Classes which meet third hour, from 9:50 to 11:05 a.m. and from 10 to 10:50 a.m. will be dismissed on that day.

Mrs. Lela Cullis will play the organ prelude, and Miss Anne Cowgill, a former student at the University, will present several vocal selections. The invocation and benediction will be given by Rev. John K. Johnson of the Maxwell Street Presbyterian church.

The first convocation of the second term will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday, August 4. A. H. Tandy, former British consul, will be the principal speaker.

Dr. Herman L. Donovan

Dr. Francoise Dony To Speak Monday At Reading Series

Dr. Francoise Dony, fellow of the Belgian-American Foundation, professor of Brussels university, and lecturer at the Franco-Belgian university at New York, will speak on "Books and Their Meaning for Freedom" in the library's browsing room in the fourth of the "Invitation to Reading" series at 3 p.m., Monday. The series is under sponsorship of the University library staff.

Dr. Dony, who is secretary of the Belgian Federation of University Women, will also speak at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Music room of the Union building on "What I Saw of the War in Europe."

Tuesday, July 27, Dr. F. G. Daventport, head of the Transylvania college history department, will speak on "Notes on American Culture."

Girl Scout Leader To Speak Monday

Because of increased demand for the Girl Scout program by the 284,562 girls in Kentucky between seven and 18 years of age, Mrs. Genevieve Murray, a member of the National Girl Scout field staff, has been assigned to work exclusively in this state.

Mrs. Murray will conduct a discussion open to students, teachers, and others interested from 2:30 to 4 p.m., Monday, in Room 131, University training school.

Invasion Imminent

By Doris Singleton

A survey on the campus this week revealed that the majority of University students and soldiers stationed here believe that the war will be over by Christmas. They expressed the opinion, however, that the war with Japan will not be completed for two or more years. Many voiced the opinion that the invasion of Europe would be through Greece and not through Italy, or Italy would not be successful as a means of entrance into the heart of the continent. The Allied forces would not be able to advance over the Alps. Italy will

Oh, The Trials Of Guignolites

"Young April" on April 12, 13, and 14 read 100 mimeographed postcards and the printed programs for Guignol's production next week.

"Young April" on June 12, 13, and 14 read the large painted posters advertising the forthcoming attraction.

And then Guignol was completely satisfied—almost—when its latest printed poster set the dates correctly as July 12, 13, 14—but in 1493.

Eubanks Suit Answer Filed

In an amended answer recently filed by the counsel for the University in Federal District Court to Charles Lamont Eubank's suit for an injunction forcing University officials to enroll him as an engineering student, it was stated that courses in engineering had been modified and reshaped "in order to adopt the services of the college to war-time needs of the Army Specialized Training."

The answer also stated that the University Board of Trustees was a corporation, "whose powers and duties relate exclusively to the state institutions of higher learning for white persons only in Kentucky."

Eubanks, a Louisville Negro, charged that the type of training offered at the University is not available in other colleges in the state to members of his race.

Nancy Tutt Signs With Army Corps

Nancy Tutt, Georgetown, arts and sciences junior, has joined the Women's Army Corps, and will report for duty within a month.

Miss Tutt, an active member of Kappa Delta social sorority, joined the Wacs July 5, the day after her 21st birthday. She was one of the last to join during the local Wacs week in Lexington.

Interested in athletics, Miss Tutt is a member of the Women's Athletic association, and was active in the physical fitness program conducted in the women's dormitories during the spring quarter. She is also a member of the YWCA and the Dutch Lunch club.

Before her enlistment in the Wacs, Miss Tutt was a psychology major.

"Young April" Opens At Guignol Monday

By Elizabeth Ann Cole

J. C. Doyle . . .

. . . will portray the role of George McIntyre in "Young April," which will open Monday, July 12, at the Guignol theater. He recently appeared in "My Sister Eileen."

J. C. Doyle, who recently appeared in "My Sister Eileen," will portray the irrepressible George McIntyre in "Young April," which will open at the Guignol theater Monday, July 12, and will continue through Wednesday, July 14.

Beth Caddy, who appeared last summer as his popular sister, Terry, in "Growing Pains," will play the same character in the sequel. The role of Professor McIntyre, the father of these inimitable children, will be taken by Eli Popa, ever popular with Guignol audiences. Mrs. McIntyre will be played by Mabel Hill.

The comedy, by Aurania and William Spence Rouverol, continues the adventures of the McIntyres. Terry is involved in successive love affairs while George battles with disillusionment in love.

Theater-goers have a treat in store for them in the performance of Bette Anne Allen, whose dances add to the sparkling humor of the play. Bette never speaks a word, although she is on the stage during most of the performance. She sees all, hears all, but says nothing. Unidentified by any members of the cast, she presents a disturbing element and is known only as Who.

Johnny Renfro indicates a Fred Astaire technique in his table-top dancing. The finale is colored when these two combine their talents.

You will hear some of your favorite tunes in the singing of the "Ten Merry Maids." In addition there are solo numbers. You will like the striking contrast between the sultry notes of Annie Laurie Riley and the sweet and sentimental tones of Beth Caddy. Even Joe Gannon and Adalin Stern sing!

Company C Holds Dance Saturday

Company C of the 1548th Service Unit stationed at the University will give a dance from 8 to 11:30 p.m. Saturday at Patterson hall.

The dance, which is limited to members of Company C, is being given in appreciation of the courtesy and consideration shown by University students, according to Company representatives.

Chaperons for the dance will be Col. and Mrs. B. E. Brewer, Major Floyd L. Carlisle, Major Dauris C. Carpenter, Capt. E. C. May, Capt. T. B. Powell, Capt. Gene Myers, Capt. R. L. Stivers, Capt. M. M. Montgomery, 1st Lieut. D. F. Connell, 2nd Lieut. J. E. Duggan, 2nd Lieut. Robert Hughes, 2nd Lieut. D. Johnston, 2nd Lieut. J. Slododin, Dean of Women Sarah B. Holmes, Miss Margaret Lester, and Miss Alberta Limbach.

Orchestra Formed

An orchestra composed of a group of University students is practicing from 2 to 4 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the ballroom of the Union building. Any student interested in participating in this orchestra is asked to come to one of the practice sessions.

Phalanx Fraternity To Initiate Seven

The Bart N. Peak chapter of the Phalanx fraternity will initiate seven pledges with an official ceremony on Wednesday, July 14, at its luncheon meeting.

The Phalanx fraternity is a national social fraternity for the betterment of young men. The Bart N. Peak chapter was organized on the campus last spring. The group meets every Wednesday at noon for lunch, which is followed by a program.

The following are pledges: Ray Witham, Merl Baker, Bill Spragen, Ben Cowgill, David Lococo, Bill Barton, and D. O. Burke.

Students Speculate On War Crisis

be very valuable to the Allied forces, however, for it will be a means of keeping the Mediterranean clear.

Many believed that a land route to the Balkans could be followed if Turkey came into the war. It would have to be swift, for Axis armies are stationed on the far side and could block the Allies at various straits if they reached them first. Turkey's permission would be the only probable way that a land advance could succeed. An advance by sea has the possible route of going along the south coast of Turkey and pushing up through the Dodecanese Islands until the Greek coast is reached. If these tactics were followed, much help would be needed from the south and the east.

Another opinion was expressed that after the first invasion through Greece the Allied forces would probably advance through the English Channel, around Roumania, and through Bulgaria. At this time, Germany will probably be attempting to divert troops through to Russia.

One soldier said, "I'd be willing to bet that the war will be over in five months—then we can all go home."

Question: What does G. I. mean to you?

Pvt. Charles Cartellino, Breckinridge hall: In some cases it means perfect, in other cases—strictly no good.

Pauline Franklin, Education, junior: When it refers to boys it means the best.

Pvt. Walter Felty, Breckinridge hall: Something for which I care nothing for.

Mildred Porter, Agriculture, sophomore: I don't know. I never thought about it.

Pfc. Tommy Bramlette, Ft. Phoenix: Government Way and a lot of hard work.

Pvt. Stuart Sommers, Bradley hall: By the numbers.

Martha McCauley, A&S, senior: Around here it means the lovely young things that wander around the campus in pea green suits.

Pvt. Sid Richmond, Bradley hall: Definitely unbeautiful.

Pfc. Reke Ternoey, Ft. Phoenix: A lot of malarky.

Wanda Steele, A&S, junior: High-top shoes, crew haircuts, and men in general.

Pvt. Charles Deeds, Breckinridge hall: Means anything pertaining to the Army.

Jane Clark, A&S, sophomore: Doesn't mean a thing.

Cpl. Floyd Snyder: Smelly old fatigues.

Harriet Messer, A&S, sophomore: It means khaki.

Pvt. Paul Schwab: Handed down from headquarters, according to Army regulation—if you're G. I., you're strictly on the ball.

Ad Libbing

For weeks now we have looked longingly at those idiotic fatigue hats whose brims remind us of a racer dips the way they flop up and down between the ears of wearer. We only think it fit to warn all owners that we are lying awake hours trying to devise some fiendish method to obtain one. We feel that the hats, which remind us of bats, will coincide implicitly with our particular type of personality and beauty.

In our column last week we asked the simple question: "Are you a man? If so, what are you doing this Saturday night?" Receiving absolutely no replies we have concluded that either there are no men on this campus or that altogether too many people already know us.

The residents of Jewell hall would like to request that the next time Col. Brewer, Dean Chamberlain and the various heads of the high positions on the campus want to make a Cook's tour of the dorms, please telephone, wire or cable before they try to enter. The last visit will never be forgotten.

In The Kernel last week there was an article entitled "Foo On Him" which told of an incident in which one of the ASTP boys deserted a girl whom he had taken to the dance Saturday night. A number of the boys felt that the item was a reflection upon all of the soldiers stationed here. They made a specific issue of pointing out that all of the boys are not like that (on which score we readily agree). But "Foo On Him," whoever he is.

Girls in this modern age have through their charms, etc., been able to extract from the soldiers an accumulation of various items, such as pins, insignias, bars. Since there is absolutely no plausible answer to the problem of securing "dog tags" from the soldiers, we are offering our own solution for what it is worth. Go home and ask your dog if you can borrow his dog tag for a while (if Fido has any patriotism at all, he will part with it willingly). Secure an old chain and slip it through the opening of the tag and then proudly display it as you would a necklace. We guarantee that this dog tag will draw more attention than that worn by any soldier.

Note: With an epidemic of rabies circulating in Lexington, and with an order that all animals wearing dog tags should be muzzled, it is up to you to prove to the authorities that you are not a Russian Wolfhound or a Mexican Chihuahua — we can accept no responsibility in the matter.

A Number One Corn Guy Reports From Fort Phoenix

By Cpl. Chas. W. Van Haaf

One day Uncle Sam threw an index finger at me, the one with the hangnail on it, and said, "Brother, you're in." So I crawled out from under the bed and joined 175 others to the reception center. I was the last one to be shipped to another camp. The others were still breathing. I was sent to Fort Leonard Wood to take my basic, and since that time woman was merely a memory.

Now I have joined the ranks of the green-clad wolves you see cutting campus capers casually causing coed trouble between classes. One day, while gaping at a group of Kappas, I fell against the sign, "Date Bureau." We had a date bureau at North Dakota State.

I went to get a date one night, and the girl was so cross-eyed that when she cried the tears ran down her back. The doctors were treating her for bacteria. She was an honest girl, but she looked crooked. It was kinda fun, though, she kept putting her money in my pocket. We went to the show, "Caught in the Draft," and when we came out she had a cold. It was rather dead as she kept coffin.

You'll have to pardon me because I figure if I stay in the Army corn they'll make me a colonel. As Cpl. Haas is preparing to throw me bodily from our niche in the Phoenix

G. I. Sweepings...

By BABY

Remember, you gals, it's a date for this Saturday night at Patt Hall, if you have been invited. Space, and consequently invitations, have been limited.

The fellows have decided in your favor that dress will be optional. You may wear sports clothes if it will make you more comfortable. But shoes will have to be worn.

Everyone in Bradley Hall is curious about that urgent phone call Bill Stevens received concerning a femme. In each company two enlisted men have been appointed to represent their respective companies in planning affairs in conjunction with the student body of the University. A meeting has already been held and undoubtedly you have heard about some of the decisions which were reached.

Your first sergeant will tell you who your representatives are, so that you may express your desires as to what you would like to do on your weekends and during the free hours you have during the week.

One thing of interest is the fact that Dean of Women Sarah B. Holmes has been asked to extend the 12 p.m. curfew on Saturday nights for the girls.

A lonely soldier, but good looking, by the name of Murray Finston, is trying to meet some real nice girl from the campus. If anyone is interested, please contact me at the Kernel office.

Does anyone know of a gal who would fit Murray Ginsberg's definition of his ideal girl? Says he, "I'd rather take a girl who likes me for MYSELF than one who possesses good looks and plays hard to get."

There is one girl on the campus who never is alone one minute. Marie Bean has at least four soldiers around her, wherever she turns. Names withheld for too obvious reasons.

There is a soldier who has initiative. John Barrett drank beer with a one star general this past Saturday.

Sidney Vogel came running to a formation and asked whether we had heard about the special confinement slips which will have to be filled out if you're restricted over the week-end. Well, what we want to know is whether he has signed one already.

That was a swell dedication and reception at the newly opened USO club on Main Street. Many thanks to you, the people of Lexington, from us, all the soldiers who have and will cross your threshold.

Co. "C" will be glad to hear that Robert W. Neill and Pvt. Lewis are both well on their way to recovery from appendectomies.

Fellows, anything you may desire can be found at that USO which has been called a "Home away from home."

We were trying to delve into the mystery as to why only about eight fellows out of the whole Company C returned both blanks to the date bureau. Said Murray Finston, "I rely on my natural resources."

Lately, Poplin seems to have developed a great interest in library material. Is it the staff or—just your natural desire, Pop?

Could it be that Neidrauer is a nature lover? He spends Saturday afternoons in the botanical gardens.

Some of us have it and some haven't. Pancho Schomet, the Latin from Manhattan, is one of the more fortunate. A beautiful twelve-year-old girl serenades him at night while he studies?? Maybe he is competing with 88 Keyes.

Don't forget, only three more weeks until furlough.

"A College Degree Or Bust" Slogan Of Students By Mail

By Robert Spragens

"A College Degree or Bust" might well be the slogan of 47 servicemen who are working on their degrees from the University via the correspondence route from stations both in this country and abroad.

Many ex-students have taken advantage of the Army Institute program, which pays for part of their tuition, to finish their courses.

These students by mail may choose from a wide variety of subjects, but mathematics is far and away the most popular course, with plane trigonometry and college algebra heading the list. Other courses with a great degree of popularity are American and English literature, business law, accounting, criminology, French, English, botany, biology, educational psychology, shorthand, philosophy, and economic geography.

Although it is not known exactly where any of the overseas students are stationed, since they receive their assignments at A. P. O. addresses, it is known that one of the students, a Marine, is stationed somewhere in the Pacific, and that another is located in Australia.

So far, only one of the men enrolled has completed the work required for graduation by the correspondence method. This student, stationed somewhere in the Pacific, has not only completed his required work, but has enrolled for further work.

There has not been much difficulty in sending and returning assignments to these students. It usually takes at least three weeks for the assignments to reach the students, and the same length of time for them to be returned.

Most of the men write that there are a lot of interesting things happening which they cannot write about, and say that they will have a lot to tell their friends about when they return home.

A fur piece also means a long way to an illiterate.

The Americans "Play To Win" Englishman Tells Audience

Contrasting the American and British philosophies, E. Huws Jones, resident-tutor of Oxford University, told University students in an address Tuesday that Americans "play to win" their athletic contests while the British "play for the fun of playing."

Jones, who spoke at the college of education, urged a better understanding between the two nations and declared that a permanent peace after this war would have to be based upon such an understanding. "One of the reasons for frequent misunderstandings between Americans and the British lies in the failure of both nations to realize that each country is a different version of the same text," he stated. "Today we are fighting to preserve a way of life which, imperfect as it is, we value above life."

The speaker called attention to the fact that the people of Great Britain do not want to go back to 1939, as in 1918 they wanted to go back to 1914.

International Government Advocated By Dr. Dupre

By Alice Watkins

Advocating a plan for the establishment of a sovereign international government as one of five possibilities for a successful peace following World War II, Dr. J. Huntley Dupre of the history department presented the topic, "America's Part in the Post-War World" at an open meeting for the YM-YWCA Tuesday night in the Union building. The talk was the second in a series of postwar plans to be discussed by Dr. Dupre.

The five plans proposed by Dr. Dupre included the one for international organization, a continuance of the anarchy of international sovereign states, a peace based on the balance of power, and a plan for Anglo-Saxon world hegemony.

Referring to a statement made by Professor Dailey of Stanford University, the speaker remarked that since 1689 there have been nine general wars and that the United States has been a participant in each. However, he said, there has been little progress made between the wars toward peace planning.

Dr. Dupre stated that in his opinion the plan for international organization is the most logical possibility because national interest will be best served. His plan calls for an armistice and rehabilitation period of approximately 10 years after which time a peace conference will be held. Here the government internationally will be set up with four specified organs—an executive body, a legislative body, a judicial body, and an international police force.

America's part in the postwar world, Dr. Dupre concluded, is in the necessity for full participation in international society and full cooperation.

Mag Article Relates Story Of Dr. Knapp

An article appearing in the current issue of The Quill, magazine for writers, editors, and publishers tells the story of Dr. Charles Knapp, professor of history, and his column, "The World at War."

The article, written by Dr. Niel Plummer, head of the journalism department, reveals the remarkable accuracy of Dr. Knapp's prophecies, published in newspapers throughout the state.

Each week Dr. Knapp analyzes the important news of the preceding week, interpreting its importance in the war. He feels that the news must be interpreted. "What American people want and need now in their newspapers is not more news of the SPOT variety, but less," stated Dr. Knapp.

Before Pearl Harbor, Dr. Knapp told readers that, "unless Japanese foreign policy is quickly modified—the occasion for the outbreak of war in the Pacific cannot be long postponed."

November 15, 1941, he pointed out that although Japan was sending a special envoy to the United States, war was near. The following week he stated, "Japan will fight rather than lose face throughout the whole of eastern Asia."

Dr. Knapp has made some mistakes, but he has always admitted it. For example, he did not expect Hitler to invade Russia as early as June, but he did maintain that peace between Germany and the Soviet Union was impossible.

"This column merely undertakes to summarize, briefly, the news of the week and to interpret as best it can the events as they have been announced," concluded Dr. Knapp.
