

Superseded
by a later will

P. O. ADDRESS,

Lexington, Ky. July 17 1897

My last will wholly written by myself, Notarized;

After the payment of my debts I do hereby and bequeath all of my estate to my dear wife for and during her life and after her death to my son Henry de la McDowell in trust for the benefit of my children share and share alike, except the share of Henry which is devised to him in fee — The income alone shall be paid to my said children and shall not be liable for any debt incurred by any of them — In the division of this estate my children shall be chargeable with such advancements as they may have received, only as appears from my account book, and no interest shall be charged on such advancements — They shall also be charged