

Entered into life eternal. On Saturday Feb. 25, 1905, at her home "Balsparan," near Lexington, Kentucky, Susan M. Jacob, daughter of the late John J. Jacob, of Louisville, Ky.
Widow of Hon. James B. Clay and a daughter in-law of Henry Clay, in the eighty third year of her age.

"On the day of her death, Mrs. Clay retained the graceful dignity of her earlier years and the clear mind and remarkable memory that had distinguished her. She was a woman of rare and beautiful Christian character and possessed a woman's beauty whose features the advancing years but softened into greater kindness. Her knowledge and culture were developed to a marked degree; her mind was brilliant and her heart as soft and sweet as a child's.

Her death takes away one of the important links connecting the present Kentucky with a more glorious past. She belonged to a clay and generation in which great men lived and her life was rich in its associations of such a past, the fadeless glory of which cast a sacred halo about her declining years."
