Let's Not Be Piggish

The quota system seems to be the perplexing problem of the day for fraternities on this campus.

Panhellenic has proposed that the sorority membership on this campus be limited to 65. This system, which is being placed before the organizations, has met with several objections, mainly because the members do not realize the advantages of such a system.

Here at the University, we have fraternities ranging from 75 members to 7. This range in membership is absolutely outrageous—and it is for this reason that the system has been proposed. A quota system would allow the smaller fraternities to build up their membership, while it would not harm the larger groups at all.

The sororities are up in arms over the term "limiting" which the quota system implies. But after all, isn't a group of 65 members enough? Certainly, from the standpoint of cooperation, closer contact, and firmer friendships this number is excellent.

Now girls, let's not be piggish.—N. O.

Flooded Families Need Our Help

The American Red Cross has issued an appeal for emergency funds with which to combat disease and to aid in the rehabilitation work in the flooded area of eastern and southeastern Kentucky. An estimated sum of $30,000 is needed to fight disease and to alleviate the suffering of the stricken families.

Hundreds of mountain homes are under water and families are being housed in churches and schools with little possibility of aid except through the relief organizations such as the Red Cross.

The call is urgent and worthy. The KERNEL hopes that the University students will recognize the importance of the request and donate as liberally as possible to the fund. Checks made payable to C. N. Manning and other donations should be sent to either of the Lexington newspapers, to radio station WLAP or to any of the local banks.—R. G.

One Straw Won't Hold You Up

When the recent campaign against syphilis was inaugurated, the response from organizations was almost too good to be true. Some of those essentially defunct except in name, seized the idea like the drowning groups that they were. They were overjoyed to find some means of justifying their existence and—to be Pollyannish—they were essentially good, that is, were really interested in improving themselves.

Perhaps a little KERNEL ego creeps in—that campaign furnished the incentive for some to rehabilitate their programs. Others have lapsed into the old coma, while still others were and are the same progressive organizations.

As for the syphilis campaign, everyone seems to think that it was a good campaign carried to a fairly successful conclusion. The only thing wrong in that sentence is the word "conclusion." We have emphasized, but to little avail, the fact that the conclusion is yet to come. The full value of such a campaign can be realized only by frequent and continued study of social problems related to syphilis.

What about these "specialized" programs which have been mentioned time and again? To be more specific and to give a few examples—Alpha Zeta and Beta Gamma Beta could plan at least one program dealing with venereal diseases in rural communities and on farms; Beta Gamma Sigma, cosmopolitan fraternity, could plan a program or so on the economic aspects of syphilis; the Cosmopolitan club would find public health problems in its field; the aspects of syphilis touching on family relations would be suitable for the Home Economics club; Phi Delta Phi might find the discussion of legal aspects such as pre-marital and pre-natal laws and prostitution within its province; and the Pryor Pre-medical society could consider diagnosis and treatment. In fact, there are very few organizations on the campus that could not discover interesting and valuable information in discussing one or more of the public problems resulting from the disease.

The University of Kentucky has been among the leaders in the fight against syphilis and now is no time to stop. State-wide publicity and a general public awakening to the dangers of the disease make the present exceedingly favorable for continued educational programs, and it it makes "prodding" to accomplish it. The KERNEL will do its utmost to see that every individual on this campus is fully and adequately "prodded."

Behind The Eckdahl

By ANDREW C. ECKDAHL

Mr. Donald Irvine's secretary, Miss Rappaport, was in the office yesterday wanting to know if the bacteria was the rear door to a cafeteria.

Which reminds us, Christie Ratlas, writing in the Daily Athenaeum, says that "A honeymoon is the morning after the knot before."

Mr. "Handsome Jack" Treadway refused to be confused by our department of utter confusion of last issue. To refresh your memory, we reprinted from the Courier-Journal a statement in which they corrected a former answer in their column of "Questions and Answers." They had first said that half as cold as 38 degrees above zero was 19 degrees above zero; their correction said half as cold as 38 degrees above zero was 21 degrees below zero.

Mr. Treadway's communique follows: "Maybe we shouldn't be technical, but we are. When the official answer to the Courier-Journal's question and answer column 'corrected' one of his previous answers concerning the degree of coldness of half as cold as 38 degrees above zero Fahrenheit, he was still wrong. Not only was he wrong, he was 746 degrees (Fahrenheit) wrong. It seems to us that half as cold as 38 degrees above zero Fahrenheit is 535 degrees above zero Fahrenheit.

"Let there be no further quibbling."

The whole thing is pretty baffling to us, so we will take Mr. Treadway's word for it. Anyway, we are sure two plus two equals four, and if anybody wants to argue about that, don't see us.

Philosophers tell us that the average student is a dame fool.

The dictionary grows Continuously bigger. The verbal census shows Each year a larger figure. For lexicographers Continue to expand it As knowledge's increase Continues to demand it. And yet, in spite of this endeavor, People stay as dumb as ever. —W. E. Farberstein

The pun, our favorite brand of humor, is constantly being held up to ridicule, scorn, contempt and hatred. Take Miss Pat Hamilton, a Kappa, for instance. She says "A pun is the lowest form of humanity and there is no vice versa."

Not 20% Of College Men Would Fight Willingly Now

Will It Go? You Decide Thursday

Student Opinion Has Defense As Only Justification To Volunteer

Austin, Texas, February 10—If the nation went to war today for other reasons than the defense of the country, the United States government would find less than 20 ready volunteers out of every ten college men.

A poll just conducted by the Student Opinion Surveys of America among the male collegians of the nation reveals that although they are willing to defend their country, it will take several good reasons to make them volunteer for some other form of warfare. The Survey does not attempt, of course, to predict how many would actually enlist under future circumstances, for it is possible that many would like a student interviewed in one of the West Central states who declared, "I might say now that I won't volunteer, but when the time comes perhaps I'll go anyway. It will depend on the propaganda."

However, the poll indicated clearly that students are not at present in any mood to have the United States dipping into the European or Far Eastern war pots. Representative portions of the nation's student bodies, excluding women, were interviewed with this question: "If the United States went to war for other reasons than the defense of the country, would you volunteer?" Those who said they would amount to 18.7 per cent; no, 81.3 per cent.

Most of those who are willing to fight had reasons for their answers. The greatest number of times were "to perpetuate democracy" and "to make the Monroe Doctrine respected." A good number also mentioned that they were in the R.O.T.C. or the National Guard and would have to enlist. "To stop Fascism," "to help England or France," "to protect American property abroad," "to keep the balance of power,"—these are other reasons. And there were those who would join any conflict, like one. Came exam time, and the head of the house says he is expecting some good grades from the law college for his son Richard. Son, on horns of dilemma, takes left fork and races off to Florida. Labe Jackson, who used to do the pilgrimage to visit Dr. Collier, is on the same wave, and Rex Brown and Clarence McCarrall are filling in.

June Lassing and Donald Brown seem to be set on making this unpinning stick. Fightin'-est couple I ever saw. Better than Virginia Everette and Jack Crane. Mary Lee Hope took herself off to the Cornell dances last week. Clayton Compton is looking for an unoccupied groundhog hole. Tick Klock and Virginia Smith made the jaunt to Washington and Lee for terpsichorean reasons also. Tick seems to be remembering the re-dressed McClure lad.

In the latest issue of Sour Mash, the person who writes the scandalous column bursts to the fore with the query "Why doesn't SAE Jack Sutherland pin Dot Hillenmeyer. May I echo back the answer by saying that her heart belongs to daddy; daddy in this case being Jack Evans, not Sutherland. Occasionally we are apt to wonder why some of our co-eds are in school, so futile are the years. Natalie Patton trialed out an amazingly honest little blurb the other day at registration when she admitted that the only reason she wanted to pass into the Kappa Kappa Gamma, was to be initiated into Kappa Kappa Gamma. Such a waste of time.

Dick Bush, after a huffy run-in with his chest-heave Betty Bakhaus, announced to various bystanders that he was about fed up with the way she acted. Wondered just how long it would take him to reach the saturation point, but they're back again in a student union.

Pat Hamilton and Marshall Guthrie have reached the tearful parting of the ways, which may be translated to read that they are impinged. Pat maintains that they parted on smiley terms. "I just didn't love him," sighed Pat. "Life is like that." Guthrie, still stumped after the tie-breaking blow, had very little to offer in way of explanation. "Well, I declare," declared Marshall.

Siess LeBus is flashing the forever and ever look at Bob Roush, but he doesn't seem to reciprocate. Remember the Jug he threw after he laid the break with the gal-back-home?

Calling 'Em Wild
 By JOE CREASON

Events under the title of what's doing today: The cops are still running down a clue; the Armenians are still starving and boxing promoters are still looking under stones in hope of uncovering a fighter to send against heavyweight champion Joe Louis.

At present the heavyweight challenging picture is as jumbled as a bowl of Chinese alphabet soup with none of the current crop well enough equipped to be sent out to face Louis, the fat-terror. This scarcity of fighters capable of tangling with Louis has placed bash-boulevard in a definite recession. So frantically the search for a suitable opponent goes on.

The picture was further complicated last week when Max Schmeling, former champion and another Louis victim, arrived in New York clamoring for a third bout with the chocolate-hued Louis. It was Schmeling who handed Louis his only defeat since arriving in the big time three years ago and it was also Schmeling who a year later landed less than one round in his second run-in with the present champ. After his last fight with Louis, Schmeling spent a month strapped to a plank to keep his vertebrae from clicking like castanets. One more session with the brown-emblemist and the carpenter would have to add two sides and a top to the plank. Schmeling, now 35, is past his fighting prime and with all his boasts about wanting a runner bout is merely whistling past the graveyard.

Louis Kayoes Lewis
 Meaningful, Louis, who in his last title defense knocked out John Henry Lewis, former world's light heavyweight titlist, after the first round had aged 1 minute and 29 seconds, is being hailed as the greatest fighter of all time. Such an assertion places Joe ahead of such fighters as Tunney, Dempsey and Willard—a rather bold statement. But trying to contest that contention without having seen Louis in action is just as reasonable as saying your canoe is bigger than the Queen Mary because you have not seen the Queen Mary. The wise guy says that the only way Louis a winner-take-all individual at the table, will be destroyed is when his ravenous appetite has reduced him to a slow-footed, soft-stomached target.

But while Louis' merits, pro and con, are being discussed, four men, Max Baer, Lou Nova, Tommy Farr and Tony Galento, are undergoing buildups as possible title contenders.

Once Not Enough
 Baer, former champion and first of the quartet, is possibly the best man of the lot. But Maxie is still dusting resin from his pants as a result of his one engagement with Louis three years ago. The memory of that fight, which found Baer sitting out the last 12 of the scheduled 15 rounds, blocks the way for a bout between the pair. Baer's chief claim for a return looking is that he is now a reformed man and wants to regain the title for his young son. On such a basis, why not sign Poppy Dionne up for Louis' next fight? He has quiet a family.

As yet Nova, a young fighter, is not ready to meet Louis' murderous fists. Nova is a stand-up fighter and, with such a wide target, Louis would probably play on his ribs like a xylophone. If Nova faces the champ soon he will be another case for sick limbs and silver hands.

Farr, The Punch-Board
 The third of the quartet is Farr, whose sole claim to glory is a constitution that is as tough as taffy. According to Whitney Martin, Associated Press expert, there is some doubt as to whether the object is to reduce the current field of eligibles to one contender or just reduce one contender, since Farr has lost five straight fights in this country. In those five fights Farr, the hearty Welchman, has been hit more times than a slot machine jackpot and one can well imagine what would be his fate if he ever met Louis' dynamic leather gloves.

By far the most colorful of the cauliflower-car gorp is the arch enemy of the ringside, Two-Ton Tony Galento, the reincarnation of John L. Sullivan, the strongman who terrorized the ringside after the turn of the century. Galento, who spreads 240 pounds over a 5 feet 10 inch frame, is better known for his beer drinking capacity than for his fighting but during the past year has found time enough to kick leave his bar and strike out Dick

Speakers For February Are Professors Funkhouser, Webb, Yates, Elliott

University professors who will fill speaking engagements throughout the state during the current semester are: Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, dean of the Graduate school, who will address a Louisville group on February 13 on "Birds in Our Gardens."

Dr. William S. Webb, head of the department of physics, and of the department of anthropology and archaeology, will address the Richmond D. A. B. at Richmond, Kentucky on February 13 concerning his archaeological work in the Tennessee Valley.

Prof. N. R. Elliott, professor of landscape architecture and horticulture, will speak at Mt. Sterling on "Trees and the Community" on February 21. Prof. Lawrence Yates of the department of English will give a review of "Susan and God" at Georgetown on February 28.

Enrollment Figure Advances To 3,372

Only 11 short of the total enrollment for the corresponding day's figures for the second semester, 1937-38, registration had mounted to 3,372, Registrar Leo M. Chamberlain said last night.

A possibility that the present enrollment would reach 3,400 was voiced by registration officials yesterday as each day's figures during the past week's late registration continued to increase. The present semester's registration will close Monday, February 13.

According to tentative plans, bowling will be at 2 o'clock on Fridays instead of Tuesdays as before.

HELP CUPID ALONG WITH A NICE NEW "ARROW"

If you want to keep on the right side of Cupid this fine Valentine's Day, you'll spruce up with a handsome new Arrow Shirt.

Perhaps one of our brand new Arrow fancies—new stripes and new checks. Take your pick from one of the best-looking shirt collections you've ever seen.

Or if you favor whites, we have any number of fine Arrows in many different collar styles.

All Arrows are Sanforized-Shrunk (fabric shrinkage less than 1%)... all have the unique, better-fitting Mitoga design... and they're the best-looking shirts you can find in America. Get some here today.

$2 and up.
