

College Station, Texas,
April 2, 1894.

Messrs. H. C. McDowell & Son,
Lexington, Ky.

Gentlemen;

Your favor of March 28th,
was received yesterday.

I failed to sell my horse, Rustic Wilkes, and at prices quoted I am not at present able to buy.

Since writing you before, Stonega cut her hind leg right in the hock-joint, by kicking through a wire fence at some other horses, getting her leg on the other side of the fence, and the wire caught in the joint, right in the bend.

Our veterinarian says ^{if} even she hasn't a stiff leg from it, it will leave a blemish and the leg will never be as strong as before.

I am coming to the conclusion