JULIAN M. CARROLL
Governor of Kentucky

Julian Morton Carroll became Kentucky's 58th governor on Dec. 28, 1974, succeeding Wendell H. Ford, who was elected to the U.S. Senate. Carroll was elected to a full four-year term as governor in November 1975 and was inaugurated in December of that year. Born in McCracken County in 1931, Carroll attended Paducah Junior College after graduating from Heath High School. He was graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1954 and received his law degree from UK in 1956. Before becoming governor, Carroll served three years as lieutenant governor and ten years as a member of the Kentucky House of Representatives, the last four as Speaker of the House. He is an active member of the Optimist Club and a former Jaycee. He attained the highest office in Kentucky for laymen of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church in 1966-67 when he was named moderator of the Kentucky Synod. The Governor and his wife, Charlann, have four children.

DR. OTIS A. SINGLETARY
President, University of Kentucky

Dr. Otis A. Singletary came to Lexington in 1969 as the eighth president of the University of Kentucky, which was established in 1865 under provisions of the Morrill Act of 1862 as the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky University. In 1878, the school separated from KU and became an independent institution supported by the State. It has been known as the University of Kentucky since 1916.

Prior to assuming the UK presidency, Dr. Singletary was executive vice chancellor for academic affairs at the University of Texas, Austin. He earlier had been director of the Job Corps program for the Office of Economic Opportunity, and chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. His many honors include the UK Alumni Service Award—a recognition rarely bestowed upon a non-alumnus of the University.

CLIFFORD O. HAGAN
Director of Athletics

Cliff Hagan returned to his alma mater January 1, 1972, as assistant director of athletics and then was named athletics director July 1, 1975. One of the all-time great basketball players at UK, he played on teams that won 86 of 91 games and an NCAA championship (1951). The 1954 team, undefeated in 25 games, elected not to play in the national tournament. Hagan set a dozen SEC records and an NCAA record of 528 rebounds as a junior. He averaged 29 points a game, led the nation in rebounding, and scored a then-UK record 51 points against Temple in 1954.

He was All-American at UK, All-Pro with the St. Louis Hawks and player-coach of the Dallas Chaparrals. He was named the 1968 Texas "Professional Coach of the Year."

STADIUM INFORMATION

FIRST AID—The University of Kentucky provides, for your convenience and welfare, First Aid Stations on the ground level on both sides of the stadium. On the West side is Room 156, the East side Room 172. An ambulance is available at each corner of the stadium. Twenty doctors on duty are spotted in each section of the stadium and are easily accessible to Boy Scouts and ushers. Two golf cart ambulances are equipped for immediate aid and located on the second level on each side of the stadium. Persons with any type of chronic medical problem are requested to leave their name and seat location with the nurse on duty at either First Aid station. A person in need of assistance with a health emergency should report the situation immediately to the nearest Boy Scout or usher.

CARDIAC CARE—In cooperation with the University Medical Service, the University of Kentucky provides a cardiac resuscitation program.

LOST AND FOUND—Lost and found articles should be reported or turned in to an usher or a security officer. You may wish to write to the director of public safety (305 Euclid Avenue) and describe lost articles which will be returned if found.

CROWD NOISE PENALTY—Uncontrolled crowd noise can result in a five yard penalty against your team. Please observe quarterback and official's signals for quiet.

NO HORNS—Horns are not permitted in Commonwealth Stadium and will be picked up at gates. Be considerate and allow your neighbor to enjoy the game. Keep portable radios at a low volume.

GATE INFORMATION—All gates are open two hours before game time. Parking lots are open three hours before game time. All stadium exits will be opened after the game. Please do not leave the stadium during the game or at half-time if you plan to re-enter. No "Pass-out" tickets will be issued and you will not be permitted to re-enter.

FIELD REGULATIONS—Spectators must keep off the playing field at all times and after the game. Spectators must use the stadium ramps for exits.

LIQUORS—Alcoholic beverages are strictly prohibited within the stadium as are all food and drink containers including hard surfaced materials of any type, bottles, cans, thermos bottles, ice bags, ice chest, and any object related to above. Gate personnel are instructed to enforce this rule in the interest of safety.

PUBLIC ADDRESS—Messages for the public address announcer are acceptable only in emergencies and must be approved by the Sports Information Director at the Press Box.

SIGNS—Signs and barriers are restricted for Commonwealth Stadium in accordance with University regulations and policies established by the Public Safety Division.

PARKING—More than 5,000 parking spaces are located in four lots around the stadium, along with a bus-camper lot. Some areas are set aside for Blue & White Fund members, handicapped persons, staff and the press. Located nearby on the campus are many free parking spaces in University lots. Shuttle buses carry passengers to and from the campus lots and the stadium.

Fran Curci

HEAD FOOTBALL COACH

Fran Curci enters his fourth season as head football coach at the University of Kentucky, where the program still is in a rebuilding stage, as evidenced by the large number of freshmen and sophomores who have earned varsity letters during the past three years.

Curci's best year with the Wildcats was 1974, when he gave UK fans their first winning season (6-5) in nine years. Plagued by injuries, failure to find a suitable replacement for Mike Fanuzzi at quarterback and some unfortunate extemporaneous factors, the Wildcats fell to 2-8-1 last season.

Reputed as one of the nation's finest recruiters, Curci has worked long and hard to attract fine talent to Lexington and his first three Wildcat squads have featured a host of freshmen and sophomores playing prominent roles.

Curci came to the University from the University of Miami, Fla., where he was head coach two years. He started his career as freshman coach at Miami in 1962 after making All-American there in 1959 and playing as a 5-foot-9, 152 lb. quarterback for the old Dallas Texans of the AFL. In four years his Hurricane frosh teams won 12 and lost two. He later served as varsity offensive assistant at Miami (1966-67) and in both of those years Miami wound up in bowl games.

He was tapped by the University of Tampa in 1968 to see what he could do about a faltering football program; in three campaigns, he wrote one of the most amazing success stories in college football.

In his first year at Tampa, he put together a 7-3 season, which included victories over Mississippi State and Tulane. That earned for him the Florida Sports Writers Association "Coach of the Year" award, a recognition repeated in 1970. Curci's 1969 season was a brilliant 8-2 affair. His 10-1 record in 1970 also included a 31-14 triumph over Miami and brought the Tampans the nation's No. 1 College Division ranking as well as bringing Curci College Division "Coach of the Year" runner-up honors.

He took over as Miami grid boss Dec. 19, 1970, and left the program there in good shape for his successor.

A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., he played his high school ball in Miami, where he lettered three years as a quarterback at Archbishop Curley High and was All-City, All-Conference, Catholic All-State and his team's Most Valuable Player.

At the University of Miami, he was known as the "Mitey Magician." Playing at 152 pounds, he parlayed intelligence and desire to become All-America as a senior in 1959 after receiving honorable mention All-America and winning acclaim as one of the foremost sophomore football stars in the country in 1957.

His record-shattering feats at Miami included breaking of seasonal and career marks for total offense, most passes thrown, most passes completed and most yards gained on passing. He also was co-holder of the record for most TD passes thrown.

He rolled up 2,767 yards rushing and passing during his varsity career, breaking a total offense record that had stood for more than two decades.

As a senior, he captained Miami and climaxed his career by engineering a stunning upset (18-23) over Michigan State.

After graduation in 1960 with a degree in marketing, he played one year with the Dallas Texans and then served as a lieutenant in the Army, coaching and playing football for the Fort Eustis team, which won the National Service championship in the Missile Bowl.

Curci has been selected five times to coach in all-star games. He assisted Bear Bryant with the South team in Tampa's first annual American Bowl game three years ago, then served as South head coach the next year. He helped Charlie McClendon of LSU and Alex Agase of Northwestern direct the East in the Coaches All-America football game at Lubbock, Texas, two summers ago, was co-South coach with Bill Battle of Tennessee in Miami's Shrine North-South game in 1975 and assisted Lou Holtz with the East squad in the first Japan Bowl held this year in Tokyo.

THE EARLY YEARS OF COLLEGE FOOTBALL

by Joe Concannon, Boston GLOBE

The official celebration was in 1969. It was designated as "The Centennial Year" of college football by the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. The Post Office issued a commemorative stamp. Newspaper accounts said a "planned antiwar demonstration" was set if Richard Nixon came to a "Centennial Game" in New Brunswick, N.J. and 20,000 showed up for a parade.

That was the historical tribute, a genuflection to the beginning of the game, yet there is very strong evidence to suggest that the game played between Princeton and Rutgers on an empty lot on Nov. 6, 1869 was not really football. Rather it was soccer and, in the sense of accuracy, wasn't the first football game played five years later? In Cambridge, Mass.

It was between Harvard and McGill University of Montreal. It was known as "Boston football" and it took its roots from the tradition established by the Oneida Football Club of Boston, the first organized football club in the United States. The surviving members of the club erected a monument to its brief history (1862-65) on the Boston Common in 1925.

If the nation at large observed 1869 as the starting date of college football, the people at Harvard had some fun two years ago, recreating the game it had played 100 years before and referring to the 1974 season as "The Real Football Centennial." Decals were put out, stories were written and it passed quietly into history.

Harold M. Kennard, a football historian, wrote a letter to Harvard publicist Dave Matthews in 1973. "I have been agitating, to little avail, for over 35 years," he said, "to get football sports writers to drop the myth of that Princeton-Rutgers soccer game in 1869 as being the first game of American football. More power to you."

At the time, there was no response from the good people at Rutgers and Princeton. They simply let Harvard have its say, refusing to change their records. What most recent histories say is that Princeton and Rutgers set the stage, but the origins of the game as we know it today began on that day in Cambridge, Mass. when Harvard met McGill.

Early Years

"The year 1874," wrote Allison Danzig in his The History of American Football in 1956, "was a momentous one in American football. McGill University, through its captain David Roger, challenged Harvard to a game. Lacking games with other colleges because of the difference in its rules,

"On Saturday, November 6th, Princeton sent twenty-five picked men to play our twenty-five a match game of foot-ball," it read. "The strangers came up in the 10 o'clock train, and brought a good number of backers with them. After dinner, and a stroll around the town, during which stroll

6-4. "To describe the varying fortunes of the match," observed The Targum, "game by game, would be a waste of labor, for every game was like the one before." In a 1971 book, Oh, How They Played the Game, Danzig noted, that game "was soccer, or association football, with twenty-five men to a side. Running with the ball and passing it by hand were strictly forbidden."

Here Danzig elaborated. "Soccer was the game played everywhere on the American campus in 1869, except at one college. It might have remained the only football, or at least THE game of football, played to this day had it not been for the fact that at Harvard they had come up with a variety of football that had elements of rugby."

After 1869, Columbia and Yale entered the sport and, on Oct. 19, 1873, the four schools met in New York to formulate the first set of intercollegiate rules. Harvard declined an invitation, preferring to stick with its own rules and, a year later, met McGill in the two games that ultimately would lead to a more universal adoption of these rules.

"Football historians," reads a section in the official book put out by the National Football Foundation in 1971, "believe that Harvard's decision was the most important and far-reaching in the annals of American football. Had the Crimson accepted the invitation and gone along with Yale, Princeton, Columbia and Rutgers in the adoption of the code they eventually drafted in New York, the American game, as we know it today, never would have evolved and soccer would have been established as the No. 1 college sport."

"Intercollegiate soccer," wrote historian Tim Cohane in the Harvard Football News, "had been played by Princeton and Rutgers since 1869, and Columbia since 1870. Yale also took up soccer in 1873." He talked about the meeting in New York. "The Cantabrigians realized that any 'compromise' of games with four soccer-playing colleges probably would retain very little 'Boston football.'"

The following year, in 1875, Harvard issued a challenge to Yale to play a game under a compromise set of rules. Adopting "concessionary rules," the two met on Nov. 13, 1875. It was mostly a game of rugby. Har-

The 1894 Yale team at leisure.

Harvard welcomed the proposal and its captain, Henry Grant, accepted.

"McGill played rugby and Harvard played a game in which a player was permitted to run with the ball if pursued, but which was largely soccer. It was agreed that the first of the two games at Cambridge should be under Harvard rules. Harvard won it, three goals to none.

"The second game was played under McGill rules, in three half-hour sections, and resulted in a scoreless tie. This was the first intercollegiate Rugby game played in the United States and the first Rugby match of any kind in this country, unless it actually was Rugby that Yale and Eton players played (1873), which was not likely."

Go back, first, to Nov. 6, 1868, the day when Princeton traveled to Rutgers. Even an account in One Hundred Years of Princeton Football, published in 1969, admitted the game "bore no resemblance to the football of today. It was, essentially, soccer." Yet, the student newspaper at Rutgers, The Targum, carried an account of it.

billiards received a good deal of attention, the crowds began to assemble at the ball ground, which, for the benefit of the ignorant, we would say is a lot about a hundred yards wide, extending from College Avenue to Sicard Street.

"Previous to calling the game, the ground presented an animated picture. Grim-looking players were silently stripping, each one surrounded by sympathizing friends, while around each of the captains was a little crowd, intent upon giving advice, and saying as much as possible.

"Very few were the preliminaries, and they were quickly agreed upon. The Princeton captain, for some reason or other, gave up every point to our men without contesting one. The only material points were that Princeton gave up 'free kicks' whereby a player, when he catches the ball in the air is allowed to kick it without hindrance. On the other hand, our practice of 'babying' the ball on the start was discarded, and the ball was mounted, in every instance, by a vigorous 'long kick.'"

Whatever, Rutgers won that game,

The Celebrated MASCOTS of the SEC

Walking the sidelines in the Southeastern Conference can be a dangerous thing. Just ask retired Auburn coach Ralph Jordan. During his 25 year career, he was chased by Smokey, Tennessee's blue tick coon dog, almost run over by the Tennessee walking horse, and attacked by Uga, Georgia's Bulldog.

About the only place Jordan was safe was Birmingham's Legion Field, annual site of the Auburn-Alabama game. Birmingham is located some 600 feet above sea level and that makes it kind of hard to bring a rolling tide in every Saturday afternoon at 1:30. The regular Tide, however, has been rough enough lately.

Jordan's adventures are no different from other coaches who experience the joy, the sorrow, the agony and the ecstasy of walking sidelines in the SEC. The Southeastern Conference is a menagerie of animals, people dressed up like animals and all kinds of official and unofficial mascots.

Tennessee has its walking horse, blue tick coon dog, Volunteer, and from the stands, an occasional Big Orange. Kentucky has its Wildcat. Mississippi State and Georgia have their Bulldogs. Mississippi has Col. Rebel. Vanderbilt has a Commodore. Florida has Albert the Alligator. Auburn has a Tiger and something called a War Eagle. LSU also has a Tiger and Alabama has an elephant and the Crimson Tide.

The gods of football, in some stroke of infinite wisdom, did not ordain that Alabama would be known henceforth and forevermore as the Crimson Tide. Nor did they dictate that Tennessee would be the Volunteers. The story of the mascots and how they came to be identified with a certain school is as varied as the mascots themselves.

Let us begin with Alabama, the defending Southeastern Conference champion.

Officially, Alabama recognizes only "The Crimson Tide" as a team nickname, but the elephant will forever be a part of Alabama's vast football lore.

Newspapers first referred to Alabama as the raging Red Elephants around 1930, but it took a trip to the LSU's intimidating Mike III.

Rose Bowl and a 29-13 win over Stanford in 1935 for the Red Elephant to become universally accepted. The travel agency handling the official party's luggage had an elephant as its company symbol and every piece of Alabama baggage was plastered with a red elephant so it could be spotted easily. In California and across the nation, the elephant became solidly entrenched as a symbol for Alabama football. Down through the years, all efforts to dislodge it, including a current one by the University, have failed. Officially, Alabama ignores its elephant identification.

"The Crimson Tide" evolved from early newspaper accounts of Alabama games. Around 1906, Alabama was known simply as the "Crimson-White" for the school colors. Later, teams were called "the Thin Red Line." As Alabama engulfed opponent after opponent, newspaper headline writers, realizing "Thin Red Line" was a misnomer, began comparing Alabama's powerful teams to a crimson tide, still an appropriate comparison for a school that has won five straight conference championships.

The term "Tennessee Volunteers" is not limited to the athletic teams from the University of Tennessee. The whole state is known as the Volunteer state. Andrew Jackson began using the term when he mustered a group of Tennesseans, including Davy Crockett, to fight the Creek Indians in Alabama, and later the British in the Battle of New Orleans. During the Mexican

The 'War Eagle' is synonymous with Auburn football.

War, a call was issued for 2,800 Tennessee Volunteers. More than 30,000 men responded and Tennesseans have always taken great pride in their willingness to volunteer. That pride is readily evident on golden Saturday afternoons in Neyland Stadium on the banks of the Tennessee River in Knoxville.

The walking horse and the blue tick coon dog are native symbols of Tennessee lifestyles. The Big Orange, of course, is emblematic of the Orange jerseys Vol teams like to wear; Orange Ogres, they used to be called.

There was never much of a chance that University of Mississippi teams would be called anything other than Rebels, but it took a poll of Southern Sportswriters to make it official. Five possible nicknames were presented to 42 writers in 1936. Half the writers responded and 18 of the 21 liked Rebels. "If that many sportswriters like the name 'Rebel,'" a university official is supposed to have said, "then we shall not rebel."

Introducing the dollar stretchers.

Your SAFECO agent is a good person to know.
Because he can show you more than 136 ways to stretch your insurance dollar.
Here are some examples.

1. Cut costs on disability insurance by increasing the elimination period. The longer the elimination period (time lag between the beginning of a disability and the first income payment), the lower the premiums.

2. Keep your valuables in a safe place. You may be able to lower fine arts, stamp and coin collection insurance rates if you store the items in bank vaults, home vaults or fire-proof safes.

3. Go for a bigger hunk of life. Many insurance companies offer discounts for larger policies. So avoid buying a bundle of small policies when one might do.

4. Don't make the wrong move with moving insurance. Before you buy a special, and often expensive, policy sold by moving companies, check your homeowners. You may already be covered.

5. Check your life policy before you fly. If you have adequate life insurance coverage, you won't have to buy expensive airline trip transit policies.

6. Unless you own an oil well, don't invest in endowment policies. For most people, endowment policy premiums are too high for the value received. Many would be better off with a straight life policy.

7. Be a boating expert. Some companies will give you up to a 10% discount if you complete an approved power-boat handling course.

8. Increase deductibles on your business insurance. You could save up to 18% on your building insurance premium by carrying a $1,000 deductible.

9. Keep an extra set of accounts receivable. If you keep a duplicate set at another location, you could save up to 50% on the accounts receivable premium.

10. Check into I.R.A. retirement plans. They provide a good way to buy your life insurance through tax-deductible dollars.

11. Don't get stranded by your auto insurance. Check to see if your comprehensive provides transportation expenses if your car is stolen. You may be able to save yourself some car fare.

12. Go for the big deductibles. You could save a lot on your premiums if you carry a $200 collision deductible rather than a $100 deductible—and take a $50 deductible on comprehensive. And any loss over $100 is deductible from your income tax.

13. Lock the barn door before the horse gets away. Do everything you can to avoid losses to your home. Check for hazards. Install alarms. Buy good locks, and use them. Keep fire department, police and emergency medical aid numbers handy. It's the best way in the world to fight rising insurance costs.

14. Don't look for bargains in health insurance. A cheap policy just may not be adequate. And this is one place where it's better to have too much than too little.

15. Buy insurance from an agent who's not just a company man. A local independent agent, who represents many companies and sells many different insurance plans, may be able to get you a better deal. Because independents are free to sell you what's best for you. And get you the best value to boot.

If you think these tips make sense, see the people who wrote the book.

SAFECO has put together a handy, 36-page consumer guide that tells you how to get more for your insurance dollar. It contains the 15 tips you've just read. Plus 121 more. For this handy guide, write to SAFECO at SAFECO Plaza, Seattle 98185.

vard agreed to some soccer rules, Yale conceded to play 15 men to a side. The next year, Yale switched to the Harvard rules.

"There were many points of difference," wrote William R. Tyler in the Harvard Advocate, "in Harvard's Boston Game from the rugby game. It was eminently a kicking, as distinguished from a running and tackling, game . . . I would question if there were three men in college who had ever seen the egg-shaped ball. A drop kick was unknown."

There were a couple of Princeton men in New Haven to see the first Harvard-Yale game in 1875 and, after returning to campus, argued for an adoption of the different rules. Sentiment was strong to retain the rules drawn up in 1873, but eventually Princeton voted to change and invited representatives from Harvard, Yale and Columbia to a meeting in Springfield, Mass.

" . . . for the purpose of adopting a uniform system of rules and considering the advisability of forming an Intercollegiate Football Association. It is generally understood that all the colleges have adopted the Rugby Union rules, but that each is playing them in some slight variations." Rugby rules, permitting running, were adopted and soccer rules, favoring kicking, were the result—America had a new game.

Oddly, wrote Harold Kaese of the Globe in a recent history of football at Tufts, "The only football game Harvard ever lost was to Tufts." That was on June 4, 1875, when Tufts, a small college in nearby Medford, beat Harvard with one touchdown and one goal to none. "To purists," wrote Kaese, "the first Tufts-Harvard game was the first real football played between American colleges." Oddly, as well, most histories of the game completely omit it.

"We borrowed horses and a hay-wagon from the farmer who cared for the college cows," said Eugene Bowen, the Tufts manager, "and traveled to Cambridge with urchins calling us farmers and hayseeds. There were approximately a hundred students at Tufts, and it was a job to persuade twenty-two to have practice."

"They played briskly," noted the reporter in the Globe the next day "and ere long five or six Tufts men found themselves laid on their backs so violently that they imagined it was evening by the stars they saw." The Boston Transcript said, "The Harvards did not watch their movements as closely as they should have, consequently Tufts made the first and only goal."

Out of it, too, came the first excuse. The Harvard Advocate blamed it on an insufficient Spring practice and overemphasis on sports such as baseball and rowing. Now, Harvard and the Ivy League, do not tolerate ANY spring practice. In the formative years, there were seven games in the Spring. In the Fall, Harvard traveled to Medford and, on a field where cows grazed, avenged its loss to Tufts.

On Nov. 6, 1875, a "Second Eleven" at Tufts went to Lewiston, Maine for a game against Bates. "The game," wrote Kaese, "had been arranged between Charles Cushman, a veteran of the first encounter with Harvard, and his friend Frank Briggs, who had been convinced to form a team at Bates. It provided the state of Maine with its first taste of intercollegiate football."

"To Harvard," wrote Alonzo Stags in the 1944 Football Guide, "goes the credit for taking up Rugby and playing it consistently in 1874, 1875 and 1876. To Princeton belongs the credit of initiating the calling of the convention. To Yale, belongs the credit of persistently contending that the number of players on a team be fixed at eleven instead of fifteen and finally winning her point in 1880."

The man generally recognized as "The Father of American Football" was a Yale freshman in 1876 named Walter Camp. Although he credited his 1876 captain at Yale, Eugene V. Baker, with sowing, "the first germs of real football at Yale . . . and taught me the best part of football as I know it," it was Camp who left his imprint on the game. He changed a rugby scrum to a football scrimmage and adopted the system of downs and yards to gain.

Among the other things he did was to back up the Yale plea for an 11 man team. He originated signal calling and the quarterback position. He persuaded the rules committee, on which he served for 48 years, to permit tackling below the waist and, after serving as first head coach at Yale, he moved West in 1892, to become the first head coach at Stanford.

"If Walter Camp had contributed not a single thing else to football," noted John D. McCallum and Charles Pearson in the National Football Foundation book, "his name would still rest secure on the scrimmage, perhaps the greatest single invention in any game." And, for terminology, a Princeton man, Ned Peace, turned to Camp at an 1882 convention after Camp talked about lining the field, "That will look like a gridiron," said Peace. "Precisely," replied Camp.

The changes made, the game increased in popularity, branching outside the East to Minnesota, Purdue, Notre Dame, Indiana, Virginia, Southern California, Washington.

"From 1888 on," wrote Danzig, "following the legalizing of the low tackle and the contracting of the line and backfield into a close formation, the style of football was to change radically."

Stagg, a Yale man who started coaching at Springfield, later wrote, "I am sure the push-and-pull period of offensive football started with my creation of the ends back offense in 1890." He moved to the University of Chicago. "In 1890," wrote Stagg, "when, as a student, I was given permission to organize a team at Springfield, I created a new system of play by playing both ends behind the line."

The flying wedge was introduced at Harvard, in 1892, and the revolving wedge the same year at Minnesota. Vanderbilt used the flying wedge against North Carolina and against Georgia Tech in 1892. "By 1893," wrote Stagg, "everyone was using his flying wedge and the mass principle, and the game so increased in roughness and injuries as a consequence that the season ended in an uproar, and the Army and Navy Departments abolished the service game (for 1894.)"

New York was the scene of an 1894 meeting of representatives from Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Penn to save the sport. The rules changes included outlawing the wedge and flying wedge, cutting time from 90 to 70 minutes, dividing the game into halves, prohibiting a player from touching an opponent until he had the ball and the ball had to travel 10 yards before it could be touched on a kickoff.

This is the Delco Freedom Battery, the maintenance-free, power-full advance in battery technology from AC-Delco. There are no filler caps; you'll never have to add water. In fact, once it's installed you can virtually ignore it. That's why we named it "Freedom."

Features include a sealed top and Delco-Remy pioneered changes in cell material and design to promote continuing reliable power. The results are dramatic, even when compared to our best conventional battery: superior ability to hold a charge, resistance to damage from overcharging, superior ability to withstand today's higher under-the-hood temperatures. It should not require servicing for the entire life of the battery.

With the miseries of cold weather coming on, it's time to think about getting the Delco Freedom Battery on your team. See your neighborhood AC-Delco serviceman soon.

The term "Ole Miss" dates back to the Old South and the true land of cotton. The plantation owner's wife was known to slaves as Ole Miss, and daughters in the family were called Young Miss. "Ole Miss" became synonymous with the University of Mississippi in 1896 when another contest selected it as the name for the university yearbook.

Also on the Oxford scene is a graphic representation of the Ole Miss Spirit in Colonel Rebel, who appears commonly on various publications as the true campus leader—in absentia.

Florida is the land of the alligators, but it was pure chance that dictated Florida teams would be known as Gators rather than Beavers, Sharks, Dolphins, Sand Spurs or—perish the thought if you're a Gator—Seminoles. The decision was made by Austin Miller, a young Gainesville law student.

Young Miller was studying law at the University of Virginia when his father, a Gainesville merchant, visited him. While in Charlottesville, the elder Miller saw samples of pennants being made for the Yale Bulldogs and the Princeton Tigers. Florida had just fielded its first football team that year (1907), and Miller wanted to purchase some of the new pennants to sell in his Gainesville store. There was one problem—the new team had no nickname or mascot. What animal would be put on the pennant?

The younger Miller suggested an alligator since alligators were plentiful in Florida and no other school had adopted it as a mascot.

Kentucky, like Florida, adopted Wildcats more by accident than by intention. The year was 1909 and Kentucky had just upset Illinois 6-2. In a speech to a special chapel meeting, a Commandant Corbusier, head of the college military department, praised the Kentucky team saying it "fought like Wildcats" in the upset of Illinois. The name caught on and was popularized by word of mouth and press coverage of later games.

There are more wildcats than tigers in Louisiana, but it was only natural that LSU would be known as the Fighting Tigers. When football began to gain popularity around Baton Rouge in the 1890's, a local militia unit, the Louisiana Tigers, had a nationwide reputation for courage, toughness, decisive action and color. It was only natural then that LSU fans, seeking these same qualities in their football team, would call the new team Tigers.

LSU football is now represented in the animal world by Mike III, a 450 pound Bengal Tiger. His roar at games in Tiger Stadium on the LSU campus are as much a part of football as bands, vivacious fans and cheerleaders.

Vanderbilt teams might have been called engineers as easily as Commodores. Either tag would fit Cornelius Vanderbilt, railroad and steamship tycoon and chief benefactor of the University. A big bumptious man, Vanderbilt is said to have been loud and coarse in speech, but courageous and consistently frank and faithful to his word. He was called Commodore because of his shipping interest and his great love for the sea.

In the relatively stable world of college football mascots, Georgia and Mississippi State have undergone the most change in becoming Bulldogs.

Georgia has undergone the most radical change, a three stage metamorphosis from a goat to a Bulldog. The University team was accompanied by a goat when it travelled to Atlanta in 1892 to play Auburn and inaugurate intercollegiate football in the Deep South in 1892. Two years later, a white female Bull Terrier replaced the goat. No one knows just when or how the Bulldog came to be the pride of Athens. There's speculation that an Atlanta sportswriter's description, "Georgia held on with a Bulldog's tenacity," may have started the change. Others say the Georgia Bulldog is a cousin of the Yale Bulldog since many of Georgia's early 20th century presidents were Yale men.

Uga III, Georgia's present mascot, is a great-great grandson of Buck, the White English Bulldog that accompanied the Georgia team to the 1943 Rose Bowl. Uga's father and his grandfather were both Georgia mascots. (It should be noted that Uga is the abbreviation of University of Georgia.)

Mississippi State has made the most recent name change. The Maroons, taken from State's maroon jerseys, was a fine nickname until someone looked up the definition of a maroon in the early 1960's. One definition defined Maroon as "to be helpless and alone." Another said a maroon was a descendent of fugitive Negro slaves from the West Indies. Neither definition generated a lot of enthusiasm at the Starkville Campus. A vote was taken and the Maroons officially became Bulldogs. In recent years, they have become Bulldogs on as well as off the field.

And then there's Auburn. Poor Auburn. The people on the Plains can't decide if they want to be Tigers or War Eagles. The origin of the Auburn Tiger is lost in antiquity. There are, however, three versions of War Eagle, the most romantic dating back to the Civil War.

An Auburn student was left for dead on the battlefield. When he regained consciousness, he and an eaglet were the only things on the battlefield. The student cared for the eaglet, named him War Eagle because of the circumstances under which he was found, and eventually carried him back to Auburn.

Three decades later, in 1892, the boy, now an old man, and the eagle, now an elegant bird, went to Atlanta for that first Auburn-Georgia game. There is no record of the eagle meeting Georgia's goat, but legend whispers that as Auburn scored the winning touchdown, the old eagle broke away from his master and began to fly around the field. Auburn people, seeing the eagle circling the field, began to shout: War Eagle! War Eagle!! At the game's end, the old eagle collapsed and died, but forevermore, "War Eagle" would be synonymous with Auburn football.

The legend may or may not be true, but Auburn people don't seem to care. They just like to yell Warr-r-r-r-r Eagle!, win or lose, elated or disappointed. After a big victory they're like coyotes yelling at the moon long into the night.

But then, isn't everybody that way in the Southeastern Conference. One big victory is all it takes. At Tuscaloosa, Athens, Gainesville, Nashville, or Knoxville, one big victory, will make coyotes of us all.

Mississippi State's 'Bully'.

THE LIFE OF A CORNERBACK

by Virgil Parker, Lincoln JOURNAL

A cornerback has to be quick enough to cover the pass, and also tough enough to bring down the biggest backs.

Football coaches seldom agree on anything. Defensive alignment. Offensive formations. Each has his favorite and isn't easily convinced to change or accept another philosophy as better.

But ask them what player on their squad has to be the best athlete—pound for pound—and you get a unanimous answer: the cornerback.

"The cornerback faces more crucial responsibility than anyone else on the field," one top college coach claims. "He can certainly cost a team a touchdown quicker than anybody else. Surely faster than any offensive player can be expected to get one back."

What does a coach look for in a prospective cornerback?

"Speed, agility, quickness, coordination, judgment—and then something more which you can't coach or teach," another major college mentor answers. "That's a kind of sixth-sense, the uncanny ability some kids have of knowing or just feeling what is coming next."

Another answered, "A lot of fine athletes can't master the art of playing cornerback. Particularly because of the agility that is required. He must drill on his footwork hour after hour, until it becomes second nature."

A tall cornerback is a rarity. It's because he is smaller than most of his mates that the accolade which started this article carried the "pound for pound" qualification.

"A tall person is obviously going to have longer legs," a top defensive backfield coach points out. "That means more to get tangled up when he's trying to stay with a split end who is faking and cutting four different directions at once while running his pattern."

The ideal college cornerback is from 5-10 to 6-1, the coaches contacted agreed. He has more speed, quickness and agility than any other player on the defensive unit.

"Wide receivers who are :09.5 sprinters from the track team are a dime a dozen," one coach observes. "That's who our cornerback is expected to cover. And remember, the receiver knows where he is going—cutting this way or that; pretending he's headed for the sideline only to suddenly streak downfield; or appearing to be in a 'fly' pattern straight down the field, only to put on the brakes and come back into the 'hook' zone."

"No matter what the receiver does, we—and the fan in the stands—expect the cornerback to stay with that receiver like they were glued together," the coach admits.

Obviously, that's an impossible assignment. So, defensive coaches came up with help for the cornerback in the form of the zone defense. The biggest advantage of the zone is to give the cornerback some support underneath.

As soon as the cornerback reads pass, he starts to drop with the split end. He knows that the linebacker will be falling back into the 'hook' zone. (See #1.)

#1.

The linebacker will be able to bat down a low-thrown ball. If it sails high, the cornerback will be in a position for an interception.

But the cornerback can't come up too tight on the receiver. He must guard against a 'stop and go' pattern, where the receiver might fake a 'hook', then suddenly turn again and streak on down field. (See #2.)

#2.

In this case, the cornerback must be alert for such a 'stop and go' action and be ready to immediately react and prevent the receiver from getting behind him for the 'long bomb.'

"By the same token," one coach points out, "the cornerback can't play so loose off his man (10-15 yards) that the opposition can complete a series of hook or sideline passes all the way down the field and get into scoring position."

This is where the needed qualities of a good cornerback come into play—speed and quickness plus reaction time.

Then comes the footwork and agility.

"We have our cornerback running stride for stride with a speedy receiver," a defensive backfield coach hypothesizes. "Though we teach our other defensive backs to holler 'ball' when the pass is on its downward flight toward the receiver, a good cornerback will almost sense—from the action and movement of the receiver—when the ball is coming. Then, in an instant, he must look up and locate the ball while maintaining good body control and balance."

"He must get into the best possible position to bat down or intercept the ball—all the while running at top speed. And he must take care not to unfairly bump or interfere with the receiver—thus drawing a costly penalty."

Pass interference is one penalty in which there is a great deal of judgment on the part of the official.

"When the ball is in the air, it doesn't belong to anyone," another defensive coach states strongly. "The defensive back needs to go up with the receiver with his hands and arms high in the air. If he has them up to catch or bat the ball away, he can't be accused of using his hands to push the receiver."

When does a cornerback try for a pass interception?

"Only when he is POSITIVE he will get his hands on the ball," one coach emphasizes. "Losing dressing rooms usually have a player telling his coach or the press that 'I thought I could cut in front of him and make the interception,' while explaining how the opposition completed a short sideline pass that turned into a long gainer after the catch."

"The well-run pattern and perfectly thrown ball is going to be a completion," the coach continued.

THE 2-VOLUME WEBSTER'S 9-POUND, 1,380 PAGE, 158,000-DEFINITION $39.95 DICTIONARY NOW ONLY $19.95!

Can you imagine The New Webster International Dictionary of the English Language as a victim of recession? It is true! And just as the automakers offered rebates to drastically improve sales, so does Webster announce an incredible half-price slash of the publishers list price of $39.95 to an unbelievable $19.95 on the 1,380-page, nine-pound, 158,000-definition, 196-page supplemented, 2-volume, 1976 edition of The New Webster International Dictionary of the English Language. Now Only $19.95.

Think of it! This 2-volume reference work for home, school or office library has never before been offered at such an extraordinarily low price. The many years of exhaustive research are clearly reflected in this supreme lexicographic effort. From this research and from suggestions, contributions and critical review by such notables and men of letters as Charles C. Collingwood, Chief Foreign Correspondent, CBS; Radio and Television Commentator and Mark Van Doren, PhD.; Author; Poet; Professor Emeritus of English, Columbia University, a most respected and distinguished permanent editorial staff labored unstintingly for additional arduous years to give you what has culminated in this priceless, non-pareil etymological endeavor. Everyday, literally hundreds of thousands of people refer to The New Webster International Dictionary of the English Language.

The work itself is a joy to peruse and is printed in large, easy-to-read type. It begins with A Historical Sketch of the English Language by Mario Pei, Professor Emeritus at Columbia University. The vocabulary, A-Z, is included in 1,185 pages, with even the most modern of colloquialisms well defined. This section is prefaced with A Guide to the Use of The Dictionary and tables for the pronunciation symbols and abbreviations used therein. Also included is a dictionary of Prefixes and Suffixes with etymologies and meanings.

Other supplements include:

- A phenomenal 51,000-word thesaurus of Synonyms and Antonyms with 4,000 precise cross references—an invaluable adjunct that no dictionary can be without.

- Idiomatic Foreign Words and Phrases—French, Latin, Greek, Spanish, Italian, etc., pronounced and translated into English—a must with our present day emphasis on multilingualism.

- Over 2,500 abbreviations set forth and defined—an acronymic treasure house.

- Musical signs, symbols and abbreviations set forth and explained for even the novice.

"You've got to accept that.

"In that case, the cornerback's job is to see that the receiver doesn't get another inch of yardage after the catch.

"For starters, his best chance to create an incompletion is to time his tackle to occur at the instant the ball touches the receiver's hands. There's a good chance that a solid hit will cause him to drop the ball.

"If that doesn't work, while making the tackle he should hang on with one arm and reach in with the free hand and try to 'strip' the ball loose. Or, at the time of the initial contact, slam one fist in there to try to punch the ball out.

"But in any case, the first objective should be a sure and firm tackle—to make sure the yards gained on the completion are all the receiver's going to get."

Some of the other major coverage problems a cornerback regularly faces include:

#3.

A running sweep to your side.

Don't be too quick to come up and lend support against the run—it may be a run-pass option. The cornerback's first responsibility is to a deep out pattern by the split end. Only after he has committed himself to a block, should the cornerback try to elude the block and come up to help out.

#4

A running sweep to the opposite side. The defensive end has chased the play from the back side. Your main responsibility is to come up, protecting to the outside against a double reverse or end-around which would be coming back your way.

#5

Quicker support against the run is called for here. Same running play your direction, but the split end has blocked against the outside linebacker. Now you come up immediately to assume his duties in stopping the run.

#6

A crossing pattern between the tight end and the flanker on your side. The cornerback takes the receiver to the outside, with the safety picking up the player coming down the middle.

#7

Almost the same play. But don't commit yourself too soon. The receivers may not actually crisscross. The cornerback still has the man to the outside.

Playing cornerback is far from a science.

"It's not a 1-2-3 thing," one coach assures. "We give him the basic rules and he has to adjust to them according to the opponent, the skills of the particular player he's covering, the position on the field, the velocity and direction of the wind, the score of the game, the down and yardage for that particular play, the time remaining—lots of factors. But don't make an error in judgment. It'll be more noticeable to the fans in the stands than the mistake made by any other player on the field."

Such is the day in the life of a cornerback.

Insta-Focus®
the only binoculars
that keep fast moving action in focus.

Try using ordinary binoculars to follow the Quarterback fading back for a pass and then switching to a wide receiver sprinting into the end zone. Can't be done. Because no matter how good your binoculars are, you miss a lot of the action if you can't change focus fast enough.

Bushnell's unique Insta-Focus ends this problem forever. With Insta-Focus you can change focus as often as you want—instantly.

Bushnell binoculars with Insta-Focus are the only binoculars made specifically for the fan of fast moving sports action. Racing, hunting, bird watching, anything. MUSIC, THEATRE AND ART
EXHIBITS . . . THEY'RE ALIVE AND FLOURISHING DURING THIS YEAR ON CAMPUS

By JACKIE BONDURANT
UK Information Services

Celebrate the arts at the University of Kentucky.

A variety of events in the areas of music, art, and drama are scheduled throughout the 1976-77 season—designed to please a wide range of cultural tastes.

Events scheduled for the remainder of October and November are good examples of the numerous activities offered (many free of charge) to the public:

—Monday and Thursday (Oct. 25 and 28), the UK music department has scheduled two concerts—a faculty recital on Oct. 25 by David Davenport, percussion, and a performance on Oct. 28 by the UK Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Phillip Miller. Both concerts will be at 8:15 p.m. in Memorial Hall and are open to the public free of charge.

—Oct. 29-30 and Nov. 4-6, "The Madwoman of Chaillot" by Jean Giraudoux opens the UK Theatre's international festival of plays for our time. Since its first production in the 1940s, critics have lauded the play as an "exuberant comedy in which Giraudoux has recaptured the wonder and magic of the stage."

Performances begin at 8 p.m. nightly in the Guignol Theatre, Fine Arts Building, and tickets are $3.50 each or $14.00 for the five-play season.

—Nov. 3, the UK Percussion Ensemble, directed by David Davenport of the UK music faculty, will present Handel's "Royal Fireworks Music" in its original 18th century orchestration.

The music was written in 1749 as a celebration work commemorating the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle which ended the Seven Years War. The free concert is set for 8:15 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

—Nov. 7-28, the UK Art Gallery in the Fine Arts Building opens with an exhibition of the paintings of Paul Sawyer, organized by Dr. Arthur Jones, UK professor of art history and author of the 130-illustration volume, "The Art of Paul Sawyer," published by the University Press of Kentucky.

Open free to the public, the gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

—Nov. 10, John Lindsey, violinist and member of the UK music faculty, will present a faculty recital at 8:15 p.m. in Memorial Hall. Lindsey is concertmaster of the Lexington Philharmonic and conductor and musical director of the Centre-Danville Symphony Orchestra and Chamber Orchestra.

—Nov. 19-21, UK's "Eleventh Hour Theatre" presents Bruce Peyton and Peter Berinstein's "Lightin' Bugs 'N God 'N Things." The play, described as a musical memory, will make its official premiere as a full production at UK.

Staged in the Laboratory Theatre, UK Fine Arts Building, the productions are set for 11 p.m. Friday, 7 p.m. and 11 p.m. Saturday, and 7 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $2 at the Guignol Box Office.

—Nov. 22, UK's well-known trumpeter Vincent DiMartino and the UK Jazz Ensemble will be in concert beginning at 8:15 p.m. in Memorial Hall. The concert is free and open to the public.

December on the UK arts calendar includes such events as:

—Dec. 3-4, 9-11, "The Importance of Being Earnest" by Oscar Wilde with performances set for 8 p.m. nightly in the Guignol Theatre. The play is the second UK Theatre offering of the season.

Wilde himself has said of this comedy that skillfully turns flippancy into a fine art: "The first act is ingenious; the second, beautiful; the third, abominably clever."

—Dec. 3, the UK Chorus, directed by Donald Ivey, will give its annual Christmas concert, beginning at 8:15 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

The ninety-voice chorus will perform Bach's "Magnificat" and "Carol Settings" by Norman Dello Joio. Following the performance, the audience is invited to join the UK Chorus in singing Christmas carols.

—Dec. 5, the UK Choristers and Chorale, directed by William Harry Clarke and Janet McEwan, will present a Christmas concert at 8:15 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

January is an important month for opera in Kentucky. It marks the premiere of "Rumpelstiltskin," with music by Joseph Baber of the UK music faculty and libretto by John Gardner, professor of English at Southern Illinois University.

Set for January 21-23 at Lexington's newly-restored Opera House, the performance is the first opera produced in the new structure and the first world premiere in the history of the Opera House.

The UK Department of Theatre Arts will present three plays during the '77 spring semester, including a special guest performance by Actor's Theatre of Louisville. The plays are each set for 8 p.m. nightly in Guignol Theatre.

—Feb. 18-19 and 24-26, "Kaspar" by Peter Handke is subtitled "a clown show," and it explores the theatrical possibilities when a group of actors play the autobiography of Kaspar Hauser, an adolescent thought to have grown up in a closet.

—April 8-9 and 14-16, "Uncle Vanya" by Anton Chekhov was first produced in 1899 and is characterized as a mosaic of life in rural Russia—a personal tragicomedy and the drama of a shipwrecked generation.

—April 28-29, "The Rainmaker," by Richard Nash, is a popular comedy about the ability to believe the impossible. This special production will be presented to UK Theatre audiences by Actor's Theatre of Louisville. The fully professional company, complete with delightful settings and costumes, will be in Lexington as part of the continuing ATL/UK program in theatre.

In addition, March 25-27, "Alice in Wonderland" will be staged as the second "Eleventh Hour Theatre" production.

Created by Andre Gregory and the Manhattan Theatre Project, "Alice" portrays the savagery of Alice's dream through mad game-playing and madcap characterizations.

Tickets are $2 each and performances are set for 11 p.m. Friday; 7 p.m. and 11 p.m. Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday.

Art Exhibits in the UK Fine Arts Gallery during the '77 spring semester include:

—Feb. 3-20, selections from the University Collections: painting, sculpture, works on paper.

—April 3-24, Graphics 1957-1976: A Tribute to Richard B. Freeman.

Priscilla Colt, art museum director, explained that the Graphics exhibit will consist of prints and drawings purchased over the last 18 years and presented to the gallery from graphics exhibitions annually put together by Freeman.

Spring concerts scheduled by the UK music department (all in Memorial Hall) include:

—Feb. 17, 8:15 p.m., the UK Jazz Ensemble with Vincent DiMartino, trumpet.

—Feb. 27, 3 p.m., the UK Wind Ensemble under the direction of William Harry Clarke.

—Feb. 28, 8:15 p.m., the Percussion Ensemble with David Davenport.

—March 3, 8:15 p.m., the UK Symphony Orchestra, Phillip Miller conductor.

—March 4, 8:15 p.m., UK Chorale, directed by Sara Holroyd.

—March 9, 8:15 p.m., Phyllis Jenness, contralto soloist, faculty recital.

—March 10, 8:15 p.m., Symphonic Band directed by William Harry Clarke.

—March 25, 8:15 p.m., UK Choristers, directed by Sara Holroyd.

—April 1, 8:15 p.m., UK Chorus, directed by Sara Holroyd.

—April 7, 8:15 p.m., UK Jazz Ensemble with Vincent DiMartino.

—April 15, 8:15 p.m., UK Concert Band, directed by William Harry Clarke.

—April 17, 3 p.m., UK Wind Ensemble, directed by William Harry Clarke.

—April 24, 3 p.m., UK Symphonic Band, directed by William Harry Clarke.

Vincent DiMartino, left, like his colleagues on the UK music faculty, spends many hours working individually with students. Scott Bird, a UK student from Bowling Green, receives instruction.

Wildcat Assistant Coaches

PERRY MOSS, OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR

The newest member of Coach Curci's staff is Perry Moss, offensive coordinator who came to UK from San Antonio, where he guided the Wings to a 7-3 record and a World Football League division championship last year.

A native of Oklahoma, he earned football, baseball and basketball letters at Tulsa Central HS and was quarterback of the Tulsa team that defeated Georgia Tech in the 1945 Orange Bowl.

After service in the Army Air Corps in WWII, he quarterbacked Illinois to the 1946 Big Ten championship and the 1947 Rose Bowl championship. He was an A-A honorable mention in 1944-46-47 and recipient of the Boston Gridiron Club's National Award for Sportsmanship (1947). He played in the Chicago Trib's all-star games in 1945-48 and the 1945 Blue-Gray Classic and played professionally with Green Bay as QB in 1948.

Moss has served as an assistant coach at Illinois, Washington, LSU, Miami (Fla.) and Wisconsin. He was head football coach and AD at Florida State University in 1959, and head coach and GM of Montreal (1960-62) in the Canadian League, improving the last-place Alouettes to a play-off team.

He worked for Vince Lombardi as special assignment scout for the Packers in 1963 and then produced four championship teams in the Continental League at Charleston and Orlando (1964-67), earning league Coach of the Year honors in 1965-66-67.

Moss was head coach at Marshall University in 1968-69. He succeeded Sid Luckman as quarterback and backfield coach of the Chicago Bears (1970-73), leaving there in 1974 to succeed Bart Starr as QB coach for the Packers under Dan Devine.

BILLY MITCHELL, DEFENSIVE ENDS

Billy returned to his alma mater in 1974 from Wake Forest, where he was a member of K-Letterman Tommy Harper's staff. A native of Georgetown, he earned four letters as quarterback at Garth High, plus three letters each in basketball, track, and tennis. He was All-State two years in basketball and regional high jump and tennis champion. As a U.K. halfback, he earned three letters and also lettered as a high jumper for the Wildcat cinder squad. He was head coach at Manual High in Louisville in 1965 and then served as an assistant at Murray State, Virginia Tech and Wake Forest.

JOHN COOPER, DEFENSIVE SECONDARY

John came to UK in 1973 from the University of Kansas, where he was defensive coordinator, defensive secondary coach and recruiting coordinator. A standout safety as a college player, he was a member of Iowa State's famed "Dirty Thirty" Club of 1959 and captained the Cyclones in 1961. He remained at Ames a year as a member of Clay Stapleton's staff, then joined Tommy Prothro at Oregon State for the 1963-64 seasons. He went with Prothro to UCLA to coach the defensive backs. He left UCLA with Pepper Rodgers when the latter was hired for the KU head job following the 1966 season. A native of Clinton, Tenn., he was a quarterback and safety on the undefeated Powell High School team of 1952 and the 1953 team (7-3) and was named outstanding player in the Tennessee All-Star game. He also earned three letters each in basketball and baseball. At Iowa State, he was most valuable player in 1961. He was on the coaching staff of three bowl teams: Oregon State vs. Michigan in 1965, UCLA vs. Michigan State in 1966, and Kansas vs. Oregon State in 1963.

DAN COUGHLIN, DEFENSIVE LINE

A teammate of Fran Curci and a two-year starter as offensive guard and linebacker at the University of Miami, Dan cut his coaching teeth at Coral Gables High School, where he spent nine years with the perennially powerful teams there. During his tenure, the Cavaliers won 102 games, lost nine and tied one, registering nine shutouts in 13 games in 1967 and winning two national championships. A native of Cleveland, he played his prep football at Benedictine High. After graduating from Miami, he coached one year at LaSalle High there.

CHARLIE BAILEY, DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR

Charlie came to UK this year from Rice University, where he served three years as defensive coordinator and was assistant head coach. A native of Poca, W. Va., he was a high school quarterback there, earning three letters each in football, baseball and basketball. As an end on both offense and defense, he lettered four years at the University of Tampa, being named outstanding lineman and team captain, among other honors. After graduating from Tampa, he coached one year each at Poca High and Brandon, Fla., High before serving as an assistant at Tampa from 1964-70. He was defensive coach for Curci one year at Miami before moving to Rice.

JON MIRILOVICH, OFFENSIVE LINE

A former star end at the University of Miami, Jon was a teammate of Fran Curci at Miami's Archbishop Curley High, earning All-City and All-American honors. Playing as two-way end at U. M., he lettered three years and was accorded honorable mention All-American, teaming again with Curci. He played with the Dallas Texans before a leg injury cut short his career. He served successfully as assistant coach at Columbus High (1961-62) and Southwest High (1962-63), head coach at Columbus (1965-66) and as assistant coach at Coral Gables High (1968-69) before joining Curci at Tampa in 1970. The Spartans swept to a 10-1 record that year and rolled up an astounding 342 points, including 31 against U. M. and 48 against Florida A&M. Jon went to Miami with Curci in 1971 and came to U.K. with him in 1973.

DAVID WELLS, RECEIVERS

A native of Madisonville, Ky., Dave came to the University four years ago as a graduate assistant after serving an internship as an assistant at his high school alma mater. He earned three football letters and was an All-State running back at Madisonville, setting a school record for the most points in a season. He also earned three basketball and four track letters, participating in the state track meet two years. An Academic All-SEC and honorable mention Academic All-American, he lettered three years as a wingback at Ole Miss, playing on one SEC championship team and participating in the Sugar, Bluebonnet and Liberty bowls. He was with the Washington Redskins during the 1966 exhibition season and was a graduate assistant that fall and the following season at Ole Miss. He spent two years with the Army in Germany before returning to Madisonville.

DAN LEAL, CHIEF RECRUITER

A native of Oakmont, Pa., as is Fran Curci, Dan played linebacker and halfback in high school there, and graduated from Gannon College in Erie, Pa. He spent eight years with Spang & Co. in Butler, Pa., before coming to U. K. as Curci's chief recruiter. He had served as unofficial recruiter for Curci in the Pittsburgh area since Curci started coaching and recruiting in the college ranks. He is also UK's golf coach.

PREGAME

The 1976 Pregame music consists of a variety of popular and march tunes, including, "You've Got to Be a Football Hero", "Glory to the Gridiron", Chicago's "Make Me Smile", "Just One of Those Things", and the theme tune "When You're Smiling."

HALFTIME

Tonight's halftime begins with a precision drill entrance to Barry Mantilow's "I Write the Songs". Then, for a complete change of pace for the UK Band, the student body is confronted with two bands. . . one the "Wildcat" Marching Band, and the other, the "B.W. Cat" rock band, Lexington based, and well known throughout the South and Midwest. Combining forces with the help of several hundred watts of power, the bands play the Tower of Power tune "Knock Yourself Out". "B.W. Cat" then is featured alone on another Tower of Power hit, "What Is Hip". Then as the big finale, both bands rock Commonwealth Stadium with a tune that recently hit the #1 spot on the charts, Wild Cherry's "Play That Funky Music."

If you are too set in your ways, or too traditional, (or on the wrong side of the field) for this music, you might be looking forward to Homecoming, November 6. A collection of fine old songs brings back memories of the "good old days" as the UK Band presents a nostalgic look at some of the songs you may have heard in college.

Saturday afternoon can bring excitement, festivity, and a lot of good food.

For millions of Americans, the inherent pleasure of attending a college football game is not a total experience unless it includes a Tailgate Party, hereinafter referred to as a TP. Things happen at TPs that don't happen at games. It has often been said that if the NCAA were to investigate TPs, dozens of football stadium parking lots would be placed on probation for minimum five-year periods. The TP has, in recent years, become such an integral part of the collegiate football scene in the United States and the subject of so many theses for doctoral candidates in sociology that the layman should now be fully informed of the derivation and current status of this most American of gala fetes. Thus, what follows (a complete history of the TP) is but another slice of the native memorabilia in this, our Bicentennial year.

THE NAME: From that of Amos Quincy Tailgate, a 19th Century Iowan who enjoyed picnics and invited most of the townspeople to them. On any given nice day in Ames, Iowa, one could hear the inquiry, "Goin' to a Tailgate party?"

COINAGE: Tailgate was a noun until one day in 1952 a sedan was following a station wagon too closely just outside Fort Smith, Arkansas. "He's right on our tailgate," said the wife of the driver of the station wagon, at which point the driver replied, "Yes, dear, he's tailgating us," at which point the word became either a participle or gerund, depending on where one was driving.

Then in 1957, tailgate passed into adjectival form in the parking lot of Stanford University Stadium in Palo Alto, Ca. A catering truck struck the rear of a nine-passenger station wagon as both vehicles contended for the same parking spot. Contents of the truck were spilled onto the lot's turf.

Because the driver of the truck had sustained a whiplash and was too woozy to protect his goods, wrapped sandwiches and soft drinks were pilfered and eaten stealthily in the backs of station wagons. The occupants of one station wagon had grabbed so much of the food, they had to let down their tailgate to support the booty. They pulled over to a remote area of the parking lot and invited a few friends to help them devour the largesse on the premise bologna sandwiches are not good the next day. And so 13 people gathered around the rear of the station wagon and giggled merrily, telling each other they were having a "tailgate party" and should do this more often. Which is precisely what occurred every Autumn Saturday thereafter. When one of the partying couples moved East to Princeton, N.J., in 1961, the phenomenon spread. It was only a question of time until the TP reached every campus football stadium parking lot in the land and by 1965 it had.

WHAT IS THE RIGHT TAILGATE FOR A TP: There is, of course, no perfect tailgate. Choose one most comfortable for you whatever the size, shape or opening apparatus. The recent trend toward station wagon tailgates that swing out horizontally is to be ignored.

WHO TO INVITE TO YOUR TP: Anyone with a small, foreign car clearly doesn't belong — unless they bring all the food. Anyone with children is questionable, especially anyone with small children because small children tend to jump on tailgates. Anyone with a van or motor home is debatable, for van and motor home owners tend to get pretentious and showy in a sea of station wagons. It is best that van and motor home people have a TP with their own kind in a far corner of the parking lot. Many of these larger vehicles stay there for days anyway, and it is reported that some stadium lots are now accruing extra revenue as mobile home campgrounds.

Every TP should include at least four people who know something about the football game that will follow the TP. Plus six other people who know something about football. Their presence will add a sense of relevance to the TP, give the TP meaning beyond the scope of being a mere social function. Also, it is wise to include on the guest list at least one person who knows how to get from the parking lot to the stadium following the TP; this guest, referred to at most TPs as The Pathfinder, preferably should be a person with limited drinking capacity. Elsewise, trouble looms and your guests may not reach their seats until well after halftime. Of the following week's game.

CASING THE PARKING LOT: The prudent, savvy TP giver leaves nothing to chance—especially site location. Choice sites are available through two basic methods: bribery and cunning.

Bribery: Know your parking lot attendant. Know his needs. After you give him money, give him a rope. He will then rope off an area for you and protect it with his life. Should he be run over by a van or mobile home while protecting your area, it will be necessary to give his widow money. Necessary, and proper. Also give him your leftover beverages. Many parking lot attendants—especially those who move cars—do their best work shortly after consuming leftover beverages. And always compliment them on their ability to “burn rubber.” They are prideful people. Cultivate them in the off-season, for they will pretend to forget you otherwise.

Cunning: This requires an advance scouting party and signmakers. No later than two days before a game, this party must reconnoiter the lot and drive stakes into the ground at a choice site. Signs on these stakes will read: “Reserved for the Chancellor” or “The Coach Parks Here” or “Quarterback’s Limousine Only; All Others Will Be Towed” or, in the case of a state university parking lot, “The Governor (and His 12 Well-Armed Security Officers) Use This Space; They Are Authorized To Fire Upon Other Vehicles.” That should do it, depending on the sten-cilling ability of your signmakers. Bear in mind that some parking lot attendants pay no heed to any signs, so a bit of bribery may still have to come into play.

THE RIGHT PARKING SPOT: For practical TPer, as near to the stadium gates as possible. However, most TPer are not practical. (Otherwise, they’d eat at home and THEN go to the game.) And so spots nearest “aisles” are the most preferred, permitting TPer to see and be seen. A proper TP must include elements of ostentation, although on sunny Autumn days one risks the spewing of dust onto one’s tailgate. Still, dust—according to TP hosts—is looked upon as “part of the charm and tradition” of TPing. Guests soon learn to enjoy dust; the good guest will bring his or her own bag of dust. Most supermarkets sell dust bags on the same shelves as dust cloths.

ADVISORY: Turn off all motors before beginning a TP . . . unless your menu includes carbon monoxide fumes. Some do find them tasty.

WHAT TO SERVE: In early days, TPs featured simple fare: potato chips, pretzels, olives, pickles, radishes, egg salad sandwiches with or without sliced tomatoes, large jugs of root beer and butterscotch cupcakes. Eventually, that basic menu underwent severe changes on the premise that anybody can make a halfway decent egg salad sandwich. It became pointless to have a TP if your TP was just like everybody else’s TP.

The evolution of the TP menu passed through the stages of turkey dinners (for games played during Thanksgiving week) to cold buffets (which included an assortment of 38 types of cold cuts, 12 varieties of cheeses and four types of bread) to “bring your own pointed sticks and let’s have a shish-ke-bab bash” bill of fare.

Currently, the best TPs fall into two categories: on-site cooking and catering.

On-site cooking: Double, self-cleaning ovens with transistorized batteries and nuclear-powered rotisseries are now on the market for purchase or rental or lease/option. At good terms. These ovens reject all food save filets and chateaubriand. Salads are mixed in tailgate-sized tureens while the TP is in progress. After your guests finish their liquid refreshments, suggest they “help themselves to the salad bar and then let me know when you’re ready for your filet.” The smart host will pass among his guests with a pepper grinder. The smart guest will tell his host what to do with the pepper grinder.

Catering: Special TP catering services have popped up all over the country in the past two seasons. Here is how they operate: TP guests remain in their vehicles. The caterer walks up to the vehicle and politely asks the occupants to roll down their windows. He then attaches to the windows a small metal tray holding a cheeseburger, french fried potatoes and a chocolate milk shake. There are no menu variations, although the caterer will bring more catsup if asked. When the occupants have finished dining, they are instructed to turn on their headlights. The caterer then removes the tray and gives his bill to the TP host. In some cases, the caterer places trays on the tailgates; this is termed al fresco catering and is popular in warmer sections of the country or in sections of the country where people

THE GREAT SEC FOOTBALL COACHES OVER THE YEARS

by Jessie Outlar, Atlanta CONSTITUTION

From the legendary Dan McGugin of Vanderbilt to the living legend, Bear Bryant of Alabama, the honor roll of Southeastern Conference football coaches reads like a college hall of fame roster. McGugin, who played football for Fielding Yost at Michigan, arrived on the Vandy campus in 1904. He introduced a new style of football in the South, stressing speed instead of power. Opponents obviously were baffled, for McGugin's first Vandy team won nine straight and outscored opponents 474 to 4.

McGugin was still coaching Vandy when the original 13 Southern Conference members split in 1933 to form the SEC. Under various labels the ancient combatants have competed since 1894.

The SEC was two years old when McGugin retired after 30 seasons with a record of 196-54-19. Frank Howard of Alonzo Stagg.

Fresh from an outstanding athletic career at West Point, Lt. Neyland came to Tennessee in 1926. Five of his first seven teams were undefeated, and Neyland lost only two of his first 68 games.

Stressing fundamentals and defense, Neyland's famed Vols rolled up a 173-40-12 mark before the General retired from SEC combat in 1952. Bowden Wyatt, Doug Dickey and incumbent Bill Battle have continued the winning tradition down the years.

It is appropriate that Paul (Bear) Bryant, winningest active major college coach (wins) and third on the all-time list with a 253-72-16 mark in 31 seasons, is at Alabama. No college has a prouder football heritage than the Crimson Tide.

Before the Rose Bowl became a closed shop, Wallace Wade and Frank Thomas took the Tide to Pasadena six times, more than all other SEC members combined. Bryant was the other end on the 1935 Rose Bowl team when Dixie Howell and Don Hutson upset Stanford.

Obviously, the Bear took his coaching cue from Thomas, who owned a 115-24-7 chart when ill health forced him to retire in 1946. Though Bryant's teams have revised all the records at Tuscaloosa, the Bear's overall winning percentage doesn't match his teacher's mark.

Of course, Bryant was a famous coach when he returned to his alma mater in 1958 to rebuild the floundering program. He had become the winningest coach in Kentucky football history with 60 victories in eight seasons, and he got Texas A. & M. on the winning map with 30 triumphs.

His 19-year regime at Alabama is incredible. The Tide has won four national championships and five SEC titles in a row—no other member has won more than two. The 1976 team is odds-on to receive an unprecedented 18th straight bowl bid.

When Bryant and Ralph Jordan of Auburn shook hands in Legion Field after the 1975 game, they were holding a combined 426 victories in their palms.

It was the farewell contest for Jordan, who established an SEC record by coaching 25 consecutive years at his alma mater. No coach in the conference has been more respected by compatriots than Shug Jordan. He quickly restored Auburn to national prominence and retired with a record of 175-83-7.

General Robert Neyland led the Vols to a 173-40-12 record.

During his distinguished career, Jordan was following in proud coaching footsteps. John Heisman, Mike Donahue and Jack Meagher were among the famous football professors to precede him.

In any discussion of SEC coaches of any era, you'll hear Wallace Butts of Georgia mentioned frequently. The pros today are using pass patterns similar to those Butts used at Georgia in 1942 when Frank Sinkwich and Charley Trippi were leading Georgia to the Rose Bowl.

The late Frank Leahy of Notre Dame said Butts was the greatest offensive genius of all time. Fran Tarkenton,

Dan McGugin brought a surprise to Vanderbilt.

Clemson was the only head coach in the South to match McGugin's longevity record on the same campus.

And no other state has had two coaches to equal the marks of McGugin and Bob Neyland of Tennessee. When the Associated Press conducted a poll to pick a coach of the all-time college team, Neyland finished behind Knute Rockne, Pop Warner and Amos

QUALITY.

Quality in a small car. What does this mean to you? To Toyota it means an automobile that's inexpensive, not cheap. The new generation of Toyota Corollas are built with quality. The proof? 9 out of 10 Toyota cars sold in this country since 1958 are still on the road today. Quality. You asked for it. You got it. Toyota.

Quality is durability and how a car handles the road.

Power assisted front disc brakes help you maintain control. MacPherson strut front suspension helps keep the ride smooth and unit body welded construction helps keep the Corolla tight and virtually rattle free.

Toyota's quality is in a line, not one car.

No matter what your space needs you'll find it in one of ten Corollas:

the Hardtop, 2-Door Sedan, 2- or 4-Door Deluxe Sedan, 5-Door Wagon, the new Sport Coupe or the new Liftback* with a split, fold down rear seat. And there's a sporty equipped SR-5 model of the Hardtop, Sport Coupe and Liftback.

A quality car can be economical. The Toyota Corolla gets great gas mileage. Note: 1976 EPA tests, with 5-speed overdrive transmission, 39 mpg on highway, 24 city. These EPA results are estimates.

The actual mileage you get will vary depending on your driving habits and your car's condition and equipment. California EPA ratings will differ. An automatic transmission is available on Deluxe models.

Quality. You asked for it. You got it at nearly 1,000 authorized dealers across the U.S. These same dealers comprise a network of service departments with Toyota trained mechanics. The new generation of Toyota Corollas. If you can find a better built small car than a Toyota... buy it.

YOU ASKED FOR IT.

YOU GOT IT.

know what al fresco means. The use of a caterer also is popular among those who like to give TPs but don't wish to mingle with their guests.

LIQUID REFRESHMENTS: Conditioned by the applicability of state laws and the knack of sequestering oddly-shaped thermoses. The safest TPs are preceded by house parties, known as HPs.

ADVISORY: Pre-TP HPs are inadvisable in connection with Army, Navy and Air Force Academy games unless one wishes to risk the wrath of MPs, SPs and APs.

THE FUTURE: Where is the TP going? And how will it get there? Many sociologists, including concession stand operators and vendors holding degrees, are inclined to believe the TP is faddish, a mere symbol of these easy, carefree times, a boredom-reliever that is bound to be replaced by a hot dog and a beer once the austere 1980s arrive. A further hindrance to TP growth is the fact many campuses are now replacing parking lots with classroom buildings, a totally innovative academic enterprise.

On the other hand, culinary devotees believe the TP has yet to see its finest hour. In fact, some gastronomes are convinced that by 1987 TPs will take place inside the stadium and the games themselves in the parking lot.

There has been talk in NFL circles that the best TPs will be drafted to add a touch of class to the professional genre. NFL TPs, as they are now constituted, consist only of orange or tomato juice and Russian spirits.

Some college athletic directors are taking the middle course (no, not the salad). They see TPs as a means of subsidizing their hard-hit budgets or as a vehicle for financing womenperson varsity sports.

This subsidization would take the form—according to one athletic director—of putting a per-plate tax on each TP. Athletes would make the collections at the start of each TP, thus adding a touch of celebrity to the TP.

"What's a party anyway without names?" said this athletic director.

The TP, in sum, seems to be a permanent part of the American college football scene, much as the American college football scene has managed to become a permanent part of the TP.

The TP, then, is here to stay. Now if you will turn on your headlights, we will remove the tray.

THE COLLEGIATE HALL OF FAME

Headquartered in New York, the National Football Hall of Fame strives to honor the great men of college football and inspire the nation's youth to excel on the athletic field and in the classroom. To achieve its aims, the Foundation seeks to establish the true concept of football and gain recognition of its significant role in the preservation and advancement of our way of life.

As part of the Foundation's honors program, the Hall of Fame enshrines those college players and coaches whose deeds and lives during and after their playing days have been exemplary and inspiring. Each year, through a national referral network, new members to the Hall are inducted and the list grows.

Below are the players in the Hall of Fame as of July, 1976.

who starred for Georgia before revising the NFL quarterbacking records, says Butts knew more about offense than any coach he has known. In 22 seasons in Athens, Butts posted a 140-86-9 record.

Vince Dooley, however, is the only Georgia coach who has never experienced a losing season. Entering his 13th campaign, Dooley has produced eight bowl teams, two conference championships and been named SEC Coach of the Year three times.

Harry Mehre, who played for Rockne at Notre Dame, is another respected name in Georgia football. He coached the Bulldogs a decade before moving on to Ole Miss.

A renowned humorist, Mehre declared that he had a lifetime contract at Georgia, but the University decided that he was dead.

Two years after Mehre left Mississippi, John Vaught launched his dynasty, inscribing his name beside McCugin, Neyland, Bryant and the other legendary coaches. Mehre quipped that Vaught should have won most of his games with all the talent available, adding that he had to play guys like Charley Conerly, Bruiser Kinard, and all those Poole brothers when he was coaching.

When Vaught, now Ole Miss Athletic Director, assumed the reins, no coach had won more than 39 games in Oxford. Over a 24-year span Vaught's Rebels rolled up a record of 190-60-12. They were annual bowl visitors, and Vaught became the most famous citizen in Oxford this side of William Faulkner.

Georgia Tech, a charter member of the SEC, withdrew from the conference after the 1963 season, but the Jackets hold a prominent spot in the archives. Tech is the only major college to have three coaches in a row who won more than 100 games each. John Heisman, for whom the trophy is named, started the winning tradition. Bill Alexander succeeded Heisman and remained on the job 25 years before handing the reins to Bobby Dodd, most successful of Neyland's pupils. In 21 seasons, Dodd's Jackets had a 165-64-8 chart. They won six straight bowl games which is still a record. Incidentally, Dodd retired last June as athletic director after serving 45 years at Tech.

One of Dodd's long-time assistants, Ray Graves, left Tech to become Florida's most successful head coach. Since the SEC started, no Florida coach had achieved a conference record above .500 before Graves came to Gainesville. Graves had a 70-31-4 mark when he selected Doug Dickey of Tennessee as his successor in 1970.

Dickey has the Florida program rolling in the right direction now after a slow start. Chances are, in the not-too-distant future, he'll become the first Florida coach to win an SEC championship.

The most underrated coach in the SEC is Charlie McClendon of LSU. He's the only active SEC coach other than Bryant who has won more than 100 games and he has produced ten bowl teams in 14 seasons. Though such prominent coaches as Biff Jones, Bernie Moore helped start a LSU tradition before becoming Commissioner of the SEC.

Frank Thomas gave Bryant his coaching cue at Alabama

Bernie Moore, (later SEC commissioner), and Paul Dietzel directed the Tigers, McClendon is the only one to see his Bengals top the century mark.

Incumbent Bob Tyler is the first Mississippi State coach with a winning lifetime mark since Darrell Royal left Starkville in 1955. Of course, Royal achieved his fame in Texas, but he got his start at State where he spent only two seasons, but impressed all observers. In fact, when Tech's Dodd declined the offer to coach Texas, he recommended Royal for the post.

The Golden Era of Football in Starkville was from 1939 to 1948 when Allyn McKeen logged a 65-19-3 record.

Yes, the Southeastern Conference has had a remarkable roster of head coaches. For obvious reasons, many of the names mentioned are long-time residents of the Football Hall of Fame.

FOR MORE THAN 130 PLACES TO GET
SOUND INVESTMENT IDEAS,
SEE DEAN WITTER.

Dean Witter knows people. And people know Dean Witter. More than half a million people now come to Dean Witter for ideas on investing their money wisely. In over 50 years of business, we've grown to over 130 offices all over the country. That makes it easy and convenient to avail yourself of our stockbrokers' experience. And our firm's efficiency. For 130 locations to get sound ideas on investments from stocks to options to municipal bonds, see Dean Witter.

This year, you'll also see Dean Witter on TV. We're helping to sponsor telecasts of NCAA football, as well as other major sports events.

DEAN WITTER & CO.

INCORPORATED

Quality.

Pennzoil's Oil Filter
is built on it.

When your car is worth caring for, Pennzoil is worth asking for.

THE UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

BLUE & WHITE FUND

Hundreds of student-athletes have had their education at the University of Kentucky financed by grants-in-aid. More and more, the success of major college athletic programs is dependent upon the financial support of the institutions and friends.

The University of Kentucky is proud to honor the individuals and business firms whose names appear on these pages.

If you are interested in becoming a member of the Blue & White Fund please contact the Athletics Association. Phone: 258-5611.

Pete Depends On Us

When Pete graduates and goes to work, he's going to need more than determination and ability. Good jobs depend on even more basic things, one of which is a reliable source of electricity.

Electricity is essential to power the motors that drive the industries that employ the people who make the parts that go into the things we all buy.

When the industries we serve run on electricity, we can't afford to run short of it, for Pete's sake.

Alumni Activity Line

"To promote the best interests . . ."

Successful alumni clubs are an essential part of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association. It is the grassroots organizations of alumni which most effectively promote the best interests and prestige of UK.

As outposts of the University, alumni clubs assist in interpreting the University, its work and services to the community. As a bonus, clubs draw together community neighbors of common educational backgrounds, promoting human understanding and closer bonds of fellowship in a hometown.

Sometimes it seems as if entertainment programming is the only programming done, but a closer look reveals the true facts. For instance, the Jefferson County-UK Alumni Club has been dogged in its efforts to assist the Association in raising $25,000 to establish the Joe Creason Lecture Series on campus. With a $25,000 matching grant from the Bingham Foundation, the series will sponsor its first "media specialist" lecture in the spring. To supplement funds from general solicitations, the Jefferson club held a tennis benefit last May and then recently voted to donate the remainder needed to meet the goal from their own treasury.

The Christian County UK Alumni Club has sponsored a scholarship at the Hopkinsville Community College for six years. This summer the club voted to increase its scholarship support, a vital service in these times when the costs of getting an education continue to rise. The Cumberland Valley UK Alumni Club is exploring the possibility of a scholarship program as one of its first major projects.

Clubs are the vehicle for supplying leaders that become loyal volunteer workers on behalf of maintaining and improving the excellence of the University. The Washington, D.C. club which is more than 50 years old, has long been a source of valuable leadership both for the Alumni Association itself and for the other missions of the University. The current national president of the Association, Jim Stuckert, came from an active local club area, Jefferson County.

Alumni club leaders are often called on by the Office of Development for assistance in raising funds from private sources to expand the resources of the University. These private gifts are used to provide needed equipment and attract both research and faculty to UK.

Alumni clubs are likewise an asset to the University's admissions program. In conjunction with the admissions office, career nights are held in many communities throughout the state. Through clubs, local alumni are encouraged to meet with prospective students and parents to discuss career opportunities. Ashland and Owensboro clubs planned particularly successful gatherings last summer.

The Association has also assisted the college of Arts and Sciences in finding alumni volunteers to counsel students who are undecided about a career choice. By learning from alumni what the responsibilities, rewards and drawbacks of various careers can be, a student is able to make a choice that can lead to success and satisfaction.

Aside from the "rah-rah" support of athletics, alumni club members lend valuable assistance in notifying coaches of outstanding local prospects and financially supporting the UK athletics program. An annual UK Day in Western Kentucky is another club-established program which allows UK coaches an opportunity to get to know local high school coaches during a club-sponsored golf outing and dinner.

By example, local UK alumni clubs do, indeed, promote the best interests of the University of Kentucky. And, it is the continuity of this support from generation to generation which has propelled the University of Kentucky into a position of national recognition of the excellence of its programs.

Once again, TV service technicians give these opinions about Zenith:

We're proud of our record of building dependable quality products. But if it should ever happen that a Zenith product doesn't live up to your expectations—or if you want details of the service technicians' survey—write to the Vice President, Consumer Affairs, Zenith Radio Corporation, 1900 N. Austin Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60639.

The Panorama IV. Sophisticated 25" diagonal console. A rich blend of soft Silver coloring and simulated Rosewood cabinetry. Model SH2541X. Simulated TV picture.

I. Best Picture.

Again this year, in a nationwide survey of the opinions of independent TV service technicians, Zenith was selected, more than any other brand, as the color TV with the best picture.
