VOLUME XLV UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY, LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, AUGUST 6, 1954 NUMBER 38

PeabodyPrexy To Address Graduates

Dr. Henry H. Hill, president of George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn., will deliver the principal address at the University of Kentucky summer commencement program at 7:20 p.m. (Daylight Saving time) Friday, August 13, in Memorial Coliseum.

"A Time for Young Men" will be the topic of the address by the Nashville educator, a former professor and dean at UK. Approximately 350 students will receive degrees at the ceremony.

Presiding at the event will be UK President H. L. Donovan, and the invocation and benediction will be given by Dr. George M. Trout, pastor of the Grace Baptist church, Lexington.

Music for the affair will be presented by the University Mixed Chorus, under the direction of James King of the Department of Music. The group will sing "The Gloria," from the Twelfth Mass by Mozart.

Dr. Hill, the speaker for the night, has been president at George Peabody College for Teachers since 1945. He is a former president of the American Association of School Administrators and the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

In 1946 he was a member of the United States Education Mission to Germany, and in 1952 he was chairman of the Educational Policies Commission and chairman of the board of trustees of the Educational Testing Service.

Dr. Hill also is a former member of the Executive Committee of the American Council on Education. He holds the A.B. and A.M. degrees from the University of Virginia and the Ph.D. degree from Teachers College, Columbia University.

The LL.D. degree has been conferred upon the Peabody president by Davidson College, University of Pittsburgh, Union University and the University of Kentucky. Columbia University awarded him the L.H.D. degree on July 1 of this year.

According to UK officials, the processional for degree winners will form at 6:45 p.m., and the academic procession march will begin at 7:15 p.m.

Reserved seat tickets for families of graduates will be available next week in the office of the dean of women.

Portmann Attends News Convention

Prof. Victor R. Portmann, assistant professor of journalism and secretary field-manager of the Kentucky Press Association, is in San Diego, California, this week-end, attending the national convention of the Newspaper Association Managers. He flew to the west coast Wednesday evening.

Professor Portmann's class in Supervision of High School Publications received instruction in the stencil-duplicated newspaper on Thursday, given by representatives of The Lang Company, of Lexington, and today they considered problems of yearbook production under the direction of Dr. Niel Plummer.

Teacher Lack Caused By Low Salaries

A teacher shortage over a 14-year period was laid to the failure of Kentucky to pay salaries attractive to beginning school teachers, the State Department of Education reported on Wednesday.

In a report released by Wendell P. Butler, state superintendent of public instruction, it was stated that during the last 14 years the state's colleges have prepared enough teachers to staff the public schools adequately. However, it was pointed out, only 50 per cent of these graduates have accepted employment in Kentucky.

During the five years previous to 1953-54, 12,035 Kentucky teachers quit the profession, more than were trained. Only 900 new qualified teachers requested certificates in 1953-54.

The number of college graduates preparing to teach is declining. Of the about 20,000 1953-54 high school graduates, only 4 1/2 per cent planned to train for teaching. If the need for teachers is to be met, 25 per cent of college entrants will have to prepare to become teachers. This year there are 11,000 more six-year old children on the census than 14 years ago.

In 1953-54, about 9 per cent of the state's high school and 13.5 per cent of elementary school teachers lacked the required training to teach and were employed on emergency certificates.

Finals Scheduled

Final examinations for the University will be held on the last class meeting of each class, or the last two meetings it has been announced by the Registrars Office. This will be left to the discretion of each instructor.

A student who receives an "I" or "X" in any course must make up these grades within 30 days after returning to the University.

Change To Streamline Tabloid Scheduled For Kernel In Fall

New Format Will Facilitate Wider Campus Circulation

A new look will come to campus journalism at the opening of the fall term! The Kentucky Kernel will appear in a new streamlined, tabloid format.

Plans for the change-over to a tabloid Kernel for the regular semesters have been under consideration for many months, Dr. Niel Plummer, director of the School of Journalism revealed. Along with the change in the makeup of The Kernel will come two others of interest to students, faculty and to Lexington businessmen.

Beginning in September The Kernel will reach not only every student, but will be available to every member of the faculty and staff, as well as to all members of the Alumni Association. This widening of the campus coverage will be made possible through a change from postoffice distribution to a Friday morning distribution from classroom buildings and key spots on the campus.

Ronnie Butler, editor-elect, now serving with the Associated Press in Louisville, will head up the staff initiating the new Kernel. With him will be Ken Litchfield, now serving in the news department of a radio station in western Kentucky, and Deborah Schwarz, who is working in public relations for a West Virginia resort. Mr. Litchfield will be news editor of The Kernel. Miss Schwarz will be managing editor.

The business staff is now being reorganized to open the new era in Kernel service to the campus and to Lexington businessmen.

Law Journal Selects Doyle As New Editor-In-Chief

A student from Michigan has been selected as editor-in-chief of the University of Kentucky's Law Journal for the 1954-55 academic year, and four Kentuckians will assist him.

The new editor is Richard Doyle of Drayton Plains, Mich. Announcement of the new editors was made Wednesday by Prof. F. W. Whiteside Jr., member of the UK law faculty and faculty editor of the publication.

P. Joan Skaggs of Russell will serve as assistant editor during the coming year. Other members of the administrative staff follow:

J. Arna Gregory of Harlan, note editor; George B. Baker of Belfry, comment editor; and Conley Wilkerson of Earlinton, business manager.

Appointment to administrative positions on the Law Journal is made by the faculty of the College of Law upon the basis of scholarly legal writing, maintenance of academic standing and faithful performance of editorial duties on the regular staff.

The Journal which is published four times a year, includes articles by UK law professors, practicing attorneys and judges, as well as notes and comments on legal topics by student members of the board.

Established in 1913, the chief function of the Journal is to encourage writing in the legal field and to train law students in the development of skills in research and writing. It is the tenth oldest scholarly legal journal of its type.

'Cats' Slated To End Up Ninth In SEC

Ed Ashford, sports editor of The Lexington Herald, revealed in his column Wednesday that Walter Stewart of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, has predicted that the Kentucky Wildcats will finish ninth in the SEC this fall.

Writing in Street and Smith's 1954 Football Yearbook, Stewart picks Georgia Tech to win the conference championship.

After the Engineers of Bobby Dodd, Stewart selects Alabama second, Mississippi third, Auburn fourth, Tennessee fifth, Louisiana State sixth, Mississippi State seventh, Florida eighth, Kentucky ninth, Georgia 10th, Vanderbilt 11th and Tulane 12th.

Pictures of Duke Curnutte and Bob Hardy are included along with those of several other top SEC players.

The Wildcat schedule is as follows:

ROTC Instructors Begin First Of Two Workshops

The Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps detachment at the University is conducting the first of two six-day workshops for ROTC instructors, running through this and next week.

Six other colleges and university are participating. They are: the University of Louisville, Western Kentucky State College, Memphis State Teachers College, Tennessee Agricultural and Industrial State University, University of the South and the University of Tennessee.

Serving as directors are Maj. Bernard M. Smith and Capt. Crawford E. Hicks, both of the UK staff. They were among 20 officers who were selected to attend "pilot" workshops conducted recently at Alabama's Maxwell Air Force Base.

Maj. Smith is conducting a workshop on leadership this week, and Capt. Hicks will direct a workshop on military world geography the second week.

Two UK educators—Dr. M. M. White, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Dr. Amry Vandebosch, head of the Department of Political Science—are acting as civilian consultants.

Dean White, former head of the UK Department of Psychology and specialist in various phases of the leadership study, is the consultant for the leadership workshop. Dr. Vandebosch, who has been associated with the Department of State on several assignments during recent years, will assist in the conference on military world geography.

Workshop participants were greeted at a breakfast Monday morning by Dr. H. L. Donovan, University president; Herbert Fritz, Lexington city manager, and Hogan Trammell of the Lexington Chamber of Commerce.

Workshop sessions include discussion of textbooks, academic philosophy, training aids, teaching techniques and student projects.

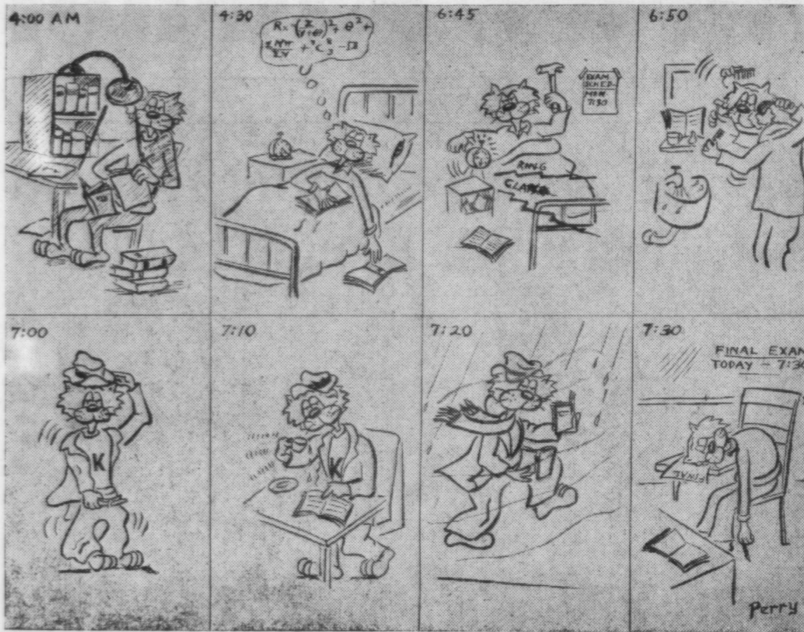

According to Capt. Hicks, the workshops have been planned to help instructors adjust to a new curriculum as quickly as possible as well as to improve actual teaching skill of the participants.

Representatives of the different institutions follow:

- Maj. Donald Lindquist, University of Louisville;
- Lt. Col. Harry G. Peterson and Capt. Michael S. Nelson, Western Kentucky State College;
- Capt. Frank A. Loob, Memphis State Teachers College;
- Lt. Marcus Crowder and Lt. Frank Thompson, Tennessee Agricultural and Industrial State University;
- Lt. George Gant, University of the South; and
- Maj. A. G. Damron and Capt. Edmund Manning, University of Tennessee.

THE DITCH running around and through the tennis courts is not to keep people from playing tennis. It is to be the steamline for the new boys dorm on Rose Street.

Scientific Gardeners Assemble At Field Day

Folks want to know more about efficient gardening, and approximately 175 assembled for the horticulture field day on the Experiment Station Farm Tuesday to learn about new developments in raising garden produce.

Discussions covered mulching, spraying, irrigation, weed control and other methods of improving gardening and orcharding were led by extension research, and teaching faculty of the University.

Guided by W. W. Magill, extension field agent, the visitors saw and heard about beans, corn, potatoes, tomatoes, watermelons, grapes, pears, strawberries, blueberries, apples and other fruits growing on the Experiment Station farm. Each experimenter explained his particular vegetable or fruit and the efforts being made to improve production.

Tests of seedless watermelons excited comment, although none was served. In addition to being seedless, this melon has a high sugar content, it was explained, the yield is high and the vines are resistant to diseases.

Aluminum coated paper or foil helped to conserve moisture through the drought, it was stated, thereby making irrigation more effective.

Research, extension and teaching faculty assisting in the program included C. E. Chaplin, Clyde Simpkins, C. S. Waltman, E. M. Emhart, J. G. Rordiguez and Richard

COLONEL Of The Week

There may have been busier people on this campus this summer than Henry Mayo, our nomination for Colonel of the Week for this, the final edition of the Summer Kernel, but we are going to ask for proof before abandoning Henry. Let's look at his summer record:

Co-editor of The Kernel.
Substitute editor for the Paintsville Herald at Paintsville, Ky., some 150 miles from Lexington.

Graduating senior, with final term papers and comprehensive examinations to clean up.

And then, too, Henry is a settled married man with the duties and responsibilities of husband and father.

No one yet has quite figured how Henry wrote and edited copy for the Paintsville Herald in a crowded week-end, made up the layout for the paper, and then streaked back to his classes on the campus, and to his duties as co-editor of The Kernel. But he did it, somehow—The Paintsville paper has made all editions, The Kernel has appeared on time, Henry has completed his comprehensive examinations and so help us, it looks like he will get his diploma next week.

The Stirrup Cup is proud to recognize Henry Mayo for his work and hereby extends an invitation for him to come in and enjoy any two of our fine meals.

Guignol Presentation, 'The Merry Widow', Is Modernized Version Of Operetta

(From the Lexington Herald)
 "The Merry Widow," produced Tuesday by the Guignol Theater and the Opera Workshop of the University of Kentucky, was Charles George's modernized version of the charming continental operetta.

"The Merry Widow" originally was composed by Franz Lehár. With the exception of the incongruous and rather zany dance by the members of the men's chorus, the operetta was sparkling and moved along with great elan in both the singing and the action of the characters.

Ardis King, as the young widow of a meat packer, revealed a voice of unusual beauty and control. Coupled with her ability as an actress, she gave a performance of professional caliber.

Robert Knauf, tenor, as Prince Nicholas, sang his role in a thrilling manner. The voice of Mr. Knauf had great resonance and clarity—carrying to the farthest corners of Guignol Theater. His personality was perfectly adapted to his role as a gay, dashing, cosmopolitan Prince of Altruria.

Outstanding in her role of Clarissa Preston was Bonnie Gibson, a singer of unusual merit. Miss Gibson's voice reflected many years of careful training and was characterized by beauty of quality and control.

James Woodward, as Montgomery

Nelson sang as a young artist. Although Donald Ivey, cast as an elderly playboy did not have many opportunities to display his voice, when he did sing, one could tell here was an exceedingly fine and unusual voice. He was perfectly cast in his role and was very convincing in his portrayal.

Barbara Watson, as the Princess Stephanie, rounded out the galaxy of fine voices. It is quite unusual to find so many outstanding and well trained voices in one cast; be it an amateur or professional group.

Shiela Strunk portrayed the role of a newspaper columnist with assurance.

By O. H. ELL

The summer session is rapidly coming to a close to the infinite satisfaction of all members of the University personal from the deans to the janitors. Fortunately none of us have had time or inclination to lament the passing of these summer days. Nothing has happened of unusual or outstanding nature and from a casual observation no romances of serious nature will be disrupted by the great big fat month of interruption between now and the time to register in September. It has been hot, fairly monotonous, and pretty dull.

We hope that the many graduate students who swarmed over the classes enjoyed themselves. Most of the time the very pedantic members of our classes wished above all to impress the poor undergraduates with their tremendous amount of knowledge. The old apple polishing routine was never more in full swing than this summer, with the smallest question being answered with most elaborate and ramifying care. It leads one to believe that if these people know as much as the professor then they are wasting their time in this University. This is not indicative of the majority, but the few were loud enough to be

Hundreds Defy Rain To Attend Burgoo And Barbecue Supper In Honor Of Clay

The old-fashioned burgoo and barbecue supper Monday afternoon at the home of Henry Clay drew approximately 600 persons—and a drenching rainstorm.

The event was gay and festive, the rain was wet and welcome, and the food was plentiful and satisfying.

Throughout the program, which had to be cut short because of additional rain, the popping of umbrellas could be heard above the voices of the speakers. Louis Hillenmeyer, president of the Henry Clay Memorial Foundation, explained that he wasn't sure whether it was Dr. Edgar DeWitt Jones, (the speaker), the memories of Henry Clay or the burgoo that attracted such a crowd.

Dr. Jones, of Detroit, former president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, GWTW, the fabulous, the colossal, the biggest and longest, and the most romantic show ever to be filmed appeared in Lexington for its three hour and forty minute run and the crowd went wild. The gay beautiful Scarlett and the big tough Clark or Rhett (the two names have was interrupted shortly after he began his address when the rainfall became extremely heavy.

The religious leader was speaking from a prepared text which he later released to the press.

In it he declared that there are four factors necessary to inspire eloquence: "A commanding and magnetic presence; an impressive and flexible voice; an arena congenial to notable public speech, and the emergence of great and far reaching issues of national or international concern."

"Physically, Henry Clay was tall, slender and lean of flank. Dr. Jones wrote, "He had a habit of stepping from side to side as he spoke, and every little movement had a meaning of its own. If there was about Webster an air of grandeur, around Clay there was an aura of irresistible charm.

become synonymous in the years) were more than great. All words describing it have been said. It's a must for every Yankee hatin' tot.

The tired Kernel staff, bearing the cross of no copy for these eight momentous weeks, humbly thank the patient Dr. Plummer who helped us along with his cat-of-nine tails and his journalism talents, and Mr. Boyd Keenan who supplied us faithfully with University news. May you someday become press agent for Marilyn Monroe, sir.

And to you, bored reader, we can only say that exams are soon to be here and the weather looks to be hot. The Kernel is far from Time magazine, nay far from the omniscient Courier-Journal, even far from the Lexington Leader—thank God—but we have enjoyed showing all you nice people and they do the same thing, only a little more elaborately.
