

Dr. Willard To Head Med Center

Dr. William R. Willard, newly appointed dean of the UK Medical School and vice president of the Medical Center, will meet with architects July 30 to discuss the plans for the new medical buildings.

The appointment of Willard at a meeting of the University's Board of Trustees Executive Committee July 20 has met with approval of President-elect Frank G. Dickey and retiring president Herman L. Donovan.

Dr. Willard, dean of the Upstate Medical Center of State University of New York for the past five years, will serve as dean of the College of Medicine, and vice-president of the medical center.

Dr. Donovan said he "is delighted" at Dr. Willard's acceptance, and Dr. Dickey expressed "great pleasure" at the decision.

At Syracuse, N. Y., Dr. Willard said he accepted the position "because it offers an opportunity which is given to relatively few people, namely to develop a medical center from the very beginning. This and other personal reasons finally proved irresistible to me."

Dr. H. L. Donovan, retiring president of UK, said the University hopes to enroll 75 students each year in the school when it opens. At the end of the first four years, plans call for 300 potential doctors to be attending the school. Dr. Donovan estimated that 40 or 50 students would be enrolled in the Dental School each year and about 100 in the Nursing School. According to his estimates, about 900 students will be attending the Center within about four years after it opens.

Dr. Willard, a graduate of Yale University, was among four men considered prominently for the job. Although speculators held that he would be chosen for the deanship, Dr. Dickey had previously stated to a Kernel reporter that there was "nothing definite" about his acceptance; that neither University officials nor Dr. Willard had made any decision.

Dr. Willard, a native of Seattle, Wash., was deputy State Health Officer in Maryland from 1937-43; a member of the Public Health Service malaria control staff in 1944, and director of public health and welfare for the Army in Korea in 1945 and 1946.

In 1946 he returned to Yale and from 1948-51 was assistant dean of the Graduate School in Medical Education there. In 1951 he became dean at Syracuse, where he was also director of the Central New York Regional Hospital Council, group Hospital Council, and United Cerebral Palsy Foundation.

In addition to being a member of the American Medical Association, Council for Social Agencies of Syracuse, and Syracuse Handicapped Children Association, he is a fellow of the American Public Health Association.

In addition to his duties as dean of the Medical School, Dr. Willard will act as a co-ordinator between the Medical Center personnel and the president of the University. The Center, besides holding the Medical School, will include a School of Dentistry, a teaching hospital, and a School of Nursing. Each of these divisions will have a dean or director in charge. Dr. Willard, as vice president of the Center, will meet with them and then report directly to the president, taking much of the responsibility of administering the Center from the president.

Jobs Open To Expert Educators

University of Kentucky officials announced Wednesday that openings exist for qualified specialists in the United States Information Agency.

Dr. A. E. Bigge, head of the UK Department of Modern Foreign Languages and co-ordinator for various foreign educational programs, said that requests for personnel applications have been received from the Recruitment Branch of the information agency.

Administrators, directors of courses, and teachers of English to foreign students are presently needed to serve under two-year grants in any one of 47 binational centers in Latin America and the Near and Far East.

Also being sought by the agency are cultural affairs officers to serve under Foreign Service appointments in any one of over 200 posts in 79 countries of the world.

The Information Agency needs persons who have demonstrated superior professional achievement in cultural fields and who possess personal characteristics which will gain and maintain international understanding and good will.

Candidates for all positions must be American citizens and have been such for at least ten years. If married, a candidate must be married to an American citizen, must be in excellent physical condition, must have a bachelor's or higher degree, and must have a fluent speaking knowledge of an appropriate foreign language.

Necessary age groupings are administrators, 30-55; director of courses, 25-45; and teachers, 23-40.

Local persons, townspeople as well as students, may obtain additional information on the openings from Dr. Bigge, Miller Hall.

Invitations

Seniors may pick up commencement tickets for reserve seats at the office of the dean of women, Administration Building, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Professors Talk On Party Rules

"Should Party Rules Be Changed?" was discussed at a public meeting held at the Lexington YWCA, July 18.

A resolution calling for a change in delegates and party officials was passed, which will be sent to the Governor and the legislature, following the presidential convention.

Stating that the present procedures in both Kentucky parties do not provide for participation by all members of the respective parties, it asks that the primary system be adopted.

The choosing of the original slate is regarded as important because delegates to the national conventions elect presidential nominees and draft party platforms.

According to a spokesman of the group, "We believe that the only way to make parties democratic and responsible, is to work by this system."

The resolution calls on both parties to take action on this, and asks the next session of the general assembly to enact laws concerning it.

University participants in the program were Dr. J. E. Reeves, Dr. Gladys Kammerer and Prof. Ruth McQuown of the political science department; Dr. Sidney Kaplan, sociology, and Dr. W. D. Valleau, agronomy.

Dr. Reeves, Dr. Valleau and Dr. Kaplan were members of the committee's board of directors.

A spokesman for the group said the discussion was planned to cover changes in party rules and state law which will enable all party members to participate in meetings to choose delegates for national conventions.

The crowds which attended recent county meetings and contested delegations to district and state conventions indicate that party rules are inadequate, the spokesman continued.

This meeting was held under the auspices of the Fayette Committee for Citizenship and a Committee of Citizen Sponsors.

"Political party rules so obviously need modernizing. Come to the meeting and see if we can start the process of getting some good rules for both parties," the sponsors said.

Enrollment To Double

The University of Kentucky is not the only school suffering from growing pains, according to Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, administrative vice president.

Top Leaders Of Utilities To Be Here

A utilities management seminar is to be held July 30-August 3 on the University campus, Keller Dunn, Assistant, College of Adult and Extension Education, said.

It is expected that 20-25 general managers and heads of utilities companies in Kentucky will take part in the meeting. The seminar has a three-fold purpose, Dunn said:

1. To enable management personnel to carry out more efficiently their functions as essential parts of the management team.

2. To create an expanded point of view and an interest in broader problems of business and economics.

3. To prepare men in middle and upper executive levels for the time when they will assume the responsibility of top management.

The conference, sponsored jointly by the utilities companies of Kentucky, the College of Commerce, and the College of Adult and Extension Education, will feature as instructors top leaders of utility organizations from throughout the nation.

Among them: John F. Childs, vice-president of the Irving Trust Co., New York City; Dan M. Byrd, Jr., an attorney for the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., Atlanta, Ga.; Robb M. Winsborough, Middle West Service Co., Chicago, and H. J. Huether Jr., president of the General Telephone Company of Kentucky. Huether is to be chairman of the advisory committee.

WBKY Features Folk Music

WBKY will feature three programs entitled "Our American Heritage" next week. It is a documentary program designed to better understand the folk music of the hill country of Kentucky.

UK students on the program include Lucien Rouse, Kay Martersteck, and Dick Pigman. Other entertainers include Jean Ritchie, Tom Paley, Bob Atcher, Gwen Lanier, and Billy Edd Wheeler.

The program is narrated by Ralph Albers, the engineer at WBKY, and written by Dallas Ison. The history of the songs and their possible origins are to be discussed.

The programs are scheduled for 6:30 on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of next week.

Graduation Speaker Is Dr. Dickey

Dr. Frank G. Dickey, president-elect of the University, will deliver the Commencement address to about 400 graduates at 8:00 p.m., Friday, Aug. 3, in Memorial Coliseum.

The invocation will be given by Dr. Frank Rose, president of Transylvania University.

The newly named UK president will speak on the "Harvest of the Future."

Dr. Dickey will address 397 candidates for degrees Commencement night. According to Recorder Mary Page Milton, 187 Bachelor's degrees will be awarded. Graduate degrees will be given to 207 persons. The graduate degrees are broken down into 10 Doctor's degrees and 177 Master's degrees. These figures may change, the Recorder said.

Dr. Dickey was named by the Board of Trustees, June 22, to succeed Dr. Herman L. Donovan as president of the University. Dr. Dickey graduated from Henry Clay High School in 1935. He graduated from Transylvania in 1939, summa cum laude. He received his Master of Arts degree from UK in 1942 and his Doctor of Education in 1947, also from UK.

Dr. Dickey did post graduate work at Harvard University during the 1952-53 school year.

He was appointed dean of the College of Education in 1949.

Dr. Dickey succeeds Dr. Herman L. Donovan, who became president of UK in 1941, after serving as president of Eastern State College, Richmond, for 13 years. Dr. Donovan requested a change-of-work when he reached the age of 69. Dr. Dickey will take over the president's post Sept. 1. Dr. Donovan served as UK President for 15 years.

16 Buildings On Campus Can Burn

Sixteen buildings on the University of Kentucky campus are not fire resistant, Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, vice president, said this week.

Among the buildings listed by Dr. Chamberlain are Patterson and Boyd Halls, women's dormitories. Closed this summer, the two dorms house about 294 women during the regular semester.

Many of the buildings listed have long been termed "fire traps" by UK students and teachers. The most notable of these are the Social Sciences Building and the Euclid Avenue Classroom Building—both temporary structures that have been forced into longer use to meet the demands for room in a growing institution.

Dr. Chamberlain said the remaining buildings were: the Engineering Annex, Neville Hall, Miller Hall, the Alumni Gym, the Administration Building, White Hall, Barker Hall, the Anthropology Museum, Pence Hall, Kastle Hall, and the Mining Laboratory. The UK vice president said that part of the Experiment Station Building fell into this classification. A new addition was recently made to the building which is fire-resistant, he said.

Fraze Hall, partly destroyed by fire last January, is also on the list of possible fire hazards. The list does not include Little Commons which is no longer used, except for storage.

Pence and Kastle Halls represent the most pressing need for improvement, Dr. Chamberlain said. He estimated that the two buildings house over a million dollars in equipment.

Plans for a new science building were drawn several years ago, he said, but the University has not been able to finance it. The project would cost about three million dollars, he said.

Dr. Chamberlain said that the danger of any student being hurt in a fire in one of the classroom buildings is not too great. There (Continued on Page 4)

UK Prof Devises 3 Aptitude Tests

"Can that mechanic repair my car?" is a question answered on a test devised by Dr. Parl Mellenbruch, psychology. One of three aptitude tests, it has recently been published.

The Garage Mechanics test, which has been published by the Educational Testing Bureau, is designed to tell quickly if an applicant for a garage job knows his business. There has long been a need for a test of this type, since so many unqualified "mechanics" have obtained work.

It is also used in automotive training schools, of which there are several hundred in the country. The test determines how well the mechanic's training fits with their skill for actual garage work.

The mechanic aptitude test predicts the trainability of persons along mechanical lines. It is a revision of an earlier test which was published by the Scientific Research Association.

The other tests, which will be out this summer or early fall, are to be published by the Psychometric Affiliates of Chicago. They are concerned with clerical work and thinking aptitudes.

The Clerical Aptitude test is one which helps to predict the possibility of success for anyone who thinks of entering a field involving clerical work. This is to precede training.

The Thinking Aptitude test helps to determine an individual's ability to handle ideas. It has a high predictive value for academic success.

Cheers For UK Opera; Actors, Stories Good

Three cheers for the opera! Get your tickets now for the last two nights. What? Gian-Carlo Menotti's two operas, "The Medium" and "The Telephone," now showing at the Guignol Theatre in the Fine Arts Building starting at 8:30 p.m.

"The Telephone" especially will interest students since it deals with an ever present problem in college life—that of the telephone. What girl living in a dorm or sorority house has not waited anxiously for the phone to ring and spent hours talking, much to the dismay of the other girls. And what boy has not felt it futile to compete with the talking, two-headed monster?

Barbara Watson does a fine job of portraying the fun-loving lovable Lucy who thinks the telephone is a necessity of life. Charles Sims and Robert Davis, alternating as Ben, the perplexed boy-friend, turn in very creditable performances. Sims will play the part of Ben tonight and Davis plays the part Saturday night.

Barbara Watson, a UK graduate of 1955, is studying toward her Master's degree in applied voice this summer. She is from Taylorsville. Charles Sims, Wilmore senior, is majoring in music. Robert Davis, Frankfort, is a graduate student in music education.

"The Medium," a tragic opera, is as serious as "The Telephone" is light. Dudley Saunders as Toby, the deaf-mute, almost steals the show. Sally Hoffman Braun who plays Madame Flora (Baba) is wonderful as the dishonest medium who comes to fear the spirits. Phyllis Tilton is very good as Monica, Madame Flora's daughter. Ebba Jo Haagenon and Leonard Wolfe as Mr. and Mrs. Gobineau and Margaret Dowling Wehle as Mrs. Nolan give a generally good performance as the bereaved parents who come to the medium for help.

Sally Braun is a graduate student in music education. She is from Fort Thomas and graduated from UK in 1955. Phyllis Tilton, Lexington senior, is majoring in music education. Ebba Jo Haagenon, Lexington, graduated from UK this past June with a bachelor's degree in music education. Leonard Wolfe, Lexington, is a sophomore in music education. Margaret Wehle got her Master's degree in music education from UK last summer.

John Whittaker and Harold Nave, accompanists for the opera, do a fine job with the music. Whittaker graduates from UK this August. He is from Corbin, Nave, a senior from Elizabethton, Tenn., will graduate from UK in January.

Much of the credit for the fine performance of these operas must go to Aimo Kiviniemi, director of the opera workshop, and Miss Lolo Robinson, production manager.

If you haven't been to see the opera yet don't fail to go. Both are well worth the time.

Nation's Best Hogs Seen On U of K Campus

By CHARLES W. KURTZ
Kernel Swine Expert

Some 250 of the best hogs in the country were on display this week as the National Duroc Congress held its meeting on the University campus.

Co-operating with the United Duroc Record Association of Peoria, Ill., in staging the event in addition to the University of Kentucky were the Kentucky Duroc Breeders Association. It was the first Duroc Congress to be held here.

The congress featured an educational program of interest both to the breeder of purebreds and commercial hogman. A Type Standardization Committee made up of leading college swine specialists, packer representatives and breeders, held type discussions on ways to further improve the Duroc hog and to find the most profitable hog to raise—one with meat qualities, which will produce the best and highest percentage of primal cuts with less lard, and a hog that will retain the fastest growing ability, hardiness and productivity.

A National Show was held in which there were 250 entries. The competing hogs were then sold in two national sales.

KU Honors 11 At Law Lunch

A luncheon was held yesterday for a group of 11 students in a public utilities course in the College of Law.

This, the second such luncheon, was sponsored by the Kentucky Utilities Co. in an effort to correlate the student's studies in law school with Kentucky activities.

Keith Corday of the rates and contracting department of Kentucky Utilities, spoke to the group on "Rate Base in Public Utilities Law." The talk was followed by a period of questions from the students.

In addition to the students and Corday, Prof. Roy Moreland of the College of Law, instructor in the public utilities course, was present. He said the Utilities company wants to make the luncheon an annual affair.

School Textbooks, Materials Shown

An annual exhibit of public school textbooks is on display in the gymnasium of the William S. Taylor Education Building, Fred Harris, professor of education, said. The exhibit, which began yesterday, features displays of textbooks and teaching materials printed by 30 leading publishers in the United States. Representatives of the publishing houses are in attendance at their respective booths.

Material shown, Harris said, is of particular interest to elementary and secondary teachers. The represented companies have sent their latest and best-selling books and equipment. The exhibit will close tomorrow.

There is also being shown, at the same time, a group of foreign language arts material in the Fine Arts Building. This is presented by some of the companies showing in the Education Building.

The prime purpose of the exhibit is to acquaint teachers with the latest teaching material, not to promote sales. However, Harris said, teachers may place orders with the representatives.

Scholarships Given To HS Seniors

The scholarship committee announced that three four-year scholarships have been awarded to Kentucky high school seniors.

The three students receiving the awards are Hughteta Alice Bartlett, Shelbyville; Ronald W. McCabe, Springfield, and Lloyd R. Cress, Clay City.

Cress won the University's Alumni Loyalty Fund Scholarship, valued at $700 a year for four years. The grant is given annually through the Alumni Association Fund, to which contributions are made by the Alumni.

Cress, who will be graduated from Powell County High School later this month, plans to enter the College of Law.

A scholarship is provided each year from the income of an alumni investment. Four students hold this scholarship at the same time.

Miss Bartlett and McCabe were chosen to receive scholarships made available by General Motors Corporation. Each year the corporation evaluates the need of the students selected for the grants and then later suggests the exact amount to be granted.

Miss Bartlett will be graduated from Shelbyville High School late this month. She plans to become a science teacher or engage in scientific research.

McCabe will be graduated from Springfield High School this spring. He expects to enter the College of Engineering.

The three scholarships were awarded on the basis of scholastic ability in high school, general character, and personality, participation in extra-curricular activities, and financial need.

Members of the coordinating committee will be William W. Haynes, Ralph F. Kessinger of the General Telephone Company of Kentucky, and A. Clay Stewart, assistant to the president of Kentucky Utilities Co.

The plan, Dunn said, originated with industrial leaders of Kentucky who believe the seminar will help the people of Kentucky, by giving them better management of the utilities companies facilities.

While the conferees are on the UK campus, they will live in Donovan Hall and their meetings will be held in the conference room there. All representatives will be from Kentucky.

KDPi Initiates 20 Ed Students

An initiation service for 20 graduate and undergraduate students in education was held Thursday, July 26 by the Alpha Gamma chapter of Kappa Delta Pi in the Training School Library.

The new members were selected on the basis of high scholastic and leadership ability.

The initiation program was followed by a picnic in the outdoor court of the Training School.

Honorary membership in the organization was given to Assistant Dean of Women Jane Haselden.

The following students were initiated:

Willie Ramona Emerson, Leo B. Bell, Betty Kidd Brown, Maurice Christopher, Charles F. Curry, Joseph R. Donovan, Alma Collins Gray, Louise Fallon, Mrs. Lucile Stokley McKenney, John Wiley Payne, Doris G. Phelps, Gladys Threlkeld, Keith Huffman, Allie Baker Martin, Patrick E. Napiew, Jeanine Osburn, Myrtle Osborn Ray, Sam P. Simpson, Edward Bastin Webb, and Ruby Carr Wright.

Officers of the Alpha Gamma chapter are Nancy McClure, president; Thomas J. Dunn, vice president; Margaret Roser, treasurer, and Mrs. Anne Brewer, secretary. Dr. Morris B. Clerley is the group counselor.

are many people in the buildings during the day and a fire would be quickly discovered, he said. The buildings are usually closed at night.

"It should be the objective of any institution to get rid of those" (buildings) as soon as possible, he said. Unfortunately, the need for space and the lack of money keep these plans from always being carried out immediately, he said.

Yearbooks Out On Aug. 3rd, 4th

The Kentuckian, UK yearbook, will be distributed next week in the Journalism Building, Room 116, Perry J. Ashley, assistant director of student publications, has announced.

The yearbook will be handed out from 11-12 a.m. and from 2-4 p.m. on Friday and from 9-11 a.m. on Saturday.

Ashley said that the Kentuckian would be presented to candidates for the Bachelor's Degree only. He said that the cost of the book had not been added to the fees for other degrees.

All students planning to pick up their Kentuckian, he said, should be sure to bring their fee slips.

The Kentuckian supplement will also be distributed along with the annual, Ashley said. Supplements will be mailed to students who have already received their Kentuckians.
