

Louisville Ky.
1745 First Street
March 31. 1897.

Dear Father;

As I wanted to send a box up I decided to get only one pair of the silk socks and send them up for you to see and try. The clerk suggested me to send a pair of French cotton socks that cost thirty nine cents, and let you take your choice.

If you let me know which you like I will get them at once. If you do not like either send both pairs back to me for I want to get some shoes and will exchange the socks for what I need. The clerk assured me that they were 10¢, but I find it well to try things for yourself.