The Kernel Continues Experimenting

Since last Friday's experiment seemed to be received favorably by the student body, The Kernel today continues in this field.

Today's layout is made to consist of four pages. Each quarter of the front page may be read separately when folded properly. To understand this, it is necessary first to observe the top eight column headline, and then fold the paper in four. It will then become evident that each quarter is individually made up and can be read thusly.

If experiments of this nature continue to meet with the approval of the student body, editors of The Kernel will appreciate any comment which may be made regarding the matter.

Duty, Scott, Elliott Easily Win Officers In Sophomore Election

Making a clean sweep of all offices, the fraternity council voted six sophomores and juniors, three in each class, into campus political berths in the election held yesterday. J. Ernest Strohm, Triangle and William Duty, Phi Delta Theta, were elected president of the junior and sophomore classes, respectively.

Herb Hillenmeyer, Jr., Phi Delta Theta, and Dave Scott, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, easily clinched the vice-presidencies in their respective classes. Jack Kincaid, Phi Kappa Tau, and Betty Elliott, Delta Delta Delta, experienced no difficulty in being elected to the secretary-treasurer posts in the junior and sophomore classes, respectively.

The closest vote of the day took place between Betty Elliott and John Hunsicker, both of whom were elected secretary-treasurer of the sophomore class. Miss Elliott polled 214 votes, Hunsicker 208.

In the junior class election, the injection of the popular party, according to votes cast, showed that their strength affected more vitally the fraternity campaign. Results continued on Page Three.

CATS SET FOR FINALE

Tomorrow's Tilt Versus Florida To End Season

Stollmen Enter 'Gator Game' As Definite Underdogs; Fullback Hodge Is Out Of Tussle

Eager to end the season with a 50% percentage, the Kentucky Wildcats entered yesterday morning for Gainesville, Fla., where they hope to extract some solace out of a rather disastrous season. Tomorrow's clash with the University of Florida Gators represents an after-noon of work. The Wildcats have not though beaten seven times this fall, have never been crushed by such scores as 41 and 20 to 0, and 35 to 0. Stollmen and Hodge have succumbed to the power of the Gators, but Stollmen is a member of the S. W. Temple, Miss. State, Maryland, Georgia, Clemson and Auburn have ranked close victories out of last quarter.

Thanksgiving day took one man out of the Wildcats roster—Walter Hodge who has been sidelined with a dislocated collar bone. The remainder of the Wildcats are in good condition and will be keyed to crack into Florida with all the ire of men maddened.

Tomorrow's tilt in the palm trees closes out a ten game schedule for each club, rather a long menu considering the mighty opponents each squad has faced. A glance down the list is reminiscent of a Notre Dame Invase. A win for either aggregation will mollify the strings of too many defeats.

With Hodge out of the lineup Coach Wynne is confronted with this week he has run Robinson at quarterback and Danville at fullback. This combination gives Kentucky a maximum of kicking talent with every punter but Robinson somewhat of a kicker. The line which has started nearly all the Cat struggles this year, Hagan and Garland at end, Kegan and Skages at tackle, Snyder and Hagan at guard and Hinkleback at center, will probably handle to the opening kickoff assignment.

In a statement to the press, the locals their last chance of finishing the season with an even stand. To date the Cats have won four and lost five. Also, it will be their last chance to score on a Southeastern conference opponent.

The orange grove boys boast of a big line and a great backfield also. (Continued on Page Six)

COMPLETE CAMPUS COVERAGE

Grades And Exams

THE NUMBER of students who fail courses and the number who "cut class" frequently might, for a change, be able to trace their shortcomings, not to lack of mentality, but to the ancient way some classes are taught and to the systems of grading.

The flock of failures that converges on the registrar at the end of each semester, indicates that this fault may lie either in the students or in methods of teaching. Whether these low grades are caused by the examination program supported by professors or by the marking technique is difficult to discern.

Could it be then, that the reason for failing is traceable to the definite specifications demanded by the answers? He who has passed, shows that he has accumulated all the correct facts and they are correlated properly in his temporarily retaining brain. Periodical pedantry carries him into the academic edifice. He who fails, shows that he has not outlined the exact answers which will enable him to pass.

Of the two interrogations the latter appears to have more than the former. It is well agreed that too many intelligent students flunk courses. There is a way of determining more accurately the scope of a student's information. Instead of spontaneous and specific quizzes, the professor starts before the regular semester starts that every other Friday or Tuesday there will be an examination including all the work elaborated during spans of two weeks.

In this quiz the question states, "What have you learned since the last test?" The students' answers shall be limited to four or five pages. By this method, the auditors have the chance to project their personalities into the script and also to set down that which they considered worth knowing. The pedant will have the opportunity to be brilliant; the school knave or individual will have the opportunity to write down his impressions and plagiarized viewpoints.

Obviously, the main difference between this type of quiz and the usual style lies in the absence of specification. If the non-specific type were innovated here, the scholar would still shine and delight his professor, but it might show the mass tutor that students who are not bibliophiles and academic sycophants, have also missed some knowledge out of the lectures that the specific quiz forgot to call for.

Scrap Irony

By HARRY WILLIAMS

WE WERE glancing through The 1937 World Almanac last evening and we came across a list of forty words "Most Often Misspelled." The list was written by a Miss Alice Watson, an instructor in the Teachers College of Columbia University.

Miss Watson did very well on thirty-seven of the words, and we thought for a minute that she had all of them. Why don't you try alliteration, ichthyology, and gazetteer again Miss Watson? They aren't really hard.

Nothing is more embarrassing than to pronounce a person's name incorrectly, especially if you know the person very well. It must have been quite an experience for Miss Martha Riley when she and Jane Potter went to see Coach Rupp about postponing any game that he had on February 19. She and Miss Potter had just obtained Coach Rupp's consent to do all in his power to have the gym on that day—the Alpha Gams have a dance then—and they were thanking him for his generosity. Miss Potter said, "Thank you, Coach Rupp," and Miss Riley said, "Thank you, Coach Rupp." (Rather a gem, isn't it?)

We have it on good authority that Chet Wynne is considering a plan to play Alabama in five-minute quarters next year. He's going to let the hand perform the rest of the time. Sort of a compensation for their missing the Boston trip. It's not a bad idea at that.

Tuesday was the last day you could drop classes without it coming against your standing, so, we thought we'd go over and drop a few courses that were becoming cumbersome.

We felt perfectly justified in doing it. After all, one shouldn't let opportunities like that pass without notice. And besides, we would probably have made E's in all of them. The Dean's secretary seemed astounded, but we went ahead, and we give you our word that we had to stand in line for twenty minutes before we could even get a drop card!

DESCRIPTION OF THE WEEK:

The bone stuck through his leg, gleaming white in the sun.

OBSERVATION:

He who laughs last has found a dirty meaning.

From the department of Geology comes this little story of a student who was describing the actions of a glacier. The glacier was supposed to have moved down from the north, grown warm, and receded, but the fellow writing the quiz said that the thing came down from Canada, got hot, and went back up into Canada!

We don't like these ideas about glaciers scooting back and forth across the continent anyway. Even if it did happen we don't want to hear about it. We like to think of glaciers as always being "up there." Geologists see us, always talking about things that are ominous.

As the Guignol production of Shakespeare's "Tempest" approaches, we are reminded of Alexander Woolcott's remark after a Broadway presentation of one of the Bard's plays. He was talking to a friend and he said, "I'm afraid a great opportunity has been overlooked. They could have posted men at the graves of Bacon and Shakespeare tonight, and the question of which one wrote the plays would have been settled in the morning. It would simply have been a matter of seeing which one turned over."

Now that the campus is no longer sloppy with snow and ice, we feel it our duty to tell you that we will lead down six times between the Science building and Frazee hall when there was snow and ice.

The main reason for our continued slipping was that there were leaves on the sidewalks. Those things should be kept off the main walks, somebody might hurt himself or herself.

They are going to crown another queen at the Kentucky dance tomorrow night. We are speechless.

Incidentally, the football team hasn't scored a point in the Southeastern conference this year. If they don't score in the Florida game, why, it will be some sort of a record!

"The educational spoon in America is handled by competent and understanding teachers but the students should do the feeding themselves." Dr. Alexis Carrel, banking scientist, is interviewed by the Dartmouth student newspaper.

SHOW

By DON IRVINE

THURSDAY morning at 10 o'clock, while recreation raged in the city streets, a handful of the less light-minded collegians congregated in Memorial hall for the third convocation of the year. Dr. Charles Collier, jolly-looking professor from the George Washington law school, read his speech in a tenor voice while listeners slouched down in resignation. The talk, an unimpressive lecture on the Constitution, put seven tired students sound to sleep.

Before the convocation opened there was a bustle of entrances and much loud conversation. Kernelmen Iglehart and Treadway settled far in the rear of the auditorium. Barbara McVey peered out of the very last line of seats. Bill Nash came in with the inevitable Sally Cannon. Walter Warf, A. T. O. publicist, peered suspiciously at the speaker by announcing that this was his third consecutive convocation. And he is still a first-year man! Show Master scribe Jim McDowell sat in the middle of the front row throughout the speech. Another uppercut was administered to the common supposition of the stupidity of athletes in the attentive presence of J. R. Ramsey, the swimmer. That pillar of the American Student Union, Joe Inman, sat in the front row of the hall. Andy Duke, as mournful looking as ever, listened lethargically to the lecture on law. Most salient observation of the morning might be that boys outnumbered girls by a vast majority in the audience, which should prove something or other to somebody.

One bespectacled brunetish boy, representative of a certain segment of student, sat nearby with a damsel on either side. He began the hour by ostentatiously twiddling his thumbs, much to the amusement of his good companions; and in a few minutes he extracted a trick knife from his clothing. It was one of those things with a blade that slides out. He held it up with a great pride he demonstrated the sharpness of the weapon, punching it into the hand of a girl sitting next to him. He himself that lofty entrance, he reached under his chair and brought forth a dark-colored book, on which he whetted the blade, squinting and whistling with his tongue. He then, that he got out a large yellow watch and toyed with it under the fond glances of the girls. When the novelty of the timepiece inspection had separated him from the rest of the paper and wrote on it for a few minutes. His next trick was to throw both thumbs out of joint at the same time. The girls were appreciatively astounded at his versatility. Finally, feeling that he had given sufficient evidence of his endless abilities, he laid slumped down, opened his book and proceeded to read studiously until the end of the convocation. When the lecture evening was over, he proceeded to read studiously until the end of the convocation.

Thus did students continue to learn by word of mouth, adding the content of one more lecture to already talk-crowded minds. Pursuing the course dictated then since infancy, they continued to absorb problems and their solutions, not through actual experience, but through the words of their elders. Therein lies the tale. Our earliest memories relate of dependence on the knowledge and judgment of another generation, a generation already being ushered out. We have heard of older people who "know little or nothing; that we must rely on their more mature directions for our courses of action. By them we are thought to hang somewhere between the stages of infancy and imbecility, and our disagreeable thoughts or actions of our own are regarded as adolescent tonics. Thus is mental and moral independence willfully squelched. Yet, who tells us that our elders are wiser than we? ... our elders. Who says that only an older judgment is to be trusted? ... older people. Who pronounces that youth must obey age? ... the aged. For our total learning here are advised to turn to a preceding generation. Knowledge by experience is secretly or openly frowned upon. It is a responsibility of the young to disregard such counsel; profit where possible by the teachings of yesterday's youth; but never forget that the only lasting learning is gained by personal experience.

Alma Mater Students Number 410

Thirty-seven States Represented According to Recent Alumni Survey

According to a recent survey taken from the offices of the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women, records reveal the fact that either one or both parents of 410 present students of the University attended this institution at some time.

Of this total of 410 students, 117 of the 48 states in the United States are represented. These states include Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Texas, Iowa, New Jersey, Georgia, Arkansas, Missouri, New York, Oklahoma, and Pennsylvania.

These facts, which were compiled by the Alumni office under the direction of Marcus C. Reeder, president of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association, show that the boys have the greatest representation, as the parents of 277 men students attended the University, while parents of only 173 women students are recorded.

The Campus Gossip

By CHARLE GARY

Tomorrow night brings forth the first formal dance of the year; the annual Kentuckian Beauty Queen Dance. It promises to top any social gathering so far this year. The highlight of the evening, of course, will be the selection of the most beautiful girl at the University and the most popular man on the campus.

Who will be the most beautiful girl at the University and the most popular man on the campus? The answer is in the hands of the Queen of the University. It is like trying to judge a Miss America beauty contest. For our own school boasts some of the fairest girls in the land. As for the most popular man, J. R. Iglehart seems to be a logical choice. Music will be supplied by the campus orchestra.

Just wait until you hear them play "Public Melody Number One." The music of the college is so good it is enough to attract any crowd, but wait until you hear the rest of the band. You will not hear nothing yet.

Delta Chi Jimmy Smece and Alpha Gamma Pat Robertson were at the Kappa Kappa Gamma dance, carrying on a very noteworthy conversation in baby talk. Maybe the two go together. Smece is a native Englishman, and Robertson is a native Englishman. Smece has gotten three Kappa Sigmas.

Since his long lasting romance with another cracker turned earthy several weeks ago, Dell Eddie Beck is again flying high with a certain Triple D, with whom he has dinner Tuesday night at the Tri-D Hotel.

Phi Delta Bob Lewis should be a very wide awake student this week. After a plentiful thanksgiving he returned to the Sigma Chi house in Lexington. Steve, who was in at 10 o'clock Friday morning and took a short nap which lasted only twenty-six hours.

A paid advertisement from the Omega House. Seven members of our chapter are very anxious to get over with Dean Ragan. We are open to suggestions as how to win him. When asked what the attraction was, they replied, "it's his darned indifference."

Dean Barker ever thought she is that way about Sid Buckley refuses to dine at the ATO house. So she went to the dining room and ate and tamed his appetite at the Alpha Gam Domestic.

Triangle Peter Socrates Bourbaki calls. Chio Clara Bell Haley ever morning at six o'clock in order to awaken her for her first hour class. She then came to the middle to see if she is all right and to tell her it is time to retire for the night. She has been in the White House are very much annoyed at the ringing of the phone at such unseemly hours.

SAB Jack Baker pinned his home town name in Federal, and as the dainty Miss retired each night she would place the pin on the extra pillow of her bed. One night her pet dog seemed to crave a desire for the intended badge and promptly devoured it.

The Kay Dee's have bought many new records for their vitrola but they seemed to disappear as fast as they were purchased. However, they knew where to look. They went to the Phi Delta house Wednesday night during dinner hour and found three of their prize records. One was a member of the White Carnation was in the living room, they took the records leaving a very "sweet" note instead.

Joe Wilson celebrated Thanksgiving by embellishing the dress of Chio Nancy Jackson with his Phi Delta badge. Congrats to both of you.

For months Phil "Feedie" Jones has been trying to get up enough nerve to attempt to pin Moly Acres. Finally he set last Saturday night for the big event. As the day drew nearer and nearer, "Feedie's" feet grew colder and colder, so Friday afternoon he left for Cincinnati to spend the remainder of the week with his roommate who was home. And still the old saying, "Faint heart never won fair lady," prevails.

Charles "Country" Jones and Billy Evans had a big time at dance in Frankfort last Saturday. They had a sort of mix-up and "Country" led with his face instead of his left and as a result has eaten nothing for the last week except through a straw.

Bob Singleton is very much that way about Pershing Rifle sponsor Mildred Croft, but that isn't news. Try to find some one who isn't.

Pip Kap Franklin Foster got taken back a notch and the other guy. He asked "Barb" Virginia Foster for a date and she very sweetly answered, "No thanks, Franklin, I have been on this campus too long to know better than to give you a date."

Y. W. C. A. Activities: Friday 12 a.m.—Dutch Lunch club will meet at the Maxwell Street Presbyterian Church. Monday 3 p.m.—The handicraft group will meet at the Woman's building on Christmas. 6 p.m.—World Fellowship supper will be held in the Woman's building.

They repeat so you won't have to! Without repeater tubes, which amplify voice currents every 50 miles, telephony over great distances would hardly be possible. Incidentally, the telephone repeater tube was one of the first applications of the vacuum tube principle, which now makes it possible for you to talk across the continent as easily as just around the corner. Changing needs call for continuous telephone research to make your service more and more valuable.

According to the Men's Student Council, it was necessary to declare void approximately 10 ballots. The election will be conducted shortly after the second semester ensues. Three hundred and fifty votes were cast in the junior class election. Struch received 186 votes to 112 for progressive party candidate Alfred Vogt, Alpha Sigma Phi. They were the leading candidates. Hillenmeyer polled 194 votes to 123 for Fred Fischer, independent, progressive party candidate. Stone collected 207 votes to 95 votes for Alvo Wood Bailey, progressive party, Alpha Xi Delta. In the sophomore class, Duty polled 209 to J. W. Wines 164 in the presidential race. Scott received 226 votes to Robert Sweeney's 145, in the contest for vice-president. Miss Elliott, tabbed 214 in the secretary-treasurer race to 156 for John Huntsaker. There were a total of 373 votes cast in the sophomore class election.

Dime Store Items Shown In Library

An exhibition of objects from ten dime stores, arranged by Miss Anne Callahan of the Art department, will be on display in the lobby on the first floor of the library until Monday, December 13.

Chosen for their quality of good design, functional, structural, and decorative qualities, the articles were selected as an aid in the study of design principles showing how in inexpensive objects of useful arts we find major and minor principles of design, harmony, good proportion, and unity.

Ranging from stove lifters and tin pans through paper cups, towels, books, and toys to chiffon scarves and varicolored linen handkerchiefs, the exhibit shows that an inexpensive article, if of all its parts, fitness to use, and for decorative color, may give us a bit of that "beauty" we all long for and cost as little as from five to fifty cents, as all these articles are within that range.

In a well designed article the use of the design is built into it instead of onto it. Beauty of design may be an inherent part of the structure of the article itself, not necessarily because of the fitness to use, but because the designer intended to make the object both useful and beautiful.

The exhibit was made possible through courtesy of the F. W. Woolworth and S. S. Kroger stores.

Seeing the University Man

With ROBERT S. COHEN

Cold days call for comfort as well as smartness. Angelucci & Ringo offer you a combination, which will provide both of these essential factors—that of the camel hair set—a coat, scarf, gloves, and socks.

The coat is a raglan sleeve model obtainable in the full cut loose back or half belt style.

The warm gloves and muffler give that added protection from the cold December winds.

The collar of the Week—The Boy

The sock, which are English rib of a camel hair and wool mixture, add the finishing touch to your attire. You can feel well at ease any winter day, when you have items such as these to make up your outfit.

An item which ranks with the beer jacket in popularity is the camel hair and wool vest—a warm sleeveless sweater in yellow and natural camel hair made out the exact lines of a vest.

R. S. Thorpe & Sons bring to you this favorite, which is ideal for wear with all sport clothes.

The use of a black welt and a light yellow stitch on a luggage-colored raglan blucher—is only one of the significant and beautifully characteristic English details on Bayham's shoe special of the week.

It should be noticed that the bottoms of the English shoes are finished in but one color, that which is described above.

At Kaufman's Style Center are the newest in men's suits—Imported Tweeds, Grays, greens, and browns in the single breast of three button, two to button, model, and the well liked double breasted.

Students will find a large selection of suits for all occasions available at Kaufman's.

PROFS. ATTEND MEETING

Prof. H. P. Guy and Prof. A. J. Lawrence, of the College of Commerce, attended a meeting of the Southern Business Education Association in New Orleans last week-end. Mr. Guy was elected chairman of the college and university division, replacing Professor Lawrence who was chairman this year. Professor Lawrence was re-elected editor of the quarterly journal for the fourth consecutive year and was also elected on the board of directors of the organization. The convention will be held in Atlanta next year.

Shop Sights

By MARJORIE RIESER

During the next two weeks, which will hurriedly slip through our fingers before going home (this time for everyone, including the New Yorkers), there will be so much to do and so many places to go that one wonders how it can be crammed into so short a time. But it will be done, no doubt, and in the process a new formal can frequently be taken from the garment bag at the end of the closet to be donned for tea, faculty dinners and the annual Kentuckian dance to-morrow night.

One good selection is a heavy taffeta of buttercup yellow that has a shallow V neck in front and back, a very full skirt and short, puffed sleeves. White embroidered lace is inserted in the skirt at the waist and gradually gains width so that when it reaches the hem it is four inches wide. There is a small bouquet of colored roses at the neck.

Another first pick is a deep turquoise chiffon that is given a draped, Grecian effect by the broad, sheered strap over each shoulder which is really a continuation of the top part of the dress. The neck is V with a spray of cornflowers in front. Raspberry chiffon ribbon over a purplish blue extends from the flowers to the back waist, cross, come to the front again where they loop and extend to the floor. The skirt is full. There is a turquoise slip cut to fit the dress.

To accompany these two illustrations is a full length black velvet cape lined with scarlet. So that it can be worn on either side, there is sheering across the shoulders to assure fullness in the body. The wrap is interlined which would feel mighty good on these chilly nights.

One nice thing about a cape is that it doesn't mess the sleeves of a dress where a coat does.

AGRI-"CULTURED" COEDS TAKE PART IN HORT CLUB APPLE SHOW

By L. T. IGLEHART

Cynical males as most of us are still clinging to that tottering "beautiful but dumb" theory, probably received quite a job in attending the "Big Apple Show" at the Phoenix hotel last Tuesday and Wednesday.

They found that those manured little fingers could knead dough, slice apples, and at times use the oven for something other than a quick-dryer for silks. When a first prize was presented to the University girl for her apple pie, the foundation of the theory trembled, and when still another artist's pastry, only 5 inches in diameter, sold for $1.25, the theory collapsed.

Not being satisfied with mere pie-makers for their future homes, a few of the more aggressive took a look around the home economics department on the following afternoon. On "cook days" it is like entering a kitchen where soup is being prepared. Odors fit for a king's nostrils even invade the hallways that

In the past, outsiders have been known to receive samples from their agri-"cultured" friends, but this practice is only recommended for those with improvement of the work and products at heart.

Point one is that they can cook. But what about clothing? A mom estary return of the "dumb" theory may follow if one is lucky enough to stumble upon an assortment of the dress dummies. In this case, the best plan to follow is to pinch the figure. If it doesn't squeal, it's only a padded form to which the girl's fit dresses. The forms range from overly chubby through healthy to anemic, and from Ammonian through "cute" to midget. Each student is required to fashion such a figure for herself in order that sewing apparel may be made. Needless to say, there is very little cheating going on here. If the girl tries to flatter her proportions, the dummy is compelled to wear finished product, and not only does it offend its soldier goes anywhere. However, coats, dresses, smocks, and all types of clothing have been made with care with ready-made articles for workmanship and style. Point two, they can sew.

Further investigation discloses that they are able to intelligently, disinterdecorating, take care of a child, plan a diet, manage the household, and run the family (this could be carried to the extreme).

Only one point remains which pleads to be cleared up. Can they make apple jelly? At the "Big Apple Show," three prizes for the best jelly were there to be given away. Not one glass of this shabby substance materialized. Is apple jelly passe, are the cooks too modest, or worst of all, can't they make it anyway?

INTRAMURAL

By sweeping through the volleyball tournament without suffering the loss of a single match, SAE not only annexed their second championship trophy out of the three major activities that have been scheduled on the intramural list for the year, but also moved even farther ahead of the remaining field in the quest for the cup presented to the lodge amassing the largest number of points for the year.

The greatest advancement in the standings of the teams was made by the Sigma Mus, who, finishing in the runner-up slot in volleyball, moved from fifth place in the standings into the second notch. Sigma Chi and ATO, formerly deadlocked for second place, were in third and fourth places respectively.

The two activities that share the featured role on the calendar for the year, boxing and wrestling, are impatiently awaiting the starting gun. Due to the large number of entrants in each of these sports it was necessary to split the card and have one-half of the first round matches coming up one night with the remainder to be completed the following. Half of the first round wrestling matches were due to be dispensed with last night with the remainder carded for Monday night. The first portion of the boxing bouts are scheduled for tonight with the remaining half arranged for Tuesday.

In practically every weight division in boxing there is one entrant who is a champion or ex-champ holder. Paul Durbin, Independent, in the 135 pound class is the winner of his weight in last year's tournament as well as winner of the Golden Gloves companion sponsored by the Lexington Herald.

The 135 pound class sports two Golden Gloves winners, J. C. Posey, ATO, champion of the welterweight class last year and Dave Hogan, winner of the 135 pound division, who represents SAE.

The welter-weight group, which furnishes the largest number of hopefuls, 16, also offers one of the favored materials in Walter Ward, who carries the ATO colors. Ward, Louisville A. A. U. middle-weight champion last year, was awarded a decision over the 145 A. A. U. King from Ohio in an inter-sectional bout held last spring. Henry Wallace from Kappa Alpha, 1936 title winner in the welter weight division, has forsaken the ranks of the 145 pounders and is entered in the senior welter-weight class for this year's competition.

The light-heavy division boasts three gladiators of known ability. Sam Kennedy, Independent, who was a finalist in the heavy-weight class last year, has cut his log with this class, as has Tom Speck, sophomore football star, slugger, and Alpha Gamma Rho and R. Winchester, Independent. In the heavy weight ranks, footballer Joe Bains, Kappa Alpha, George Hulse, and P. Winchester, both Independent, will compete.

Opening boxing hostilities provide for 21 bouts, calling for 63 rounds (or less) of punching. Bouts in each of the eight weight divisions are on the program, which should provide for the fans all action desired. All bouts will be held in the gym annex and start promptly at 7:15 o'clock. All boxers and wrestlers must weigh in each afternoon preceding their matches at the intramural offices between the hours of 2:30 p. m. and 5:30 p. m.

Only the hammer-throw, bar arm lock, full Nelson and any holds that "shut off the breath," are barred in the wrestling bouts.

Initial round matches in both pigging and hand ball were scheduled to have been finished yesterday. Due to the unusually large number of contestants in these activities, eliminations were hampered. Participants in each of these, both singles and doubles, are urged to make arrangements for playing their matches as soon as possible.

BAKER STARTS NEW COURSE

Students Planning To Enter Merchandising Activities May Enter In Pioneering Education Project

For students planning to enter retailing, wholesaling, jobbing, brokerage, commission buying, selling and other merchandizing activities a pioneering project in distributive education has been inaugurated by Prof. W. Maurice Baker at the University.

Professor Baker says that the purpose of the course is to train teachers to teach distributive occupations. Teachers of the department of distributive education have had practical as well as teaching experience.

The plan provides for workers to attend part-time and evening classes and that summer their practical knowledge gained in merchandizing fields. There now are thirty persons enrolled in the courses. The plan also provides for persons now in training as teachers to go over the state and teach regular workers in their various professions. These workers will be under the State's public school system.

The University is one of the few in the country which has developed this type of teacher-training. This system has been arranged in answer to a demand for teachers in these fields with backgrounds of practical selling experience who are interested in taking such training.

with three principal "mysteries." There is the mystery of the nature of the "written purposes," and the growing mystery of the "due process of law."

To explain some of these mysteries, he stated that one must depend upon history, imagination, and independent reasoning in interpreting the document. The Constitution incorporates by reference, he added, a great existing body of documents; and the element of tradition greatly outweighs the element of enactment.

Dr. Collier stated in conclusion that the constitution is not merely a document, but "is a perfect union of enactment and tradition."

Prof. W. R. Suberland, of the department of English, announced that in further celebration of the Constitution's 150th anniversary, a musical program will be given at 3 p. m. Thursday, December 16, in Memorial Hall. The program will consist of pageants, dramatic interludes, and music, which will be under the direction of Dr. Willem van de Wall, professor of music education.

Awards will be given at the banquet to the papers having the best news story, feature story, editorial, sports story and original advertisement during the past year.

The meeting of Friday's session will be in the form of roundtable discussions. A representative of each college will lead the discussion in a specified field. A business session of the association will be held Saturday morning.

Officers of the K. I. P. A. are George Cramshaw, Transylvania, president; James Jesse, Centre, vice-president; Ross J. Chepelet, Kentucky, secretary; and Bill Stephenson, Louisville, treasurer.

Member colleges of the association include Transylvania, University of Kentucky, University of Louisville, Centre, Eastern, Western, Murray and Morehead.

Association Elects Sulzer As Director

Elmer G. Sulzer, head of the University Publicity Bureau, was elected director of the sixth district of the American College Publicity Association at a meeting held on November 27, at Champaign, Ill. This district includes Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, and Michigan.

Delegates at this meeting adopted a resolution condemning methods used by house dealers in advertising their products at football games this fall and asked that action be taken by the Federal Alcohol Administration if such conduct persisted. Next year's meeting of the association is scheduled to meet at the University.

Society Will Hold Initiation Monday

Approximately twenty-five freshmen in the College of Agriculture will be initiated Monday night in the Home Economics club. Julia Hall, president, will be in charge of the initiation ceremonies.

Before a freshman girl or transfer student can become a member of the Home Economics club she must earn fifty points. These points are earned by serving refreshments at the club meetings, by making and selling candy, by making posters and by assisting at the Fall Homecoming Grace Silverman freshman goat captain this semester.

The program will be in charge of Jane Schaefer and after the initiation services refreshments will be served.

Association Elects Sulzer As Director

Elmer G. Sulzer, head of the University Publicity Bureau, was elected director of the sixth district of the American College Publicity Association at a meeting held on November 27, at Champaign, Ill. This district includes Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, and Michigan.

Delegates at this meeting adopted a resolution condemning methods used by house dealers in advertising their products at football games this fall and asked that action be taken by the Federal Alcohol Administration if such conduct persisted. Next year's meeting of the association is scheduled to meet at the University.

ALWAYS THE SEASON'S FIRST FORMAL

BULL PEN

By GEORGE H. KERLER

WITH Arabian finesse the Wildcats folded up their tents Wednesday evening and jogged off the cleat-nimble sod of Stoll field annex for the last time this year.

A Rewardless Game

The Tennessee defeat is written inexorably into the records and what happens in Gainesville is not of much importance.

Out of the nine games played by each club this season, Florida has won two (Stetson and Sewanee) and Kentucky has won four.

Their line is gigantic and they feature a quarterback named Walter Mayberry who has been a main thorn all season.

With Hodze, The Lone Wolf, benched by an incorrigible clavicle, Coach Wynne is in a dilemma about his starting backfield.

Doubtless, this Kentucky team has traveled more than any other 'cat club.

With the Wildcat coffers resembling Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard, still some selected the Tennessee Thanksgiving day game as Homecoming.

Now that the Rose Bowl selection has been made most of us can recline and stop smoking.

And still, I believe that the Alabama bunch that socked us by 41-0 was the greatest team I've seen.

Before the season it was agreed that the winner of the Southeastern conference would be in the Sugar Bowl attraction.

Poor Fordham. It turns up every year with an unbeatable bunch and when Bowl time comes, nobody loves her.

CO-OPERATIVE CLUB HEARS COACH RUPP

Predicting another fast and aggressive Wildcat basketball team, Coach Adolph Rupp addressed the Lexington Co-operative Club Tuesday at the regular weekly luncheon meeting at the Lafayette hotel.

A court providing larger seating capacity for spectators is needed to attract a larger local attendance, Mr. Rupp added.

GROUP OF ENGINEERS WILL SURVEY MOUNDS

Accompanied by Prof. D. V. Terrell and Prof. R. E. Shaver, of the civil engineering department, a group of seniors in the College of Engineering will go to Mount Sterling, Ky., December 3.

HANSON ADDRESSES CLUB

Mrs. Carmenth Hanson, a native of Guatemala, spoke on "The Conquests and Future of Guatemala," at the meeting of the Spanish club, Monday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Albert W. Servey, 122 Arcadia Park.

KITTENS TO MEET FIRST NET FOE

"We will probably lose." With these few words, Coach Paul McBryer expressed his pessimistic outlook as to chances for a victory by his all-state Kittens in their initial 1937-38 net contest with the powerful Edentide club Saturday night at Louisville.

CATS SET

In the Fla Ky tussle last year, the Blues won, 7-0, when Dameron Davis returned a punt 44 yards to a touchdown.

The Blue and White are expecting a high temperature tomorrow and some trouble with the terrain. The Gainesville gridiron is supposed to be one of sand.

BOXING SEASON WILL START TONIGHT

With the initial round of the annual intramural wrestling matches well under way, the first session of boxing is scheduled to start tonight in the gym annex.

A significant feature of this year's competition is the absence of defending champions of the various weights. This lack of color will be more than offset by the appearance of several competitors who have gained enviable boxing reputations for themselves elsewhere.

Tonight's bouts include the opening brackets of all weights except the light-heavyweight and heavy-weight class. They are as follows:

DO AMERICAS FILMS APPRECIATE THE COSTLER TOBACCO IN CAMELS?

YOU bet they do! In aviation is one of the most discriminating groups of smokers in the country.

And many millions of Americans—more people than smoke any other cigarette in the world—give a hearty o-kay to Camels!

ARTHUR WALDO, JR. is a Senior in College. He says: "Working out a tough assignment often can make me feel all tucked out. The second I feel myself getting tired, I like to get a 'hit' with a Camel."

WINFRED CASTLE works long hours at her editorial desk—smokes a lot. She says: "I think there's nothing like Camels for mildness. I can smoke as many Camels as I please and they never get on my nerves."

PETER KILLIAN is a news photographer. His slant: "Camels are always in the picture with me—on the job—at home—and especially at the table. Camels help my digestion to keep clicking day after day."

EDWARD HURLEY, a successful, busy architect, says: "To my way of thinking, a man doesn't really know what homes-to-goodness natural flavor means until he smokes Camels. 'D walk a mile for a Camel!'"

MARIE DRISCOLL, business girl, speaks for lots of stenographers when she says: "Camels certainly have everything I like a cigarette to have!"
