ELABORATE PLANS MADE FOR ENTERTAINMENT OF HOME COMING ALUMNI

Nancy Innes to Lay Cornerstone of New Basketball Building

C. C. CALHOUN WILL SPEAK

Dinner-Dance at Phoenix Hotel After The Football Game

Over a thousand graduates and former students are expected in Lexington Thanksgiving, the day set for this year's home coming to witness the football game between Tennessee and Kentucky. Reservations on trains, at local hotels and with friends were made months ago by the Blue and White followers for this event.

One of the chief features in addition to the football game will be the laying of the corner stone of the new basketball building in the morning at 10:00 o'clock. Miss Nancy Innes, of Lexington, class of 1917, will lay the corner stone, and Captain C. C. Calhoun, of Washington, D. C., has been invited to deliver the principal address at the ceremony which will be brief.

The piece de resistance of the day's program, of course, will be the game between the Wildcats and the Tennessee Volunteers which will be held on Stoll Field beginning at 2 o'clock.

BLACKVILLE FOLLIES TO BE GIVEN ON THURSDAY

Lexington Boys Present Minstrel For Benefit of Band

A number of boosters of the University of Kentucky better known as the "Raspberry Patch," will give a minstrel on the nights of November 29 and 30, at the Opera House on North Broadway, the proceeds of which will go to a fund which will be used for the purpose of defraying the expense of carrying the band to Atlanta last week.

This trip cost a little over $1,000 and the fund which the Su-Ky Circle had to pay for the trip, fell short by about $400, so this minstrel is being given to raise the deficit.

There are a number of things that are scheduled for Thanksgiving night, among them the tea-dance that is to be given by the Lexington Alumni for the visiting alumni and for the two football teams; but this affair will stop at 8 o'clock in order to give those present a chance to attend the minstrel. The minstrel is known as the "Blackville Follies," and is considered by those that have seen it as one of the best that has ever been put on the stage by amateur actors.

Tickets for the show are now on sale and may be obtained at Lexington Drug store and from members of the SuKy Circle.

DEDICATION IS FEATURE OF HOME COMING DAY

Prominent Alumni to Speak—Fields is Invited to Attend

Several hundred graduates and former students of the University are expected to revisit the campus and remember their undergraduate days in the annual home-coming to be held on Thanksgiving day.

The dedication of the basketball building, being erected on the university campus from funds procured in the Greater Kentucky Campaign, will be the most important event of the day and is expected to bring back for a glimpse of Alma Mater even a larger gathering of former students than is usually drawn by the fall home-coming. The exercises which are under the direction of George B. Carey, chairman of the basketball building association, will be held at 10 o'clock.

William Jason Fields, governor-elect of the state, has been invited to take part in the program, which will include other prominent speakers from among the members of the alumni association and friends of the university.

During the afternoon the visitors will be given a chance to see the present day Wildcats in action against their ancient enemy, the University of Tennessee, and will be entertained in the evening with a dinner-dance by the Lexington Alumni Club at the Phoenix Hotel.

Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen," the comedy to be presented by the Strollers this year, was read for the first time before the Strollers and new eligibles in Dickler Hall Tuesday night by Maxwell Heavrin. The purpose of the reading was to familiarize the members of the organization with the play and give them an opportunity to select the parts for which they think themselves best fitted. Director Heavrin will start work on the cast selection soon.

THREE SITES ARE TO BE VIEWED IN LOCATION OF NEW FOOTBALL STADIUM

Committee Meeting Next Friday May Make The Decision

SCOVELL PARK IS URGED

Stoll Field and Rose Street Also Desired By Supporters

With the initial meeting of the University stadium building committee less than a week off, there is much discussion among the students, faculty, alumni and friends of the institution as to the proper location for the $120,000 structure.

During the past few months the various advantages of many sites have been brought forward, but with the nearing of the date for the final selection, the number of favorable locations has narrowed to three. They are the present football field, on Winslow street; Scovell park, lying directly across from the campus, and a plot of the experiment station farm at the intersection of Rose and South Limestone streets. The lots are owned by the University except Scovell field, which is the property of the city.

Students of the department of civil engineering, under the direction of Prof. D. V. Terrell, who is one of the members of the building committee,

ARMISTICE DAY POEM IS WRITTEN BY EX STUDENT

Miss Josephine Farrell—On Staff of "Vogue"—Receives Recognition

Miss Josephine Farrell, a former student of the Department of Journalism of this University, who is now a member of the staff of Vogue and is in France for the winter, wrote the following poem for Armistice Day and dedicated it to the American boys buried in France. The poem was published in the New York Herald and in the Lexington Herald, from which we take it:

"There is a great stream flowing Into the Land of God, And paths there are along its banks Where angels' feet have trod.

"The angels who go down to pray For gentle pity's sake, Their voices mingle with the sound That the slow ripples make.

"And never rang the fields of Heaven With holier sound save when The listening shepherds, awestruck, heard: 'Good will and peace to men.'

"Say not: 'They fill a nameless grave, They soak an unknown sod.' * * * There is a great stream flowing Into the Land of God."

—Josephine Farrell.

HOWDY, AL.

The sun should shine bright all day Thursday to register the cheerful condition of the University of Kentucky this fall. We have cause to give thanks. Across Stoll Field on that day the blue jerseyed line of the Wildcats will oppose Tennessee in the last combat of the season. The outcome is not worrying us this year. We have seen them hold Washington and Lee to a 6-6 tie and the story of how they held Georgia Tech has been read by all.

On Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock the corner stone of the new basketball building will be laid. It will mark the assured success of the "Greater Kentucky" campaign, a campaign entered with misgivings by some, only to see it a success at the hands of the alumni, citizens of Lexington and friends of the University elsewhere.

We welcome every former student and alumnus to the home coming game and to the exercises at the basketball building in the morning. It will be a great day for Old State, the end of a great season, the dawn of a Greater Kentucky. You have helped to make it so. We hope you enjoy your visit back to the campus.

CONGRATULATIONS

The Alumni Association wishes to extend its best wishes and congratulations to our esteemed president, Dr. Frank L. McVey, and his bride, formerly Miss Frances Jewell, Dean of Women, who are now absent on their wedding trip.

To a few of us, Alumni of late years, Miss Frances Jewell's classes stand out as an oasis of companionship in the desert of awe which often exist between the instructor and the instructed.

As Dean of Women she has been the big sister of every girl in school, with a willingness to help them and a sympathy with the students' point of view that made discipline a pleasant affair.

As the wife of our president, the students will still look upon her as a friend and claim her as their own.

In the six years he has been on the campus Dr. McVey has inspired the alumni as well as the students with the greatest confidence in his ability and the highest love for him as a leader.

We rejoice with the new couple in their happiness.

HERBERT GRAHAM RESIGNS

In accepting the resignation of Herbert Graham, the first alumni secretary of the University of Kentucky, the Alumni Association has lost a valuable, efficient and a loyal man. The enthusiasm which Mr. Graham had for his work and the work of the organization was so sincere it aroused a spirit of loyalty in those with whom he came in contact. When it became known that he was leaving, letters were received from alumni all over the United States, members of classes from 1875 to 1923 regretting that he must leave and paying a tribute to the work he accomplished in the three years he was Alumni Secretary.

A good friend of Mr. Graham's, a man whose opinions are usually correct, said of him, "Some men have big jobs, in the case of the alumni office, it has a big man. Herbert is the job."

When he took up the work in September, 1920, there were two alumni clubs and the Alumni Association had 200 members. At the close of the fiscal year 1922-23 there were 34 clubs with a paid up membership of 1,120. Already 700 have paid their membership dues for the year 1923-24. The first work of the Alumni office was the hardest and the most discouraging. Mr. Graham leaves the office well organized with a capable corps of assistants and the work of the new secretary will be easy compared to the work he undertook in organizing the Association from the small start already made.

W. C. Wilson, chairman of the executive committee of the Association, issued the following statement at the time of Mr. Graham's resignation: "Mr. Graham's services have been very valuable as the first full time secretary of the Association and we very much regret to see him leave at this particular time when the results of his earlier labors are just beginning to be seen plainly enough to encourage him. The results are most gratifying to the Alumni Association and to his many friends."

The Lexington Herald in an editorial November 16, said of him: "The field of work which he entered was an entirely new one. Due in a great measure to his energetic boosting, the Association has grown greatly. Herbert Graham's efforts toward making the Alumni Association a factor in the institution's progress have been faithful and fruitful. It will be difficult to fill his shoes."

Dr. A. M. Peter, of the Chemistry Department, of the Experiment Station, class of '80, and a former president of the Alumni Association, wrote to Mr. Graham: "I am very sorry that you are going to leave us and should have written you to express my regret immediately upon receipt of your letter telling me about your going. I have a very high opinion of the work you have done for the Alumni Association and think it would be hard to find another who would put the same enthusiasm into it."

We have only mentioned two or three of the many sources from which praise for Mr. Graham's work came. His connection with the University of Kentucky was profitable and pleasant for the University and the Association. In addition to the high quality of the work he did there was the advantage which comes from the association of a gentleman of high ideals, an unusual sense of honor and legitimate ambitions. We offer Herbert Graham our most sincere thanks for his work here and congratulate him upon the field of broader service he is entering, assured that the same merits which made him so well respected in Kentucky will give him an enviable position among New York journalists.

GUARANTOR SUBSCRIBES

Another Underwriter of Memorial Building Helps Stadium

The alumni office has just received a communication from an alumnus of the University and a citizen of Lexington, who was one of the 100 men who signed notes of $1,000 as guarantors of the memorial building.

The memorial building was a state project to erect a memorial to the soldiers from Kentucky who served in the World War. The work on this building has been delayed but there is now available for this purpose about $150,000. This building fund has been confused by some with the Greater Kentucky campaign which is purely a University and Alumni project. On account of the confusion some of the guarantors of the Memorial building refused to subscribe to the Greater Kentucky fund. The communication just received authorized that the writer be put down for a $100 subscription, as it had been explained to him that the $1,000 guarantee could not be used for the purpose of the Greater Kentucky campaign. The letter said:

"It has been my honest desire to subscribe to the stadium fund and the object of this letter is to authorize you to put my subscription down for $100 and we will let the guarantee take care of itself.

"Being an alumnus of the University I would feel very much like a slacker to allow the opportunity to do a good thing for the University of Kentucky pass by me.

"While we felt that we were justified in holding our subscription, this subscription is as an individual and not as a firm. I assure you that you will always have my hearty co-operation for anything to the benefit of the University.

Betwixt Us

"I am not sure whether I stated on my pledge card that I wanted my 'mite' to go to the Patterson Memorial. President Patterson was one of the grandest men I ever knew and was nice to me in the days of the old A. & M. I attended the summer session at the University this summer but our old teachers are practically all gone and U. of K. does not resemble A. & M. very much."—Richard C. "Dick" Millard, ex., Nicholasville Ky.

"Your Greater Kentucky Campaign fund letter, addressed to me in Washington, was received recently. I have been unable to keep up with things this summer as I have been moving too fast for my mail to keep up with me. I am sending small cash amount to the fund until I have time to look more deeply into the cause and my pocketbook."—Frederick H. Evans. Mr. Evans is director of Course Development, Rochester Mechanics Institute. For several years he taught in the Bradley Polytechnic Institute, Peoria, Ill. During the period of the World War he was chief engineer with Ransom & Randolph Co., Toledo, Ohio. For a year he was chief of training, U. S. Veterans Bureau, Washington, D. C., and recently left there to enter his present employment. He married Miss Mary R. Warrael in 1908. They have one daughter, Mary Rojier, thirteen years old. Residence address, 235 Shelton Street, Rochester, N. Y.

"Referring to the enclosed card and enclosed two dollar bill, please excuse my oversight and see that the Kernel is sent to me as usual."—Carroll H. Gulion (with Swift & Company), 1132 E. 48th St., Chicago, Ill.

Added to the list of "active members" this week is Hugh J. Tomlinson, draftsman-engineer with the Rathbun-Jones Engineering Company, of Toledo, Ohio. Address 1830 Princeton Drive.

Charles J. McPherson is superintendent of the J. G. Brill Company, Philadelphia. He has been in the employ of this company practically ever since receiving his degree and for several years, as sales engineer, was located in various parts of the country. In addition to his B. M. E. he received the M. E. degree from the University of Kentucky in 1910. He married Miss Katherine Melhora, October 23, 1920. They are living at 1998 Upland Way, Overbrook, Philadelphia, Penna.

Since August, L. S. Boggess has been with the Department of State Roads and Highways and is located at Old Landing, Ky. For several years Mr. Boggess has been with the State Highway Department of Oklahoma, and only recently returned to his native State. His permanent mailing address is Lawrenceburg, Ky.

One of the "regulars" who sent in his dues this week is Leo Brewer, 701 Maverick Building, San Antonio, Tex. Mr. Brewer has been practicing law in San Antonio since 1914, except during the period of the World War, when he served as first lieutenant, field artillery. He is a member of the firm of Robertson and Brewer and is a assistant U. S. District Attorney. Mr. Brewer received his B. A. degree here in 1908 and his LL. B. at Harvard in 1914.

Thank you for your reminder reference dues and the 'Kernel'. The interesting news of the University and the 'old grads' published therein are received with much pleasure by the entire family. James F., Jr., aged 10, and Mary Jane, seven, each expect to attend the University of Kentucky some day. A few days ago we had the pleasure of a visit from B. E. W. Stout, B. C. E. '09, with the General Construction Company, 1411 Sydicate Trust Building, St. Louis, Mo. We are always delighted to see any one from the 'Old School'. There are about fifteen 'Kentuckians' in Dallas, but it is hard to get them together. I have been a member of the firm of Henger and Chambers Company for several years. We conduct a general contracting and engineering business, chiefly commercial, industrial and institutional work. All good wishes for the Alma Mater."—James F. Chambers, 315-18 Slaughter Bldg., Dallas, Texas.

Edgar H. Webb, who has for several years been a salesman with the Murphy Varnish Company, asks that his address be changed from Chicago to Builders' Exchange, Rose building, Cleveland, Ohio.

A card received today asks that address of Mr and Mrs. Joseph Bryan Shelby be changed from East Orange, New Jersey, to No. 8 Roosevelt Road, Maplewood. Mr. Shelby is with the Driver-Harris Company, Harrison, N. J.

"Please find enclosed check to start me right. Whenever I fail to pay my dues on time you may send me notice, but whatever happens, don't stop the Kernel. Should I not have the money when my dues become due, I will borrow same and send you the two dollars. I am stating this emphatically because I don't want to miss any copies in the future. Hoping this is satisfactory and with best wishes for the Association and the University."—John M. Foster, State College Station, Raleigh, N. C.

Jewell—McVey

Charming simplicity marked the wedding of Miss Frances Jewell to Dr. Frank LeRond McVey, which was solemnized at 12 o'clock noon Saturday at Pleasant View, Jessamine county, the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Hickman Jewell, with only the members of the two families and intimate friends present.

Dr. William Pitt McVey, of Carbondale, Ind., brother of the bridegroom, read the service before an altar of ferns and palms lighted by cathedral candles arranged in the drawing room.

The colonial hall and the spacious rooms on each side were beautifully decorated with roses, chrysanthemums and ferns, and southern smylax was entwined about the columns and the winding stairway. A beautiful program of music was rendered during the assembling of the guests by Mrs. Louis Alexander, violinist, and Miss Marie Fitzgerald, harpist, and the "Lohengrin" and Mendelssohn bridal marches were used as the processional and recessional.

The ribbons forming the aisle for the wedding party were drawn by Mrs. Horton Watkins, of St. Louis, and Mrs. Samuel B. Walton. The bride's niece, Miss Elizabeth Jewell, maid of honor, was first to enter the drawing room. She wore a dainty gown of pale pink crepe de chine with a shower of ribbons of pastel shades falling from the waistline. She carried a French bouquet of flowers in pastel tones.

The bride descended the stairway and was joined by her father who escorted her to the altar where she was joined by the bridegroom and his best man, Frank LeRond McVey, Jr.

The bride was especially handsome in an exquisite gown of white satin with panels of embroidered net and real lace. Her tulle veil was fastened with a coronet of real lace that was on her mother's veil. The bridal bouquet was of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served. The three tier wedding cake formed the centerpiece for the table, and was surrounded by silver vases holding bride's roses, and white candles in silver holders. The color plan of green and white was carried out in the bonbons and ices. Smaller tables were arranged in the dining room, library and enclosed porch, and were decorated with pink roses.

Mr and Mrs. Jewell were assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. Holliday Meads, of Wilmington, Del.; Mrs. Holton Watkins, of Kansas City, sister of the bridegroom, and Misses Virginia and Janet McVey.

Mrs. Jewell wore a gown of night blue velvet. Mrs. Mead's gown was of sapphire georgette crepe, and Mrs. Watkins wore black velvet with trimmings of ermine. Mrs. Park was gowned in king's blue charmeuse with overdress of embroidered and beaded net. Miss Virginia McVey wore rose taffeta with trimmings of black lace, and Miss Janet McVey's gown was of blue taffeta.

Mrs. John David Allen kept the guest register. She was dressed in black canton crepe with gold thread embroidery and monkey fur trimmings.

The gifts were displayed in the library and were notably handsome. The members of the faculty of the University and Woman's Club sent a magnificent silver service, and the women students' gift was a silver chop dish.

Dr. McVey and his bride left in the afternoon for a ten days' bridal trip after which they will be at home at Maxwell Place, the president's house on the campus.

The bride is one of Kentucky's most brilliant women and has taken a leading part in University life where she has been dean of women for three years. She is a graduate of Vassar College and has done post graduate work at Columbia University. Dr. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, is one of the most popular executives the institution has ever had and his influence has been strongly felt in educational work throughout the state and country.

Tea Dance for Their Pledges

The Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity of the University entertained delightfully Friday with a tea dance at Patterson Hall in honor of their pledges.

The recreation hall made a beautiful ball room with decorations of plants and many flowers. The favors were pretty little memorandum books for the girls. An orchestra furnished the music and refreshments were served.

The hostesses were the active chapter, Misses Laura Isabelle Bennett, Janet McVey, Rowena Coates, Patsy McCord, Mary Hanson Peterson, Minnie Benton Peterson, Margaret Turley, Mary Mathilda Beard, Frances Field Coleman, Katherine McMurtrey, Frances Smith, Mary Snell Ruby, Maryann Young, Curtis Buehler, Frances Cregor, Grace Davis, Virginia DeLong, Jane Earl Middleton, Eleanor Chenault Smith, Mary May, Helen Van Derveer, Margaret Arnold, Mary Helburn, Eugenia Herrington, Emily Holloway and Maria McElroy.

They were assisted in entertaining by the chaperones, Mrs. Mary Taylor, Mrs. Paul P. Boyd, Mrs. Edna Giles, Mrs. Charles Judson Smith.

The guests of honor were the pledges: Misses Margaret Owens, Mattie Ellis Gregory, Pearl McCormick, Elizabeth McDonald, Elizabeth Smith, Eleanor Tapp, Rebecca Averill, Carolyn Bosworth, Carolyn Bascom, Neil Bush, Mary Barrow, Virginia Boyd, Sarah Curl, Esther Gilbert, Lana Martine Coates, Nannie Gay, Virginia Owsley, Katherine Goodnight, Virginia McVey.

The men present represented all the chapters of the men's fraternities in the city.

Prepare Opera "Martha"

The opera "Martha," which the music department of the University will produce at the Lexington opera House, Thursday afternoon and evening, December 6, is being rehearsed every afternoon under the direction of Professor Carl Lampert. According to Mr. James Baughman, business manager of the production, a special matinee will be held for the school children of Lexington and their parents.

The entire work on the opera is being executed at the University. The Art Department is painting the scenery under the direction of Professor Carol Sax. Miss Elizabeth Cromwell is planning the costumes.

TIED UP

Brown and Jones at the club, were lamenting the absence of their mutual friend Robinson, who had got married.

"We don't see much of Robinson now," said Brown. "I fancy his movements are not so free as they used to be."

"That's true," replied Jones, dryly. "Since he tied the knot he's not had so much rope."—Tit-Bits.

WELCOME, ALUMNI

Home Coming! What that word connotes to alumni and what emotions stir the hearts of long-absent sons and daughters who make pilgrimages to the shrine of their alma mater, the Kernel can dwell on only in speculation. There is the thrill of re-unions, the joy of renewed friendships, the delightful moments of reminiscence, all clothed in festival spirit, yet mellowed by fleeting years and tinged perhaps with regret that the wide world has nothing comparable in happiness to four golden years that have passed irrevocably. They are men and women of the world, these alumni of ours, but they are still alumni in the broadest application of the word. They no longer tread the cloistered halls of a benevolent educational institution but there inheres in all of them, despite their contact with harsh materialism, a tender loyalty that surpasses even the fervid fidelity of the undergraduate.

The Kernel wishes it could impart adequately to these big brothers and sisters the warmth of welcome that every one connected with the university wants to give them. This present home coming is different from former home coming occasions. Since last home coming day, our alumni have been subjected to a test of loyalty, a test wherein the forces of time and forgetfulness were arrayed against the deeply rooted memories of a bening and fostering mother that had come to distress. The Kernel is happy to find that the day's program makes it possible for our alumni to view some of the material results of this test.

For this day marks the official fruition of hopes aroused at the University of Kentucky last spring when a campaign was launched among alumni in an effort to bring a neglected institution something vitally essential to the maintenance of its self-respect. A $200,000 goal has been reached and Home Coming Day fittingly brings a formal close to an undertaking successful beyond the most chimerical dreams of imaginative optimism.

Home comers may view the results of their loyalty in the cornerstone exercises at the new basketball building. Early next year alumni money will erect a massive football stadium that will stand for generations as a magnificent emblem of alumni loyalty. But the results of the campaign are not confined to the successful culmination of a $200,000 drive. Something has come out of the campaign that is farther-reaching, something that will affect the future of Kentucky education.

The welding of students and alumni in a common cause created a potent force in educational progress. The results of the campaign served to effect a coalition that will henceforth proceed to fill the university's needs, in the face of indifference displayed by those whose duty it is to attend to the state's educational welfare. In the future, this well-organized force will not merely ask for the things it needs and wants but will demand them. So the University of Kentucky faces the future with confidence inspired by the knowledge that we have behind us a magnificent and powerful alumni.

K

UNIVERSITY'S DEBT TO GRAHAM

The resignation of Herbert Graham as Alumni Secretary of the University of Kentucky, came as a distinct blow to the alumni of the University as well as undergraduates and faculty.

In his three years as Secretary of the Alumni Association, Mr. Graham has done an immeasurable amount of good for the University and has succeeded in a remarkable degree in bringing the alumni together in groups, thereby stimulating enthusiasm that has been so beneficial to the University in the last three years.

One of the big enterprises which Mr. Graham was the chief instrument in bringing to successful culmination was the "Greater Kentucky" movement in which alumni, students and friends of the University subscribed $200,000 to erect a stadium and basketball building on the campus. This structure, when completed, will stand as a monument to his untiring efforts on behalf of his Alma Mater.

Mr. Graham's friends are sure that he will be successful in his new found field in the journalistic world. He not only completed the course in journalism at the University and taught it as a fellow, but spent two years on a Kentucky paper before the University called him to the management of the Alumni Association.

LAGNAPPE

We wonder what the old grads who come back for the first time in years think of the modern collegian. Instead of the roistering campus roughnecks of a decade ago, the chaps who started in on hard cider and wound up on a hard bench in the police station, they will find the bizarre specimens of college manhood who now stride gracefully across the campus in the full glory of sartorial effulgence. Gone are the prize-fight sweaters and the beer cans; in their places are the bell-bottom trousers and the enigmatical confectionery concoctions. Co-eds have changed, too, but to attempt the contrast requires an adjectival vocabulary not in the possession of the present writer.

Perhaps the old grads will be dazed by the dizzy modernism of present college students. Perhaps they will feel hopelessly out of the running, a trifle jarred by the speed of the modern youth. Possibly they will go home feeling a little lonely, a little hurt, a little behind times. Perhaps they will, but on the other hand is it not possible that when they leave they may have tucked up their sleeves a few good sized laughs.

We can see little use for the further study of languages in the University, now that the National Restaurant Association has decided to take all French names off the menus.

The Kernel wants to congratulate Mr. Hobson of Centre College, not only on his wonderful ability as a football player, but also on his marvelous ability in getting himself eligible for our freshman game in less than two hours and a half.

Until confronted with the necessity of writing English themes, one never realizes the immense value of encyclopedias.

Moralists will try to attach significance to the fact that after a police raid on a soloon in a distant city, 32 college men failed to report for classes. Many will go so far to say something about the similar disappearance of 32 co-eds.

However that may be, a Vassar dean asserts that we must look to the college women to produce the great men of the future.

A gentleman who was once the trainer of hound dogs and screech owls, has now completely revolutionized clarinet playing.

CENTRE YEARLINGS WIN THEIR SECOND VICTORY OF YEAR OVER KITTENS

Ben Hobson, Lieutenant Back, Repeats Brilliant Performance

F. SMITH KENTUCKY STAR

Fumbles Are Frequent As Two Teams Battle in Sea Of Mud

Displaying a startling amount of the combined football playing qualities of the scintillating Bo McMillin and the great Red Roberts, Ben Hobson scored his second victory of the season over the University of Kentucky Kittens at Danville last Friday afternoon, 13 to 6.

As is usually the case when a Kentucky team goes to Danville it was greeted with rain and mud, and the contest was one of those might-have-been games in which fumbles are frequent and the days of careful training by the opposing coaches go for naught.

Both the Colonels and the Wildcats were prepared for a dry field, and the former won. Both the Lieutenants and Kittens were fitted for a fast track, and the former won. So it seems that Centre is best—at least on a muddy field.

The few score of partisans of the Blue and White and of the Gold and White who braved the cold drizzle to watch the yearlings from those two rival schools in action were given a real treat—that of watching in action the outstanding player of the game, Mr. Hobson.

Took Special Quiz

Running the Lieutenants as McMillin did the Colonels of old, hitting the line or leading the interference as Roberts used to, Hobson was the whole show. Because of his scholastic standing he was thought not eligible to play. However, at 12:30 o'clock he took a special examination, the outcome of which must have been successful, because he dashed out on the field a few minutes after the game started and took his place as quarterback.

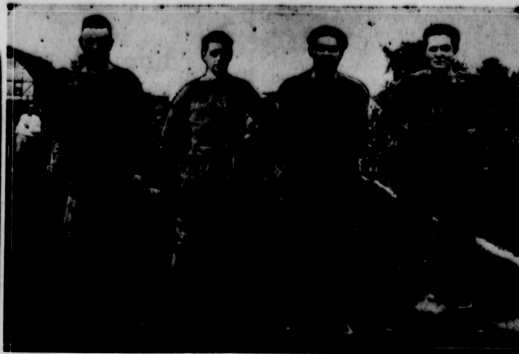

The Kittens held the upper hand in the first quarter and battled on practically even terms with the Lieutenants in the second period, but in the last half, Centre's freshmen were best.

With the wind behind them in the opening quarter, the Blue and Green players kept the ball in the Lieutenants' territory. Frank Smith had the better of the punting duel with Johnson and many of his kicks, carried by the strong wind, went over the Lieutenants' goal line and the ball was brought back to the 20-yard line. On one occasion when the oval was brought out late in the quarter, Hobson was attempting an off-tackle plunge and, when stopped by a Kitten, the elusive pigskin slipped from his arms. Robinson, Kitten halfback, caught the ball on the fly and dashed over the goal for Kentucky's only points. The kick from placement failed.

The second Centre score came when Wilson heaved a short pass to Tom Johnson, Centre end, who, aided by perfect interference, ran nearly forty yards across Kentucky's goal line. The Kittens attempted to bring him down, but their tackles failed.

Opening up an irresistible straight football attack in the third quarter, with Hobson making yardage consistently or paving the way for Johnson to annihilate white lines around the ends, the Lieutenants threw back the Blue and Green forces for half the length of field and over the goal line. Hobson scored the touchdown on a line plunge, after having just completed an off-tackle dash of 20 yards. McNeil added the extra points with a kick from placement.

Centre carried on most of the offensive football during the remainder of the game, and once threatened to score by taking the ball to the 12-yard line, where Bush fumbled and McCann recovered for Kentucky. A belated attack by the Kittens took the ball down the field for a first down, but they lost it on a fumble. The Lieutenants fumbled again and the Kittens recovered just as the final whistle was blown.

Both teams fumbled frequently, but the misplays are to be blamed on the condition of the ball, not that of the players. The Kittens were more alert than the Lieutenants and recovered practically all of their own misplays and most of Centre's. McCann, Kentucky's elongated end, followed the pigskin better than any other man on the field and with Robinson, carried off honors in grabbing loose pigskins.

While Hobson was Centre's main cog, Wilson, Johnson and Captain McClure gave good accounts of themselves. Frank Smith led the Kittens' play, and especially was good in the punting department. Fuller got loose for several good runs, while the work of Isaacs and McCann in the line was notable. Captain Vossmeier was unable to put forth his best efforts because of his injured leg, but he played almost half of the game.

DR. WEIST ADDRESSES FRESHMEN IN CHAPEL

Tells Students of Local and Economic Institution

Dr. Weist, head of the Department of Economics in the University, was the speaker at the matriculation lecture Thursday morning, November 22. His subject for the hour was "Heritage: Social and Economic Institutions." He divided his topic into three parts: (1) From childhood to man, (2) Present day society and (3) How progress is achieved.

Dr. Weist said that in the days of primitive man, ignorance and superstition were rank. The spoken languages grew out of an attempt to express emotion, anger and surprise. First there was the idiogram, or sound represented by pictures. Then there was the monogram, which was a sound representing an idea. Letters and symbols gradually came into use and out of this grew a written language.

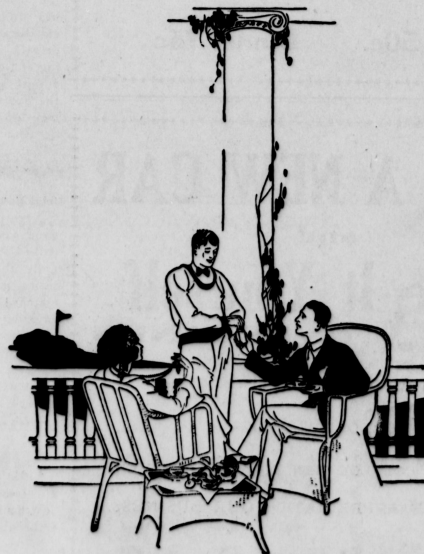

Dr. Weist further said that human organization first started with the family clan. Instinctive organization led to a highly complex human life. The only difference between instinctive organization and present day society, is that the former is based upon instinct, and the latter upon reason.

THREE SITES ARE TO BE

have been surveying and making estimates of all three sites to collect data on the various locations to be laid before the committee at its meetings.

At first consideration it seemed that Stoll Field, the present playing ground, would be the favored location.

Stoll Field Near "Town"

In urging this site backers of this location point out its nearness to the city and accessibility to the students and university people. The basketball building, situated close to the field, would furnish locker dressing rooms and other facilities for the players. The basketball building eventually will be added to, they say, and a complete gymnasium will be built. If the stadium were located near the building its gymnasium floors would supplement those of the basketball structure. If placed in any other location this space can not be utilized to as good advantage because of the distance from the gymnasium.

The chief objection to the utilization of Stoll Field is voiced by those who have an eye for the aesthetic. In addition to being one of the most valuable plots of ground on the campus, they point out, it is also one of the most picturesque and with the planned extension of the botanical garden, can be made very beautiful. A structure as large as the stadium, they say, placed at this point would throw the other buildings on the campus out of proportion and would render useless for building purposes a plot large enough to contain several moderate sized university buildings.

There are many advocates to the Scovel park site which, it is understood, was suggested by J. Irvine Lyle, of New York, chairman of the building committee.

Would Eliminate "Eyesore"

The first advantage of this site, now a city dumping ground, it is pointed out is that it would remove an eyesore of long standing. It would be easily accessible to both the Limestone and Broadway car tracks and would be surrounded by streets on all four sides. It would be but a very short distance from the basketball building where the dressing room and training quarters are located.

A stadium situated here would not appear as part of the university, the objectors say, and since it is not now university property its acquisition by the university might require an additional outlay of funds to building capital.

The site at the intersection of Rose street and Limestone is being urged mainly by persons believing that the expansion of the university must be toward the south.

The university can buy no more property to the north of it, they argue, hence it must expand toward the south.

with 35 and Georgetown College third with 59.

Hall's time for the run, which is approximately four miles, was 21 minutes 26 2-5 seconds, or a minute and five seconds better than the previous mark made by Bob Porter, now the Kentucky coach, two years ago. One hundred and fifty yards behind Hall was Gorman, also a Kentucky runner, while Moore, of Georgetown, with a good burst of speed at the finish, defeated Stacy, of Louisville, for third place.

Running on almost equal terms for the first two miles, Hall and Stacy set the pace, with Gorman running slightly behind. Passing the finish line on the last lap of the run, which encircled the campus twice; Hall assumed the lead and before another half mile had established a comfortable margin over Gorman, who in the meantime had passed Stacy. Hall kept up his speed and finished with plenty of reserve. Gorman also finished well, while Moore passed the line faster than any other.

The Cardinals were bunched in finishing and gave the Wildcats a scare until all the points were totaled. Clifton Hall, a brother of the winner, ran the University of Louisville second on the Louisville team and finished eighth. The first ten men to finish were:

Hall, Kentucky, first; Gorman, Kentucky, second; Moore, Georgetown, third; Stacy, Louisville, fourth; O'Roark, Louisville, fifth; Butler, Kentucky, sixth; Leonard, Louisville, seventh; Hall, Louisville, eighth; Hendryx, Kentucky, ninth, and Allen, Kentucky, tenth. The last two came to the wire on equal terms.

Kittens Leave This Morning For Thanksgiving Clash at Knoxville

Thanksgiving can be truly termed a Kentucky-Tennessee day as both the Varsity and the Freshmen meet representatives from the University of Tennessee. While the "Wildcats" are struggling with the Volunteers on Stoll Field, the Kittens will meet the "Rats" at Shields-Watkins Stadium, Knoxville.

The injured men of the Kittens' squad are improving rapidly and from all indications the team will be much stronger Thursday than in the Centre game. Vossmeier and Bickel, the two mainstays of the line, are in much better shape and hope to be ready for the fray at Knoxville.

Coach Buchheit has been working very hard with his charges this week and hopes to have them in the best shape possible. The Kittens have been troubled with the same affliction as the Varsity, that of too many injuries, which has been very costly in more than one game.

Coaches Buchheit, Burnham and Marsh left this morning with a squad of 20 men, all with the same determination, that of victory for the Kittens. May this Thanksgiving prove as successful for the Freshmen as did the one of '22.

ELABORATE PLANS MADE

This game right now is of more interest than any game of the season, first, because the Wildcats want to even up last year's score and, second, due to the remarkable stand made against Georgia Tech Saturday, November 17, all indications point to a decision in favor of the Blue and White. The band which received as much praise for its brilliant performance at Atlanta as the Wildcats received for their hard and clean fight will add color and dash to the Wildcats' last game of the season and spur them on to victory.

After the game the alumni will give a dinner dance at the Phoenix Hotel at 6 o'clock. Both football teams will be guests of the alumni at the entertainment.

A university minstrel at the opera house in the evening is another entertainment feature planned for the visitors.

The committee on arrangements this year has not only planned this to be the best Home Coming, but acting on many requests has left as many open periods as possible to allow for informal reunions and celebrations.
