and nephews I cordially unite in that remittance. Tell Annie and Ellen that Maria and Lottie will write soon.

May I beg that my letter may not be read critically but with the eye of affection which covers a multitude of faults. Mr B desires a kind and affec= tionate remembrance.

Hoping to hear soon I remain your affectionate sister

E. C. Bletterman,

Mother desires to be kindly remembered to Mrs Blackburn and hopes to have the pleasure of meeting her when she comes to Covington. Remember us to Mr & Mrs Worrell.
