New Eligibility Rule Made By Senate; Will Be Put in Effect First of Semester

STUDENTS WILL NOT HAVE TO MAKE 1 STAND IN Activities

A new eligibility rule governing all students and practically eliminating consideration of standing has been passed by the University Senate late yesterday afternoon, and will go into effect next semester.

The new rule provides that a student must pass at least three-fourths of the normal load required by his college the preceding year or, if a new student, must pass three-fourths of the normal load carried the preceding semester.

For eligibility for extra-curricular activities and for initiation into fraternities, the student must have passed in at least three-fourths of the normal load in the preceding semester and must be carrying 12 credit hours of work.

The new rule is more in conformity with those of other schools of the Southeastern conference, of which the University is a member. The rule was passed to humanize the student and to treat him as an individual with consideration for his problems.

The new rule, however, does not change the present requirement of a one standing for a degree.

A new course, "Recovery Legislation and its Problems," will be given in summer session with various members of the faculty treating the legislation and problems of their own fields.

Prof. W. S. Webb, head of the Department of Physics, who has been chosen by the Smithsonian institute, in cooperation with the Tennessee Valley Authority and the CWA, left Friday night to take charge of the archaeological work in Tennessee and Alabama.

The work will consist of the excavation and classification of artifacts which are contained in some 3000 Indian mounds in the two states, which will be funded by water impounded by dams to be constructed by the federal government.

During the period of this work, Professor Webb will make his headquarters in Knoxville. Several University students who have specialized in archaeology and anthropology probably will be added to his staff.

Profes Reveal Resolutions

University Instructors and Deans Have Varied Intentions for 1934 Conduct

By DAVID SALYERS
Resolutions!
And more resolutions! Or maybe none at all!

What kind of resolution? A New Year's resolution, of course! That old custom which has endured so many ages. New Year's? Sure, we know what that is! But E-e-o-l-i-i-o-n-a?

It is said that one person could not count $1,000,000.00 in dollar bills in a lifetime, but we would sure jump at the chance to try out that experiment.

Although the University is sponsoring instruction classes for unemployed high school students, some of us seniors are wondering what will be done for us after this year.

About the only New Year's resolutions that we can be sure to keep is as follows: Resolutions that we shall not overburden ourselves with school work in 1934.

We make a bang-up start with Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, who, along with lecturing, writing books, and what-not, bears the burden of the chairmanship of the Athletic Council upon his shoulders.

Being sure that someone must have made some resolutions, the writer has compiled by hook or crook, goodness, badness, or indifference, a list of some of the New Year's resolutions made by our dear professors and deans.

It would be enlightening for the reader to compare these declarations with old Mr. Webster's definition to find out just how close the "great minds" come to making good resolutions and resolve to improve themselves.

Our first resolution is made by Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, who, along with lecturing, writing books, and what-not, bears the burden of the chairmanship of the Athletic Council upon his shoulders.

Our second resolution is made by Mr. Plaiman, '126, picks best college papers. The Kentucky Kernel is chosen to head the list of its outstanding publications.

Our third resolution is made by Dr. McVeay, elected vice-president of the American Economic Association at its annual convention held last week in Washington, D. C.

Scandal Snickerings

By CAMERON COFFMAN

"Do You Take This Man?"
This question was asked many times during the holiday period as an epidemic of marriages again swirled through the University campus.

Mr. Plaiman and Kappa Minn. Pale culminated a college courtship when they became man and wife. Tri-angel Lewis went to Philadelphia and came back with Elizabeth Wilson as his bride.

BE CURIOUS AND LEARN

Too many students are, or pretend to be, exceedingly blasé. They seem to feel that indicates sophistication, worldly-wisdom, or culture, which in fact it points out a dull, uninteresting person who hasn't intelligence enough or energy enough to delve into and try to comprehend the many events and inventions of our fast moving age.

Altogether too few display a sanguine curiosity and show that they do not intend to sit down and take things just as they come without any enthusiasm, without any desire to know more about them. We must develop and cultivate an informative type of curiosity—a type that adds to the spirit of inquiry that makes human interest incidents fascinating.

As students, should grasp this

THE STRONG BOX
 Make yourself a Strong Box.
 Fashion each part with care:
 When you cannot make it stronger
 Put all your troubles there.
 Hide there all thought of failure.
 Each letter cap you quaff,
 Lock all your heartaches in it.
 Then sit on the lid and laugh.
 Tell no one else what's in it.
 Never its secrets share;
 When you've dropped in your care and worry
 Lock them forever there;
 Hide them from sight completely
 That the world shall never dream half:
 Fashion the Strong Box secretly,
 Then sit on the lid and laugh.

HOLIDAY WEDDINGS

With the Christmas season this year the usual round of weddings and engagements were announced, and a complete record of those which are of interest to the University students will fill the entire paper. Consequently we are restricted to a mere statement of fact. There follows a brief record of marriages of persons who have been graduated from or at one time have attended the University.

Miss Agnes Berglund, of the University of Michigan, to Mr. Guy Stone, a former member of the Physics department, December 10, at Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Miss Clarice Alberta Day, Lexington, to Mr. John Paul Keyes, December 20, at the home of the bride on Russell avenue. They will make their home at that address.

Miss Dora Mae Duncan, Union City, Tenn., to Mr. John T. Cochran, Danville, on December 21, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Stanton on Richmond avenue.

Miss Mary Logan Hardin, Greendale road, to Mr. Robert A. Bawner, Jr., of Frankfort, on December 23, at the First Methodist church, Lexington. They will make their home in Horse Cave where the groom is stationed with the U. S. Geological Survey.

Miss Helen Woolton, Lexington, to Mr. Lawrence McClure, December 23, in the rectory of St. Paul's church, Lexington. They have moved to Hartford, Ky., where the groom holds a coaching position.

Miss Louise Simpson, Washington, D. C., to Mr. Harold A. Bishop, Peoria, Ill., December 23, in Richmond, Va.

Miss Vivian Conley, Wenatchee, Wash., to Mr. Earl Long, Louisville, December 23, at the home of Prof. and Mrs. George V. Moore, 406 Kenilworth Court.

Miss Lucy Headley Shropshire to Mr. Lawrence Marshall Crump, both of Lexington, December 24, in Versailles. They will make their home on Fourth street their residence.

Miss Mary Helen Guiley to Mr. Warren H. Bradley, both of Lexington, December 25, at the Broadway Christian church. They are making their home in the Clifford Apartments on Market street.

Miss Patricia Morgan to Mr. Cecil J. Urbanak, both graduates of the University, December 25, at the bride's home in Iroquois Court. They have moved to Fairmont, W. Va., where the groom is secretary to the Mine Workers.

Miss Helen Swain Middleton to Mr. William Kendall Smith, both of Louisville, Christmas day in Louisville.

Miss Margaret Yent, Lexington, to Lieut. Donald Pult, Dayton, Ohio, solemnized December 27, at the bride's home. They will reside in Dayton.

Miss Mary Purcell, of the University staff, to Prof. Edward O'Leary, Dayton, December 27, in Binghamton, New York.

Miss Elizabeth Wilson to Mr. Thornton Lewis, Jr., Thursday, December 28, at Overbrook, Pa.

Miss Rosena Penn to Mr. William Hill Macey, December 30, at the Nicholasville Christian church.

Miss Mollie Youcum to Mr. James Douglas Campbell, both of Lexington, on December 31, at the home of the bride.

Miss Helen Clay Alfrey, Ashland, and Mr. Paul Gerret Davis, Huntington, W. Va., solemnized January 1, in Ashland.

Marriages occurring earlier in the year and announced during the holidays were:
 Miss Virginia Allender to Mr. Charles T. Whitman, June 13, 1933, at Jeffersonville, Ind.
 Miss Kathryn Conley to Mr. Chalmers Wheeler, September 24, 1933, at Louisville.
 Miss Marjorie Geary to Mr. Thomas Youcum, July 24, 1933, at Covington, Ky.
 Miss Jane Strong to Mr. John Gillsay Doonan, November 30, 1933, at Athens, Alabama.

The Center Leaves have the finest Tobacco Quality

that's why only center leaves are used in Luckies

The first thing people see and like about Luckies is how round and firm they are. The tobacco doesn't spill out and there are no loose ends to cling to lips. That's because we pack each and every Lucky full to the brim with long, even strands of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos—only the center leaves. Not the top leaves—because those are under-developed.

Not the bottom leaves—because those are inferior in quality. We use only the center leaves—because they are the mildest and fully ripe for perfect smoking. That's why Luckies always draw easily, burn evenly—and are always mild and smooth. So smoke a Lucky, a fully packed cigarette. And remember, "It's toasted"—for throat protection—for finer taste.

A brand new year is upon us and the promise is as bright in the sports realm as it is in other lines. The year 1933 was eventful sports-fully, producing many new champions and many unbelievably upsets. Perhaps the greatest event here at the University was the victory of the Wildcat basketball team in the first Southeastern conference basketball tournament, held at Atlanta last winter.

The greatest disappointment perhaps to sports fans in Kentucky was the failure of the Kentucky football team to live up to the expectations of its followers. Then in the latter part of November came the resignation of Harry Gamage, who had been head football coach of Wildcat teams for the past seven years. His resignation was not wholly a surprise, because the storm cloud of opposition to his continuance as coach had been gathering on the horizon for several years and reached its head when his team of untried reserves and sophomores lost games by top heavy scores at Alabama and Tulane.

As far as we are concerned here at the University, the outstanding sports events of the year have been ranked in the following order:

1. Basketball championship of the Southeastern conference.
 2. Resignation of Harry Gamage as head football coach.
 3. Selection of Chet Wynne as head football mentor in his stead.
 4. Failure of Cat grid team to attain the expected heights.
 5. Success of Douglas "Red" Parrish at the conference track meet last May.
 6. Selection of Ralph Kercheval on third All-American team.
 7. Unexpected victory of the Giants in the World Series.
 8. Success of the 1933 freshman football team and prospects for 1934.
 9. Entry of Kentucky athletic teams into the newly organized Southeastern conference.
 10. Selection of "Aggie" Sale, Ellis Johnson, and "Frenchie" DeMoisey on the all-conference team at the tournament at Atlanta.
- This takes in practically all the outstanding events which are talked about whenever two people get

RETURN OF DAVIS TO UK PROBABLE

Flashy Wildcat Guard Will Decide This Morning on Resuming Studies, Activities

LOSS WOULD HURT CATS
Bill "Primer" Davis, spark-plug of the Wildcat basketball team, may remain in school, according to an announcement made by Coach A. F. Rupp yesterday afternoon.
In a telephone conversation with the writer, the coach stated that officials of the University had done everything in their power for the return of the diminutive guard and it is now up to Bill, himself, to decide whether he will continue to be counted as a student of the University.
Returning to Lexington after a rather bleak Christmas holiday, during which his mother suffered a severe stroke of an illness of which she has been a victim for two years; and his family home burned to the ground, Davis said that it would be impossible for him to remain in school any longer.
Fifteen poultry raisers from Indiana and Illinois have registered in the poultry short course at Purdue University.

GATS TRIM WAVE BY SCORE OF 32-22; 42-29

Led by Davis and DeMoisey, which combination scored 46 of the 74 points tallied in the two games; the University of Kentucky Wildcats stopped the Green Wave of Tulane on two successive nights by scores of 32-22, and 42-29, in games played in the new field house of the Louisianians.
The Cats displayed a defense in both games that kept the Greenies shooting long and awkward shots. Anderson, although failing to score a point was a mainstay on the Kentucky squad when defense was involved. The Wave showed more fight and determination in the second game than they did in the first and the defense they threw around DeMoisey kept him down to nine points, seven of which were scored on free throws. The Kentucky captain scored a total of 19 points in the games. Bill Davis, crack guard of the Wildcats rang up a total of 27 markers for high scoring honors.
The two wins puts the Kentuckians in a tie with the Louisiana State five for the lead in the Southeastern conference race for the bas-

Guignol Presents Grecian Tragedy

to an otherwise stark tragedy. Her performance has a convincing appeal and an ease found only in professional performers.

Woodson Knight, as Creon, does credit to a rather weak part. Frank Willis, as an aged shepherd, has a good minor part. The chorus as a whole is excellent, and adds immeasurably to the action of the play. The youth of the actors is a factor against the desired interpretation.
The lighting and background forming a Greek temple entrance, with the altar fires, are impressive. The unique setting has no curtain, and all entrances are made through the orchestra pit, or through the door at the top of the temple steps. The setting is in strict keeping with Greek traditions of presentation, with the exception of the lighting. Varying lights from the only artificial arrangement for the stage.
Costumes, under direction of Mildred Schaffner, are authentic and harmonious, colors are grouped to emphasize the strange lighting effects. The music carries out the Greek influence, being weird and unathletic.
The cast is as follows: Howard Smathers, Oedipus; Robert Shannon, Priest of Zeus; Woodson Knight, Creon; Frederic de Wilde, Speaker for the Chorus; George W. Pithian, Tiresias; Leonard Vanarsdale, Attendant; Mary Lyons, Jocasta; Mary King Koger and Ruth Kay Schneider, Ismene and Antigone, her daughters; Henry Clay McKee, Stranger; Frank Willis, Shepherd; Frank Starks, Jr., and Roy Hogg, Thralls; John Davis Haggard, Messenger; James Stephens, Attendant on Oedipus; John Day, Leader of Chorus.
