THIRTY-FIFTH ANNUAL SESSION

OF THE

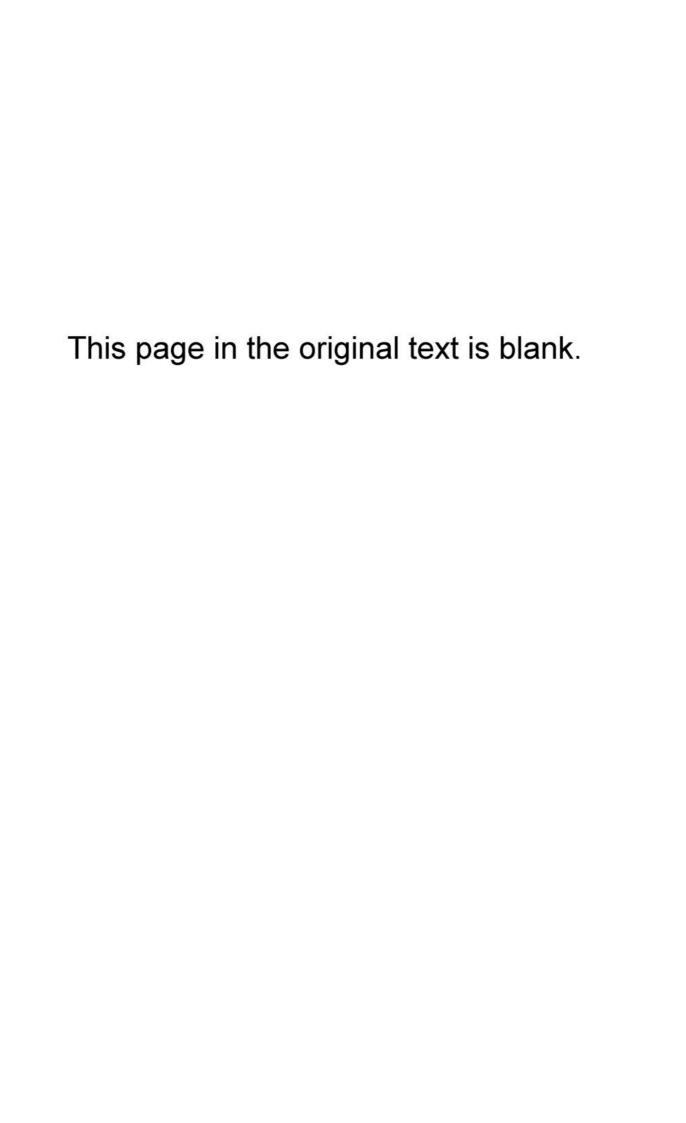

IMPERIAL COUNCIL

ANCIENT ARABIC ORDER, NOBLES OF THE MYSTIC SHRINE

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY

JUNE, 1909

STANDARD PRINTING COMPANY LOUISVILLE, U. S. A.

HEN the Louisville meeting of 1909 shall have passed, Shrinedom's history will be a page longer. How rich will be that page, must be proved by the historian. Verily, the forecast is attractive.

The chronicler is going to be the event itself. The handler of parts of speech and rounded phrase will be only the associate historian. The events of the week of June 7 will record themselves with automatic faithfulness as to importance of detail on memory's parchment for all those who participate in them.

Be it understood, therefore, that this volume is not a history. It is naught more nor a whit less than a forecast, an annal and a nourishment to memory.

So well laid have been the plans for the thirty-fifth annual session of the Imperial Council and attendant festivities, that in making the forecast the annal, too, is written. Where greater power than human control fails to enter, events soon will have taken place as they are now foreshadowed. Then its third and greatest function is entered upon by this Book, and its pages become reminders of fine facts and pleasing fancies.

There is much to tell, and some of it about the Book itself. Many months and much work was the sentence passed by Kosair Temple on the Executive Committee to which it entrusted arrangements for the annual session of 1909. The program for Shrine week is direct evidence as to that. Then, too, the Executive Committee assigned itself many duties. One of them was the issuance of this Book.

"Let the Official Souvenir Program be worthy of the occasion," was the sentiment. Thereupon the "Program Man" advanced upon the Executive Committee. He came neither with diffidence nor in the singular. His paucity of ideas and suggestions was no more in obscurity than his persistence and his insistence.

"If the Official Souvenir Program is to be as it should be, it must be of our own making," was the next sentiment. And straightway from its own membership the Executive Committee appointed a Program Committee, the members of which were Nobles George D. Young, David B. G. Rose and the Secretary of the Executive Committee.

Thereupon, it followed that the promise was spread broadcast that the Official Souvenir Program of the Thirty-fifth Annual Session of the Imperial Council would be published under the auspices of the Executive Committee.

That promise now is fulfilled.

The Shriner and the Shriner's dearly beloved "unregenerated" brother have alike contributed to the success of the Book. In its trinity of virtues as a forecast and an annal and a reminder, it also carries with it commercial announcements not a fraction inferior in their importance to any other of its contents. The Secretary of the Executive Committee came in contact either personally or by correspondence with every interest represented in the pages which follow, and this experience was the real pieasure of his services in connection with the Book. It is to these concerns that the Executive Committee owes most of its success in the effort to make a volume "worthy of the occasion." It is to these concerns also that the recipients of the volume are introduced, with the conviction on the part of the Bookmakers that the acquaintanceship on both sides will be splendidly agreeable.

The personal thanks of the Secretary must be given here to the members of the Executive Committee and to Nobles generally. In both committee work and duties connected with the publication of this Book, assistance and co-operation have come spontaneously and fraternally to a degree that has made an everlasting impression on the heart of the Secretary.

BIG hand with "Howdy" in its palm is the first thing visitors will behold when they come to the Thirty-fifth Annual Session of the Imperial Council, and the festivities in connection therewith on June 7, 8, 9 and 10, 1909. That is the Louisville spirit. The hand will be a colossal one. It will be wide open. It will be warmed by electric lamps, spelling the word of cheer and welcome, "Howdy."

Back of that hand there is just as big a heart, and one just as warm. The heart is so big it is everywhere. It won't be seen, but it will be felt. That, too, is Louisville spirit.

There is only one Louisville. Here it is, at the Falls of the Ohio. It is a big community, with nearly 300,000 persons. All of the advantages and attractions of a progressive American city are here. And then there is something added. It is easier to say "Howdy" here than it is to say "Good-bye."

Louisville is a city of hearthstones. In this fact lies the secret of the big-hand and big-heart spirit. There are more homes here than in any city of the size in the country. Once it was said that a man with $50,000 would invest $10,000 of it in his business and the remaining $40,000 in his home. When one gazes upon the great and flourishing industries interwoven through the center of Kentucky's metropolis and skirting its edges, this statement may be received with doubt, but the fact remains that Louisville is the home champion's paradise. Broad and well-shaded avenues, lined with hundreds of comfortable residences, big and commodious apartment houses, block after block of cozy and well-kept cottages, together with suburban places innumerable, attest the truth of the statement that the home spirit is probably more firmly imbeded in the hearts of Louisvillians than in any other city in the United States.

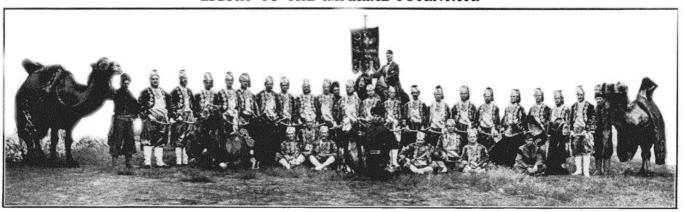

It is well to lapse into a few details. Not only is Louisville an ideal place in which to live, but it is a good place to make a living. The climate is just right, without the excessively high temperatures of the semi-tropical cities, and minus the long and rigorous winters of the extreme North.

Louisville was dubbed by President Roosevelt the "Gateway of the North and South." The city is within forty miles of the center of population of the United States. There is not a more accessible community in the entire land. Ten lines of railway, with numerous interurban arteries of travel, make it easy to come to Louisville and as easy to get away—provided that rare inclination seizes one after once here. By reason of its many railroads and its location on the Ohio River, the transportation facilities of the city are exceptional. Its shipping advantages are probably not equaled by any city of the size in the entire country.

ESCORT TO THE IMPERIAL POTENTATE

EL KAHIR PATROL, CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA

Factories are offered five years' exemption from taxation. The present city tax rate is $1.75. Labor difficulties are so rare that they are almost unknown.

Louisville is the second largest and most important city south of the Mason and Dixon line. It has three miles of wharfage. There are 75,000 buildings in the city and 256 churches of all denominations. There are approximately 200 miles of paved streets and nearly 175 miles of street car trackage. Fifteen banks, five trust companies and three savings banks are included among the financial institutions. The total taxable property is $173,-000,000. There is now practically completed a new filter plant, which has cost upward of $3,000,000. A new sewerage system, costing $4,000,000, is being added. There are 1,587 acres of park tract, with connecting boulevards. The city's magnificent free public library has five branches. Forty-two clubs give some indication of the social life of the city. Here are located also head-quarters of many and branches of all fraternal orders.

In an educational way, Louisville takes high rank. It has five high schools, two normal or training schools, fifty-four elementary schools, one university, eight branches of State universities, and several special schools. It is the center of medical education, with schools of this class attaining national reputation. Here are located the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and the Presbyterian Theological Seminary. The Lincoln Institute, for the practical training of negro youth, will shortly be added to the long list of educational institutions. The establishment of this school will represent an outlay of over $400,000, and the institution is expected to become the foremost one of its kind in the entire country.

The city stores and shops are equal to the best in the land. It has big and commodious office buildings, and all of them well filled. Its hotel accommodations are the equal of any city of the size, and are bigger and better than those enjoyed by most cities.

And with all the things great and good of which Louisville can now boast, it continues to grow, and grow rapidly.

Now to return to the big heart-and-hand idea. This is distinctively a convention city. The reason for this may be found in some of the facts already stated. It is the only city in the country that has had the honor of entertaining both the Confederate Veterans' Reunion and the Reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic. The International Sunday-School Convention has met here. Louisville has entertained tens of thousands during the Home-Coming Week. The Knights Templar have come in triennial conclave. A biennial encampment of the Knights of Pythias has been entertained here. The National Travelers' Protective Association has honored the city with one of its conventions, and one big gathering after another has at some time added a page to the city's history. It has now come to the time when scarcely a month passes but it takes with it the report of some national convention held here.

Among all of these meetings, it is believed and hoped, many will record as biggest and best the annual gathering of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, the program for whose meeting is given in the pages which follow.

"FEZZED" THOUSANDS SEEK THIS MERCHANDISING OASIS

Members of caravans may safely leave camels and dromedaries in charge of our side walk attendant, and, should the attractions of this store, prolong your visit, we shall see to it, that the animals are "fet the milk of human kindness," while you are sojourning with us. We suggest, that all animals be securely tied a safe distance from any long-eared species of quadruped, which may perchance be browsing in the neighborhood, for be it known that the momentum and force of a well directed kick from one of these prized beauties is second only to the attack of a catapult.

CARAVANS OF TRAVELERS, affiliated with Patrols and Temples from the east, west, north and south—can, by little enquiry, ascertain that this busy Pioneer department store has, for many a long year, been en-SHRINED in the hearts of the trading masses.

q Across the burning sands of necessity, into the land of valuegiving, of which this store is the MECCA—does not necessitate a long journey bestride a camel, or demand extensive preparation. Right at your very door this establishment with its comprehensive stocks, and corps of courteous employes—bids you welcome.

q No matter HOW careful, SOMETHING was doubtless forgotten, SOMETHING is needed, and that something is HERE, at a price most moderate.

¶ ARE YOU A MASON? and DID YOU GET IT AT HER-MAN STRAUS & SONS CO'S?—are two expressions that are heard everywhere during this annual session. The honor of your personal inspection of this store is invited, and our every facility is "at your service."

q OUR DAYLIGHT RESTAURANT—third floor—will doubtless have its attractions to those who—tired from shopping and sight seeing—wish to partake of wholesome food, and dine under pleasant, quiet, well appointed surroundings.

THE STORY.

The scene represents Boonesboro, a home of the early settlers, who have built their rude cabins in the wilderness. Their chief vocations are hunting and farming, and for the latter a small clearing has been made around their cabins. At first the pioneers are seen at work around their homes, assisted by their wives and daughters. Simon Kenton has left the little settlement with one or two men in search of game. Early in the afternoon Kenton and his companions return, carrying a deer which they have killed. It is a beautiful summer day. Peace and quiet prevail.

A friendly band of Indians approaches from the forest, and after an exchange of greetings the Indians form a circle and smoke their pipe of peace. Games are entered into between settlers and the Indians, and the latter are finally prevailed upon to give one of their dances. Shortly after this, the Indians return to the forest and the settlers resume their labors.

A call is heard in the distance. New arrivals have come, with their crude wagon. As they approach the little settlement every one immediately ceases work and goes forward to greet and welcome the newcomers. After helping them unload their wagons, activity begins again. In the way of showing their joy at the arrival of the new members of the settlement, old Si Jones is prevailed upon to get out his fiddle, and he no sooner begins playing one of his old-fashioned tunes than the younger people in the settlement can be seen dancing a quadrille. Every one is happy. There is no thought of approaching danger.

Away across the creek, up the hill opposite, a figure is seen darting here and there among the trees; then another; then more; concealing themselves as they approach the settlement. It is a hostile band of Cherokee Indians. Full well they know that Daniel Boone is away from the settlement with many of his brave followers. The time is auspicious for a massacre of the hated whites. Four or five scouts go within a few hundred yards of the settlement, where they can get a full view.

Little dreaming of danger, two of the women, in company with one of the men, start for the spring, near the creek, after water for the evening meal. They obtain the water in safety and start back. Some shots are heard, and one of the women and the man fall dead. The other woman manages to escape injury. She flees for her life, and finally reaches the clearing. The savages rush across the creek, and, bending over the bodies of the man and woman, secure their scalps. With a yell they dart back to the cover of the trees, showing their trophies to the other redskins.

In the meantime the surviving member of the little party reaches the settlement and tells what has just happened. All is excitement and confusion. Men drop their work and the festivities cease. They rush into the cabins and procure their trusty flintlocks. Headed by Simon Kenton, they start in pursuit of the Indians who have murdered two of their number, and rush without fear into the thicket. The Indians have been reinforced, and Kenton, believing it will mean the death of every one if they attempt to penetrate further into the forest, orders a retreat. The Indians follow, and a running fire is kept up between pursued and pursuers. By this time the settlers reach their home and the Indians are close upon them. Knowing what will be their fate if the Indians are triumphant, Simon Kenton orders every one who can shoot or wield a knife to fight as never before.

Here and there hand-to-hand conflicts are seen, even the women taking part with the men. Although greatly outnumbered, Kenton and his little band fight on, but at last they are in danger of extermination. The Indians have set fire to the cabins on the outskirts of the setlement. They have surrounded the central cabin, in which the settlers have placed the women and children. The pioneers have almost abandoned hope. A familiar call is heard from the stockade. Immediately a cry of joy goes up from the little party within the stockade. They recognize the call. They know it is Daniel Boone who approaches with reinforcements. With renewed vigor and determination the united forces attack the Indians, who are finally put to flight.

Such were the hardships and dangers our forefathers endured in order to bequeath to us this priceless heritage—Kentucky.

KENTUCKY

ENTUCKY's history is as rich as that of any State in the Union. Statesmanship, art and literature have all recruited their ranks from names of its sons and daughters. During recent years the State has forged ahead vigorously in the commercial world, until now it occupies an imposing place.

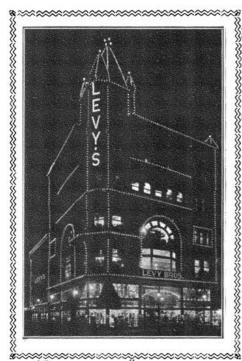

The Commonwealth has developed so rapidly along manufacturing lines within the last few years that it has now become known as a great industrial community, as well as an agricultural State. The development of its coal, oil, gas, iron and other mineral lands has also been remarkable. The wealth of unmined minerals is beyond calculation.

The population of Kentucky is today slightly in excess of 2,200,000. Its area covers 41,363 square miles. The State is famous for its production of tobacco, whisky, horses and minerals, and more hemp is raised in this State than in any other territory in the world. The normal year's Burley tobacco crop is valued at $14,000,000.

But these pages are designed not to dwell so much upon the agricultural and commercial wealth of the State, on its history, or upon the social and educational advantages enjoyed by those who abide in Kentucky, as to relate some of the things worthy of being seen by those who live here and those who visit here.

For a hundred years a great subterranean wonder has held the attention of the entire world, and has attracted annually thousands of visitors. This is Mammoth Cave, in Edmonson County. It ranks with Niagara Falls and Yosemite Valley among Nature's marvels. For the pilgrims who come to Louisville during the week of June 7, special arrangements have been made and concessions offered in railroad rates in order that they may enjoy the beauties of the great cavern. Elaborate preparations have been made, and special rates have been offered by the management of the hotel at the cave for the accommodation and care of pilgrims who continue their journey to this famous spot.

The cave was discovered in 1809 by a hunter who pursued a wounded bear into the mouth of the great recess, and since that day it has been the mecca of tourist and scientist.

Pearly Pool in Mammoth Cave

Almost every step of the journey through the cavern brings with it some new and picturesque feature. There are 200 miles of underground avenues, still chambers, tortuous passages, stairways, inclines, halls, vaulted domes and pits without bottom.

When the visitor descends to a depth of some 270 feet beneath the surface of the earth, he is on the brink of Echo River. The stream winds its way through the darksome depths for a distance of several hundred feet, the journey being made by boat. It is this stage of the trip which gives the visitor the correct idea of the element with which Nature wrought the great cavern, for the scientific explanation of the phenomenon is now that Mammoth Cave's beauties were made almost completely by water.

Scarcely a bit inferior to Mammoth Cave as an agency for spreading the name and fame of Kentucky, has been the beautiful Bluegrass section. Thousands of square miles are included in the territory near the central section of the State, which has gained world-wide reputation for its fertility and rural excellence. It is this great rolling land, sub-divided into magnificent stock farms, and marked by palatial country homes, that has given Kentucky the name of the "Bluegrass State." Here have been bred and reared kings and queens of the American and foreign turf. From here have gone forth the finest cattle. Many have declared that the Bluegrass region was the spot which the Creator primarily intended should be man's choicest habitation.

In the month of June this glorious region is at its fairest and best. It is then, too, that a visit to this delightful district is likely to be accompanied by that palatable token of Kentucky hospitality, the mint julep. It is a fact, not beneath the dignity of here recording, that from a spacious piazza in front of one of the homes of the Bluegrass region the Kentucky mint julep would be characterized by many a Noble, and an "unregenerate" as well, like unto a cup of nectar from the gods.

Lexington, situated in the heart of this delightful region, is a thriving city, famed far and wide for its hospitality. Near this place stands "Ashland," the home of Henry Clay, now even more beautiful than it was in the lifetime of that illustrious statesman. Near Bardstown, also in the Bluegrass region, is Federal Hill, the house in which Stephen Collins Foster wrote "My Old Kentucky Home," a song known to all nations.

Close upon Louisville—a distance of two or three hours' ride by rail—is a spot made particularly dear to the entire nation on the 12th of February, 1909, when the Lincoln Memorial Farm was dedicated to America. Upon that occasion former President Roosevelt visited the spot and was the central figure in elaborate ceremonies attendant upon the laying of the corner stone of a magnificent building. This building is now in process of construction and is nearing completion. It will house the humble log cabin in which the "Martyred President" was born.

Scarce two hours away from Louisville is the home of one of the most remarkable monastic communities in the world—"Gethsemane Abbey." Here dwell one of the two orders of the Trappist Monks on this side of the Atlantic. The monastery grounds and many of the buildings are open to visitors, and a hearty welcome is given them. In the same community will be found the house in which King Louis Phillippe boarded when he came as a fugitive from France, and found a safe haven in Kentucky, and here also is a church, the bell of which was presented to the congregation upon Phillippe's return to France.

Kentucky has a natural bridge 196 feet high, with a span of 219 feet. It has as beautiful mountain scenery as can be found in the entire world, the picturesque reaching its acme in the vicinity of Cumberland Gap, in the southeastern section of the State. It has in Frankfort, the State Capital, a picturesque little city on the banks of the beautiful Kentucky River, many historic buildings, made famous throughout the world by political events. The scenery along the Kentucky River itself has been likened by tourists to that found along the Hudson River, with the exception that in many instances the Kentucky River scenery far surpasses that of the New York stream in picturesque grandeur and ruggedness.

Here are a few of the many things Kentucky has to offer the pilgrim. The sons and daughters of the Commonwealth are proverbially hospitable, and the writers of these or any other pages are acting with the unanimous authority of the State's population when they suggest to the stranger within our gates that he abide a while with us.

KOSAIR TEMPLE

HE Directory of the Imperial Council tells us that Kosair Temple was founded December 5, 1884. From the records of Kosair Temple we learn that on November 3, 1884, a dispensation was granted by Walter M. Fleming, of New York, then the Imperial Potentate. On December 5, 1884, Kosair Temple was organized by Noble

Charles H. Fiske, of Covington, Ky., acting for the Imperial Potentate. The following appointed officers were installed under the dispensation: William Ryan, Grand Potentate; John A. Stratton, Chief Rabban; R. H. Higgins, Assistant Rabban; Charles A. Graham, High Priest; C. W. Pool, Oriental Guide; John Finzer, Treasurer; William E. Ryan, Recorder. The appointed officers were not recorded.

At this meeting seventeen novices were conducted across the sands by Noble William B. Mellish, Potentate of Syrian Temple, of Cincinnati, Ohio, assisted by the officers of his Temple. A most enjoyable banquet, at which Noble Mellish presided in a manner never surpassed by any since that day, was given to the Nobles, and an evening of pleasure, long to be remembered by the participants, followed the ceremonies.

The honor of instituting Kosair Temple belongs in a great measure to Noble William Ryan, 33° Scottish Rite, P. G. C. of Kentucky, who, with Noble John A. Stratton, P. C. DeMolay, No. 12, K. T., had crossed the desert in Syrian Temple at Cincinnati. Noble Ryan related that before the ceremony was completed he was forced to exclaim, "This is not Masonry, and I will none of it!" He was, however, induced to finish the initiation, and, with his genial nature, recognized that "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men." His keen sense of the lessons taught by the ceremonies caused him to think. With him, to think was to act. He called to his assistance Nobles Stratton, Finzer and others, and Kosair Temple was brought to life. None has cause to regret his work.

In the early life of Kosair, meetings were not frequent. Ceremonial sessions are recorded for July 1885; February, 1886; June, 1886, and October, 1886. In these sessions sixty-one novices crossed the desert and became Nobles.

In July, 1886, the charter was granted, and on November 3, 1886, two years after the granting of the dispensation, the first election was held, with the following result: William Ryan, Grand Potentate; John A. Stratton, Chief Rabban; Charles F. Hill, Assistant Rabban; C. L. Martin, High Priest and Prophet; Charles A. Graham, Oriental Guide; John Finzer, Treasurer; William E. Ryan, Recorder. The Potentate appointed John F. Lewis, First Ceremonial Master; Richard H. Higgins, Second Ceremonial Master; George Pearce, Marshal; C. W. Pool, Captain of the Guard; George F. Evans, Outer Guard; M. Cary Peter, Director; Alphonse Boulier, Alchemist; Thomas C. Timberlake, S.; C. Hite Smith, F. S.; John W. Jordan, Orator. This election being out of time was declared illegal, but at the following December meeting was approved.

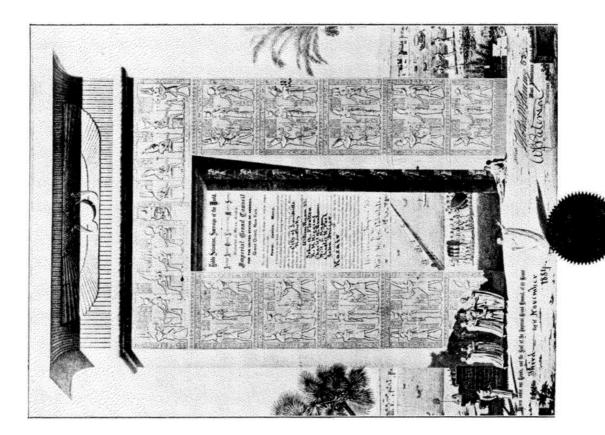

Noble William Ryan was Potentate from 1884 to 1892, and in 1894-95. He was succeeded by John A. Stratton in 1893. The Potentates since then were: Thomas C. Timberlake, 1896-97; James P. Noble Wm. E. Ryan was elected Recorder at ten consecutive elections, and was succeeded by Noble Fred W. Hardwick, who served until 1898, when the incumbent, Noble William J. Watkins (Uncle Billy, as we all please to call him), was chosen, and at each successive meeting since has been honored by a re-election.

Succeeding Noble C. L. Martin as High Priest and Prophet came Nobles Frank H. Johnson, 1891; Robert S. Moses, 1892-93; Thomas C. Timberlake, 1894; James P. Gregory, 1895; John F. Lewis, 1896; William H. Bartholomew, 1897-1907; Lee E. Cralle, 1908. The honor of holding office for the longest period belongs to our lamented Noble George F. Evans, who was the Outer Guard from 1884 until his death in 1903. He was succeeded by Noble J. H. Guttman, the present Guard.

Kosair Nobles have been proud of the work done by her excellent line of officers, and yield to none in the extent, variety, exactness of work and newness of ideas, yet always keeping within the law of the Imperial Council.

By courtesy of Louisville Commandery, No. 1, and DeMolay Commandery, No. 12, Knights Templars, the meetings were held in the asylum of these bodies in Masonic Temple, on the corner of Fourth and Jefferson streets. Outgrowing these quarters, the "Protecting Dome" was moved to the Scottish Rite Cathedral, on Sixth street, near Walnut, where the Temple still is located.

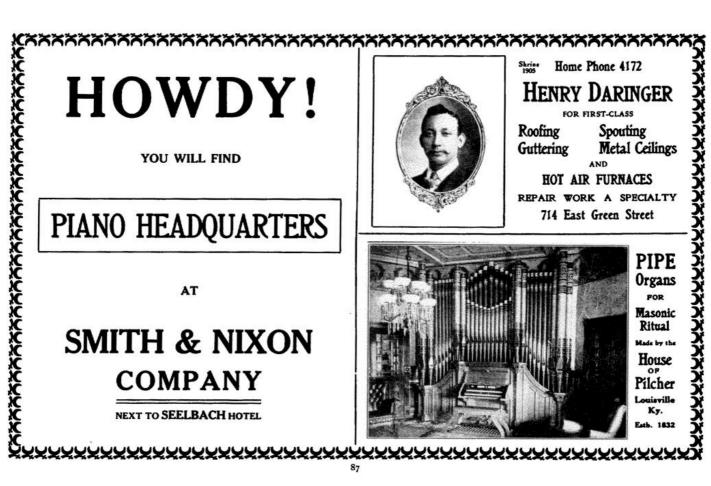

Kosair Temple began in a modest way, but from the few faithfuls that surrounded the Kaaba at the initial meeting, her membership has increased to more than fifteen hundred Nobles, drawn from the pulpit, the bar, the press, the bank, the office, the trades, and every place where good men are found.

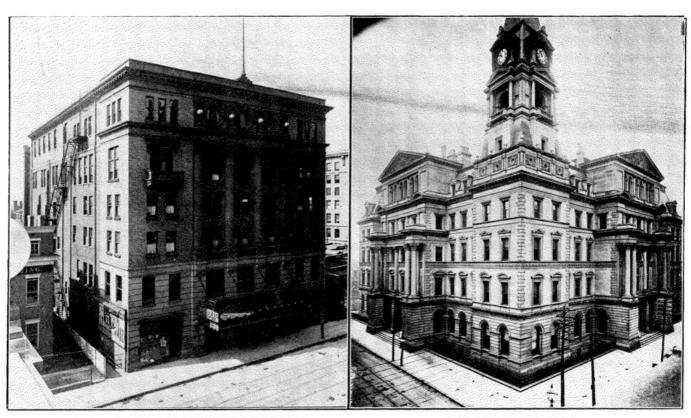

In the fun of life, Kosair has had a part both in entertaining and being entertained. Her Nobles have enjoyed themselves in other Temples, notably Medinah, of Chicago; Syrian, of Cincinnati; Moolah, of St. Louis, and Murat, of Indianapolis, her close neighbors. She has been pleased to surround her own festal board with Nobles from these as well as from other Temples as her guests, to whom her officers and Nobles are always ready to extend the greeting, "Howdy."

To her ladies she has paid honor in banquets, theater parties, outings, etc, resulting in much pleasure to the attending friends, Nobles and ladies. With her purse she is always ready to assist. Besides the aid to her Nobles individually, she with promptness contributed to the sufferers in the great fire of Chicago; the tidal wave of Galveston; the earthquake of San Francisco, and others. Her contributions to the Masonic Widows and Orphans' Home, the pride of all Kentucky Masons, have been as liberal as her purse would admit. Her generosity and courtesy has not been called in question.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

HEN Kosair Temple, by resolution, decided to tender a formal invitation to the Imperial Council to hold its Thirty-fifth Annual Session in the City of Louisville, a committee was selected and directed to use every endeavor to secure the acceptance of such invitation, and, due to the systematic, persistent and energetic manner in which the campaign was conducted, Louisville owes its success in securing the present session of the Imperial Council.

Inspired with that same enthusiastic spirit which characterized the Convention Committee, the Executive Committee, in conjunction with the many subordinate committees under the guiding hand of Kosair Temple, labored industriously for many months to perfect the extensive and elaborate plans formulated for that occasion. It was an intention to make the coming meeting preeminently the most famous ever recorded in the annals of Shrine meetings which caused the various committees entrusted with the difficult but pleasant task to work like Trojans. Many apparently unsurmountable difficulties were encountered during the progress of the work, which at no time retarded or discouraged the members, but rather tended to stimulate them the more, with the hope that their labors would be crowned with that degree of success for which they strived. The measure of their zeal and earnestness was evidenced by the large attendance and the great interest manifested for many months at the committee meetings.

It is a source of great gratification, therefore, to every member of Kosair Temple, to feel that their efforts have been crowned with such unqualified success, and in that connection I take pleasure in bearing testimony to the constant and valuable work accomplished by the 400 or more members who were active in the enterprise, and also to express my high appreciation of the faithful and efficient manner in which they have performed their important duties.

TREASURER'S REPORT

HE Treasurer of the Executive Committee had the good fortune to occupy a similar office in the Executive Committee which had charge in 1901 of arrangements for the Triennial Conclave of the Knights Templar. The duties then performed carried with them lessons valuable to the present undertaking, and the simple form pursued in the handling of our finances may probably well be adopted by other organizations on similar mission bent.

The Treasurer of the Executive Committee has had a single duty to perform, namely, the receipt of all funds and their disbursement upon proper warrant and authority. Bills have been contracted under the immediate direction of the Chairmen of the respective committees. Ratification of expenditures, indorsed by the separate committees, has in all cases been made by the Executive Committee. Upon evidence of the proper delivery of goods according to contract, the Chairman of the committee ordering the goods has approved the bill. A voucher covering the expenditure has then been indorsed by the Chairman and Secretary, respectively, of the Executive Committee. With this certification the voucher or warrant has come to the Treasurer, and has been his sole authority for the drawing of each check.

By following this procedure it is felt that every reasonable safeguard has been taken for the careful and economic distribution of funds which have come into the hands of the Executive Committee, and proper duplicate records are on hand as an evidence of all receipts and disbursements.

IMPERIAL COUNCIL COMMITTEE

N CARRYING out its share of arrangements for the annual session, the Imperial Council Committee has had uppermost in mind the convenience and comfort of the distinguished body, for whose purpose the event is held and in whose honor the attendant festivities are primarily intended. It was decided to have the open meeting and formal inaugural of the annual session in the First Regiment Armory, where ample space is afforded for all who care to attend. A program of comparative briefness will mark the opening exercises.

Following the public session, with its addresses of welcome and the response by the Imperial Potentate, the Imperial Council will move in a body to the Scottish Rite Cathedral. This building is directly across the street from the Armory, and the first business session should be in progress, if desired, within a few minutes after the close of the exercises in the Armory. Ample accommodations for the whole Imperial Family have been arranged in the Scottish Rite Cathedral, and the building is centrally located and easily accessible to the various hotels.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

HEN I accepted the appointment as Chairman of the Finance Committee, some of my friends were quick to offer their condolence and predict a nervous breakdown or some other distressing ailment as a consequence of the worry incident to getting together enough money to provide entertainment for our visitors.

I am happy to say that they were mistaken in their predictions.

On the contrary, I have enjoyed the work, backed as I have been by so many of the Nobles. Of course, the appropriation by Kosair Temple of a substantial amount from the investment fund and the assessment of each member, which was unanimously voted by the Temple, gave us a good fund to start with, but when the twenty committees handed in their estimates, we found that much more money was needed, and as we had agreed that this must be strictly a Shrine entertainment for Shriners and provided by Shriners, we DECIDEDLY OF THE FINEST QUALITY determined not to solicit donations from the general public, but to confine ourselves to the direct beneficiaries, such as hotels, restaurants, street railways, etc., and the members of the Order.

In order to raise the balance necessary, I appointed sub-committees to visit the various hotels, etc., and teams, consisting of two to each team, to solicit free-will offerings from the membership.

Those teams all reported the most cordial reception and liberal responses, and I desire to thank those who so nobly supported and assisted me, and also those who gave so liberally to help to maintain the reputation of Kentucky for her open-handed hospitality.

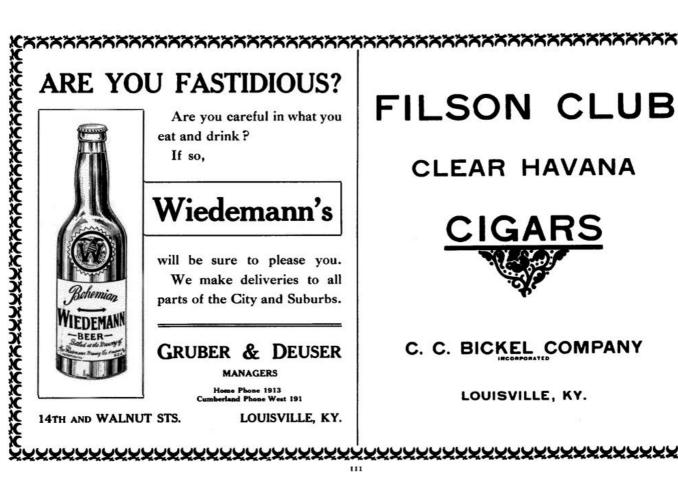

On behalf of the Executive Committee, I desire to especially thank Oleika Temple, of Lexington, for its liberal contribution in money, and its hearty proffer of the personal services of its Nobles in helping to entertain the visiting Nobles.

The appropriation by the city of $10,000 for illumination was most gratefully received, and enabled us to carry out a much more elaborate program of street illumination than we could have done otherwise. Very truly yours,

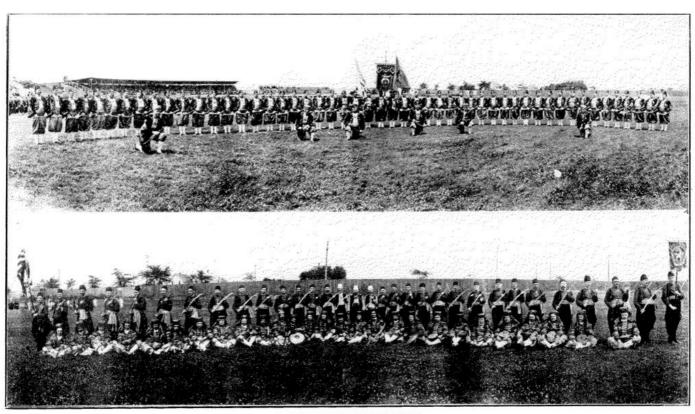

Chairman Finance Committee.

HEADQUARTERS AND INFORMATION COMMITTEE

HE purpose of the organization of the Headquarters and Information Committee was to make easy the "art of finding Louisville." The committee began work early, and on the eve of the annual session has confidence in its announcement of ready.

One of the most important things has been to confine within a limited and convenient territory the headquarters of those committees which will be generally sought after during the session. At the First Regiment Armory many of the leading events on the program will take place, and it is here that general headquarters have been established for all committees which have done the preparatory work for the meeting, and which will be active in carrying out the program. In the information bulletins furnished visitors upon their arrival, all needful helps and hints for their convenient enjoyment of the pilgrimage to Louisville will be set forth.

It also has devolved upon this committee to arrange information booths at the railroad stations, hotels and other centers where visitors will congregate. Ample telephone arrangements have likewise been made in order that easy and immediate communication may be had between committee members and visitors, whether the latter be quartered in hotels, boarding houses, or in parked cars. One of the arrangements upon which the committee relies for successful assistance is a citizens' committee auxiliary of several thousand members. This auxiliary really means a great body of Louisville's citizenship, designated with badges bearing the legend, "I Live Here, Ask Me." These home folk will be called upon to supplement all printed information with verbal pointers and assistance at the command of every Noble who meets them.

PARADE AND ESCORT COMMITTEE

REPARATORY work for numerous sub-divisions of the annual session entertainment have fallen to the lot of the Parade and Escort Committee, and on the eve of the meeting it is believed all arrangements have been satisfactorily completed. Under instructions of the Executive Committee, this committee has taken up the details of welcoming the official bodies with proper escort and supervising the pageant, which is scheduled for one of the chief features of the annual session, and has also had in charge arrangements for the exhibition drills by Patrols.

The committee found it necessary to commence early on its multitudinous duties. Plans were first carried out to insure proper reception of the Imperial Potentate and his escort to the quarters he will occupy during the session. Arrangements were likewise made for the formal reception, with an escort, of each incoming Patrol.

The committee has carried on its preparations for the Shriners' parade with an idea always uppermost that the participants in this pageant should be put to the least possible annoyance immediately prior to the parade. A central location has been selected for the rendezvous, and a broad street has been chosen for the formation of the line. Naturally, considerable study was given to the question of route of parade. An attempt was made to carry the line of march over those thoroughfares best adapted to the purpose, and along which the greatest possible number of spectators could be best accommodated. In the adoption of the route of parade, it was also borne in mind that human endurance has a limit, and the intention of the committee was that the route should be not too long.

One of the important things kept before the committee when time and place were chosen for the exhibition drills of Patrols, was that the Imperial Council itself should have an opportunity to witness these exhibitions. Several weeks in advance of the annual session so many Patrols had signified their intention of participating, that it was found necessary to divide the time for this entertainment, and a period of two days will be covered by the drills.

Special attention was also given by the committee to preparations for the Regimental Review. This was accepted as some-

LADIES' COMMITTEE

HE Ladies' Committee will have special charge of the entertainment of the visiting ladies during the session of the Imperial Council. Plans are perfecting for the decoration of the Headquarters, located in the First Regiment Armory, Sixth and Walnut streets. The Decoration Committee is giving especial attention to this matter, and there is no doubt that the room will be unusually bright, beautiful and attractive. This room will be supplied with every convenience for the comfort of the visiting ladies.

The ladies of Kosair Temple, with their usual grace and charming manners, will unstintingly use these for the entertainment of our lady guests.

The cordial co-operation of the Nobles and ladies on this committee justifies the Chairman in stating that no pains will be spared in making our guests feel perfectly at home. The visiting ladies are expected to report at Headquarters, Sixth and Walnut streets, upon their arrival, so as to be informed of the various entertainments to be given them, and also that escorts may be provided when it shall become necessary.

PROMOTION COMMITTEE

ITH the organization of the Promotion Committee work began immediately, and several months in advance of the annual session, to provide the event with thorough exploitation throughout all Shrinedom. Early weeks of the work were confined largely to publicity through the press of Louisville in order that home people might be properly aroused to the duty devolving upon them of entertaining one of the foremost gatherings in the United States.

Constant touch was kept with every Shrine throughout the country, and the Recorders of the different Temples rendered this committee great and important service. Early in the promotion campaign 160,000 folders were sent out. These contained the tentative program arranged at that time, the main features of which have been retained in the Official Program. The folders were entitled "Across the Hot Sands to Louisville," and were illustrated in grotesque and humorous fashion. These were sent in bulk to the Recorders, the latter kindly attending to their distribution through ceremonial announcement and otherwise among members of each Temple. It was the intention of the committee to thus reach directly every Noble in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Then followed a six-color letter-press invitation to all Temples. Probably more favorable comment was made regarding this feature than any other single item in connection with this committee's work. The invitation was elaborately designed and hand-somely executed, framed in oak and rope, and carried a cordial announcement to Nobility that it would be welcome in Kentucky the Beautiful from June 7 to 10—the invitation to stay longer being, of course, understood. The invitation was adorned with photographs of famous and beautiful spots in Kentucky and with various Louisville scenes, including the picture of the First Regiment Armory, where so many of the annual session-week events will be held, and a picture of the Masonic Widows and Orphans' Home.

Next came the publication of "Howdy." This little paper sprang into instant popularity. It was a sixteen-page, two-column monthly, keeping Shrinedom posted on what was being done preparatory to the reception and entertainment during the annual session, and also informing the members of the Order what arrangements were being made by Patrols and Temples throughout the country for the pilgrimage of 1909.

At the beginning the little paper was circulated among the members of the Imperial Council, the officers of all Temples and Patrol officers and members. The demand for the paper increased so rapidly that after the first number it was necessary to send forth "Howdy" in issues of several thousand copies each.

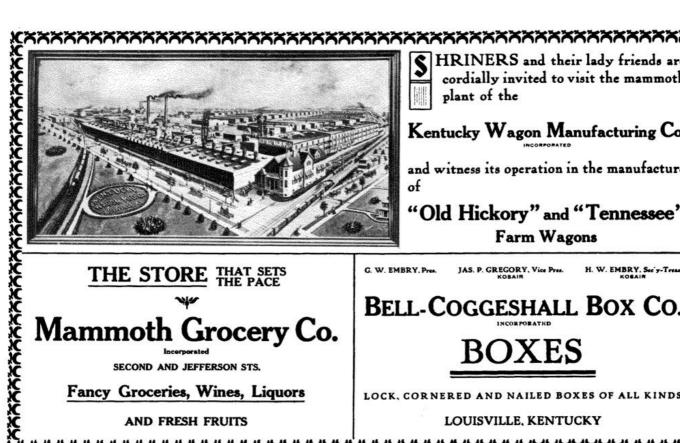

Another important branch of the work taken up by the committee was the sending of telegrams to Temples in ceremonial and special sessions. These messages were so arranged as to reach the Shriners either at the banquet board or at some entertainment. They all carried cordial invitations to the Nobles and their ladies to come to Louisville, and were always received with hearty appreciation.

During the concluding weeks of its efforts the Promotion Committee devoted particular attention to exploitation of the meeting through the local and outside press. Through the newspapers of every city in which there is located a Shrine, information was given to the public regarding preparations being made in Louisville for the coming of the Nobles and their wives and daughters. At the same time attention was directed toward furnishing the local press with detail reports of every step connected with the arrangements. Each committee's work was thoroughly exploited in order that the public might realize how great the gathering was to be, and in order that it might do its share in the entertainment of the city's guests.

The Promotion Committee, from the time of its organization up to the very opening of the Thirty-fifth Annual Session, spared neither time, energy nor expense in an effort to make the meeting the most-talked-of, the most-looked-forward-to event in the history of Louisville or Shrinedom.

TRANSPORTATION COMMITTEE

HE Transportation Committee reported matters well in hand several weeks before the opening of the annual session, and will be prepared to handle the Nobles and their ladies, who will arrive in special trains, and have their baggage unloaded as quickly as possible. A contract has been made with the Louisville Transfer Company, and under the direction of the Transportation Committee the Transfer Company will have plenty of carriages, coaches and baggage wagons to handle the crowds that will arrive on June 6, 7 and 8. Many of the members of this committee are well known railroad men, who have had years of experience in handling large crowds at railroad depots.

Nobles arriving from the East, West and North will not be required to deposit tickets with a joint agent for validation. This is a feature that will be appreciated by Nobles who hold the return portions of tickets.

Nobles arriving from the South will have to have return tickets validated and deposited with the joint agent, provided they wish an extension of limit.

The different Passenger Associations have authorized a low rate for the meeting, with liberal return limits.

Members of this committee will be on duty at the different depots to meet all incoming trains from June 6 to noon of June 9.

MUSIC COMMITTEE

OBLES like music, and the committee in charge of this branch of annual session work has tried hard to have plenty of it for them when the Louisville session is held. There may not be a band for every Temple represented, but there will be a sufficient number of organizations to make the session of 1909 enacted to the accompaniment of melody.

The Music Committee began its work by finding out the needs of its associate committees, banded under the executive body, and also the needs and desires of our prospective guests. It was learned that many Patrols and some Temple delegations would bring with them their own bands. Several of these will be splendid organizations that will greatly add to the general scheme of entertainment.

Early in its career the Music Committee was called upon to select the official band, or the organization which would represent the entertaining forces on all occasions. A contract was closed with Sig. Ernesto Natiello, and at each of the principal functions during the Shrine week this well-known leader's band will be on duty. The committee has planned music for everything, from the boat excursions, with which the week's festivities commence on Monday afternoon, to the grand ball, which will mark the conclusion of the 1909 session.

BADGES AND SOUVENIR COMMITTEE

ESIDES this volume as a pleasing reminder of the pilgrimage to Louisville, Nobles and their ladies will carry home appropriate badges to recall the scenes and incidents in which they participate while on the pilgrimage to Kentucky. Immediately upon the appointment of the Badges and Souvenir Committee several months in advance of the annual session, steps were taken for the adoption and purchase of the badges which should commemorate the event. It was natural to carry out in the designs of all badges the Shrine idea, in conjunction with those typical features which mark the meeting of 1909 as a distinctively Kentucky event.

Therefore, the committee contracted for badges for the Imperial Council, including the Imperial Representatives, for the visiting ladies and for the members of visiting Patrols. In each case a distinctive souvenir was designed. Likewise appropriate badges were selected for the various local committees, and properly designated to distinguish one committee from another.

Then there was the adoption of the Official Souvenir Badge and the making of a contract with a single concessionaire to handle this emblematic reminder of the annual session. The committee also gave its sanction to an Exchange Badge, designed for the convenience of members of Kosair Temple who would care to present the token to visiting Nobles. All arrangements were concluded some weeks in advance of the opening of the session, and this committee was able to report to the Executive Board that all badges were on hand days before the falling of the gavel of the Imperial Potentate.

PRINTING COMMITTEE

SSOCIATED with work of the magnitude of preparation for an annual session of the Shriners must, necessarily, come a great deal of printing. The Printing Committee's organization followed immediately after the organization of the Executive Committee, and it devolved upon this subdivision to carry out the wishes of its associate committees in the matter of type and ink and paper.

A simple arrangement was entered into. When any one of the committees required printed matter in connection with its work, requisition was made upon the Printing Committee. Bids were thereupon obtained and contracts let in each case. The result was that through this committee passed all of the various requisitions, from an order for postal cards to the pretentious invitation sent forth to the Nobility of America.

HOTEL COMMITTEE

NE of the important tasks the Hotel Committee found before it when it began work several months prior to the annual session was to convince the outside public that Louisville had ample accommodations to care for a meeting of such magnitude as an annual gathering of the Shriners. It comes to the eve of the Thirty-fifth

Annual Session with the belief that the public has been convinced of the correctness of the claims made, and with a feeling that all our visitors will be well taken care of.

Correspondence was early begun to determine what Temples would send representatives, and how many there would be from each. The Seelbach Hotel was selected as Headquarters of the Imperial Council party, and care was taken to provide as many of the Imperial representatives as possible with accommodations at this hostelry. The proximity of the hotel to the meeting place of the Imperial Council was, of course, taken into consideration.

Splendid co-operation and aid was given by the hotel men of Louisville to solving the many detailed problems that from time to time came up. Weeks before the convention all of the leading hotels were booked with contracts for quarters. The Shriners throughout the country were given full and complete information in various letters and circulars regarding Louisville's hotel and boarding-house accommodations, and many committees from the several Temples visited this city prior to the annual session. These committees looked over available accommodations, returned to their Temples, and later made formal contracts for the quarters their Nobles and Patrols were to occupy during Shrine week.

Thousands of the city's prospective guests arranged for sleeping accommodations in the Pullmans which will bring them to Louisville. This committee, with the aid of railway officials, has arranged for the proper and convenient parking of the cars, and the accommodations enjoyed by those who use this means of lodging should be all that could be wished. Members of the Hotel Committee have worked earnestly and constantly, and with a belief that no Noble will return to his home with severe criticism over the manner in which Louisville has taken care of her guests.

DECORATION COMMITTEE

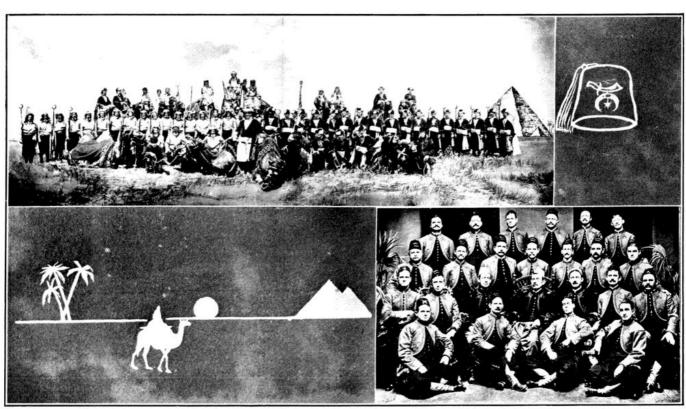

LANS were laid early for the decoration and illumination of Louisville in honor of the Nobles and their ladies who would assemble here during the week of June 7. Louisville has been brilliantly illuminated and prettily decorated on many occasions, and it was the purpose of the committee to attempt the setting of a new record along these lines. It is hoped that the approaching meeting will demonstrate that its purposes have been carried out.

One of the earliest problems was the settlement, in conjunction with the Parade and Escort Committee, of the line of march for the Shriners' great pageant. When this matter was determined by the latter committee and the information furnished to the Decoration Committee, steps were at once taken to provide proper illuminations and decorations for the particular streets over which the parade should pass.

Then came the selection of some of the main decorative features. It was decided to install at each street intersection some colossal Shrine design or emblem, and to festoon the intervening blocks with strands of electric lights. The sum appropriated by the Executive Committee for this committee's work was hand-somely augmented by an appropriation from the City Council of Louisville, and the expenditures of this sum have been judiciously and economically made, with the result, it is believed, that there can be nothing but praise for the appearance presented by Louisville's down-town section during the approaching festivities.

City and county authorities have generously aided the committee in many ways. Not only has every possible assistance been given in the illumination and decoration of the thoroughfares, but early in the spring several of the parks were decorated with floral designs, which today extend a beautiful silent welcome to the city's guests. The Board of Park Commissioners was especially helpful in this matter.

During the few weeks immediately preceding the annual session, the Chairman of the Decoration Committee made direct appeal to all business concern and owners of buildings in the central district, urging the illumination and decoration of every building.

These appeals have been generously met. An effort has been made to have used as far as posisble Shrine colors in the day decorations, and Shrine emblems in the illumination effects. With this co-operation on the part of the public and months of strenuous work by the members of the Decoration Committee, it is sincerely hoped our guests will feel that we have attempted to put on our best bib and tucker in their honor.

ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE

T IS to the Chairmen of the sub-committees and the Nobles who have labored so long and earnestly with them that must come the credit for such success as is merited by the program of entertainment for the annual session of 1909. The Chairman of the Entertainment Committee can here only give additional emphasis to the thanks he has expressed and felt for the hearty and earnest co-operation all along the line.

The Entertainment Committee was sub-divided into numerous branches early in the preparatory work for this year's meeting. The following Nobles were named as Chairmen of the respective sub-committees: Charles P. Frick, Street Cars and Automobiles; Charles H. Jenkins, Boat Excursions; C. A. Shaw, Theatrical and Vaudeville; Dr. George H. Day, Parks; Lawrence Leopold, "Attack on Boonesboro;" Joseph Burge, Mercantile Industries; Lee Cralle, Children's Chorus; A. H. McAtee, "Badger;" John Raidt, Observation; Fred Haupt, Automobiles.

It is certain that the round of pleasant events which shortly will have come to pass will attest the manner in which the work has been done by these and their associate Shriners. The Entertainment Committee started with the idea of making every moment of Shrine week a period bearing with it some event that would enable our visitors to return to their homes with the impression that they had enjoyed the best time of their lives, and at the same time give the citizens of Louisville a week without a parallel from the standpoint of happy doings. Several rough drafts were made of the entertainment program, and each of these was pruned and changed until the official program, as finally announced, bears little or no resemblance to the original. It was felt by members of the committee that each change was for the better. An effort has been made to give every variety of entertainment, and to make the question not so much "Where shall we go?" as "Which things will we be compelled to miss?"

Early in the action it was decided that a certain sum should be allowed for expenditure under the auspices of the Entertainment Committee. This appropriation was, in turn, parcelled among the various sub-committees, the necessities of the program outlined by each determining the amount of money that would probably cover expenditures required to carry out the particular plans of that sub-committee. By painstaking and intelligent work the Nobles on each sub-committee carried forward their work so systematically and carefully that shortly before the annual session the Entertainment Committee was able to report to the Executive Board that it had kept within its appropriation, and still had some funds in the treasury with which to provide for contingencies,

And in conclusion, the Chairman of this committee and his fellow members wish here to record their sincere thanks to the various tribes of the United Order of Red Men of Louisville; Order of Haymakers; members of the First Regiment, K. MEDICAL COMMITTEE

LANS for the comfort, protection and relief of the visiting Nobles and their friends have been completed. Every precaution and safeguard during the parade has been provided in case of accident or illness.

Stations every two or three blocks (known by the Red Cross flag) will be provided with physicians, nurses and stretchers. There will be at each of these stations an ambulance to meet any demands that may be made.

For the convenience and relief of those ill, tired or distressed, the Medical Committee has provided at the stores of the Smith & Nixon Company and the Baldwin Company comfortable quarters with cots, easy chairs, nurses and physicians in attendance. These quarters are to be used during the day. To further provide for any emergency, all-night quarters have been arranged at the office of Dr. T. Hunt Stucky, 500 Atherton building. Here will be found a physician and nurse, while an ambulance will be at the door to meet any call or demand of visiting Nobles.

The medical corps members will wear the white cap with red cross, and the coat sleeve will be similarly marked. The costume will include a military fatigue coat and white trousers.

Stations will be established at all the leading hotels and at every point of entertainment. The committee feels that every provision has been made for taking care of our guests.

If any accident or illness occurs, look for the Red Cross flag.

RECEPTION AND BALL COMMITTEE

GRAND BALL given in Kentucky should be just a trifle better than a similar function given in any other State in the Union. With this idea in mind, the Reception and Ball Committee has labored to make the chief social function of the Thirty-fifth Annual Session a memorable one. The ball will take place on Thursday evening in the First Regiment Armory, and the committee feels that Nobility will look upon it as a fitting climax to the week's festivities.

The Chairman of the Reception and Ball Committee can here only repeat the reports he has from time to time made to the Executive Committee, having in charge the Shrine week program. This committee's work started early, and it would have been possible to give the ball with two days' notice at almost any time within a month prior to the actual date.

The First Regiment Armory loans itself excellently to such a function as this will be, and this committee is especially indebted to the Decoration Committee for its assistance in equipping the spacious building for the event. There will be dance and concert music, and every effort has been put forth to make the grand march a delightfully spectacular feature of the event. It is felt that little can be told about the ball in advance. The belief is cherished that the function itself will bear the best testimony to the work done by the Reception and Ball Committee.

REFRESHMENT COMMITTEE

T IS right and proper that there should be something for the physical refreshment of the inner man when that particular man comes to Kentucky. These truths are the basis for the appointment of the Refreshment Committee. Several of the associate committees had their work well under way when the Refreshment Committee Chairman received instructions from the Executive Committee to begin his committee's work. With the enthusiastic cooperation of all members of the committee, the Chairman was able to report long before the opening of the annual session that there would be refreshments a-plenty.

The Refreshment Committee has acted upon request from its associate committees. Its preparatory work has taken care of the luncheon in honor of the Imperial Council, which will follow the first meeting of that body. It has also taken care of that part of the river excursions program, which provides for the serving of refreshments, and will look after refreshments for the reception at the Widows and Orphans' Home. Again, the committee was called upon to prepare a proper repast to regale those Nobles who participate in the Regimental Review. This it has done. It has humbly but earnestly carried into effect all demands made upon it, and enters upon the Shrine week period with the hope that its humble services will play their part in making our Noble guests glad they came to Kentucky.

HISTORY OF THE ORDER

HE Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine was instituted by the Mohammedan Kalif Alu, the cousin-germain and son-in-law of the Prophet Mohammed, in the year of the Hegira 25, at Mekkah, in Arabia, as an Inquisition or Vigilance Committee to dispense justice and execute punishment upon criminals who escape their just deserts through the tardiness of the courts, and also to promote religious toleration among cultured men of all nations.

The original intention was to form a band of men of sterling worth, who would, without fear or favor, upon a valid accusation, try, judge and execute, if need be, any criminal within the laws, having taken precaution as to secrecy and security. The Nobles perfected their organization and did such prompt and efficient work that they excited alarm and even consternation in the hearts of the evil-doers in all countries.

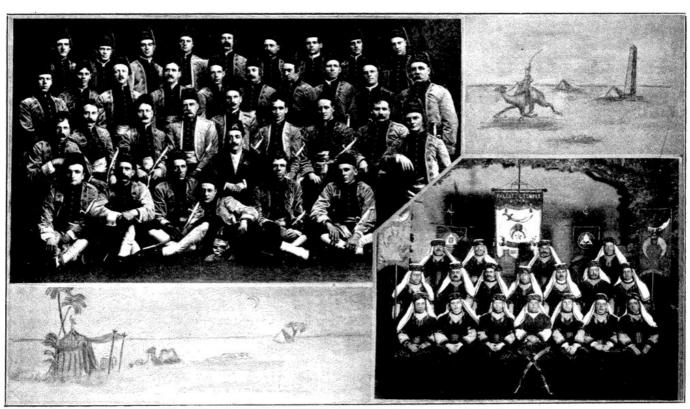

The Order is yet one of the most highly favored among the secret societies which abound in Oriental countries, and yet has around its Shrine a select few of the best educated and cultured classes. Their ostensible object is to increase the faith and fidelity of all true believers in Allah. The secrets and real purposes can only be made known to those who have encircled the Mystic Shrine.

Its membership in all countries includes Christians, Israelites, Moslems, and men in high positions of learning and of power. One of the most noted patrons of the Order was the Khedive of Egypt, whose inclination toward Christians is well known.

The Nobles of the Mystic Shrine are eminent for their broad and catholic toleration. The Noble who holds to a belief in a Supreme or Most High is never questioned as to any definition of that belief. The finite cannot define the infinite, although it may be conscious of its existence, is one of the attitudes of the Nobles of this Order.

Frequent revolutions in Arabia, Persia and Turkey have obscured the Order from time to time, as appears from the many breaks of the continuity of the records of Mekkah, but it has as often been revived.

In the year 1698 the learned Orientalist, Levigi Marracci, who was then just completing his great works, "The Koran in Latin and Arabic," with notes, and "The Bible in Arabic," at Padua, in Italy, was initiated in the Order of Nobles and found time to translate the ritual in Italian.

The deep significance of this can be seen when the history of the Italian society of the "Carbonaria" is recalled. The very existence of the Italian unity and liberty depended largely on the Nobles who were represented by Count Cavour, Mazzine, Garibaldi and the King Victor Emanuel.

Although Marracci was confessor of his holiness, Pope Innocent XI., for several years, yet was censured by the college of the propaganda at Rome for having aided and abetted the work of a secret society, and the book was condemned to be burned. A few copies were saved, and one is still preserved in the library of the synagogue which stands just inside the ancient Roman gate of the city of Babloon, called by the Arabs, Fostot Fostot in the Middle Ages, and now known as Old Cairo.

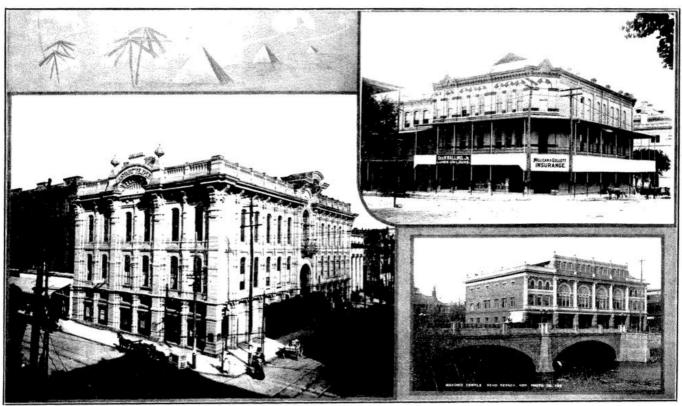

In making the version, the translator has had the benefit of the work of Olnasafi, of Marracci and of Hassom. The rendering is literal, where the idiom permitted, except when a local reference required the substitution of American for Oriental names of cities. The work has been perfected under the supervision of Dr. Walter M. Fleming, 33°, and Past Eminent Commander of Columbia Commandery, No. 1, of New York Çity, who received the instructions and authority from Riz K. Allah Hassoon Effendee, who had competent jurisdiction for America.

The ritual is known in Arabia as "The Pillar of Society," which is an honorary title given only to persons of very great distinction in the service of truth, justice and mercy, and the support of learning and culture, and was by courtesy attached to this work as originally written by the renowned Anasafi the Hafiz, the Persian poet.

The constitutional authority for promulgating the principles and protection of the Order was confided to Dr. Walter M. Fleming, 33°, and his associates: A. L. Rawson, 32°; William J. Florence, 32°; Edward Eddy, 33°; Daniel Sickles, 33°; Charles T. Mc-Clenachan, 33°; John W. Simons, 33°; Albert P. Moriarity, 33°; Aaron L. Northrop, 33°; Sherwood C. Campbell, 32°; James S. Chappell, 32°; Oswald Merle d'Aubigne, 32°; John A. Moore, 32°; George W. Millar, 33°; William S. Paterson, 32°, and all prominent Scottish Rite Masons and Knights Templars of New York City, who instituted the first Temple of the Order in that city, under the title of "Mecca Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine."

In this way the start was made only a few years ago, from which start Temples have been instituted.

the late William J. Florence, added to the fact that Noble Paterson became a master of the Arabic language, all tended to perfect the accuracy of situations that has resulted.

Of the original thirty who were instrumental in floating the ship, but nine survive, and their interest in the Order has never ceased as evidenced by the rapid increase in membership. Of the first hundred members of the Parent Temple, but twenty-one grace her roll today.

Although Mecca, the Mother Temple, established in 1872, was the first of the Order, Damascus Temple, of Rochester, N. Y., performed the first ceremonial working of the degree. Noble George F. Loder, Potentate for many years, is still an active member in this Temple.

To Ohio, however, is credit due for putting the real ginger into the Nobility and enthusing them up to the success which has been continuous ever since.

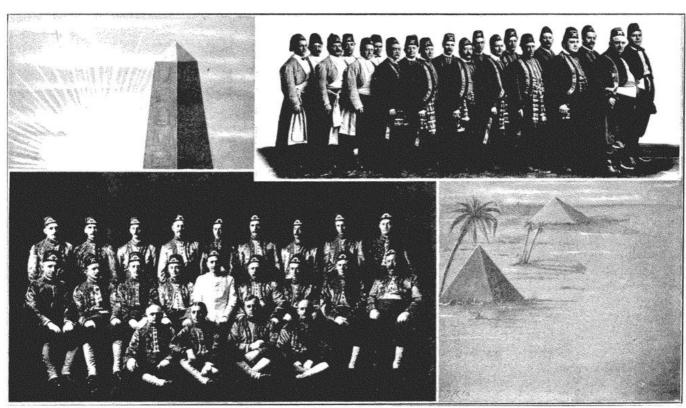

The Supreme Council of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of the Northern Jurisdiction held its annual session of 1879 in Cleveland, Ohio. Al Koran Temple, with the late Past Imperial Potentate Sam Briggs as Potentate, held a full ceremonial session at this time. Several members of Mecca were visitors and became so impressed with the magnificence of the work, costuming and good fellowship, that they returned home very enthusiastic, and at once interested Mecca's divan. Earnest work began, and the finest costumes, paraphernalia and properties were received, weekly rehearsals were held, and the first full ceremonial session in January, 1880, was a perfect success. To this individual pilgrimage can be attributed the active start in life of Mecca Temple and the Order in general, and Damascus, of Rochester, N. Y.; Mount Sinai, of Montpelier, Vt.; Al Koran, of Cleveland, Ohio, 1876; Cypress, of Albany, N. Y.; Oriental, of Troy, N. Y.; Syrian, of Cincinnati, Ohio; Pyramid, of Bridgeport, Conn.; Ziyara, of Utica, N. Y., were constituted in 1877; Kaaba, of Davenport, Iowa, 1878; Moslem, of Detroit, Mich., 1880; Aleppo, of Boston, Mass., 1882; and ninety-nine other Temples since, who now number members enrolled in good standing about 115,000.

Medinah Temple, of Chicago, has 7,085 members; Mecca Temple, of New York, has 5,804 members; Aleppo Temple, of Boston, has 6,005 members.

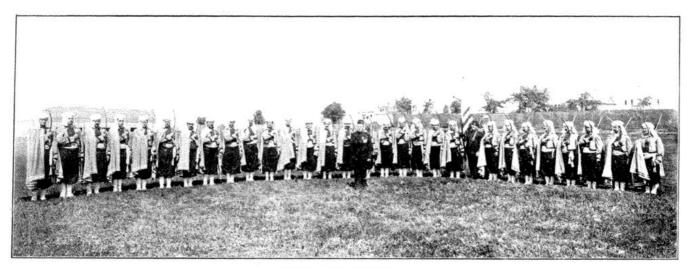

Ladies' nights and children's matinees were also inaugurated and have become a part of the interesting features, and have done more to place the Order on a solid footing with the female members of the family, and remove the Sons of Malta insinuations that were cast at it in its early start.

Were it not for the Order of the Shrine, those who comprise its members would have halted with Blue Lodge Masonry and not sought the higher prerequisite bodies. The Mystic Shrine became known as the greatest organization connected with Masonry, to reach which it was necessary to knock at either prerequisite door—the A. and A. Scottish Rite of the Northern or Southern Jurisdiction of the United States, or a body in harmony with them, or become a Knight Templar. Some became interested and joined them both, and in this way the Mystic Shrine became a feeder for each of these prerequisite bodies.

In the words of Mrs. Edith Sessions Tupper, the Order of the Mystic Shrine is defined: "It is a society which inculcates respect for the Deity and love for humanity—true religion in a nutshell. There should be more such societies, sound of theory and serious of purpose, but ready at special seasons to give care to the winds and contribute to the sad, bad, mad, old world's eternal hunger for beauty and amusement."

BENJAMIN W. ROWELL,
Imperial Recorder of the Imperial Council of North America.
