That Old Spring Fever

WISE . . . and otherwise

By BOB AMMONS

America, may we observe, is a screwball country if there ever was one. Where else could a man be qualified to lecture on the evils of labor unions by the fact that he had been active in an open boat on the Pacific ocean and had a set gull high on his shoulder when he traveled for food?
The next time the Wildcats basketball here would better go out and take a look. Not that they play like the New York Yankees, but because they have won would think someone had whacked him over the head with a hod of bricks and beat him a couple of feet into the ground.

Fast-Talking Virginia Zuniga Goes Home To Costa Rica

By Norma Weatherston
After two years of insisting that Costa Rica be spelled with a final 'a,' Virginia Zuniga has returned to San Jose where no one would even think of spelling it with an 'o.'

What Goes On There . . .

By Janet Edwards
A sorority at Michigan State has contributed many interesting signs in helping the annual 'keep off the grass' campaign. Signs such as 'cow paths are across the river,' and 'give the other sprouts a chance' are being made into posters for display.

Today: Our Weather Editorial

We have bided our time and waited for just the propitious moment. At last it has come. Today we exercise a traditional right of Kernel editors. We are going to write our editorial about the weather.

We don't know what it is that bestows the right upon a person to become an authority. It may be that he is running for office, it may be that he graduated from high school, or it may be that he has read the first and last chapters of some current "inside" best-seller.

Since we found the first cluster of crocus sprouting in the green bluegrass a month ago we have been thinking of our weather editorial. On a slip of paper in a cubby hole of our desk we wrote the words "spring is here," for future reference.

Now being native Kentuckians, we are very proud and very touchy about our weather. We have practiced winking glances for hours before our mirror, directing at any unimformed heretic who claimed that the weather in his own state was superior to ours.

We know that our weather is unusual. We pride ourselves on the fact. We recognize every April snow flake as an unmaneuverable argument that Kentucky weather is unusual. None of your California "heavy dew" for us. When it rains in Kentucky it rains, and when it snows it snows. And when it rains and snows at the same time, that's just what it's doing.

The epitome of ungratefulness for our wonderful variety in weather was pronounced last week by some furrier from an eastern metropolis. "Kentucky weather will only be unusual when it gets to be like weather should be," he smugly proclaimed as he dodged between snow flakes.

So you see it's obvious that ignorant people from other climes need to be informed on the changes in season. What better authority to make final pronouncement on the subject than the editor of THE KERNEL?

How To Be An Authority On The Kentucky Derby

When the band strikes up "My Old Kentucky Home" at Churchill Downs tomorrow afternoon, hundreds of University students, dressed in their spring finery, will be gathered in excited groups—about their radios.
Now everyone who comes to the University should be able to speak with the authority of an ex-convict of the Kentucky Derby, for the benefit of outlanders. So since various governmental orders are keeping campus race fans at home this year, we are taking it upon ourselves to tell you all the dope on a day at the Derby.

Our Gesture Of Thanks To Kernel News Seekers

We award a permanent place in our masthead today to the reporters of THE KERNEL. Ten news seekers are not many to cover the entire University campus. That they have done as good a job as they have makes them worthy of our recognition.

THE KERNEL this quarter boasts an editorial staff of only 15. In pre-war days a staff of 40 or 50 was not unusual. With campus activities curtailed, news is harder to come by than ever. This makes it increasingly difficult for our reporters and news editor to do their jobs well.

We appeal to both the faculty and the students to realize that if campus coverage is not complete on some occasions it is due not to inefficiency on the part of the news staff, but rather to an insufficiency in workers.

Several months ago I ran across an old copy of "The Kentucky Kernel" which I quickly snatched up. It was a glimpse of things the way they were in the UK campus. It was like a letter from home to see that old publication after years of absence.

I don't know why I wrote this letter but I guess the loneliness of this place made me think a lot of how much the "Old Country" means to us. I would appreciate an issue of The Kentucky Kernel if you could send one.

Soldier Glad To Get Kernel

Dear Editor:
Just a note to let you know that I received The Kernel today and I certainly glad to get it. It brought back some mighty happy memories of the old days.
As you know, censorship forbids my telling the location of my organization. However, I can say that we have been here almost eight months, and Kentucky would surely look good to us. I am the only Kentucky officer with the 79th and I have been with the organization since its activation in 1941.

Coeds Figure Manpower Problem As More Khaki Comes To Campus

KEITH'S KENNINGS
When the first of many rumors that the ERC was to be called to active duty had skipped across Euclid avenue to within hearing distance of the women's dormitories, there was much gnashing of co-ed teeth as the inmates began to consider their own personal manpower problems.

Dr. Funkhouser Has An Idea For Increasing Food Rations

"Did you ever eat a worm?" "No Steve, Mister, and that ain't half-Im not apt to either, 'cause my mother didn't raise that kinda bird."

"And that is just what I told Dr. W. D. Funkhouser when he asked me that question."

Dr. Funkhouser, dean of the graduate school and head of the zoology department, has, for the past several years, used his substantial income as a means of furthering his study of animals and their habits in different climates.

Professor Funkhouser's travels have taken him to nearly every part of the globe where he has explored the wooded, cavernous, and barren regions of many countries, many of which are located in the equatorial belt.

"Next Soup Delicious"

"Why, you haven't lived until you have eaten soup made by boiling a bird's nest in a gallon of swamp water or a plate of fried grasshoppers cooked over a slow fire of straw from a camel's manger," Dr. Funkhouser said with his reassuring smile.

"I have found it necessary, while traveling through a particular country, to eat what the natives eat. In many cases, he went on to say, the natives aren't as bad as one might imagine."

"The only thing that I found wrong," he said, "was that the stuff most of it, had a foul odor."

"The South Sea Islanders, according to Dr. Funkhouser, are very fond of raw clams and mollusks which they suck directly from the shell."

"Among other items to be found on the entire list were raw centipeds eaten by the Arabs during their religious rites and by the Indian children of New Mexico. If the those sand leger doesn't appeal to you maybe the cook has some pickled eel in the pantry that will hit the spot. "Parasred" will hold the same spot on the table in Germany as the turnip does in Denmark."

No Toads, Thanks

Fish of all kinds are found everywhere and the frog it accepted among most of the meat-eating nations, but the toad was frowned upon everywhere. To play with him will cause a wart and to kill him will cause the killer's cow to give bloody milk. The carnivals say that they are poison and just don't have the stomach for them. The witches of Shakespeare's "Macbeth" are the only known creatures ever to make use of the toad for eating purposes.

The small and the sech are the standouts on the relish list. They are grown commercially in France, especially for brisque use. The sech is originally used in the medical profession by the barber who bleb his patients. But now the sech has been elevated and he may be found at the tables in the best of homes.

White Ants For Dessert

Snake's alligator's tail, or devil fish tentacles make a regular banquet fit for a king, to say nothing of a dessert of selected white ants from Africa, which, when prepared correctly, taste like honey and almonds. And there is nothing better than goat's milk or blood for drink.

A bread and butter sandwich is tasty. If the bread is baked from flour made of fried and ground grubs and caterpillars and the butter is churned from seared goat's milk and the pieces of dried skin and bits of wool are then removed from the butter.

'Cats Seek Third Victory In Cincinnati Game Today

Victory number 3 will be the objective when Kentucky's baseballers go vagabonding to Cincinnati this afternoon for a tilt with the U. C. Bearcats.

With the season record now standing at the 500 spot, after two brilliant victories over the Marshall Herdmen last weekend, the 'Cats will go all-out to defeat the Bearcats. Vernon Jones, the lanky right hander, will assume the pitching duties for the Kentuckians and Bob Herbert will be behind the plate.

Deacon Shively worked his lead hand this week. The rough edges were smoothed out under the warm spring sun.

The U. C. crew hasn't started the season because of the weather, but reports indicate that they have a formidable nine which is capable of giving the Kentuckians plenty of worries. The lineup will be the same as in the Marshall series. Jones and Herbert will be the battery. Tocco will be on first, Bauer on second, Curlychin on short, and Mullins on third to complete the infield.

In the outfield, it will be Gus Green in the left field pasture, Ace Parker in center, and Stevenson in the right field garden.

Fort Knox will move in for a game next Wednesday on Stoll field, and the Bearcats will be next Friday for a return game

KERNEL SPORTS

The Sporting Way

By ROY STEINFORT

Kentucky's batters got fat off of a fat man in the Marshall series. Their somewhat puny averages gathered strength from the slants of the Thundering Herd moundsmen in the double header Saturday on Stoll field.

The Kentuckians still need, however, several more offerings from the infield, it will be O. C. ranges up to a respectable figure.

With four games in the record, the 'Cats are hitting .256, which isn't exactly up to par. Considering the fact that they were forced to work inside for several weeks, this figure has some of the earmarks of potency.

You can't develop hitters in the Alumni gym, and that was Deacon Shively's problem before the Marshall series because of spring rains.

Clyde Parker, or rather we should refer to Mr. Parker as "Ace", is the ace of the hickory swingers with a .588 percentage.

In 17 trips to the plate, "Ace", a combination catcher-outfielder, nabbed ten hits to pace the Kentucky hitters.

Another combination man, Bob Herbert, who divides his time between the mound and the backstop position owns a healthy 500 with five bingos in ten trips.

The shortest-third base combination—Phil Cutchin and Noah Mullins—are clicking offensively; hitting .417 and .384. Phil has five hits in 12 tries, and Mullins has connected five times in 13 swings.

Frank Bauer, the pudgy keystone corner kid, nicked the apple five times in 17 approaches for 294 Vernon Jones, the pitcher, is next with 289.

From here it hurts. Right fielder Stevenson .166, Tocco .125, Green .066, Schu .166.

There is an explanation for Tocco. The big first sacker hasn't had much opportunity to work out this spring and when he did it was inside.

Last season he was the big threat in the 'Cat lineup. If my memory serves me right, he swatted several over the leftfield fence last year.

Saturday he pounced on the ball, but he was a foul by several feet. It was ticketed for a homer.

In the nightcap, after catching the first game, Bob Herbert came back to pitch a two hitter to shut-out the Herd, 4-0. Herbert always keeps the opposing batter wondering—wondering if he'll live to face the Japs.

Herbert's control has improved greatly over last season, but he still occasionally sends in a quick ball which sends the batter to the dust.

That is one reason he's hard to hit. You can never get set to swing. He makes the batter move around. It's effective, apparently.

Vernon Jones, in the opener, worked smoothly in twirling four hit ball. His control was good, his curve was good—in fact, he looked plenty good.

The Golden Pleading by Matt Winn, or more commonly known as the Kentucky Derby, will be run Saturday. The fifty cent hot dog, the movies with their dark glasses, and most probably the mint julep won't be there.

But there had better be a guy by the name of Count Fleet, or we won't be there or here next Friday.

Women Go Out In Sports As Softball Games Begins

By Betty Tevis

Wham! And a long, high fly sails over the treetops behind Pat Hall. Girls in blue gym suits and blue jeans run frantically across the field. Other girls, obviously spectators, cheer and scream encouragement to their team-mates. The scene is total confusion. Even in Brooklyn they don't get this excited!

It's the softball tournament, part of the newly inaugurated physical fitness program. And enthusiasm and vim and vigor and vitality are running high as the teams this week practice for the opening play-off next week. The field was barely dry from the rain epidemic, when the girls began hitting the balls around in the afternoon. Now interest is growing keener and rivalry is beginning to develop.

The big league stuff now. Betty Brauer can toss off a ball as neatly as Di Maggio. And Ted Clark's long flies would make even old Connie Mack gasp with amazement.

One day this week we walked over to the field expecting to see a few enthusiasts tossing a baseball around. But we found some thirty or forty girls and they all looked like they were enjoying America's national sport. At least in the softball department, the physical fitness program seems to be clicking.

That program, begun April 8, will end May 22. Now, at the three-week point, it seems that the girls on the Pat Hall diamond have some all-out for fitness.

At least, not so at 6-45 in the morning. That's the hour of the exercises, better known as calisthenics, which Miss Parker directs every morning on the roof of Jewell Hall.

Too many seniors as well as freshmen that exercise is a wonderful thing. . . but at 6-45 in the morning it fades into unimportance. We men are guilty of the "Oh, I'll just sleep five minutes more" habit. We know that physical fitness is an essential to a successful college career and life career, but somehow we seem to have difficulty in looking the alarm clock squarely in the eyes and obeying it.

Tennis and badminton come in for their share of participation also. Doubles and singles matches have been arranged in both sports. Charts with teams and results are kept up-to-date in the women's gym. Teams representing every apartment, dormitory, or other housing unit are entered. Tennis has been slowed practically to a standstill by muddy courts, but shows promise of getting under way next week.

Badminton is progressing beyond the first brackets.

Wildcats Take Two Games From Marshall Moundsmen

Kentucky's Wildcat baseball team broke the ice on the victory column Saturday afternoon on Stoll field by defeating Marshall college team, 12-2 and 4-0. The all-around play of the 'Cats was greatly improved over their Vanderbilt showing. The pitchers kept the ball in the strike zone consistently, the batters were hitting the ball hard and on the nose, and the team as a whole committed only two errors in both games.

In a few weeks Kentucky was on the beam, and Marshall's best was not enough to stop them. In the first game, V. Jones and Yancey hooked up in a pitchers' duel for the first four innings. Marshall scored first by talking a marker in the top of the first, but the 'Cats grabbed the lead for keeps in the second with a two run splurge. After the fourth Yankee weakened, and the 'Cats pounded him almost at will. The 'Cats sent Yancey to the showers with a seven run uprising in the seventh, and Cash finished on the hill for the West Virginians.

In the meantime, Jones held the opponents hitless from the third until the ninth. He sent down ten batters on strikes, walked six, and hit two batters.

When the batters did connect with Jones' high, hard one, they usually popped it up to the infield or sent a high fly to the outfield. Their only extra base blow, a double by Yamanan, was a bonzer between Mullins and the third base bag down the left field line.

The 16-hit 'Cat attack, led by Parker and Mullins, included four doubles and a triple. Cutchin, Parker, Mullins, and Stevenson collected the doubles, while Bauer slammed the triple to deep center. Each of the 'Cat regulars came through with one or more hits, Parker in the driver's seat with four singles and Mullins racking a score second with three. Bauer, Cutchin, Herbert, and V. Jones were members of the two-hit gang.

In the second game Bob Herbert and "Jerky" Gutzwiller pitched scoreless ball for the first three innings. However, the boys from the Bluegrass solved the jerky stunts of Gutzwiller in the fourth for two runs, and added additional runs in the fifth and sixth.

Herbert outfoxed the boys from Marshall with his fast spinning drops, thus earning a two hit shut-out. D. Carroll and Clayton reached him for singles in the third and sixth, respectively.

Kentucky's first runs resulted from a single by Parker, a triple to deep left-center by Mullins, and a single by Herbert. Gus Green pulled one of Gutzwiller's pitches over the left field fence, but Umpire Lancaster called it foul, as it left the park in foul territory. After Cutchin had doubled in the fifth, Parker slammed a high drive deep into left. The ball hit inches from the top of the fence, bounced back

Lieut. Mark Jacobs Killed In Texas

Lieut. Mark E. Jacobs, former University student, was killed at Ballinger, Texas, Monday during a routine flight, according to word received here early this week.

Lieutenant Jacobs was a master bombardier at the Army Air base, Clovis, N. M.

A native of Lexington, he was a junior at the University when he enlisted in the Air Corps on May 9, 1942. He won his bombardier's wings at Williams Field, Chandler, Arizona, November 21, 1942.

While at the University, he was a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

ASK THE SOLDIER IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC

"ROY, THE HEAT AND WORK DOWN HERE ARE SOMETHIN'. AREN'T THEY?"

"WHAT LUCK... COKE! IT'S GOOD FOR THE OLD MORALE."

"That's based on a real letter. Gimme a Coca-Cola! It's the watchword for refreshment with every branch of the service. It's the soldier's buy-word wherever they gather... and they get together where they can get Coca-Cola. Distinctive, delicious taste. Quality you can count on. Thirst-satisfaction plus refreshment. Any way you look at it—the only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola, itself."

THE ZONE
—WHERE CIGARETTES ARE JUDGED

The "I-ZONE"—Taste and Throat—is the proving ground for cigarettes. On your taste and throat can decide which cigarette tastes best to you... and how it affects your throat. For your taste and throat are individual to you. Based on the experience of millions of smokers, we believe Camels will suit your "I-ZONE" to a "T."
