"PETTICOAT FEVER" OPENS AT GIGNON

By DAVE SALYERS Presenting a play that kept scenery and lighting effects up to the best, "Pettycoat Fever" last night in the theatre on Euclid avenue.

This casting unit in the production is rather evident to those accustomed to the theatre's former finesse. As a result, the vehicle sometimes gets beyond control of the cast, although it is obvious that the actors are desperately trying to keep it within the bounds of the comedy. "Pettycoat Fever" concerns the adventures of one Dascombe Dives, a wireless operator who lives in a lonely station on the coast of Labrador. Dascombe has not seen a woman in months and is worst of all, a beautiful woman in two years. Naturally, the appearance of his friend Fenton, a somewhat dim-witted English nobleman, and his betrothed, beautiful Ethel

Annual State High School Basketball Tournament to Get Under Way Thursday

Stephen Foster Vesper Program Presented By Music Honoraries

Members of Phi Beta, honorary musical drama society for women, and Phi Mu Alpha, honorary men's musical fraternity, presented a delightful program of Stephen Collins Foster songs and selected something new and different in vesper concerts Sunday afternoon in Memorial Hall.

Using as a background the lawn of an old Colonial mansion, decorated with flowers and climbing vines, the singers presented 12 of Foster's immortal songs blended into a continuous unit. A tribute to the arrangement of the songs by the singers is the fact that no one voice or number was outstanding but each one rendered in the true spirit of the original.

Seniors Must Order Rings Thursday

ENGINEERS HOLD PLEDGING RITES

Dr. W. S. Webb Delivers Chief Address As Beta Pi Inducts Six Juniors Into Honorary Fraternity

Six juniors in engineering were pledged to Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, at the annual spring exercises held Friday afternoon in Memorial Hall.

The convocation was conducted by Charles Reeves, Tau Beta Pi president. Following an organ prelude, Dr. Webb introduced the prospective pledges must not only have scholastic ability, but must also be of high personal character, integrity, and ability.

After the vespers service, Dr. Webb introduced the general subject of his hobby, archeology, by declaring that every man should have a hobby. The only trouble is that the fall often was the dog, and you have to be careful that your hobby doesn't happen that way," he warned.

The speaker then pointed out that, just as historians must refer to the news of today for the history of tomorrow so must archeologists refer to the physical remains of today to interpret pre-history. Some of the most important "original sources" are the places where men lived.

Dean Jones' House Destroyed By Fire

BRAY, TEHAN, CHEST TO REFEREE GAMES

St. Xavier of Louisville Is Established As Favorite Of Tourney

Sixteen regional champions, the cream of Kentucky basketball teams, will battle in the nineteenth state high school basketball tournament which opens Thursday at 1 p. m. in the Alumni gym.

Prices of admittance for students will be forty and fifty cents when accompanied by ticket books, seventy-five cents for non-students. All box seats will sell for the regular price, one dollar.

Eight games are scheduled for Thursday, five in the afternoon and three at night. The first contests will begin at 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 8, and 9 o'clock. In the quarter final round, two games will be played in the afternoon and two more at night.

The semi-finals will meet Saturday afternoon with the championship still scheduled for Saturday night. The power of Louisville has been established as the pre-tourney favorite to win the basketball crown.

Coach Earl Jones' Mayville five, winner of the highly contested tenth regional at Knoxville, is the only Central Kentucky Conference team remaining in the chase. The Bulldogs defeated the power of M. I. C. in a hard fought battle, 22 to 20.

Only two teams, St. Xavier and Bowling Green, have won previous state championships. Of the 16 teams that competed in last year's tournament, only four were fortunate enough to return to Lexington.

These teams are: Inez, Midway, Newport, and College High, of Bowling Green. A new champion is certain to be crowned as Corbin's five, last year's title holders, were defeated by Knoxville Central, of Barbourville, 28 to 21, in the regional semi-finals.

HERE SHALL THE KERNEL ALL STUDENT RIGHTS MAINTAIN

WELCOME HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS

Displaying basketball ability which The Kernel hopes will later find its way into material for the University team, the regional basketball champions of Kentucky will play for the state championship this Thursday, Friday and Saturday on the Alumni gymnasium floor.

Every spring at this time the best basketball teams of this state gather on this campus for the tournament play. And with the teams come scores of high school students eager to cheer their team on. University students should remember that they are an example to these high school pupils. A cordial word from the University student is appreciated, and should be extended sincerely. They are the future students who will matriculate here.

To the visitors, The Kernel extends a sincere welcome. They come ambitious, eager, loyal in support of their team. The Kernel too shares their enthusiasm. Even though but one team can win the championship, all 16 teams have already proven their athletic superiority. Even though the adage be true, "May the Best Team Win."

CHALLENGE TO THE PRESS

Twenty years ago, when President Eliot of Harvard presented an address in which he happened to mention the word syphilis and gonorrhea, a Boston newspaper, horrified, deleted all reference to the speech. In 1934 the National Broadcasting Company refused to allow medical officers to discuss the subject of venereal diseases over the radio, fearing criticism from listeners.

The fact that venereal diseases affect approximately 10 percent of the United States' population, that syphilis produces death or chronic invalidism in one-fourth of those affected, and that every year there occurs a total of 518,000 fresh adult infections has been known to medical men and social workers, but until recently the public has been neither informed nor offered aid in a forthright manner concerning this first class menace.

Throughout the country today, progressive newspapers are launching campaigns against venereal diseases, presenting information, advice, statistics, and aid to the average reader. Encouraged by Dr. Thomas Parran, head of the U. S. Public Health, surveys revealing the prevalence of venereal diseases, their causes, and cures, are being published in an effort to throw over the taboo concerning these diseases, a taboo which has been responsible for much of the havoc caused by these.

Carl Warren, of the editorial board of the

New York Daily News, which presented one of the most influential and valuable venereal disease campaigns, recently said, "I am convinced that the crusade against venereal diseases, now flaming everywhere, will be the No. 1 health campaign of the next decade and that the press will do its part—as it must do its part if these scourges are to be stamped out. Medical science has had the weapons to conquer syphilis at least for 25 years, but the disease is rampant. Who? Because the enemy has not been brought within the range of those weapons. The doctors cannot win this battle alone. You cannot kill a tiger when he hides in the bushes. Someone must drive him into the open. That is the job of the press, the radio, the screen."

Here is a challenge to newspapers which they must accept if they are to serve their true purpose. Medical science can wipe out venereal diseases if it is given the opportunity. It is up to the press to make that opportunity, to break down the taboo which is barring progress, to make the public take action against the menace which is so prevalent in the United States today.

CUTTIN' UP THE CAMPUS with THEO NADELSTEIN

CAMPUSOUNDS:

In White hall—"If it isn't too inconvenient, could you lend me my book for tonight?"

In Neville hall—"The only thing she ever gave anybody was an idea!"

In the Commons—"I'd pin her, only I'm afraid there's a chance of scratching my hand."

In the Library—"Let's you and me get my accounting."

In a Chem lab—"Sure I told her I've been seeing her in my dreams. I just didn't mention that I'm being troubled with nightmares, lately!"

In Frazer hall—"He thought he was in love because he couldn't sleep and couldn't eat, and fed bad all the time. He was terribly disappointed when all he got was the flu!"

DON'T LOOK NOW, BUT—that gal you just winked at is your wife!

THEO-RIES:

It must be Spring. The stores are featuring Easter bonnets and Spring prints...

The young men's fancies are wandering...

Everybody is sighing about Spring vacations... Campusaps are cutting classes... It must be Spring!

But Where in the heck does this snow fit in?

UNIVERSITY PIES:

The Campus Sheep—He went all through grade school and high school, doing what his teachers told him and following the herd... Now that he's in college, he's doing the same thing, fighting shy of all sheep with black wool, who don't do what the rest do... He has about as much initiative as a stooged dancing with a chaperone... as much imagination as a cold potato... as much color as an albino in the snow... He's the dummy who votes the way he's ordered for campus elections... and never questions the right and wrong of certain campus traditions... like all sheep he'll let himself be pushed along to the slaughter house... and never think about where he's heading, or why he's being pushed... haaaaa to him!

CAMPUSIGHTS:

1. The nifty truckin' of Bob Davis and Nick Lutz, which has that Harlem something.

2. The mass goodnights between reluctant coeds and even more reluctant swains at 11 p. m. at Boyd hall.

3. The permanent drowser relaxing in the Browning room of the Library.

4. Columnist Ralph Johnson philosophizing in the Commons, in the Kernel office, in the post office, in class.

5. The glassy gaze in stoogers' eyes in 8 o'clock class.

It was doubtless all right to streamline the administrative machine and equip it with a super-high gear, but the majority definitely does not favor discharging the brakes.—Washington Post.

The Dice Of the People

By GEORGE KERLER

In tune with the rumored collegiate trek to the Southern Pacific Archipelago was the SAE South Sea Frong presented at the University of Kentucky last night for your gregariousness and your dancing habits. This was a weekly social riot which strode into happily and abominably but nevertheless enjoyed it from the first to the last measure. The same complacency spout from the entire campus.

To good Thaitians like Lexy Sexy Potter, Van Deren Irvine and myself, the swingers seemed a bit scrupulous to our archimorphic instincts, especially when Carl Moore's merrymakers and your feet shook the sands with such Polynesian ballads as "Let's Go Blumming" and "The Boston Tea Party." Though it was Saturday night a remarkable number of students attended the lectures in the classroom in the basement. Emphasis: there were the SAE's and other select tospots who kept the grass skirt rolling at a maximum.

The South Sea scheme is typical of the SAEian and American tendencies for the original. In this case it clicked perfectly. The Lime-stones lads truly deserve the campus' wink of approval.

South Sea Stomp — idea for a swing composer.

This little Quigley went to market for J. Rice Walker at the SAE Jingle while Lucille Thornton looked out not altogether agreeably. Lime-stones now being stormed by Bob Mefford, has unique talent for unconsciously bombing solid and traditional couplets said the voice of experience.

So let's baptize her, Happy Romance Demolisher No. 1.

Activities who play the role of semi-Attila during Hell Week receive admirable vengeance from the frosh when the Seven Day Suffering ends.

Examples: Dell John Chambers, goader extraordinary, was thrown into an automobile by the DTD pledges and was carried 82 miles down in the mountains, kicked out and left to thumb his way home.

The Sigma Nu tyros were less cruel to their chief irritator. They threw The Goo, Wimmer Leonard, into the cold shower tuxedo and all. Both Chambers and Leonard were in strange places.

Among the bibliophiles... In addition to being an academic problem, the library has become a social puzzle. Should you want to ascend to the fourth floor via the elevator you'll have to walk. Why?

Every time we get a juicy story it turns out to be a fat product of gossip evolution. Surely, by now, you have been astonished or heart broken by the news of Bardston Red Symptom's lawful linkage with KD Tilly Denton. It is untrue. The fable follows:

After January graduation Red went to Florida. So did Tilly. They met at Hialeah Park and Tilly won $5 on a horse race. The dough and Red's eagerness resulted in marriage at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

We can imagine what happened. Tilly probably won a $2.60 show bet.

and yet we howled "We're the champs." Joe suggests that we can sympathize with Georgia Tech for they are in the same plight now as we were last year.

The man is right. Banner Banalities: Bob Cole and Don Eckler plus other SAE hecklers attempted to invade the Alpbegum fortress after the dance but the defenders successfully discouraged them... Collegians, like all Main Streeters, despise a change of custom. That's why Harry Kramer's top hat is in constant jeopardy. He hadn't passed the first table in Brunfield's before a $2 bet was made that Kramer's stovepipe would meet destruction before he left. Mildred Marlin sensed the hat hatred and became its warden, so Harry wore his lid to the dance... Lucy Anderson swished into the dance with Pop Mansfield and galloped out on the arm of another. Which prove, Pop, never be naughty when there are good little boys around... Rice Walker swayed the fifth no-break (Continued on Page Three)

Vice of the People

Beta Chi of Kappa Kappa Gamma claims she never met him before. "Jack 'Doorknob' Baker also likes to be with the former Boyd Hall diplomat, Betty Mitchell. In practice for something or other, Jane Goodwin and Betty Ernes Nunn cooked Sunday dinner for 30 Chios. Bob Yates and Company left the Paddock Sunday gracefully. About 30 seconds later he came racing back, plunged into Zev's stall, and with a relieved look hurried out clutching a candlestick named Vat 69. At the local Hula-hula Helen Farmer's rhapsody began, "How would I look in a grass skirt." The speculation is boundless. Walter Blotts and Sue Taylor have become a courting combination. The cloud that Sid Buckley floats around on is named Jean Barker. Alice Wood

Step out in the Fashion Parade with Lexington Laundry Dry Cleaned Clothes

It's a wise economy to keep your present clothes looking better and lasting longer. That "just out of the bandbox" air doesn't necessarily mean a lot of new clothes. It need only mean keeping your present clothes in tiptop condition. And that's what a superior dry cleaning process like Lexington Laundry really does — what "price only" cleaning can never do.

Restoring the fresh, original crispness of your garments is almost like buying new clothes. You'll be amazed at the new feel of the fabrics, at their clean look, at the way all dust and dirt (even when ground in) have been removed, along with germs. When you compare results, you will quickly agree that our service is best.

Ruby Keeler says:

"Luckies are a light smoke that treat a tender throat right"

"In a way, it's easier to keep in condition as a dancer than as a singer. Exercise can keep the muscles in shape, but there are a lot of things that can go wrong with the voice and throat. It stands to reason, then, that any actress wants a cigarette that is gentle and strikes the right note with her throat. I started smoking Luckies 4 years ago. They're a light smoke that treat a tender throat right."

THE FINEST TOBACCOS— "THE CREAM OF THE CROP"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Keeler verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

Seeing Sport Stuff

By TOM WATKINS

THE WORK-INURED FLOOR of the Alumni gym will take another beating this week-end when the Kentucky State High School Tournament convenes for its annual meeting. Coaches will age visibly, directors will sprout more gray hair, and the arena will resound once more with the enthusiastic cheers of high school students. The dreams of young hopefuls of the hardwood will become realities or illusions. Sophisticated collegians will join their younger brethren in cheering on the cohorts of their old alma maters. Such is the panorama of this ancient and colorful pageant, which lends a touch of the spectacular to an otherwise drab close of the season.

Sixteen teams will enter the arena with high hopes for the championship this year, four of whom contended here last year. College High of Bowling Green, Newport, Inez, and Midway survived the pounding of both the regional and the district tournaments to enter the state classic. Corbin High's Redhounds, last year's champions, will be conspicuous by their absence, having been eliminated in the regional. The remaining twelve berths will be occupied by quietists that have been here before, some of them champions of years gone by. Such teams as Hazard, Horse Cave, St. Xavier, Maysville, and others well known to Central Kentucky sports fans will try to oust the four contenders of last year, and it is this column's opinion that only one of the four will survive to enter the semi-finals.

Represented by Capt. Ben Willis and Dave Rogan, the Wildcat track team annexed one lone point in the Central Intercollegiate conference indoor track meet, held last week in South Bend. This one point was scored by Rogan, who placed fifth in the 880-yard run. He was also entered in the mile run, while Willis was a contender in the 60-yard dash and the 65-yard low hurdles. The meet title was won by Notre Dame, whose Gregg Elsbroke the conference mile record. Kentucky's thinlins are entering stiff competition when they enter a meet like this, and they showed up well.

Due to inclement weather, the majority of the sessions of spring football practice were held inside the gymnasium last week by the varsity. Basketballers have given up the hardwood and reported for football, among who are captain-elect Joe Hagan, Bob Davis, and Walter Hodge, who is at present hampered by injuries.

Collegiate cheering sections might take a lesson from the enthusiastic roars of high school sections when the State tournament convenes this week. These tireless rooters set up a roar of approbation when their favorites enter the arena, and are never silent until those favorites leave the floor in victory or defeat. The listless cheers of collegiate sections show a comparison that is highly detrimental to the adherents of college teams.
