KENTUCKY

Vol. LXXXIV, No.61

REALLY COOL

It will be sunny today, so get out your shades. But don't pass the Coppertone, it's going to be cool. The high is expected to be in the upper 40s to lower 50s. Tonight will be clear and chilly with the mercury dipping into the upper 20s to lower 30s. Tomorrow will be sunny and a little warmer with a high in the mid 50's.

Reports say Singletary planning to fire Curci

By STEVEN W. LOWTHER Assistant Sports Editor

UK head football coach Fran Curci's contract will be terminated at the end of the season, according to a copyrighted story in the Lexington Leader yesterday.

The story, attributed to an unidentified source "close to, the football team," said President Oits Singletary met with Curci for 15 to 20 minutes Nov. 2, the day before Singletary appointed a special ad hoc committee to analyze the football program and inpointed a special ad noc committee to analyze the football program, and in-formed him of his termination. It also said that Curci had been ask-oed to appear before a meeting of the ad hoc committee last night, which was held at an undisclosed time and place. It was not known whether Curci would appear at the meeting. Although Athleite Director Cliff Hagan, a member of the committee would even that I have a three-year contract, although Athleite Director Cliff Hagan, a member of the committee would even that be a three-year contract, and the place it was not make the recommendations of the story. The committee would be continued to the story, the masked if the committee is a specific purpose was to review the coaching staff or make recommendations for a possible successor to Curci, Hagan sald it will "review all the different areas of the football

One of the biggest issues in Curcis' 'termination,' the story said, was whether Curci will be compensated for lost revenues from his television and radio programs, 'The Fran Curci Show' and 'The Big Blue Line,'' which are said to be among the most lucrative shows of their type in the country.

lucrative shows of their type in the country.
Legally, the issue has not been decided yet. When "Pepper" Rogers was fired as the coach of Georgia Tech, he brought suit against the school for compensation for all of the fringe benefits he would lose (television and radio programs, basketball tickets, use of a Cadillac, etc.). The case has yet to be decided in the courts.

Night Editor

Damon Cottrell, a business administration student, reads a recent edition of the Kernel in the entrance lobby of the M.I. King Library last night while

Israeli air incursion causes Saudi stir

By NICHOLAS B. TATRO

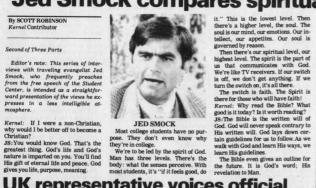

Associated Press Writer

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia — Saudi Arabia claimed yesterday that Israeli warplanes invaded Saudi airspace over the kingdom's northwest regions, and were driven back by Saudi jet fighters.

Israel refused comment.
The location of the purported violation, about 105 miles from the kingdom's Red Sea coast, is in the vicinity of the Tabuk military air base.

In Washington, President Reagan
In Washington Severimed by the Palestinian for establishment of a Palestinian for establishm

Jed Smock compares spirituality to TV: turn it on or off

Jesus said, search the scriptures and ye shall find eternal life. Most students have rejected the Bible. But they haven't even troubled themselves to read it! Not even one book in 661 The New Testament is much smaller than most of their tex-thooks. much smaller than most of their texthoolss.

It can't be academically or intellecutily sound to reject it without evenreading it. The Bible has had greater impact on history than any other book. It's had a great impact on society and on literature! A student would profit intellectually and academically to read it. He would profit spiritually to believe it.

It's a shame that so many are ignorant of the Bible.

In (the early '60s), the Supreme Court legalized pornography while all but declaring the Bible illegal in public schools. Prayer was declared illegal. Out of all the books on the fact of the earth, why do you think the Bible is the only one outlawed in our schools? Because it would expose most humanistic education as a pack of lies.

UK representative voices official objection to Rosemont extension

By NANCY E. DAVIS

The proposed Rosemont Garden extension received overwhelming opposition at a public hearing last night in Seay Auditorium, including the official opposition of UK. "UK is umalterably opposed to that portion of the Year 2000 Transportation Plan that includes the Rosemont Garden extension," and Warren Denny, acting director of Design and Construction. He said the proposed extension would have a profound effect on Shady Lane Woods

And on the tree gae, escalant or the tree parameter. Apartments of the Rosemont extension, "Deuny said, "the University does support the extension of Alumni Drive." This possible alternative would join Alumni Drive to Nicholasville Road.

Richard Glift, 227 Tahoma Rd., said the Shady Lane Woods is a "community resource (that Lexington requires) for spiritual and aesthetic needs." He mentioned the safety hazard that the extension would pose to the residents of the Greg Page Apartments and said, "This project is contrary to the University's interest. The University interest was not even discussed. The true social value of the program is based on the same set of false assumptions."

Approximately 300 people attended the public hearing, and some said they felt that if the hearing were better publicized attendance would have been larger. James Hodge of 1005 Tates Creek Rd. said that he and 30 to 40 other residents of Tates Creek Road first learned of last night's hearing yesterday afternoon.

"But 1 got 30 to 40 signatures of people who are opposed to the widening of Tates Creek Pike in just a couple of ours," Hodge said.

Dale Thoma, director of the planting commission of the Urban County Government, said that sufficient notice was given in the legal notices of the newspaper.

Despite publicity problems, approximately 28 Lexington citizens spoke at the hearing, excluding members of the planning commission. Only one person supported the See "ROSEMONT," page four

College slang

Students use own language

By MAGGIE FRAZIER

To the chagrin of many a professor, college slang, that secret vocabulary of a select group, may be here to stay. "blow it off," "bumy class' are all slang, and all part of the "argot" of college students.

Jean Pival, a linguistics professor, said an argot is a special vocabulary or idiom peculiar to a particular group. "College slang is culture bound and it belongs to a specific social group. Similar to fashions, its stay is very short," she said.

fashions, its stay is very short," she said.

Although slang may be short-lived its use is prevalent, and the UK campus is no exception.

"We always say to pull admuk," or some other expressions are to 'get ripped, to 'get looped' owrecked," said David Jacobs, an English sophomore from Richmond, Va. Other slang terms for 'under the influence of alcohol' include "shift-faced," trashed, 'blitzed,' wasted, and 'bombed,' "saidJuile Halley, forestry freshman from Chattanooga, Tenn.

Laura Cahill, a telecommunica-tions freshman from Fort Mitchell, Ky., says "please" for "excuse me." "I've heard a lot of people at UK say this, however, most people I've met from southern Kentucky have never heard of it. Another phrase we use is 'snagging.' This means to meet someone and really hit it off well." These and other college slang ter-

See "SLANG," page four

For the reminiscences of a young girl's feelings for her very special grandfather, see page 3.

inside

persuasion Kernel

Jacki Rudd

Chris Ash Lini Kadaba

Anne Charles Sports Editor

Chet Sublett Kirby Stephens

Fund energy alternatives, not war plans

States may become entangled in a Mideast war in order to protect its investments and in-war in order to protect its investments and in-terests.

This country has spread itself thin by becoming more and more involved in the af-fairs of that region. Conflict involving the United States and the Soviet Union is not a dis-tant possibility but rather a probability that could materialize during the current ad-ministration.

ministration. The United States has firmly committed itself to a dependence upon Middle East oil supplies, and as such must make desperate political moves in an effort to assure that these supplies are not cut off. Without a successful compromise for peace we are faced with decisions that, in the long run, may not be in our best interests.

Two attempts have been suggested for such a peace — the 1979 Camp David agreement and the current Saudi eight-point peace plan. Although both contain viable clauses, neither offers all involved parties a suitable comprehensive plan.

During the past two weeks, several political scientists have speculated that the Camp David accords were destined for failure from the beginning. These same "experts" agreed that the Saudi plan is more acceptable, but would not work without further compromise. Unfortunately America is in a no-win situation. We cannot alienate our allies by withdrawing already-promised military support, nor can we avoid a military conflict should these interests be threatened. Our country, like-it-or-not, is destined to become a participant in a Middle East war—challenging the growing Soviet power.

There are alternatives, but most have been rejected by the Reagan administration as unfeasible.

unfeasible.

During his presidency, Jimmy Carter realized this need and pushed for an increase in the research and development of alternative sources of energy. Given the diverse nature of our country, possible solutions could be found on a regional basis.

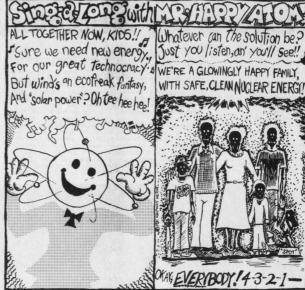

Wind-powered turbines could be used along the West Coast, solar energy throughout the Midwest, coal in the Appalachian region and methane conferences in the northern the Midwest, coal in the Appalachian region and methane co-generaters in the northern cities. Although not a comprehensive list it represents a starting point from which the federal government could work to lessen our dependence on Mideast oil supplies. Reagan has scraped projects started by Carter in order to promote the increased use of nuclear power generators. Unfortunately the Nuclear Regulatory Commission has not proved itself capable of insuring quality reactors.

Instead of over-committing itself to the tors.

Instead of over-committing itself to the protection of Middle East oil supplies, a sure bet to involve us in an unwanted war, the United States should take a closer look at alternative energy resources here at home.

Losses suffered by long term creditors increase pressure to change tax policy

Having cut the taxes this summer. Congress is now jacking itself up to raise them this fall. Not that when the new revenues are voted we will return to the status guo ante, the way it was before.

The summer tax cut was for the benefit of the wealthy and for business, not for you and me as anyone who has peeked into his post-tax cut pay envelope can attest. The autumn tax rise will hit you-and me, if you and me happen to be smokers and-or drinkers. Mormons and nurs will get off easy for they don't use alcohol or tobacco, the products on which the federal taxes will rise.

So be it. Without getting indignant about it, let's ask why, instead of a tax cut, the tax burden is being transferred from the more affluent to the not affluent.

Starting in the last years of the Carter administration we have seen a revolt by the creditor classes, the people and institutions who lend more provided to the products on which the federal taxes will rise.

Starting in the last years of the carter administration we have seen a revolt by the creditor classes, the people and institutions who lend mortgages.

So be it. Without getting indignant about it, let's ask why, instead of a tax cut, the tax burden is being transferred from the more affluent to the not affluent.

Starting in the last years of the carter administration we have seen a revolt by the creditor classes, the people and institutions who lend mortgages where the more affuent to the not affuence to the carter administration we have seen a revolt by the creditor classes, the people and institutions who lend mortgages where the more affuent to the not affuence to the carter administration we have seen a revolt by the creditor classes, the people and institutions who lend mortgages where the more affuent to the not affuence to the carter administration we have seen at the people and institutions who lend mortgages where the people and institutions who lend mortgages where the post of orcing up intensity of the carter administration we have a contract the people and intensi his house since the new buyer, without the old, low interest rate, will have higher interest payments on his mortgage.

Again, the public at large is being manipulated and forced into bailing out the long term lenders' losses.

Yet many assumable mortgages can't be touched, such as those guaranteed by the Veterans Administration. The long term creditor is still bleeding and that is one reason for the push to balance the federal budget. It is those deficits which are acting to keep interest rates up and as long as increased and the season of the push to balance the federal budget. It is those deficits which are acting to keep interest rates up and as long as increased in the season of the push to balance the federal budget. It is those bonds and may up the prices of old various discounts.

It is this dilemma that is driving the members of Congress to risk looking like jerks by reversing themselves on taxes. But somebody in the crowd is thinking this time. Pushing down interest rates risks stimulating consumer spending, which could touch off more inflation, but how are we to have low interest rates and low consumer spending? By slapping these new federal sales taxes on the potential consumers, by taxing them enough on gasoline so they daren't contract debt to buy a new car.

John Standard of the season of the sea

Rid us of parking meters

If there really is a hell, I bet I know what you have to do there.

Nope, you won't be chained to a wall and beat with a leather strap, although I suspect some of you might renjoy that.

You won't have to listen to Donny Osmond records for eternity either, although that would be torturous.
You won't be sweating from the heat and you won't have to read this column over and over.

From an inside source, I have learned what the real penalty for unrepented sin is. I shudder to think of it, but I must reveal it toy of it, but I must reveal it toy of it.

learned what the real penany incurrepented sin is. I shudder to think off, but I must reveal it to you. It is a torture much worse those I have already mentioned. But looking on the bright side, many UK students are getting experience for it now. If they are unfortunate enough to go to devil land, they will know what to do.

Tired of the suspense? Okay, here it is.

time.

A lot of students work or have other obligations. They need to get to and from class quickly. They don't have time to wait for buses.

You might choose to walk, but this is also time-consuming and often inconvenient for a busy student.

I live about four miles from campus. A few days, when my schedule has permitted and the weather was agreeable, I walked to and from class. Ineeded the exercise.

Those few days were about the only days I have not experienced the usual frustration. And believe me, it is frustrating.

I put more miles on my car while looking for a parking from home to campus and back. I've been late for class many times because it took so long to find a driving from home to campus and place to park. Sometimes I am so late or aggravated that I turn around and goback home.

That has happened to me so many times that some of my professors have forgotten who I am. It's really bad when after being in a class for three months, you walk in and the professor asks you who you are ... especially when there are only six beeplie in the class.

And the only time I have ever missed class is when I couldn't find a parking place.

I usually try to park on Rose Lane, Linden Walk or one one of the same people everyday, riding around and around, in search of the sared parking place.

I watch my gas gauge dip toward around and around, in search of the sared parking place.

I watch my gas gauge dip toward "E" as I murmur a few expletive fellows and the cleeks.

If I caust find a "free" parking space, I usually head for the same pacopie and with "I'm of going to take it anymore" on it. Place the bag over warrands make more anymore, and the only time in the same people everyday, riding around and around and around, in search of the same people everyday, riding around and around and around, in search of the same people everyday, riding around and around and around, in search of the same people everyday, riding around and around and as and and I'm of the control of the same people everyday, riding around and around and as a search of the same people everyday, riding around and a search of the same people everyday, riding around and a search of the same people everyday, riding around and a

If I can't find a "free" parking space, I usually head for the have so many traffic enforcement officers in the UK area.

Have you ever watched them cruising the campus area? Like buzards over a carcass, they circle over a parking meter, waiting for the red "violation" flag to pop up, then they swoop down with ticket in claw and place it on the windshield.

Mayor-elect Scotty Baeseler, here is a challenge for you. Remove all of the parking meters in the campus area, or replace them with two- or threehour meters.
Or. Jim Amato, you could do it before you leave office. That would be a nice going-away gift.

But for immediate action or to get the point across, I have a suggestion or all students who park at the meters. (This idea is borrowed, in any incremental cardion or the students who park at the meters. (This idea is borrowed, in tanymare" or it. Plue on the tanymare" or it. Plue on the tanymare" or it. Plue the bag over your parking meter.
Do it today and Wednesday and you will see results.

Do it today and vreument will see results. Changing or removing the parking meters is the only answer to this problem. I'm not saying it will delete the problem, but it will help. The University has a limited number of parking lots, and with the recent budget cuts in education more can't, or shouldn't, be built.

A few weeks ago someone wrote a letter to the Kernel suggesting that we all go out and tear up all the paved parking lots in the interest of nature. I hope he wasn't serious.

He, no doubt, lives on or within walking distance of campus.

walking distance of campus.
Living on or near campus is fine. I did it for three years. But there may come a time when you get tired of dormitories, fraternity or sorority houses, dumpy apartments or slumiords, and head for outer suburbia bia.

If you do, you'll know the hell I'm talking about.
Meanwhile, I have three parking tickets to pay and I'm broke. Please send your non-tax-deductible contributions to "Paul's Parking Problems," c/o the Kernel.

billets — doux

Arts reviews unfair

I find it shocking that the author of the review of the Oktoberfest publish-ed Oct. 20 chose to put down the UK Tuba-Euphonium ensemble. These Tuba-Euphonium ensemble. These consideration of the Conference of the transfer of the Conference Oktoberfest. They were not distracting, as the article stated. Nor were they first noticed when they played an arrangement of "Short People." For those of you who did not attend the Oktoberest, the UK Tuba-Euphonium played a wide variety of music, from German beer drinking songs to serious music. They received a great ovation from the patrons, many of whom were singing along in

BLOOM COUNTY

by Berke Breathed

Lowther, who gave you the right to determine university policy regarding basketball ticket distribution? The first-corne-first-serve policy is the most fair and beat way to distribute tolests. Camping out has become a tradition at UK. Why, most become a tradition at UK. Why, most become a tradition at UK. Why, most become a tradition at UK. Why can be those who sit through an entire tootball game. Instead of damning those who want to camp out, the University community should be proud over such a display of Wildcat pride.

We pay money to attend here which it urn is used to pay the grounds personnel. Granted, Memorial Coliseum should not be left in a "shambles," but I am sure that there are a few concerned individuals who could keep the area respectable. Personally, I've never camped out before; but believe me, I will be in line early Friday afternoon in two weeks. (Yes, I can afford to miss some classes). I'm sure that you will be glad to hear that I've arranged my schedule in order to be in line even earlier. Now, let's beat the hell out of Indianal!

Ticket distribution fine

I am a man in prison and I'm writing in hopes of finding someone who cares. I have no money to pay for what I am about to ask, nor do I have efore the methodical thumping that was approaching the utside gate.

I strained to see, my nose pressed against the screen of the old frame door where many noses had been pressed before. The screen was warped from the heat of long summers and the cold of many winters. I heard the creaking of the bucket that I knew he always carried and the crunching of gravels beneath his feet. He walked heavily with precise steps.

Once upon a time

By Jacki Rudd

I watched him heave what was to be one of his last sighs.
Only recently had I let myself realize the sunken smallness of his body. I blinked back a tear. From where I stood at the side of the hospital bed I saw his glazed eyes blankly pivot toward mine. He seemed so powerless, but he hadn't been once. I'd heard him tell of snakes he'd killed, a team of work mules he'd tamed and fields he'd plowed. My grandfather, a once-upon-a-time dragonslayer.

I remembered once upon a time.

My heart raced as I stood at the screen door in the dimness of the hallway. The buzz of the katyldids meshed with the chirping of the crickets that early fall evening. The creek waters ripplied in the stiliness. But for me, these night sounds faded before the methodical thumping that was approaching the outside gate.

et. He walked heavily with precise steps.

I could hear the evenness of his breathing
I could hear the evenness of his breathing
I could hear the evenness of his breathing
I could hear the murkiness. The glow of his I lantern played against the hillside,
I steadily waltzing through the thicket. I could see the moving silhouette of the English shepherd as it ambiled along at his side.

His shoulders was eliabily heart

at his side.

His shoulders were slightly bent, but the sharp deliberate steps he took belied his age. I ducked back inside as he rounded the corner of the wooden house by the south garden and passed the wire strung between two trees that served as a clothesline.

The warmth of the kitchen chased away the helit of the believe. I chairsont the child of the believe. I chairsont

The warmth of the kitchen chased away the chill of the hallway. I shivered a little. A kerosene lamp burned on the kitchen table, and I leaned over so the heated glow bathed my face. I anxiously watched the closed door I knew he would later enter. My grandmother heard th apping on the side door of the immense country kitchen and mense ou me side door of the nmense country kitchen and rought the kercsene lamp closer e opened the large oaken door wide enough to grasp the bucket ded her. He spoke low. Almost in distinct. She nodded and turned, holding the bucket down for me to see. The creamy mixture leapt at me and my mouth watered for a taste.

He always milked the two jersey cows at dusk, and I looked forward to the first glassful of milk after she had strained it. As I was climbing into the tail straight-hacked chair I reached for a piece of the day-old cornbread. Not quite tail enough for my feet to touch the floor, I swung my legs back and forth.

I could never wait for him to finish the farm chores. He'd sit down at the table and eat the food she placed in front of him, chewing continously until the last bite had been mopped

"He seemed so powerless, but he hadn't been once. I'd heard him tell of snakes he'd killed, a team of work mules he'd tamed and fields he'd plowed."

and fields he'd plowed."

up with his biscuit. After he pushed back his plate, I had seen him so many times sit with elbows on the table and hands clasped beneath his forehead. I watched him doze, his silvery hair tousled from the removal of his cap.

Somewhere down through the "holler," as the country dwellers often referred to the creekside farmland where they lived, a dog barked, then howled, finally easing down to a whine. The sounds seemed closer than they actually were as they bounced back and forth against the hills.

The older man roused a little, brought his hand across his brow and turned to peer at me through half-closed eyes. He grinned and called me "the little hoss," his pet name for most of the younger grandchildren. I didn't care that I shared it. It was as if I were the only one he called by that name.

The raspy gruffness of his voice didn't intimidate me. It was the gentle touch on my head and the slow, easy chuckle that gave him away.

He loved me in a special way. I could tell. When I'd had a particularly rough "childhood crisis," or in other words, when I hadn't been allowed to follow my brother on a jaunt across he vast acreage, my grandfather would motion me toward the glass candy jar that always sat on the counter of the pie safe. I'd reach inside and gran has many of the chocolate drops in my grubby hand as possible, grateful for the attention to a somewhat undeserving spoide child.

I was never forgotten when he had to go into town for my grandmother. I was allowed to choose among at least six kinds of chewing gum he would have sprawled in his big farmier's palm when he returned.

The spicy sweet smell of his aftershave still clings to my memory from the many times I would throw my arms around his neck, burying my face in the crook of his shoulder. I loved to kiss him, breathing the just-shaved cleanness of his skin. It was a wonder, even to a child's mind, how a man could work so hard in the grubbiness and sweaty head of the fields and still manage to smell like he always did.

Such meticulous grooming was a part of his personality. Never once in the many times I watched himcut a "chaw" of "Day's Work" chewing tobacco with his pocketknife and place it in his jaw, did he let a drop of juice touch his chin.

I often sat on the walk-worn rock that served as the front step and watched him chur a piece of tobacco in his mouth, splitting off to the side of the wooden porch while the English shepherd rested at his feet.

I tried to mirnic him, using two or three wads of bubble gum to achieve the effect. He wouldn't let on that he knew. We'd talk, just like I'd seen him do with some of the neighbor men who would owne for a visit late on summer afternoons after the most of their farm work had been done.

Even the silence we shared was comfortable. I'd dig in the dirt to the left of the porch while he scrutinized the hillside. Every so often a chicken would scuttle across in front of us. Sometimes I wondered if he noticed at all.

Even as a youngster I realized daydreams were important for everyone. It was during these times that I wondered what he was dreaming while he gazed at the woodshed beyond the open gate, looked toward the footing that spanned the creek at the bottom of the hill or perend out over one of the two gardens that lined either side of the house.

Once upon a time 13 years ago seemed like yesterday. Now, a white hospital gown replaced the denim jeans and blue chambray shirt I had been cautolome to. The big strong hand lay limp, blending into the crisp whiteness of the bedsheet. His chest heaved erraitacilly, speeding up sometimes only to slow down at others.

He seemed so old.

Just once again I wanted to taste the chocolate drops from the eandy jar while he wiyed tears from my face, watch him take the neatly wrapped chunk of tobacco from the pocket of his jacket or stroke the dog sprawled at his feet. Even now, I strain to hear the clang of the bucket and the scatter of loos news roundup on page four-

Kernel Crossword

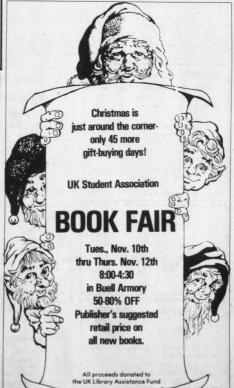

Richard I. Fleischer Attourney at Law 202 Eagle Savings Building 914 Main Street cinnatti, Ohio 45202 (513) 621-1181

L.T.J. ADVANCE REGISTRATION November 11-12, 1981 10 A.M. - 7 P.M.

NOR THOREGE ROTC

rsity of Kentucky, Lexington, KY 40506-0042, is published class days during Third class postage poid at Lexington, Ky, 40511, Subscriptions rates: $25.

news roundup

State

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky State University Board of Regents may review the job performance of KSU President W.A. Butts at a special mance of KSU President W.A. Butts at a special meeting today.

Barney Tucker, vice-chairman of the board, said several members have expressed dissatisfaction with Butts in recent months. The meeting is being held one day before a special committee of the Council on Higher Education meets to make a recommendation on the future of KSU.

The full council meets Thursday to consider budget requests from the various state-supported universities for the next biennium. The Minority Affairs Committee began studying various proposals concerning KSU the wake of a federal desegregation order last January for all Kentucky's public universities. Various proposals concerning KSU have been offered to the committee, ranging from closing the school and merging it with other state universities to spending $11 million to upgrade it.

Nation

WASHINGTON — States and local communities cannot shut down stores or theaters displaying sexually explicit materials before getting a court ruling that the materials are obscene, the Supreme Court ruled yesterday. By a 6-3 vote, the justices upheld rulings that a Washington state law that in some cases would allow such closings without a court hearing was an unconstitutional "prior restraint" on free reseach.

an unconstitutional prior expects.

In separate actions, the court refused to protect parents of public school students from having to pay for school property vandalized by their children and agreed to decide whether the NAACP must pay for a 1990s boycott of whiteowned businesses in Mississippi.

The court's affirmance in the Washington case was issued without a written opinion and without oral arguments being held.

was issued without a written opinion and without oral arguments being held.

In other matters, the court also agreed to decide whether the Washington Post should get information the State Department says may jeopardize, if published, the safety of two men living in Iran. The newspaper filed a Freedom of Information Act lawsuit seeking to find out whether the two Iranian nationals are naturalized U.S. citizens.

WASHINGTON — The 100 B-1 bombers President Reagan wants to buy would cost $39.8 billion, congressional budget watchers said today as the administration's proposed array of missiles and bombers met increasing resistance in Congress.

The Congressional Budget Office, in a letter released by the office of Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., said its figures take account of inflation as well as of additional equipment not included in the Air Force's estimate.

the Air Force's estimate.

The Air Force has estimated the cost at $19.7 billion, in 1981 dollars.

Leahy, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said in a statement, "We cannot pay for the B-1 with last year's dollars or build it without full equipment."

"The B-1 bomber will be obsolete before it is deployed," he said, "I do not believe we can afford a 940 billion flying Edsel."

Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, on the other hand, supported the B-1, saying its cancellation by former President Carter was "a tragic mistake" which "more than doubled the cost."

Garn a member of the Aproceptations sub-former reasons which "more than doubled the cost."

Garn, a member of the Appropriations subcommittee on defense, said the B-1 is needed to bridge the years until the radar-eluding Stealth homber is developed.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Space officials gave the go-ahead yesterday for a second, abbreviated countdown to start Tuesday morning and leading to the shuttle Columbia's curtaincall flight.

call flight.
The clock is to start at 8 a.m. EST, aiming for a 7:30 a.m. Thursday launch of the first spaceship ever to take a repeat trip in orbit.
The first count got to within 31 seconds of littoff last Wednesday, only to be blocked by clogged filters in two of Columbia's three auxiliary resear units.

last weenesday, our or the control of the power and the power units. The units have been cleaned, the spacecraft checked and astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly are ready to try again. They will fly here Tuesday from their training base at the Johnson Space Center in Houston.

As last week, it appears the weather will be touch and go, with a storm front heading toward Cape Canaveral. Light, intermittent rain was forecast for Thursday morning. "Right now they're saying the weather should be OK for launch," said space agency spokesman Mark Hess. "That front is expected move through here on Wednesday and be gone by Thursday." At the launch pad, Hess said, "everything is running along very smoothly," with pre-count preparations ahead of schedule. Launch director George Page said he could see no reason to delay the start of the count on Tuesday.

WASHINGTON — Presidential press.

the start of the count on Tuesday.

WASHINGTON — Presidential press secretary James S. Brady, giving a "thumbs up" sign and quipping, "I miss most of you," formally opened the newly refurbished White House press quarters yesterday in his first official about 150 reporters and photographers applauded loudly when Brady, in a wheelchair, was brought to the dais.

"Hello, good friends," be called out after the applause had subsided.
"I'm we're all watting for the day when you appliates had subsided.

"Jim, we're all waiting for the day when you are back for good," said President Reagan, who was himself wounded in the attack. "I am, too," Brady responded, with obvious emotion in his voice.

Though doctors say Brady, 41, has made a Inough doctors say brady, 41, has made a remarkable recovery, he is partially paralyzed on the left side and carries his left arm in a sling. Both Reagan and Brady cut the red, white and blue ribbon formally dedicating the press area. Reagan took the opportunity to announce that he will hold a press conference at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

The three-month removation cost $166,000.

compiled from ap dispatches

LOS ANGELES — Pulitzer Prize-winning historian Will Durant, who wrote 11 volumes of "The Story of Civilization," has died of a heart attack. He was 98. Durant died Saturday at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center where he had been hospitalized since Oct.

Center where he had been hospitalized since Oct.
3. His death came two weeks after that of his wife and collaborator of 68 years, Ariel. Durant apparently never learned of his 83-year-old wife's death.

"The Story of Civilization" was hailed by some critics as the most impressive history produced in the 20th century. The 10th volume, "Rousseau and the Revolution," won a Pulitzer Prize for general non-fiction in 1988.

He was in his 20s when he began gathering material for his masterwork. He had conceived of "The Story of Civilization" as he lay ill with dysentery in Damascus, Syria, in 1912.

CHARLESTON, W.Va. — The principal of Ruffner Elementary School says she thought a Ku Klux Klan outfil worn to school by an 11-year-old boy was a "ghost costume". The school's Halloween party Oct. 30, routfil to the school's Halloween party Oct. 30, routfil to the school's Halloween party Oct. 30, routfil to the charleston Daily Mail.
School principal Leia Cummings responded Monday that she didn't realize the boy had worn a Klan uniform until after the Halloween party. "I just thought be had a ghost costume on," she said. "We even had parents in the room and they didn't see it."
Joan Cyrux, one of the parents who wrote to protest the costume, said it included a hood and a white sheet with red spots and "KKK" written on the back.

World

WARSAW, Poland — A draft agreement will be signed today to end a 19-day-wildcat strike by 160,000 workers in Zielona Gora province, the most extensive regional walkout in Poland since Solidarity was founded 14-months ago, a union speckerspare ago.

Solidarriy was rounoed 14-montra sago, a umon spokesman sago, a umon a raccord would end the penultimate strike in a wave of wildcat walkouts that swept the country last month, iding more than 220,000 and raising the threat of a government martial law that the same of the crippling job actions. The Solidariy leadership has appealed for an end to the strikes.

Solidarity leadersup nas appearen or an eno uo the strikes.

Marian Podsada, Solidarity's spokesman in the province 230 southwest of Warsaw, told The Associated Frees that a draft agreement meeting the local union chapter's demands was hammered out in a "gruelling," all-night bargaining session that ended yesterday.

The Zielona Gora dispute began oct. 22 with themands by local Solidarity officials for the removal of three state farm managers for what the union called incompetency.

Podsada said the accord includes the removal of the farm managers, reinstatement of a dismissed Solidarity leader at the state farm in the village where the protest began, guarantees of no reprisals against strikers and strike pay equal to normal vacation pay.

Thorogood concert 'thoroughly good'

It is difficult to write a review that contains more than a few superlatives. Those who didn't attend Sunday night's George Thorogood concert will know the show was superb, exciting, outrageous, exhausting, energetic, frantic and thoroughly good. Those who didn't, please bear with me. I'm trying to be objective.

review

The two-and-a-half-hour "Sunday night jamboree and hootenamy" had 1,000 people in the Student Center Grand Ballroom on their feet, dancing, swaying, stomping and singing along with the young dynamo. From the sound check and throughout the set, he never stopped moving. Even during the two slowed-down tunes, "My Love Will Follow You" and Elmore James "Her Bey Is Crying," he kept up a steady gyrating motion. He was frequently down on his knees, duckwalking and executing some steps made famous by Chuck Berry and his peers.

Thorogood dared the crowd — semi-subdued during the first couple of numbers - to find "the dance floor in this dump, er, I mean this place.

"Girls are always ready to dance," he teased. "You guys just sip your becars and say "Im too cold odance." "That was all it took — from that point on the energy coming from the ballroom could have sustained the University's power needs well through 1990.

It has been said that if Thorogood gave off any more energy the government would book him in a lead barrel would book him in a lead barrel would book him in a lead barrel and the state of the stage when he plays "Ride on Josephine" will probably die of leukemia by the age of 35. That was attested to Sunday night.

Thorogood's music is a rehashing of songs that have gone before. His idols are John Lee Hooker ("One Burton, One Scotch, One Beer"), Bo Diddley ("Who Do You Lover") Hound Dog Taylor, Howlin' Wolf, Elmore James and Chuck Berry, whose "Golden Decade" was Thorogood's first album purchase.

Taylor, Howlin' Wolf, Elmore James and Chuck Berry, whose "Golden Decade" was Thorogood's first album purchase.

purchase.

Although he's recorded few original songs, his treatments of others' music cannot be called total plagiarism.

Most of the guitar riffs are simplistic

Slang ·

— "We just bang the hell out of three chords," said bassist Bill Blough in a Rolling Stone interview. "The jams are more than satisfying." Offering the traditional blessing of the crowd with the neck of his guitar, kissing a few feminine hands, playing his guitar in acrobatic positions and taking his chances wandering through the crowd, Thorogood left those in attendance as worn out as himself.

Blough, Jeff Simpson on drums, himself.

Blough, Jeff Simpson on drums, and sax man Hank Carter complemented every chord and every note produced by Thorogood's hot lither hands. Their present tour including 50 dates in 90 states in 90 days has to be a grueling endeavor for the band. If there was any exhaustion setting in on any of the members, they hid it well. The stop in Lexington was number 17.

Traveling with a skeleton crew, the band does most of its own setup and teardown, and finding time to do laundry becomes a major undertaking. The two vehicle convoy includes a 1979 white Checker Cab, conspicuously parked behind the Student Center during the show.

Two encores, demanded by the crowd, were graciously granted before the band finally called it a right. The volume of the show was only then fully realized. Fans shouted at each other because of the intense ringing in their ears.

The strain of "It Wasn't Me," "Move It On Over" and the encored jum of "Ride on Josephine" will be bouncing around the heads of those close to the show and said that at its peak, the music registered in at 135 decibels.

Radio station WKQQ obliged the overwhelming demand for accress to the show by broadcasting the concern concerning of the show whas become apparent. Although recordings of the show whas became and after the broadcast, a spokesman at WKQQ suggested that anyone wanting to arrange a no-money-involved exchange do through poster campaigns.

Again, this type of exchange is illegal, and Thorogood's label, Rounder, reserves the right to prosecute anyone discovered trying to sell the recordings.

Rosemont -Briefs

Continued from page one proposed Rosemont Garden exten-sion sion.

Bernard McCarthy, 509 Harry St., said, "Traffic has to go somwewhere. There is nowhere to send traffic without it going through someone's without it going through someone's meighborhood. Hat the opposition He claimed that the opposition groups were being "excessively hysterical and are spreading quite a bit of false information," and said the proposed extension needs to be built "like any other street in Lexington." McCarthy's talk was greeted with a he appeared to be the only person present who supported the proposed extension, he presented the planning commission with a pettion signed by 615 people who he said feel the same way he does.

Other people also presented petitions that opposed the extension to the commission.

Several representatives of Several representatives of Shady Lane, Aylesford and Southern Heights, spoke out against the extension.

education. Areas of interest will in-clude urban agriculture, urban forestry and urban horticulture. Horsbrugh is a professor of ar-chitecture and envirology at the University of Notre Dame. He has in-

University of Notre Dame. He has in-itiated pioneering concepts in large-scale planning and design in the United Kingdon, Canada, the Middle East and the United States in terms of environmental planning involving landscape, industrial and urban con-ditions ditions.

The lecture is being sponsored by the College of Agriculture.

Continued from page one minology are used, Pival said, as a means of isolation. "Teenagers probably intentionally use slang to cut themselves off from adults or even from other peer groups," she said. "Usually slang is localized. For example, slang at UK is probably very different than that at the University of South backa," she said. "In Chicago, we use 'kookalo' for something that is really crazy, Also 'have had a hard time learning 'too funny' and 'it's a scream,' 'said Melissa Dobson, physical education freshman from Chicago.

Slang is not just confined to western cultures.
Tom Hudak, an English professor who has traveled in the Eastern hemisphere, said he feels slang is universal.

KINKO'S COPIES

Fast & Friendly Service

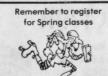

Two Xerox Copiers

Bindings

Film Processing
Passport Photos
Greeting Cards

"Wide Selection of Papers "Business and School Supplies VISIT OUR NEWLY REMODELED STORE

345 S. Limestone 253-1360 ours - Mon - Thurs 8-8 Fri - 8-6 Sat - 10-4

WE CAN HELP YOU ...

508 W. Second St

Alpha Gamma Rho proudly present "A NIGHT AT THE OSCARS" 1981 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, November 10, 1981

tickets available at ADPi & AGR houses All Proceeds Donated to Cardinal Hill Hospital

Alpha Delta Pi &

COUPON
Bring this coupon to KERNEL Offices,
Room 210 Journalism Building
Monday-Friday 8:00 a.m. 4:30 p.m.
Only *1.50 for 10 words or less. COUPON

Squirrelly affair

Student investigates tree-dwellers for independent study project

By JIM BAZINI Reporter

ng of nitar, lying and ring left at as ums, comvery at litindays r the set-they was s il-bel, pro-

CE

Campus squirrels may be finding there are plenty of nuts to go around—but just not enough trees. Or at least that's what Stuart West, forestry senior, will be trying to determine by investigating the winter habits of squirrels on cam-pus.

pus.
West will be conducting the investigation as an independent

pus.

West will be conducting the investigation as an independent study.

William C. McComb, a forestry professor who will be overseeing West's study, said he believes that the squirrels may be overpopulated on campus. He said a "normal" population of squirrels in a forest would be two squirrels per acre. From the best estimates, the population on campus is about 3 squirrels per acre.

West believes the major reason for the high squirrel population is an overabundance of food. Squirrels will eat anything from acorns to the leftover remains of burgers from the campus grill.

West and McComb said they believe the overpopulation of squirrels can cause a high mortality rate during the winter because of a lack of shelter, rather than the lack of food.

West and McComb have a two-fold croblem: How many squirrels

Their solution is to trap and tag a small sample ofsquirrels and determine their weight, sex and age before setting them free to mingle with the rest of the squirrels.

Twenty-five squirrels have been captured in trees with traps a least 10 feet above the ground to avoid any problems with people disturbing them (even so, West did enjournels). The people who destroyed the traps ". probably saw a squirrel in the trap and set it loose," he said. "I had a lot of people wondering what I was doing in the trees," West said. But he made sure everything was legal by applying for a license from the state so the finished yet. He said he plant to scan the campus a couple of times a week to approximate the campus squirrel population.

His method of taking census is to walk through about 10 percent of the campus, and take count of all squirrels in sight. Then by combining this count with the ratio of tagged squirrels, he hopes to gain a fairly accuracy estimate of the animal's estimate of the animal's estimate of the animal's estimate of the animal's resemble to a state of the squirrels of the campus.

West plans to continue the study until his graduation this semester. He said he hopes that McComb continues the study by inviting other students to participate in the study. Both West and McComb believe more accuracy can be achieved by continuing the study over a period of time.

If Election Day results are any indication, Tom Wicker, associate editor at The New York Times, believes that the Democratic Party may be reshaping their forces for a comeback to political power.

Wicker, whose "In The Nation" column is syndicated nationally, is on campus from Nov. 2-15 in the first of three visiting professorships he will serve this academic year. He will return in January to work with an editorial writing class in the journalism department and in April for a political science seminar.

Wicker said in an interview last week that the recent election of two Democrats to state governorships may signal a "setback" to President Reagan and the conservative movement in America.

The Republican National Committee, he said, "spent terrific amounts of money against the Democrats" running in the Virginia and New Jersey elections. The president, who handly won both states in the 1900 election, also campaigned for the Republican candidate for governor of Virginia claiming that a vote for him was a vote for Reagan.

He said the wins by Democrats Charles Robb in Virginia and Thomas Charles Robb in Virginia and Thomas Florio in New Jersey "work against the idea that conservatism and Reaganism haven't taken hold in America."

America."
Wicker said the 1980 presidential election "was a resounding rejection of (former President Jimmy) Carter." The liberals approaches to America's ills were perceived as not working or not working with ownching or hough to be allowed to continue, he said, mak-

Still one month left to go

United Way surpasses 1981 goal

By PEGGY BOECK
Assistant News Editor

They've done it again. The United Way campaign at UK has reached its goal for the 1981 drive and set a new record, having raised $167.57 as of yesterday with over a month of fundraising togo.

Paul Appel, UK chairman for the United Way, said the initial campaign as the United Way, said the initial campaign of the 1981 drive and set a new record, having raised $167.57 as of yesterday with over a month of fundraising togo.

Paul Appel, UK chairman for the United Way campaign as the provision of the previous year. Appel said to the United Way to charging each or the drive, appel said. "Funds will be coming in until the end of the year year the United Way to charging each or possible the provision of the campaign included by campaign or the campaign included and the provision of the previous year. Appel said to the previous year. Appel said to the previous year. Appel said to the biggest fundraiser so far, according the provision of the previous year. Appel said to the biggest fundraiser so far, according the provision of the previous year. Appel said to the biggest fundraiser so far, according the provision of the previous year. Appel said to the biggest fundraiser so far, according the provision of the previous year. Appel said to the biggest fundraiser so far, according the provision of the previous year. Appel said to the biggest fundraiser so far, according the provision of the year o

-campus crime -

Oct. 30 - A door was damaged in an attempted break-in at the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments. An incident of first degree wanton endangerment and the Greg Page Apartments and the Grego Page Apartments and the Grego Pag is the number to call to Charge it to your Master Card or Visa account. Deadline for classifieds is noon one day prior to the day of publication. Ads can be placed at the Kernel classified office, 210 Journalism Building on the UK campus. All ads must be paid in advance BY CASH CHECK OR BANK CARD.

Charge It 258-4646

Kernel

CLASSIFIEDS

Rates

CLASSIFIEDS
One Day, $1.75
Three Day, $1.50 per day
Five Day, $1.40 per day
The above rates are for ads of 10 words or less, there is as additional charge of .15 for each extra word per day.

for sale

(No appointment necessary ecause the doctor and 3 techni-ians can fit 7 patients at the same

Unlimited

Scott 326R Receiver-30w excellent condition $100 259-0277 offee 5. Solid Silver Flute Gemelnhardt-open hole is little foot $1200, 266-2157 offer 97M. Pleane-Boldwin spinet excellent condi-tion $499 or best offer.

Honda Moped-low mileoge $350 258-6162 704 Kirwan Twr. evenings until 2AM 1973 Impela-sell or trade for motorcy-cle 255-4032 2PM-4PM.

Freel-Friendly 3 month old black male kitten. Litter trained, shots, wormed 258-8885, 277-1624.

for rent

2 bedroom Apertment-neor UK $225 plus utilities. No children Yeor leose. 252-4842.
2 room apertment-$125 plus utilities. All private No pets yeor leose 252-4842.
Apartment for rent-312A plus utilities. Chipyete-$185 per month. Immediate occupancy Call 255-3262 or 266-9924.

help wanted

Chevy's-Brand new in Chevy Chase now interviewing for Bartenders and waitresses. 836 Euclid Ave. 269-8680.

GENERAL CINEMA
GARGAIN MATINEES - $175
MON - SAT ALL SHOWS BEFORE 6 PM
SUN E HOLIDAYS 19 MATINEE ONLY TURFLAND MALL

personals

Total Transmission of the Noble Feli-lary 80-00 present of the USA Book Felin Marchael Control Transmission of the State State of the State will research for the State will research for the State will research for the State of the State of the State for the State of the State of the State for the State of the Description variations:

SEF, Presents-Antoney General Steve
Ses-lear Thursdy Nev. 19. SPM SC 206.

ADPR Kerser P-The big night is finally here! Hong on to your voice just in finally here! Hong on to your voice just in Krolly
here! Hong on to your voice just in Krolly here! Hong on to your voice just in heal longer! You've done great! Love, Linds.

KFDOC on Ensers Seals come, heals is state funding, Halp sere III Meal longer! Hong I Halp State Center Nov. 10, 6PM information 258-5222 or 258-5227.

NEEDLEPOINT BELTS leather backed $18,00 Potlatch Pleasures Chevy Chees 8974 E. High 51.

Admirer.

Sigma Pi-Good luck at the Oscars tonight.

BA Diene-Happy Birthday! Though you're back in black, Kevin loves ya and so do we. Love, Patti Pebs, Susan, Leslie, and the BA's roommate

Room, Kitchen, Beth-for female stu-dent $200 month. 254-897.

Female-Share exceptional 4 bedroom townhouse with 3 others. Lexington Ave. No lease $170 includes utilities. 266-1737.

University of Kentucky

wanted

m-private home in exchange for time babysitting for dependable Car needed. 233-2870.

lost & found

memos

AAF Members-Leorn obout Advertising Rodio Spots with Clint Cellins of WKOQ. Mini-Workshop - 4PM. Nov. 13th at WKOQ. Meet 3:30 Maggie Room.
The University of Kentucky Chapter-of PSi CHI. the Notional Psychology Monorary: is spensoring a Child Abuse Symposium on November 17, at 7:30 PM in Boom 214 of the Student Center.

Picce-Hut

sports

only typical of what this man has been put through this year. He still comes across as a man who the stucky, and seems to be close to his players in spite of all the "mischief" and happy at the fara support. It is to bad that things didn't work of the spite of the man spite of all the mischief in the spite of the sp Curci has weathered storms of gossip, but end may be near Amid all the glory in the 17-10 Ken-tucky victory over Vanderbilt Satur-day, there was also sadness - a touch of sadness expressed in the mood of UK coach Fran Curci, who wept for a moment while coming off the field in Nashville.

Nashville.
Emotions have run high all through the 1981 season for this man who has literally been pushed over the coals of controversy since its beginning Sept.

ward

And then yesterday, even one of his strongest supporters, University President Otis Singletary, seemed to have turned his back on him after appointing an ad hoc committee to review the entire football program at UK, and supposedly informed Curci Nov. 2 this would be his last year with the Wildcats.

controversy since its beginning Sept.

UK, and supposedly informen curca No. 2 this would be his last year with game, Curci drew fire from as high up as the governor of Kentucky, who unsuccessfully tried to replace Curci with former NFL coach George Allen. It has not been a good year for Fran beat Vanderbilt, said "Tive been under pressure since Nov. 25."

Curc'is troubles grew even worse as his team went six games in a row without a win, Now, at 2-7, it seems that nothing will secure another year for him as the head coach at Kentucky.

confirm nor deny," Curci said he was proud of the effort put forth by solemaly. He announced that practice would be closed to the press, and the turned and walked alone down the sidelines of the field.

However, there was also a trace of single in his voice when he was questioned.

Press members packed up their cameras and equipment and left, while Curci stood by himself with arms crossed out on the edge of a lonely sea of green.

Curci had managed a victory at Vanderbilt, knowing all the time he would probably be terminated as coach at the season's end. His tears may have been tears of joy for winn-ing the game, but more likely, they were tears of bitterness.

His mod was one of mixed feelings after Saturday's game: he was happy for his players, who he said had hung on so long without a win; he was proud of junior safety Andy Molls, who had come up with the winning play; he was proud of the performance of his new quarterback Tom Boyle; and

However, there was also a trace of anger in his voice when he was questioned about Singletary's action toward forming the review committee, which incidently, is not supposed to make its report to the Athletics Association's Board of Directors until Nov. 24.

"They just put a bunch of people on committees and don't even ask the players what they think about it," Curei said with frustration on his Curci said with Insurance.

What seems wrong with the whole issue is Singletary's apparent action to boot Curci by himself, under the cover of the newly formed committee, which is an illegal move under UK regulations. That decision belongs to the Board of Directors.

With only two games remaining in his coaching career at Kentucky, perhaps the only bright spot this season has been the UK crowd support Saturday at Nashville. An estimated 15,000 Wildcat fans were on hand to help lift the spirit enough to add that "never-give-up" feeling.

Curci, himself, said he was amazed t the spirit these Kentuckians show-at the spirit these Kentuckians showed after such a long losing streak.

"I was really expecting to get burned last week on my call-in show back in Lexington, but I was treated with favor and respect instead," Curci and apports writer for the Kernel.

United Way tourney

The third annual United Way Flag Football Tournament held last weekend at Seaton Field raised $1,675 for that organization. Forty-six teams competed in the men's division and nine teams in the women's.

Fran Curci is destined to go out a loser at Kentucky, and with so much support across the state, it is a shame University officials could not have handled the issue with a little more Yesterday was a picture that seemed to symbolize Curci's final days at Kentucky. On a cold, gray November afternoon, Fran Curci was left standing utterly alone.

First start as Wildcat quarterback

Tom Boyle bears up well under game pressure

Saturday was a big day for Ken-tucky quarterback Tom Boyle.
After nearly two years of running plays for the scout team against the Wildcat defense in practice after practice, it was finally his turn to take a varsity snap. Surprisingly, it ddin't come until after a point of almost no return for the 1-7 Cats and against a team who legendarily has been a last-place finisher in the Southeastern conference.

Losing to Vanderbilt would have truly been the ultimate low in Kentucky football - especially after a long, grueling season of negativism and bad luck which seems to have plagued the team all along the way.

that practice, and practice, makes perfect.

To Boyle and his father, leading, centucky past Vandy last Saturday was the big time - especially now that after Saturday 12-10 victory over the Commodores. 'I had worked with the first team all week but didn't find out that I would be starting until last Thursday.

"The only pressure I felt was that I might be a little rusty and I was just hoping that I could get my mind back into the game." he said.

The 6-2 sophomore was taking his

But Boyle was lurking in the shadows all the time, as a red-shirted member of a young team with a tough schedule of opponents, not even suspecting he would eventually get his chance to shine.

That chance came Saturday at Vanderbilt, and Boyle wasn't about to let it go by without showing everyone that practice, and practice in the leading feeting the properties of t waited too long to throw the pass," Boyle said confidently. But he agreed that it was a day learning what he could do when given the chance. "It's good to win, and I feel like I can play with this league," Boyle said. "It was worth the whole year of eligibility to get to play today."

0 after defeating Texas-El Paso 35-7, made the ratings for the first time since the school officially became a member of the NCAA's Division I in 1976.

men's division and nine teams in the women's.

Fraley's Wildcaks, a team from the Lexington league, captured the men's title by narrowly defeating a UK team, the Rackers. Third place went to another city team, T and K.

In the men's consolation bracket, a team from Somerset, Reckless Abandon, defeated Progressive Insurance.

The women's division was won by a Blanding Tower team, the Tower of Power. Zeta Tau Alpha sorority was runner-up. The women's consolation division was captured by Kappa Kappa Gamma, with the Blanding II Thoroughbreds second.

The tournament raised $1,500 for the United Way the first year it was played, and $600 last year.

Cancer research

Cancer research

WVLK Radio and the North Park Racquetball/Fitness Center are sponsoring the McDowell

Sports Update

Cancer Research Competitions at the the racquetball center Nov. 14 and 15.

The entry categories include racquetball, wallyball and Pac-Man.
All entrants must have a minimum of 10 sponsors — per point for racquetball and wallyball: per 1,000 points for Pac-Man; and each entrant must sell a minimum of 10 raffle tickets.

Proceeds of all sponsorship and Proceeds of all sponsorship and raffle tickets ($1 each) will be contributed to McDowell Cancer Research. For more information, contact Janet Felts at 233-6541.

Cross country results

The men's and women's cross country teams both placed fifth in their respective meets over the weekend.

The women finished behind a tough field of Virginia, North Carolina State, Clemson and Tensease. One bright serve was the Carolina State, Clemson and Ten-nessee. One bright spot was the sixth place individual finish of Ber-nadette Madigan. Her finish qualified her to run in the NCAA Nationals to be held in Wichita, Kansas on Nov. 23.

Top four football teams retain rankings in poll

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

Pitt, Clemson, Southern California and Georgia held onto the top four spots in The Associated Press college football poll, yesterday, and the University of Hawaii, a relative newcomer to Division I, made the major college rankings for the first time

por coneger landings to the term of the cone of the co

ing Rutgers 470-71 to 84-0 by trouncing Rutgers 470-71 to 84-0 by trouncthe Tigers are 94-0 for the first time in 33 years — by edging North Carolina
10-8, a setback that dropped the Tar Heels from eighth place to 13th. Clemson received seven first-place votes and 1,727 points.
Southern Cal, which defeated California 21-3, received the other eight first-place ballots and 1,322 points. Last week, Pitt led Clemson and USC in first-place votes 49-9-7 and 1,283-1,201-1,178 in points with 65 of the 68 voters participating.

Georgia's defending national champions defeated Florida 26-21 and received 1,129 points to remain in fourth place. However, Texas was held to a 14-14 tie by Houston and aligned from fifth to 10th.

That cleared the way for Penn State and Alabama, which meet this Saturant and Alabama, which meet this Saturant.

ped from fifth to 10th.

That cleared the way for Penn State and Alabama, which meet this Saturday in State College, Pa., to move up one position each to fifth and sixth place, respectively. Penn State defeated North Carolina State 215 and received 1,043 points, while Alabama had a week off. The Crimson Tide totaled 935 points.

While the College Pa. to move up of the properties of the p defeated North Carolina State 22-15 and received 1,043 points, while Alabams had a week off. The Crimson Tide totaled 935 points.

Nebraska jumped from 11th over the seventh with 798 points following a 347 rout of Oklaboma State, and Southern Mississippi 7-6,
Washington disappeared after being to Southern Mississippi 7-6, Washington disappeared after being blanked by UCLA 31-0, and Ohio State seventh with 798 points following a 34rout of Oklaboma State, and Southern Mais story in the southern Mais to Maines of the southern Mais step 1start of the Maines of the Southern Mais step 1start of the Maines o

Support U.K. Women's

Rubgy...

Hug A Rugger Today!

2116 333 S. Lime

NEEDS YOU!!

Bar Wars III is under way, but we have a problem ... we drew Wednesday Nights is Two Keys ..

So we need you to come Early!Competition starts at 7:00, so to help and you know we'll be packe

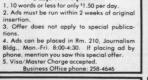

75¢ Drinks (house brands) 50¢ Drafts

75¢ World Famous Watermelons We've raised more money than any other bar in the last two years (finishing 1st & 2nd)! So we'll support you with specials & hope you support us Wednesday - Come Early!!!
We'll have a helluva party to celebrate your winn!!!

5 for 3 Classified Special 5 days for the price of 3

1. 10 words or less for only $1.50 per day.
 2. Ads must be run within 2 weeks of original

CONTACTSII OPTICIANS SPECTACLESII SUNGLASSESII

John Shouse & Dennis Peck invite you to their office. We will be happy to assist you with your eye care needs. Bring in your prescription or take advantage of our FREE doctor referral

20% discount for students, faculty expires June 30, 1982 No credit terms. Cash, check VISA, Master Charge.

Tonight at 803 South Honoring Spiro Agnew's 63rd Birthday Buy One, Get a Free One Under-The-Table 803 SOUTH

ATTENTION STUDENTS:

Job Openings Top Wages • Flexible Hours and Days Advancement Opportunity Into Management Work with Professionals who have fun pleasing our guests. Hardees 252-4044 1133 Winchester Rd.

*UK's & Lexington's favorite entertainers:
"Doug Breeding and the Bunch"
"Special prices on Schnapps, Hops & mixed drinks
"DOOR PRIZES *WKQQ's Cruiser as e "Special Appearance by the "C-Bird" & the "Taste Buds" Enlistment begins at 7:00 p.m.!
269-6626 ID Required 1505 New Circle Rd.