WILDCATS ANNHILATE VOLUNTEERS IN OVERTIME PERIOD, 36-32

Ellis Johnson, Hurt, Will Not Play in Game With W. & L., Friday

SPICER CONTINUES SPREE OF SCORING

Coach Rupp is Preparing Big Blue for Tilt With Generals

Kentucky's five Wildcats got snarling on... in their seven games, the Wildcats annihilated the Tennessee Volunteers at Knoxville last Saturday night 36-32 in an overtime game.

Spicer defeated Tennessee a few weeks ago, but it was an uphill battle for the winners during the entire contest. It will be remembered that last year's great tilt to the Vols in an overtime game.

Though the Wildcats were undefeated, the victory was a big surprise for local fans. They defeated the Big Blue camp for an undefeated season.

Kentucky had their own way in the Tennessee fracas, leading 27-4 at the half. The sensational work of Greenmont kept the opposition in the running and forced the game into an overtime session.

Carey Spicer continued his scoring spree for the season. Spicer came from apparent obscurity to clinch sixth place by his amazing work in the Vanderbilt game. Scoring 14 points against the Vols gives him a ranking behind Perkins of Georgia Tech.

Coach Rupp and his men are hard at work preparing for the Washington and Lee invasion. This game is the basketball classic of the year. Whether the Virginians are on top of the conference or the bottom as they are now, the glamour and spirit of Washington and Lee-Kentucky rivalry will always be shown.

Leigh Williams will be back again with four other stars who are expected to fill the Euclid gymnasium. The 1930 team defeated the Generals in an overtime game, 30-29.

The victory over Vanderbilt and Tennessee proves conclusively that Rupp has whipped a great team into shape, and when the conference tournament rolls around in three weeks, Kentucky will be a favored team to win the title.

The line-up and summary: KENTUCKY, 36 TENNESSEE, 32 Spicer (16), ... Faust McGinnis (7), ... Corbett Yates (4), ... Greenmont (2), ... Bronston (7), ... O'Connor Substitutes: Kentucky—Washington (2), ... Lucas.

PUGILISM JOUST PLANS ARE MADE

University of Virginia Arranges Tournament Rings for 16 Teams for Third Annual Meet

The fifth annual Southern Conference boxing tournament will be held February 27 and 28, at the University of Virginia. Five years of pugilism in Dixie colleges have so popularized the sport that the annual tournament is the largest of its kind in the country.

It is so large in fact, that conference officials, recalling that 40 bouts were run on the first day of the 1930 meet, have decided that the tournament will be used this year.

There were 11 teams entered in the tournament last year. Kentucky was one of the three conference schools not competing in the meet.

Sixteen teams will be competing in the coming tourney as that is the limit of teams allowed to enter. Virginia won the first meet in 1927. During the next two years, North Carolina won the ring crown. Florida is the present ring champion.

The individual weight champs are: Bantamweight, J. Hamilton, Florida; Featherweight, F. Russell, Georgia; Welterweight, B. Rainey, Virginia; Lightweight, C. O. Brown, Florida; Middleweight, R. Chapman, V. M. I.; Heavyweight, J. Pizzano, Tulane.

Debate Variety Two debaters from Western Reserve and two from the University of Pittsburgh think they have made a world's record in Pittsburgh by engaging in four debates in one day. Four different types of audiences were confronted: Downtown University Club members, University of Pittsburgh students and faculty, Verona High School students, and a group at the East Liberty Y. M. C. A.

TOGS BRINGS CAP TO GRID VETERANS AS GAMAGE SETS FIRST SPRING DRILL

Although Cheers of 1930 Football Season Continue to Reverberate Throughout McLean Stadium and 12 Stars Are Unable to Return, Strenuous Sessions Are Planned

Although cheers that reverberated through McLean stadium on Stoll field during the 1930 football season have not entirely died away, Coach Harry Gamage starts spring practice tomorrow. Worn by the strain and fatigue of old man examination, players, slowly relaxing from the strenuous 1930 campaign, once again must get back to business and hard work.

Bernie Shively, line coach, has been conducting wrestling classes, in which players will be developing speed and muscle. Frank Seale, Kipping, Aldridge, Humber, Dye, and Noel Engle have been busy getting into condition. It is expected that Gamage will have his boys do some blocking, tackling, and other necessary fundamentals that a player must know. "Spinner" Campbell, backfield coach, is expected to appear here soon to give some time to spring practice.

All freshmen stars of last season and all eligible varsity men will appear in uniform tomorrow. Twelve varsity players are lost from last year's team. They include the two great guards, Capt. L. G. Forquer, and Conrad Rose; Howard Williams, center; Spicer, quarterback; Baughman, tackle; Bronston, and McGinnis, and Gentile, guard; Colker, center; McElroy, fullback; Olie Johnson, tackle, and Louis Toth, halfback.

Some of the stars who are coming back will probably make their initial appearance tomorrow after Capt. Babe Wright, Kipping, and Aldridge, tackle; Andrews, Cavanaugh, and Darby, ends; Frank Seale, and Gibson, centers; Ellis Johnson, quarterback; Kelly, Evans, Urbanak, Foster, Myer, Philips, and Richards, backs.

EIGHT HONORED AT CONVENTION

Master Farmers Are Guests At Banquet Given Tuesday Night by Farm and Home Leaders

More than 300 Kentucky farmers attended the 19th annual state Farm and Home Convention, which was held at the College of Agriculture last week. The meeting was opened at the experiment station farm Tuesday morning for a three-day program dealing with livestock production, cooperative marketing, and farm credit.

Eight master farmers were honored at the convention held Tuesday night at the Lafayette hotel. Each of the eight was presented with a gold medal in recognition of his work in agriculture. The principal address of the evening was delivered by the Rev. John W. Holland, Sr., pastor of the First Baptist church, Paul, Minn., a religious writer for the Christian Science Monitor. President McVey welcomed the master farmers, and Miss Lois P. Dowd, editor of the Home Economics Journal of the Progressive Farmer and the Southern Ruralist, spoke to the wives of the farmers.

The visitors gathered in Memorial hall at 11:30 a. m. Tuesday to hear an address by Alexander Leggett, chairman of the Executive Farm Board. Others who spoke at the general session Tuesday morning were the Rev. C. O. Brown, college agriculture; Rubin Clark, Fayette county farmer; Dr. Robert Graham, head of the department of the University of Illinois; Ralph Sams, manager of the federal intermediate program of Louisville; Prof. E. S. Good, of the College of Agriculture.

All of the 29 counties having extension work were represented at the convention as well as several other counties in which such work is not carried on. The largest delegation was from Christian county, which had 29 enrolled.

The women's meeting was opened Tuesday morning by A. D. Zantzen, director of the National Recreation Association, who directed a musical program. T. R. Bryant, director of extension work at the university, spoke at the opening session on "Woman's Hemisphere." Dr. Margaret Justin, dean of the home economics department at Kansas Agricultural College, outlined plans for the work of rural home makers in Kentucky. Methods of caring for modern textiles were demonstrated by Mrs. Louise Ruston, of New York. The women's guests of the home economics department of the university at a tea and demonstration Tuesday afternoon. Five master farm home makers received recognition at a luncheon Friday at noon.

W. D. FUNKHOUSER MAKES ADDRESS AT GRADUATION

COMMENCEMENT IS FIRST OF MID-YEAR Exercises Are Held in Memorial Hall; Large Crowd Attends Ceremonies

Who shall say which hath chosen the better part? Those graduates who have inhabited the main tents, or the others who have wandered hither and yon under the side-tents, concluded Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, dean of the graduate school of the university, in addressing the graduates at the first mid-year commencement, before a large crowd at 3 p. m. Friday, January 30, 1931 in Memorial Hall.

Dr. Frank L. McVey conferred the degree of bachelor of arts and science on 63 seniors; 1 degree of master of arts and sciences upon 13 graduate students, and conferred upon Virgil Francis Payne the degree of doctor of philosophy in education. Mrs. Lillian Collins Mease was graduated with high distinction and Miss Mary Louise Irvine McDowell and Willis Coleman Wright were graduated "with distinction."

The Rev. Charles W. Riggs, of the Maxwell Christian church, pronounced the invocation, with benediction. Mrs. Frances Arnold Shoup, Mendelsohn's "Dear Ye, I am from the past, following the address. Following the conferring of degrees, President McVey gave the pledge to the senior class.

"As the football coaches are the best professors on our campus," stated Doctor Funkhouser, "the coach must produce results, unlike the regular professor. The success or failure of a student in the classroom and the mistakes of a professor are not held up to public view."

Candidates for the degree of bachelor of arts were Florence Louisa Bicket, Huntington, W. Va.; Charles Alexander Hains, Dry Ridge; Richard Clinton Brewer, Lexington; William Henderson Durrant, Ashland, Ky.; William D. Trot, L. G. Forquer, Jr., Carlye W. Schurmever, Kenneth A. Howe, and Ralph G. Woodall.

Candidates for the degree of bachelor of arts were Florence Louisa Bicket, Huntington, W. Va.; Charles Alexander Hains, Dry Ridge; Richard Clinton Brewer, Lexington; William Henderson Durrant, Ashland, Ky.; William D. Trot, L. G. Forquer, Jr., Carlye W. Schurmever, Kenneth A. Howe, and Ralph G. Woodall.

The usual rule of opening rush for the various fraternities on the campus will again be followed this morning. Rushing is to be controlled by the university and pledges will be given their pledges and their names will be turned over to the fraternities on Monday.

Sorsberg Exhibit To Close Thursday

The art exhibit of the paintings and drawings by Elmer Sorsberg now on display at the art center will close Thursday. Mr. Edward Rannels, head of the art department of the university, advises that all who can attend should do so as the exhibit is well worth while.

Beginning Friday there will be an exhibit of paintings and drawings by students of the department. Among the paintings is a still life painted by Norman Hunt. His painting won first award at the exhibition held in New York last fall by the College Art Association.

"Cageon", Native of Louisiana Swampland, Arrives On Campus to Cast Lot With Wildcats of Kentucky

By ED CONBOY After long delays, months of deliberations, and inability to find such a specie, word comes that the new wildcat has arrived. "Cageon" is the fourth member of a native of the Louisiana swampland.

The new wildcat will be officially named sometime next week when Sukey circled them. Since he is a low type of Louisiana feline, the name of "Cageon" might appropriately fit him.

The story of wildcats of the university athletic teams is a tale of woe of trials and tribulations for both the cat and the owner. "Cageon" is the fourth member of the U. K.

Three wildcats have come and gone—they have got the woe of all flesh—they died—either broken hearted over indifferent football teams—or committed suicide. "N. N." the first cat, disgusted with the success of Kentucky teams, died of grief. So, we come to "Puzzy" who hanged himself to rid himself of all earthly woe.

The last cat to go away was "Spitfire" who departed this life before the past season was under way. He must have had visions of his future residence at that abode.

KENTUCKY PRESS GROUP ELECTS OVERT AS PRESIDENT AT CONCLUDING SESSION

Editors at Convention Are Guests of Kernel for Luncheon at University Commons; Resolutions Include Appreciation of Work of Prof. Enoch Grehan and Prof. V. R. Portmann

Joe T. Lovett, editor of the Murray Times-Leader and former member of the Kernel staff, was elected president of the Kentucky Press Association at the closing meeting of the annual two-day convention held in Dicker hall Friday and Saturday. Mr. Lovett will succeed Henderson Evans, publisher of the Louisville Sun, also a former member of the Kernel staff.

The editors were the guests of the Kernel for luncheon in the University Commons, at noon Saturday. Miss Frances L. Holiday, managing editor of the Kernel, presided as toastmaster and introduced members of the Kernel staff. The luncheon was held in the presence of the Kernel staff.

The convention was opened by President Evans at 9 o'clock Friday morning. The Rev. H. H. Daugherty, of Lexington, pronounced the invocation. A round table discussion on "Circulation Audits," led by W. Clement Moore, of the Wolf and Co., Philadelphia, followed the invocation.

Members of the association were the guests of the university for a luncheon in the University Commons, at noon Friday. President Frank L. McVey spoke at the luncheon and welcomed the group to the university.

The afternoon meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock and a round table discussion of "Newspaper Accounting and Office Management" was led by Mr. Moore and Herman Roe, Northfield, Minn., field director of the National Editorial association.

Mud Is in Store Groundhog, Seeing Shadow, May Bring Rain

According to the traditions handed down to the present generations in the past, students of the university will have to tread muddy walks for six weeks longer. Not that the snows lack anything about conditions of the walks on the university campus. That is not the assumption. But those ancient legends claimed to know, much about the profession of weather forecasting.

Yesterday was groundhog day. It is the day when the groundhog comes out of his hole to see his shadow. If that sleepy-headed individual of the underworld should see his shadow when he removes himself from his winter abode on noon time on the second day of February, it is believed that winter will be over and spring will be here.

However, since it hasn't rained for months in the Bluegrass, mud is likely to be less conspicuous. If the fact that the groundhog is able to see his shadow will cause it to rain in the Bluegrass, then Kentuckians may thank their lucky stars that the clouds cleared away and left a blue sky on February 2.

UK Rifle Teams Lose Five Tilts In Late Matches

One victory and two defeats were suffered by the university Varsity Rifle team, while the R. O. T. C. team, which has been undefeated in the recent matches ending January 24.

The shooting of both teams was not up to par. The Varsity team was defeated by the New York Stock Exchange and the University of Cincinnati, but defeated Washington University. The R. O. T. C. team was defeated by the University of Washington, Oregon State A. C. College, and Dayton university.

Results of the two matches were: University of Kentucky Varsity team ... 3468 New York Stock Exchange ... 3611 University of Cincinnati ... 3563 Washington University ... 3430 University of Kentucky R. O. T. C. team absent (1) An envelope which contains more ballots than the number of men present in the section will be declared elected. (2) When one girl is a candidate for more than one office and is elected to none, she will be required to choose at once, the office she prefers; and will thereupon be declared as elected to that office. The candidate receiving the next highest number of votes will be declared elected. Second semester classes will begin at 8 a. m. Wednesday morning, April 8. Students are requested to report to their classes at the first meeting. Failure to do so will result in cuts for those who are absent. Students who are absent will be accepted as excuse for absences.

IT BENS WALLOP LOUISVILLE, 42-22

Led by an all-state high school forward, George Wallop, who scored 13 points, Kentucky freshmen outwalloped the University of Louisville frosh, 42-22.

After a slow and ragged first half, the locals came back strong and won it all. Kervelval also starred for the Kittens while Judy showed best for the losers.

The freshmen have won two games and lost two. They defeated Wesleyan a few weeks ago in a one-sided game and were noosed out by Eastern Normal, 28-24 at Richmond.

The lineup and summary: Kentucky (42) ... Louisville (22) ... Wallop (13), ... Kervelval (10), ... Judy (10), ... Miller (8), ... Settle (6), ... Blair (1), ... Wright (Referee)—Bernie Shively.

Heads of Journalism Prof. Robert Murphy of the University of Illinois is the new president of the American Association of Heads of Journalism. Prof. Ralph D. Chase of the University of Minnesota was chosen president of the Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism. Prof. H. H. Herbert of the University of Oklahoma is secretary of both associations.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon has voted to list its chapters in Oklahoma A. & M., Duke, and Occidental.

THINK FOR YOURSELF

College is the formative period in the development of the tendencies and actions of the cultured mind. Thinkers are divided into three common classes; those who permit designing persons to think for them and to dictate their decisions; those who neither think for themselves nor have anyone to think for them, and those who make their decisions, and make them after having given due consideration to surrounding conditions, considering the advice which has been offered them and deciding for themselves.

Decisions which are made in college, especially those concerning the future, have a strong influence on a person's life. Many students have parents who are adhering to the ancient idea of "like father, like son" professionally. This idea should be relegated to the corridors of memory along with corsets, bustles, and celluloid collars—they are all equally useful today.

Furthermore, people attending college should recognize this fact before they find themselves going through college preparing themselves for a future to which they are not suited. When such a future is staring you in the face, think for yourself—because if you do not, you will go through life acting and responding to the dictates of others, and the future will be empty for you.

Every individual has certain abilities and interests which are inherent parts to his personality. These should be cultivated, for it is in these abilities that a happy and profitable future lies. If they lie latent and unutilized, a feeling of regret will always dominate the successes and failures which one normally encounters in life. If you follow the dictates of someone else you will find, in the final analysis, that you have neither pleased nor provided a means of happiness for yourself. Commitment does not lie in a job in which you cannot conscientiously place your best efforts.

For the drifter, who neither thinks for himself nor has someone to think for him, there can be no future. He is not worth wasting any more thought upon than he himself wastes on others. When his days of collegiate idleness are over he will be an unprepared, shiftless, incapable and an utterly worthless individual who neither gives anything to life nor receives anything from it.

Think for yourself. Prepare yourself to give and receive from life in equal measure. Now is the time for you to choose which type of person you will be throughout life. Registration is in process, and when you register consider your goal, choose the future which you prefer and govern your curriculum by your choice. Success can only be measured in terms of contentment. Take advice and decide the matter for yourself, then you can concentrate your efforts on that work which will bring you a sense of satisfaction and success.

ACTIVITIES

The beginning of a semester means just another registration for many students, but for some it is a beginning, a new year's day in their scholastic world, and an occasion for inventories and resolutions. New students come to the university, wondering what they will do when they get here. Those who have been here before reflect upon the work they have done and plunged into the life of the world.

They are deriving all the benefits from their university career which such a life should give to them. They feel sometimes that they are missing something, the nature of which they will not fully understand until they have passed from the gates of their college Utopia and plunged into the life of the world.

What is it that these students have failed to get? What else should they derive from their college training? Is it the ability to drink their shares of cocktails? Is it the ability to beat their way through life with the least possible mental and physical exertion, or is it the ability to dress and to add such superficial airs to their person that they may be regarded as above the ordinary individuals whom they meet in the street? No! It is none of these things. It is not toward such goals that the real student strives.

But there is something which a university offers which many students fail to get because they fail to take advantage of opportunities which college offers. There is an activity on the campus for every student, regardless of his particular ability. The value of activities is in direct proportion to the good intentions and the good judgment which a student possesses and uses. They give meaning to the student which he can not obtain elsewhere. They are teachers in the school of experience.

Those who hope to be successful in life must know life; those who hope to work with people must learn something about people. Everyone is expected to know something of the society about him. The student who has cultivated extra-curricular activities while in college will find less difficulty in adapting himself to life outside the college world.

What is it that many students fail to get from their college life? What is it that causes securing a complete education? It is activity, proper activity, which develops their inner selves, causes them to expand and brings them a certain amount of repose, confidence, and versatility. It is such activity in college which will enable them to adapt themselves to the life which they aspire to live.

REMEMBER THE CUTS

Last semester a great many students were unfortunate enough to think that absences were not counted in classes until they had completed registration and until cards from the registrar had been sent to their several instructors. Let us remember that according to the absence ruling, which is now in effect, that absences are counted beginning with the first registration of every class. If you happen to be late in registering, do not be so intentionally for instead of receiving a few days of illegal holiday you will receive a few days of legal absences.

Spring is the hardest time of the year for students to attend classes faithfully. Cutting is far from uncommon when warm weather arrives, for spring fever is really the only good excuse a collegian can find to offer for such deviations from the straight and narrow path. The beginning of the second semester is not the time to start plugging up cuts. If cuts are essential, please save them until there is some half-way excuse. The professors will appreciate starting the semester correctly and you will appreciate the fact that you do not have an excess of cuts accumulated from the first part of the semester.

SPRING HOUSECLEANING

Shrive all your old grades up like dried apples and hang them in the best place—the cobwebs from the notes, notions, and neglected ideas in your textbooks. Sweep the remnants of old arguments, dances and dates from your mind, and so after new ones. Last season's accessories are out of style for this semester, so discard them and begin again.

Start your new semester discarded were made last term; and the worthwhile grades had been carefully put away. Trivial class experiences—public approval or reprimand from the instructor, the cheating you saw someone else do, the biased idea you conceived early in the course about its value or the instructor's ability—all these must be burned or buried before you will derive any benefit from your study. That cute little freshman you met home-coming week sure could wrap a line right around a fellow's neck but her eyes were no bluer than the doll you courted last night, so forget her.

Nothing is so stagnant or useless as the student who does not periodically search the wilderness of mind for broken twigs, fallen leaves, and crooked saplings; and then after piling them on the rubbish heap, jump up with a shout and rush on to new cultivations. Wipe the slate clean for the new grades that will be written there; bend back the chemistry book in the middle and forget the wicker acid on its first pages; turn over a new leaf in the date book, and sharpen a pencil for what is to come.

THE KENTUCKY PRESS ASSOCIATION

The meeting of the Kentucky Press Association which does not end is one of the really significant events of the year at the university. Worthwhile as a convulse of the state's editors, it is eminently important as a means of promotion of friendship between the university as an organization and the citizens of Kentucky. Representatives from the Purchase, the Knobs, the Pennyrile—independents from all sections of the commonwealth—were in assembly, and together viewed the work being done by the faculty and student body. Needs of the university, in buildings, equipment and appropriations, became evident to those present at the meeting. A feeling of good-will was created and bonds of friendship were welded. Fully cognizant of the proverbial power of the press, the Kernel looks upon the recent meeting of these editors as a particularly important one. The Kernel wishes to extend its congratulations to the members of the journalism department for their part in the promotion of this meeting, and especially wishes to extend to the Kentucky Press Association a sincere invitation to make the university its "camping grounds" as many such meetings as it may desire.

USED BOOKS

In the past students have been compelled to buy new books ever semester unless they just happened to come upon someone who had a second-hand book for sale. Second-hand books were almost as impossible to find as second-hand notebooks are at the end of a semester. At the end of each course every student has accumulated numerous books which are of no further use to him and to which he usually clings for a period of time hoping that he will be able to sell them and finally throws away to make space for the new textbooks.

Textbooks are one of the largest items on the college student's budget and when they are thrown away it is like throwing money away. In the past this has been more or less unavoidable, for there was no marketing place for used books. One can neither buy nor sell unless there is a market. This semester there will be a market for used books, the University Book Store. This, in our estimation, is the most commendable and progressive step which the university has taken toward cooperating with the students, and we hope that the students will cooperate with them and make it one of the most successful enterprises which the university has undertaken.

BOXING TOURNEY TO BE RESUMED

C. W. Hackensmith, Director, Selects Hanson, Hoover, Potter, and Leach to Judge at University Bouts

The intramural boxing tournament will be resumed tomorrow. Twenty-five boxers survived the first rounds which were held before examinations started.

The bouts are in charge of C. W. Hackensmith, director of intramural sports. William Hanson, instructor in the physical education department, will referee the fights. Frank Hoover, of the Herald, Brownie Leach of the Leader, and M. J. Fowler, head of the physical education department, will be the judges.

Two boxers, well known to local fans, will exhibit their wares in the finals which will be held February 14. Bill Luther, heavyweight, will fight "Baldy" Kipping, in another interesting bout.

Many good fights featured the first round, and the second round promises to be replete with plenty of manning and upsets. A gold watch charm will be given to the winner, while the runner-up receives a silver watch charm.

At the completion of this tournament, wrestling will be resumed at the warehouse arena, and the mat kings of the university will be decided.

Carey Spicer Is In Second Place

Carey Spicer, captain and star forward of the Kentucky Wildcats, is in second place in Southern Conference basketball scoring honors. Spicer, the quarterback, who led the South with high scoring honors during the past football season, vaulted into the lead by scoring 27 points against Vanderbilt and continuing the assault against Tennessee with 14 points.

Spicer had just 27 points when the locals met Vandy, and the Big Blue leader doubled that count at Nashville. Alabama, Georgia, and Georgia Tech players continue to lead the van. Only one man surpasses Spicer. He is Perkins, of the Tech aggregation.

The leaders: Perkins, forward, Georgia Tech, 70; Spicer, Kentucky, 68; Strickland, forward, Georgia, 59; Santford center, Georgia, 58; Hood, center, Alabama, 57; W. Laney, guard, Alabama, 57; Moran, forward, Georgia, 52; Coffey, forward, Vanderbilt, 51; Corbit, forward, Tennessee, 50; Gooding, forward, Georgia Tech, 46; McDonald, guard, Tulane, 44; Alton, forward, Alabama, 44; Reeder, forward, Georgia, 43; Jordan, forward, Auburn, 41; Garrison, center, L. S. U., 41.

A student at the University of Minnesota had 12 hours of B during the fall quarter and two hours of FALL. The course, How to Study, was too fast for him.

Arc Welding

Diminishes the Din of Steel Construction to a Whisper

IN Boston—Dallas—Los Angeles—and in other cities, lofty buildings are going up so quietly that the passerby all but stops and strains an ear for the old familiar clangor.

Silently, swiftly, rigidly, economically, arc welding knits steel with joints as strong as the metal itself.

Arc welding is being used more and more in the fabrication of buildings and machinery, the construction of pipe lines and tanks, and as a repair tool of universal utility.

Development of General Electric arc welding has largely been the work of college-trained men. Others of the college men at General Electric are largely responsible for the high reputation won by hundreds of G-E products used in industry and in the home during the last thirty-seven years.

Famous Old Liberty Bell May Ring in Independence Hall, February 22

The famous old Liberty Bell, which so joyously rang to announce the Declaration of Independence and which tolled so sadly when George Washington died at Mount Vernon, may again ring forth from Independence Hall Philadelphia, on Washington's next birthday, February 22, 1931.

Efforts are being made by officials of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission to arrange for a nation-wide radio hook-up on this date and have President Hoover press an electric button in Washington which will start the nation's most historic bell ringing again after a silence of almost one hundred years. It is proposed to have the bell strike thirteen times, once for each of the thirteen original states.

According to noted Philadelphia historians, the last ringing of the bell was on July 8, 1835, in honor of the funeral services of John Marshall, Chief Justice of the United States, who died in Philadelphia on July 6, 1835. While the bell was being solemnly tolled, it suddenly cracked. An attempt was made to repair it in 1846 for the celebration of Washington's birthday ceremonies, but this attempt failed. It is believed, however, that while the cracked bell will not give forth its once famous clarion notes, it will, nevertheless, ring sufficiently to be heard by all radio listeners, if it is tapped thirteen times on the anniversary of Washington's birth next month.

Before it cracked, the Liberty Bell had lived a life of eighty-two useful years and had become one of the most famous bells in the world. All through the Revolutionary War the Liberty Bell was used for the purpose of calling together the inhabitants of the city to learn news from the battlefields. At one time during the war, however, it became necessary to remove the bell hastily from its fastenings and take it out of the city. This exciting event took place on September 19, 1777, when the news came that the British Army was about to occupy Philadelphia. The bell was carefully loaded on a wagon and conveyed along with the heavy baggage of the American Army in a supply train of seven hundred wagons, guarded by two hundred North Carolina and Virginia Cavalry, Allentown, Pennsylvania, where it was hidden in Zion's Church until June 27, 1778, when it was taken back to Philadelphia and again placed in Independence Hall.

Never from that time until 1835 did anything of importance happen that was not announced by the ringing of this historic bell. It was joyously rung when the news came of the surrender of Cornwallis to General Washington, which ended the Revolution.

The Liberty Bell has been a great traveler in its day. In fact, it has seen more of the United States than has a majority of the people. In addition to its war-time trip to Allentown, it has made many peacetime journeys.

George Washington's own hearing of the ringing of the Liberty Bell, due to the fact that he spent more time in Philadelphia than any other place except his home State of Virginia. He first there as a member of the Continental Congress. His next official visit was as the presiding officer of the Convention which framed our Constitution. His longest stay in the City of Brotherly Love was as President of the United States from 1790 to 1797.

The history of the Liberty Bell, even before the American Revolution, is an interesting one. In the year 1751 the Assembly of the Province of Pennsylvania decided that the State House at Philadelphia (Independence Hall) needed a new bell. A resolution was passed instructing the superintendent of the building to secure one. The superintendents, Isaac Norris, Thomas Leech and Edward Warner, wrote the following quaint letter to Robert Charles, the Colonial Agent at London:

"Respected Friend, Robert Charles:

"The Assembly having ordered us to procure a bell from England to be purchased for their use, we take the liberty to apply ourselves to thee to get us a good bell, of about two thousand pounds weight, the cost of which we assume may amount to one hundred pounds, sterling, or perhaps with the charges something more.

"We hope and rely on thy care and assistance in this affair, and that thou will procure and forward it by the first good opportunity, our workmen inform us it will be much less trouble to hang the bell before the scaffolds are struck from the building where we intend to place it, which will not be done till the end of next Summer or beginning of the Fall.

"Let the bell be cast by the best workmen, and examined carefully before it is shipped, with the following words well shapen in large letters around it, viz:

"By order of the Assembly of the Province of Pennsylvania for the State House in the City of Philadelphia, 1751."

"And underneath: Proclaim Liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof—Leviticus XXV, 10."

"As we have experienced thy readiness to serve this Province on all occasions, we desire it may be our excuse for this additional trouble, from thy assured friends,

ISAAC NORRIS
THOMAS LEECH
EDWARD WARNER

"Let the package for transportation be examined with particular care and the full value insured thereon."

The careful directions by the superintendents were duly carried out by the Colonial Agent at London. The bell was cast by Thomas Lister, of Whitechapel, London, and reached Philadelphia in August 1752. It, however, was not a success. When placed on trusses in the State House yard for a trial ringing it was soon cracked.

An American firm was now given a chance to see what it could do in the way of producing a satisfactory bell. The name of this firm was Pass & Stow, "two ingenious workmen" of Philadelphia. These two young men broke up the English-made bell, melted the material, added an ounce and a half of American copper to each pound of the old metal to make it less brittle and re-cast it with all the original inscriptions on it, with the exception of the substitution of their own names for that of the London manufacturer and the date and place of the manufacture. Certain defects made a second casting necessary. The bell as it now stands is the result of this second casting. The bell is considerably larger than most people imagine, it being twelve feet in circumference and with a clapper three feet, two inches long.

The early official ringers of this famous bell were: Edward Kelly, from 1753 to 1758; David Edwards, from 1758 to 1758; and Andrew McNair from 1758 to 1776. It was McNair who had the honor of ringing the bell announcing the Declaration of Independence.

Saturday morning, the meeting opened with a round table discussion on "Building up Local Advertising." The discussion was led by Mr. Roe. In the afternoon, a business meeting was held, at which time, the president's annual report was read to the convention. The two-day session closed with the election of officers and an open meeting at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Other officers who were elected were James T. Norris, Ashland Daily Independent, vice president, and Lawrence W. Hager, Owensboro, chairman of the executive committee. J. Curtis Aleock, Danville Daily Messenger, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Talented Musicians Appear at Vespers

Professor Lampert Plays Own Composition at Program in Memorial Hall

Professor Carl Lampert, composer and head of the music department at the university, appeared with several other artists on the university vesper program in Memorial Hall Sunday afternoon. The program included performances by Mrs. William H. Hansen, soprano, and Miss Virginia Tyler, organist.

Professor Lampert, long active in musical affairs of the city and the university, is a violinist and conductor of the university philharmonic orchestra. His appearance Sunday was in the dual role of composer and soloist since he used one of his own compositions.

Mrs. Hansen, soloist at the Second Presbyterian church and for the past two years president of the McDowell Club, has been identified with musical activities in Lexington for some time. She is also a member of Phi Beta, national musical sorority.

Miss Tyler is organist at the Maxwell Presbyterian church and is a noted piano teacher. She is past president of the McDowell Club and is active in the work of the Federation of Music Clubs.

Sneers Snickers Scandal By WILLIAM ARDERY

May We Be Queen of the May? In this issue, ladies and gentlemen, we announce our candidacy for the highly distinguished and greatly coveted office of Queen of the May. We stand solidly on our past record and will conduct our campaign in a straight-forward, honest manner. We pledge ourselves to make the annual May Day festivities more entertaining, more interesting, more truly brilliant.

Freedom of the Press We believe that the eds and etes have either stopped reading us or are becoming more tolerant. We were not threatened with physical violence but three times during the past semester.

Alpha Tau Omega Two enterprising eds were doing battle with the wobbly by selling sorority back-door keys to the freshmen. Rather a rushing business was done until the verdant ones discovered that the keys did not fit any back door except the one at the Three Triangle house and that it was always open to the freshmen.

The men of business sought other forms of wellhead and finally decided to found a fraternity. Ideas were purchased wholesale from a national organization and were regionalized by the eds and etes. A ritual was drawn up and presented with marching band success. It has recently been altered, however, in order that the athletes might not be concerned about the meaning of the long words.

Throughout its long and uninteresting history the lodge has been noted for its exclusiveness. Its scholastic standing is maintained by the practice of admitting only those men who can read and write, and an idealistic atmosphere is brought about by the exclusion of ex-convicts and Chinese.

Asses: Al Kikel, athletes, proximity to the Chi Omega house. Liabilities: Rebellious freshmen, original dancing, proximity to the Chi Omega house.

Well, Really. Throughout the past semester we have never intentionally injured anyone. We do not mind having people angry with us in the least, but it makes us feel very bad indeed for anyone to think we have taken advantage of him. We are not too utterly ignorant to know that no matter how outraged a fair Kappa might appear, she is inwardly delighted that attention has been called to herself or her organization.

So, with exams gone and forgotten, with hearts broken and mended, with fragrant, warm, beautiful spring not very far away, with lovely girls, with a small but faithful group of friends, with everything to hope for any very little to regret, eagerly we begin the new semester.

Fledging Service Members of Phi Kappa Sigma and Phi Sigma Kappa stood in a circle. A University of Minnesota freshman stood in the center with a coin poised on his thumb nail. The Most Royal Archon of one of the two lodges cried, "Heads." The freshman spun the coin.

"Heads it is," he announced not without a thrill. "Give me the button, it's heads up rubbing that always gets the man." And the brothers who placed their faith on tails slunk away muttering, "Well, we got the twelve best men on the campus any way."

An all-campus badminton tournament is being planned at the University of Michigan.

Sigma Xi, honorary scientific fraternity, recently voted to establish chapters at Harvard and at the University of Pittsburgh.
