..... FOR PROFESSIONAL READING .....

THE ECONOMICS OF ONLINE, edited by Peter Bysouth, vol 2 in THE FOUNDATIONS OF INFORMATION SCIENCE.
7665.E190 1987

Mainly on scientific online searching: choices, costs and benefits, the book consists of photoreproductions of articles from various sources on either side of the Atlantic. It is fairly dry reading, but it does bring home the advantage we have in not having to make our connections to DIALOG over expensive transatlantic phone lines.

TRAINING STUDENT LIBRARY ASSISTANTS by Morell D Boone et al.
7682.4 889 B66

After it has reviewed learning styles, this book has a very clear and matter-of-fact discussion of its title topic. Its many helpful suggestions are conveyed using checklists, questions for interviews, planned activitie s, structured training and all kinds of samples. Extremely functional, recommended.

From GPD, sent in by Kandace Rogers:

RESPECTFULLY QUOTED: A DICTIONARY OF QUOTATIONS REQUESTED FROM THE CONGRESS-IONAL INFORMATION SERVICE.
GPD LC 14.2:D56

A book of quotations compiled from requests made to CRS by members of Congress to help "in their task of expressing our national purpose." Many of the quotes are from major political figures from speeches and letters.

From B.G.:

"On librarians I do speak with prejudice. The profession in general has always seemed to me like the legitimization and financing of an impulse to collect old socks. It has always seemed to employ people who would enjoy handling old socks, smelling old socks, and legislating categories of old socks. But then you know I am terribly prejudiced."

From LETTERS OF JOHN CHEEVER, p 378. Cheever to his son, Fred.

From *!..:

The optimist proclaims that we live in the best of all possible worlds; and the pessimist fears this is true.

Frequently asked reference question: "What does 'charged' mean?"
