anderson, when interviewed by a Kernel representative recently, and air is a severe test. While the pipe shown in the picture is subjected to unusual corrosive influences, all underground pipe must be able to withstand corrosion to a greater or less degree. Cast Iron Pipe has this quality. It does not depend on its coating to resist rust; the material itself is rust-resisting. The first Cast Iron Pipe ever laid is in service today at Versailles, France, after two hundred and sixty years' service.

Spring has surely came! Provided it don't snow a And our Wildcats are in the threes of a siege of he is pretty good for sport writers but darn hard as belonging to candidates.

IDEA HAS GROWN

Two years ago the first March grid practice was held by the Wildcats but since that time the idea has grown to such proportions that it requires the chergy and knowledge of at least three coaches to tell the boys what to do and how to do it. Coach Murphy is being assisted this year by Ab Kirwin, newly elected member of his staff, and Pribble, who helped mould the state championship machine last fall. The sessions this time will be held daily except Sunday for at least three weeks.

NEW IDEA

While the idea of spring football practice is primarily a new thing among Southern colleges, it has proved that it is beneficial to the "higher-ups" in getting a line on prospective candidates for the succeeding September and in keeping alive the proper football spirit in the school.

The sessions will culminate with a free-for-all battle for supremacy on the final day of practice.

the final day of practice.

ALFORD NOT TO RETURN
S. A. "Daddy" Boles, athletic director of the university, announced last night that Oliver Alford, line coach for the Wildcats last year, would not return to take up his duties next fail.

Alford is in partnership with his father in a business house in Flushing, Long Island, and in a communication with "Daddy" yesterday, stated that he could not afford to leave this and consequently would have to forsake his coaching activities.

HIS UKELELE LALDY
"In the spring a young man's fancy turns to love" is one of those phrases that is overworked so we are coing to change it to so and so "young women's" so and so and so.

The other night, I was sitting at my desk down at The Herald when I heard the soft strains of a ukelele being wafted (poetical, eh?) on the breeze to the sky, all of which made me poke my head out of the window. Down below me was a negro girl, strolling along, stroking this little Hawaiian Iolly-pop. She stopped on the corner, hummed a while, looked wise and then ambled off down the street, still playing and humming.

UNIVERSITY BILL
Here's a good one!
William Thompson, just call him "Slick," came running into the house the other day with the expression "Who is this guy University Bill they're talking about in the Kernel?"
You know they call him "Bill," too.

Try this one on your piano; the tune is "America:"
Centre, just get your gun,
We've come to make you run,
This time we'll win.
We've come to get your tin,
Long may our colors win
This glorious day for who?
Great K. S. U.

And here's another. The tune is "The Good Old Summer Time
"In the good old football time
In the good old football time,
Plunging down the football field,
Gaining every time.
We'll run their ends and block their line
And that's a very good sign
We'll put the block to Centre
In the good old football time."

GOOD HOAX

Pears to me as how the man over in Harrodsburg who wrote a note saying he was going to jump in Dix Dam devised a darn good way to get his name in the paper. Anyway some of us have to die before we get a decent writeup anyway.

Incidently the man turned up Monday night and said he was just trying to scare his estranged wife into living with him again.

Queer man.

INCONGRUOUS

Here's a headline "30,000 SEE BOON COMPANION WIN HANDICAP."

A picture of the crowd accompanied the head. Looked to me like if everybody in that crowd saw the race I can make submarines.

PRETTY GOOD WAY, ANYHOW

Happened to have a night off last week and strolled down by the Ben Ali. Went in. Sat down. Some goof came on the stage with a bunch of hokum and got plenty of cheers from one corner in the theatre. The second act was punker and still the participants got cheers from this section.
Every act was applauded superficially (not the right word but nobody'll ever know the difference) by the same "certain-party" and upon asking came to find out that the whole darn bill was so rotten that the management had hired a lot of supers, I suppose, to make noise. Good idea, at that Mr.
Ben Ali.

So urgent had the needs for such a building become that the board of trustees had a company erect this dormitory and was renting it. The other $$3,75.050 which the university is to receive will be used to make the first and second payment on land for the experiment station which purchase had become an absolute necessity.

NOT ONE CENT has been appropriated by the legislature to the university since 1905 for the purpose of erecting additional recitation buildings and during this same period the enrollment has increased about 350 per cent. It remains for us to continue to live in hopes that the next session will be guided by that class of citizens who are interested in the university was to secure proper financial legislation for the university.

INTERCOLLEGIATE MATCH IS FIRED

U.K. Riflemen Make 7637 Points Out of Possible 8 0 0 0 in Fifth Corps Area Contests; Shoot Washington

MAY WIN NATIONAL TITLE

(By C. M. BOWDEN)
Kentucky's riffemen flashed ability reminiscent of the days of Daniel Boone last week when they amassed the grand total of 7637 out of a possible 8000 points, while firing their quota in the Fifth Corps Area intercollegiate matches.

Other colleges and universities participating in this match have not yet for the them the survey of a Kentuckian's ability to connect with the bull's eye will not be altered when the scores of the competing institutions are compiled and compared.

This match was conducted on a basis of 2000, points for each of the four positions—prone, sitting, kneeling and standing. From the prone position, the team approached a perfect score when it garnered 1953 points—just 47 less than the maximum number attainable.

Kentucky also fired against the State College of Washington last week, but the score of the Washington tam is not yet available. The Kentucky cadets, however, are anticipating another victory, as their score in this meet stands at the imposing total of 3714.

GLEE CLUB TRIP GREAT SUCCESS

Prof. Lampert and 30 Member of Organization Return Friday From Visits to Princeton, Morganfield and Henderson

MAKE THREE-DAY TOUR

The University Glee Club, consisting of thirty members and the director, Prof. Carl Lampert, returned Friday, after a three-day tour to Princeton, Morganfield and Henderson. The trip, made in a private ear, was in every way a success and each city visited has asked the club to return next year.

Leaving Lexington Tuesday morning and arriving at Princeton in the late afternoon, the club was received by a committee of the alumni of the high school. The program was given in the auditorium of the new high school building under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club, which entertained

Every student at the university has at some time during the past semester taken part in a "bull session," and the things told there were told and heard in the strictest confidence, however, that was before this group of students organized themselves for this purpose. So it follows that the intimate life of the students is known to some member of "The Scarlet Letter" group and it may be one of your own group or fraternity who will give out the information.
