Perot support evident at rally in Lexington

By TYRONE BEASON Staff Writer

More than 700 H. Ross Perot sup-porters packed a meeting hall at the Campbell House Inn last night to lend their support to the Texas bil-lionaire's budding presidential cam-paign.

The meeting was held to gather volunteers for the Bluegrass chapter of the Perot Petition Committee for Kentucky

"It's at this grassroots level that candidates should get elected," said Diana Nave, coordinator of the Bluegrass chapter.

"He's demanding that we get back into the political process," she said. "He's making us take respon-sibility for what's going on (in gov-ernment)."

People also like Perot because he voids trivial issues, Nave said.

For Perot to be placed on Ken-tucky's presidential ballot, the peti-tion committee must gather 5,000 signatures and present the petition to the Kentucky Secretary of State.

Perot has promised to spend up to $100 million of his own money if he runs.

"He's demanding some-thing from us," Lexington co-ordinator Diana Nave said Monday night. "People are so eager, so thrilled that they can do something on their own to get a person elected to the White House."

She died Sunday at the UK Medical Center.
Well-known for her loyally to her bosses, she once refused to allow a student government president into Singletary's office during the 1960s. Because of that the Kenteyk Kernel ran an editorial and cartoon criticizing her.
"He didn't have an appointment. It was during that period of all the (anti-Vienam War) demonstrations," she said in a 1979 interview. Wilson had been staff secretary to the UK Board of Trustees and secretary of the Spindletop Hall board and the First United Methodist Church administrative board.

Classical music riding new wave of marketing techniques

By DANIEL J. WAKIN

NEW YORK — She wears a conical bra and flesh-flashing costumes, sings about lust and scandalizes the public.

Madonna?

Madonna:

No — Lesley Garrett, a relatively unknown British soprano whose CD of opera arias was released in the United States last month with the title Dival:

the title Diva!

Tiny, independent record company Silva Screen Records Ltd. has spiced up the package with photographs of a chiffon-draped Garett swooning in cestasy on the cover, lounging in tights against an apartment wall and gazing at the buyer in a low-cut evening gown. All in the service of Mozart, Puccini and Dvorak.

Diva! is the latest release in a new generation of classical music recordings being pushed to a broad-er audience with a new look:

punky, funky and sexy.

"This is just the coming of age of the marketing of classical," enter-tainment analyst Harold Vogel of Merrill Lynch & Co said. "It's quite a logical progression."

a logical progression."

A confluence of matters belped.
Music lovers in their 30s and 40s are used to the hard sell of rock, but are getting older and have reached an age when their musical horizons are expanding. The development of CDs has produced an explosion in new recordings. And marketer have realized the potential of both happening at the same time.

But the genre is a tough sell.

But the genre is a tough sell. Classical music accounted for only 3.9 percent of the 57.8 billion in recorded music sales last year up from 2.6 percent in 1987, according to the Recording Industry Associa-tion of America Inc. Roughly half the total sales are rock in 701 and rap. A successful rock record sells in the millions: a classical hit sells in the time of thousands.

Then there's the problem of attention span.

"How do you tell someone who's brought up on MTV and the three-minute hit songs, "You've got an hour to listen to this Mahler symphony?" said Kewin Copps, and kewin Copps line.'s classical labels Teldee and Endo.

One old strategy to grab new lis-teners is to put out compilations, with a morse of Mozart here, a bit of Beethoven there. Tentative lis-teners can latch onto something they like and then buy the whole work.

Classical labels intensely promote media stars such as Luciano Pavarotti, or they'll pair a classical musician with a performer from another genre, as did Sony on it's recent album coupling cellist Yo-Yo Ma and singer Bobby McFerrin.

"You're always fighting the dol-lars for pop and country," said Diet-er Wilkinson, classical and jazz they really are, and result for buyer for Musicland Group of Min-neapolis, Minn., which owns the Sam Goody and Musicland chains of 900 music stores.

But record companies are push-ing their artists like rock stars more than ever.

There's British violinist Nigel Kennedy with his gold earring and unshaven face. His recording of Vi-valdi's Four Seasons for EMI Clas-sics has sold 1 million copies worldwide and 60,000 in the United States, phenomenal figures for a classical music record.

The Kronos string quartet is fa-mous for its off-beat repertoire and spiky-haired punk persona. A vocal trio specializing in Renaissance mu-sic calls itself Miranda Sex Garden. Soprano Dawn Upshaw's Grammy-winning release this year is called The Girl With the Orange Lips.

"The record company is being smart enough to say, 'Hey, this art-ist has an interesting personality,'" Copps said.

For her part, Garrett says she'll do whatever it takes to spread opera to the masses.

"Might the formality of the presentation, the penguin suits, be a turn-off? I think it is," said Garrett, a leading soprano at the English National Opera.

National Opera.

She said her album cover pose represents "the way I always felt inside about opera. It's ecstasy. It's joy, abandon, sheer pleasure," said the boisterous singer, who was interviewed at Silval's sparsely furnished midtown office in a building next to the Circus Cinema Triple XXX movie theater.

Some in the industry fear a back-lash against pop-marketing from traditional, hard-core collectors who are turned off by trendy imag-es. And the critics can get exer-cised.

"A lot of guys are waiting with carving knives because of (Kenne-dy's) image," said Gilbert Hether-wick, sales vice president for EMI Classics.

Nor does casting a wider net through pop-marketing mean record companies will convert large num-bers of listeners into longtime con-

On the other hand, whatever the image of Kennedy, Kronos and Garrett, they are fine musicians with legitimate artistry, however packaged. Presumably, knowledgeable buyers will recognize this.

Silva Screen owner Reynold D'Silva admits he "doesn't have a clue about open" or how to sell it. He plans to push Garrett like a pon star, or radio stations and television entertainment programs, with T-shirts, cut-out images in record stores and handbills (in front of New York's staid Metropolitan Opera, for example).

There's even a Diva! promotional video. "Basically, our brief to the film director was, "Think MTV," said D'Silva. The Diva! CD is issued under the company's Silva America label and distributed by His methods were successful in England. Since its October release there, Diva! has been in the top 20 of Music Week's classical charts, with nearly 20,000 copies sold, D'Silva said.

Garrett already had created a stir in London with an ENO production of Die Fledermaus, in which she wore the kind of cone-shaped bra popularized by Madonna — for whom she expresses admiration — and briefly stripped nude on stage.

The 23rd-ranked Bat Cats wasted no time in jumping all over Southern Illinois' pitching, turning a 1-0 deficit into a 12-1 lead in a marathon one-hour first inning.

Every UK batter reached first base in the first inning, as 16 batters were sent to the plate. After two walks to start the inning, Brad Hinwalks to start the liming, Brad Find-dersman started the hit parade with an RBI double to left field, fol-lowed by a Jan Weisberg single.

After a Jeff Norman strikeout, the Salukis self-destructed. Greg Mercer was hit by Saluki starter Bob Richardson, who then walked Pookie Jones. Richardson then misplayed a Billy Thompson shot that scored another.

Two batters later, Abbott nailed a three-run dinger off a Richardson fastball. A single and a Saluki error followed, and then Norman redeemed himself with a two-run double.

Southern Illinois' Richardson looked more like Bob Uecker yesterday, and his linescore may give him nightmares for weeks to come: one-third of an inning, eight hits, three walks, one wild pitch, one hit batsman and 12 runs, 11 earned. That's a 297 ERA, if you're won-"Lately, I've been getting good pitches to hit, and I've been taking advantage of it," he said.

Abbott said the outpouring of runs was a result of last weekend's series with Tennessee, who swept the Cats.

"We were really frustrated from this weekend," he said. "Nobody really had a good pitch to hit the ball. So I guess we took it out on Southern Illinois because we were really determined to get some hits."

Despite the offensive explosion, UK's defense was less than spectacular. Starter Jason Jenkins struggled, giving up five runs in as many innings, but held on for his third

"When you get a big lead like that it's easy to let down." Butler said. "You've got to try to play the game instead of playing the score."

The Bat Cats were able to rest many of their starters and move people around because of the huge lead. Pitcher Rodney Henderson, who figures to start a game in this weekend's big SEC clash with Florida, got in an inning of work in the eighth, striking out one.

Hindersman said yesterday's game showed the Cats would be ready for Florida despite the losses

"I don't think anybody on the team is down at all," he said. "Just because they're the Florida Gators doesn't mean they're any better than us."

Students should help University 'Pack the Stacks'

When imagining a library, many students think of the confusing and endless corridors that lead nowhere and jumbled stacks of books that fill Margaret I. King Library.

Now think of a brand new $58 million library with books that are organized. It contains proper lighting and provides a quiet place to sit and study. This, the new UK library, could be a reality if enough funds are raised. Students can help with fund-raising efforts.

The Student Library Endowment Committee, under the leadership of Erica McDonald, has done a great job of soliciting donations from students all semester. While they have worked very hard, more students must be willing to contribute for the project to be successful.

And although the library is open to all Kentuckians, UK students will take advantage of the facilities on a daily basis.

Students with questions about the library campaign should call the Pack the Stacks campaign headquarters at 257-PACK. Mail dona-tions to Pack the Stacks. University of Kentucky, 218 William T. Sturgill Development Building, Lexington, Ky., 40506-0015.

All the fraternities in the South are trying to adapt to encourage discussion of the demographics of their present and past membership. But because of the demographics of their present and past membership it may be intimidating for minority students to become involved with them. While Pi Lambda Phi was the first-ever founded on the idea of diversity, it may be less intimidating for minority students to attempt membership and it definitely would be a compliment to the overall portfolio of greeks presently at UK. The reason we are attempting to come to UK's campus at this time has to do mainly with the intense debate going on about racism amidst the greek system. We feel that it is hard for an IFC to do anything about racial preferences of its members because greeks legally are allowed to be discriminatory. One of the only things that can be done is to begin accepting fraternities that are representative of what the students and administration want.

Democracy must be defined today

with former California GoV. Jer-y Brown in the presidential race ctually talking about democracy, I ave been thinking lately just what means now for us as Americans.

As a country that considers itself as springing from a rich heritage of democracy, I wonder how profoundly we understand it and actually support it. With democracy breaking out all over the globe to overcome oppression, it never has been more vital that we do so.

In spite of ourselves, we have been presented with a golden opportunity to elevate the quality of life on this planet. To be able to lead this current wave of enlightenment, we must understand what democracy means to us, our heritage and our future. Do we meet this crierion at the present? I fear not should hold a constitutional convention.

Clearly, the world was changing then and clearly it has continued to change at an even greater rate. The founding fathers never could have imagined such things as corporations, the assembly line, computer networks, public relations firms, television or political action committees.

ready powerful. All available facts constituting historical evidence indicate the rich have gotten richer at the expense of the poor. It does not seem hard for me to believe that they have dominated government and successfully discouraged public participation in fundamental decisions both in government and out.

sons boom in government and out.

I see on television a "public service message" from cable telling us most disfavor public financing of campaigns. Is it really so hard to believe Brown's message that something has gone wrong with our democracy?

More than 200 years have elapsed since the American Revolution launched our experiment in democratic government. For a time, we were rightfully seen as leaders of democratic hopes.

of democratic hopes.

We first must accept that there is a need to expand democratic participation in the economic and political sectors which are inseparable. The best chance we have to do that mow is Brown's WE THE PEOPLE movement. It could be the start of justifying our democratic tradition. It will take a resurgence of democratic participation to break down the elite barriers to such needs as a new health care system. Brown is saying that a nation of political dropouts will not keep democratic hopes alive.

If we can't do it ourselves, this

If we can't do it ourselves, this potentially great nation likely will not be a beacon of democratic hope for anyone else.

The committee expects to obtain the required number of signatures in 14 to 21 days. Nave said Kentucky could be only the second state in the union to get Perot on its November presidential ballot.

Ed Clark, a self-proclaimed "old-er" Perot supporter, said Perot is important because he appeals to the "none-of-the above voter."

"There's a silent vote in this country that hasn't been heard from in years," said Clark, a resident of Jessamine County. "He'll hurt President Bush's numbers, but he'll devastate the Democrats."

Many Americans have lost faith in politicians and political parties, Bluegrass chapter member James Peck said. They want "someone to come in that you can trust," he said. Perot is the ideal alternative.

"Looking at his history, Perot's done pretty much what he said he would do," Peck said. "He's a hands-on type of person, and that's what Americans are looking for. He has an uphil struggle, but he doesn't mind fighting the battle."

Peck said he supports Perot al-though he does not know where Perot stands on several issues, such as foreign policy.

Perot supporters at the meeting were given a two-page biography of the potential presidential candidate but no information about political

However, because so many Americans are frustrated with the Democratic and Republican parties, Perot still will have broad support by November, she said.

The popularity of Perot signifies a new public interest in politics and government, said Charles Helle-busch, coordinator of Kentucky's Perot Petition Committee.

"There's something in the air and you can tell it in this room ... folks want to do some work," Hellebusch said. "We are all part of a real his-torical process. There is change tak-ing place all across America.

Hellebusch said Perot will make statement about his candidacy in

A rally similar to the one at the Campbell House Inn will be held today in Owensboro.

Signatures from more than 1,000 registered voters in Owensboro were collected last week. The campaign, registered officially as the Perot Petition Committee of Kentucky, must collect 5,000 signatures by Aug. 27 for Perot's name to appear on the ballot in November.

"Now the emergence of Mr. Per-pear on the ballot in November.

"Now the emergence of Mr. Perot as a strong independent candidate has shaken people out of their apathy and provided voters with a viable alternative," Nave said Monday at a news conference announcing the new Fayette County office.
To kick off Perot's campaign in Central Kentucky, his supporters held a rally last night at Lexington's Campbell House.

Tomorrow, volunteers at the of-fice will gather signatures, answer questions and telephones and regis-ter voters.

Like many Perot supports in Ken-tucky and nationwide, Nave never has participated in a political cam-paign until now.

"I think he can make a difference because he's tapping into what we're feeling out here," she said. "You've got the pollsters telling people what we're feeling, but it isn't what we're feeling at all."

She said Perot addresses what's important — the mounting federal deficit, foundering school systems and other issues.

Kentuckians scramble to meet tax deadline

Nearly a quarter-million Ken-tuckians are putting off the inevita-ble as long as possible. They have until midnight to night to file their 1992 tax returns.

As of April 4, the Internal Reve-nue Service had received 960,700 returns from Kentuckians, said Bruce Dillman, a public affairs spe-cialist at the Louisville office. The Louisville district includes all of Kentucky.

Dillman said 1,2 million Ken-

Dillman said 1.2 million Kentuckians filed federal tax returns in 1991.

"It looks like we have a lot of people (waiting until April 15)," Dillman said. "We're expecting a rush, as we always do."

He said people with simple re-turns tend to file early as do those who have refunds. Taxpayers with businesses and people who owe money tend to wait until the end.

John Johnston, district manager of H&R Block, is expecting a nor-mal beat-the-deadline rush.

"All of our offices open at 8 a.m. and close when the last client leaves," Johnston said. "Some people were here until midnight (Sunday) night."

Johnson said that "normally peo-ple who feel they owe or are just procrastinators wait until the last week," he said. "We'll see some large refunds this week."

A growing number of people filed early to take advantage of quick refunds. Several tax services arrange bank loans for customers in anticipation of their tax refunds. David Dillon of Dillon Tax Service said electronic filing and the availability of refund-anticipation loans have moved the peak filing asson from mid-April to early Feb-ruary.

"The trend has swung the other way over the last 15 or 20 years," he said. "People are filing much earlier."

The IRS estimates that 10 million people will file returns electronical-ly this year, up 45 percent over 1991. Dillman said the recession is partly responsible for more people using electronic filing and the loan program.

Leona Helmsley held on to her lavish lifestyle until the end yesterday, when she reported to a federal prison on Tax Day and became simply No. 15113-054.

The 71-year-old hotel magnate, who likes to boast in advertisements that "I won't be treated like another room number," was spirited to Kentucky in her company's Boeing 727 jet before dawn. The plane landed in Louisville, and she arrived at the prison in Lexington at 4:15 and.

"Some of our statistics show that during the next five years, we're going to be spending over $150 billion defending Western Europe. What are we defending them against? There's no longer a Soviet Union."

The new priorities campaign is growing in every major Kentucky city and in every major LS. city, Wells said. A massive public outcy will motivate Congress to act on behalf of domestic concerns. Although protestors yesterday were few in number, thousands of area residents have sent new priority postcards to Washington, he said. Wells said those workers would be trained for "peacetime" jobs.

Keen Babbage, the brother of Kentucky Secretary of State Bob Babbage, said the campaign sup-ports fundamental American values.

"What these priorities are reminding us of is that America has always been a nation that tried to protect the general welfare and common good," said Babbage, who stood in for his brother at the rally.

One of the protest organizers, Richard Mitchell, said redistribu-tion of tax dollars should be a pri-mary issue for the presidential can-didates as well.

"Every man, woman and child in the state of Kentucky pays $1,300 for the military establishment. As a comparison, we spend about $500 on education," said Mitchell, a member of the Central Kentucky Council for Peace and Justice. "I'd like to hear the presidential candi-dates talking about this. The Campaign for New Priorities is not an anti-foreigner movement, Smith said. It is simply an effort to focus attention on the "human needs" of every American.

English dept. gives awards for writing

By TIA SILVERTHORNE

The UK English Department honored its students and faculty yesterday for outstanding writing and dedication to academic excellence.

Steve Weisenburger, director of undergraduate studies, presented the Dantzler-Dantzler Award to senior Tanya Rae Johnson.

Weisenburger described Johnson as "a student (who is) always prepared and answers questions because she has thought about what she has read."

Also honomed during the depart.

Also honored during the department's 11th-Annual Awards Day were Erik Recee and Tom Reynolds. Recee was named Outstanding Teaching Assistant, and Reynolds was named Outstanding Part-Time Instructor.

The Ellershaw Award for a graduate student was given to Jert Kraver, who teaches a course on American Literature.

Tom Hughes, director of UK's Writing Program, said the importance of teachers often is over-looked.

"If the job of teaching is not done, then the job of teaching is not done, then the job of the University is not done," Hughes said. "(Teach-ers) lead (students) to powers and interest they never knew they pos-sessed."

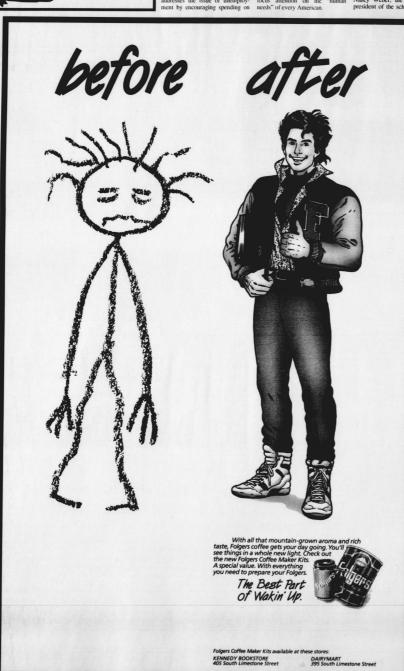

sessed."

Awards also were given for outstanding writing by students. Mercidth Little won for fiction writing; John H. Buzzard for poetry; and Beth Kemper for best critical paper. Hughes presented the Writing Program Awards for work done by students enrolled in English 101, 102, 105 and 203 classes. The recipients of these awards each received a $100 check for their achievements. Their instructors also were honored.

Pete November preparing to face budget cuts

By JOE BRAUN

Student Government Association President-elect Pete November hasn't moved into his Student Cen-ter office yet, but he's already faced with problems surrounding next year's budget cuts.

"After talking to people in the administration for the last week and meeting with different people, the budget is hitting us in the face hard—very quickly and harshly," November said.

He said he believes students need to be informed about cuts, and their input also should be considered when cuts are being decided.

when cuts are being decroed.
"It's important for (SGA) to make sure we know what is being cut," he said. "I think next year (the administration) is going to evaluate the services on campus and decide where cuts need to be made."

November said he has been told by administrators that SGA will have stu-dents sitting on some of the committees that will review student servic-

"Some administra-tors have said they want SGA to opt for students to sit on the committees to evaluate what is important and isn't ... so students will have an input."

He said he plans to appoint him-self to one of the committees.

The transition between SGA President Scott Crosbie and November has "been going great," Crosbie said.

"I have had two or three meetings with Pete and gone over the Senate Council rules, SGA bylaws and constitution and I have also given him a list of about a hundred things he needs to attend to," Crosbie said.

One matter that he has advised November to begin working on early is appointing eone to the student phone directory and negotiating a contract to publish the book.

Crosbie said he has suggested the crime-watch program and the Student Escort Service should be removed from SGA's control. November said he has not made any decisions yet.

November said when the fall se-mester begins, he wants to use bet-ter public relations to make SGA more visible to students.

He said this year "no specific person" was in charge or coordinating public relations for SGA. He said he believes this was a key reason students at UK are uninformed.

"I think it was obvious during the election. People had no clue what SGA had done for them," he said. "Hopefully, (a public relations person) will have some good ideas as to how to let students know what SGA has done."

He said during freshman orienta-ion, as well as at the beginning of the semester, booths will be set up created as a joint effort between SGA Vice President-elect Lea Ann Davenport, several senators, some members of this year's elections board and him.

He has also begun to formulate some ideas surrounding the rewrit ing of the SGA Constitution.

"I would like to have the commit-tee working on (the revision) this summer, and in the fall I would like to begin sending changes through the senate," he said.

NOVEMBER

"I want to spend as little time next year under the current constitu-tion as possible because it obvious-ly doesn't work."

November said he also is in the process of selecting an executive cabinet for next year. Interviews for executive committees were held this week, a. J decisions will be announced next week. The senate must approve November's appointments. He said he will submit his list of committee members, chairmen and his three executive directions.

Senators look back at year when little was accomplished

By BRIAN BENNETT

Quick — Senator at Large Ash-ley Boyd: Name one significant ac-complishment achieved by the Stu-dent Government Association Senate this year.

OK, how about you, Senator at Large Allen Putman? What did the senate do this year?

"Honestly not very much," Put-man replied. "Basically, I think it was a dead year."

The past year in the SGA Senate has been filled with debate, name-calling and criticism, with few actu-al programs affecting students.

Senator at Large Jeremy Bates said the senate has gotten bad pub-licity but has accomplished many "Overall, if you get past all the controversy, I think the senate has done a fine job," Bates said.

Bates mentioned the senate's res-olution that Wallace Wilkinson re-sign from the Board of Trustees, an-other resolution against the mandatory student health insurance law, bringing Spike Lee to campus for a speech and Senator David King's Trade-A-Book-Service pro-gram.

But Wilkinson did not resign, the mandatory health insurance law has not been repeated, the Student Activities Board played a major role in bringing Lee to campus and few students took advan-tage of TABS.

So what did the Senate

"I don't think we've been as productive as senates in the past," Boyd said. "It wasn't as eventful as a lot of years."

> reason for the lack of productivity was the debate over the Presi-dent Scott Crosbie's election re-form refe-rendum, which cul-minated in

"It was like pounding your head up against a brick wall," the senior and four-year SGA veteran said, "It got very political and very personal ... and that's something that shouldn't happen."

One positive note this year, Put

"We accomplished a lot of our goals," said Rob Bowling, a member of the freshman council, "We were Bates said the infighting of shadowed the positive accomp-ments made by SGA.

"SGA does a lot more than peo-ple realize," he said. "Next year, we need to publicize a lot more what we do ... and encourage students to take advantage (of SGA services)."

Boyd said the fighting among themselves also hurt the student body's perception of SGA.

"We've always had an image problem, and I don't think we've helped it out," she said.

Putman, who said SGA is "hated by the students," warns that the body better clean up its act by the time Pete November and Lea Ann Davenport take over as SGA presi-dent and vice president next year.

An inside look at SGA present & future.

Scott Crosbie's year at helm of SGA marked by strife

ANALYSIS

By JOE BRAUN

How effective was Scott Crosbie as the 1991-92 Student Government as the 1991-92 Student Government Association president?

For an answer to the question,
one could hold a campuswide referendum or simply ask students.
Although Cheri Rice, an undeclared freshman, had no opinion of Crosbie, she had heard of him.
"He's somebody in the government," she said.
Todd Morrison, a civil engineering senior, has attended UK for four years. He knew a little bit more about Crosbie.
"Scott Crosbie.—I think he's associated with the student government. I think he ran for an office," he said.

he said.

Morrison also said he doesn't think SGA has really done anything for him this year.

While many students who haven't ever been involved directly with SGA probably don't know much about Crosble, he says he has done a good job as their president. He said both he and Vice President Keith Sparks carried out their campaign message of "a new direction for SGA."

"We felt so strongly that we

tion for SGA."

"We felt so strongly that we came in with the idea that students should be represented by their established be represented by their croshie said. "We knew (all branches of SGA) had to make a commitment, I think we have."

Crosbie may be remembered most for his wedding proposal to K.C. Watts at Rupp Arena this year. But some SGA insiders will remember him as the president who couldn't get anything passed by the

Throughout the year, Crosbie had a number of conflicts with senators, and once when he didn't get his way, tried to "circumvent" the senate with a campus wide referendum.

"I would hope people would look ... at the problem between the executive branch and the senate in a way that addresses the problems."

ineffective, Crosbie obtained 1,000 signatures to place the reforms on a campuswide referendum.
"The idea of representation is important," he said. "It would have been so easy for me, as SGA president, to sit back and allow certain senators not to be responsible to

Aside from his spat with the senate, Crosbie said he and Sparks have accom-plished a lot of what they promised in their campaign. "We met 42 out of 54 ex-pectations in our platform," he said.

"We met 42 out of 54 expectations in our platform," he said.

He said he has given students a credit union. Students can now become members of the UK credit union if they want to," he said. "This has been attempted by SGA presidents for several years now."
Sparks said "more than anything, one thing we tried to do is change
the perception of SGA."
"We have made an effort to show students we re students who can and we wanted to help them."
The administration also created a scholarship in the memory of Harry M. Caudill with an endowment of more than 10,000 and an endowment of more than 10,000 and an endowment of more than 10,000 and the services of the part of the possess tholarship in SGA," Sparks said.
They also created a Community College Outreach program to help meet the needs of the 14 UK community colleges across the state.
These were all points he and students and get away with it. . . . I didn't do that."

Crosbie, however, said this year's senate had potential.

"There was a hell of a lot of promise in this year's senate, but in certain times it just didn't meet its eoals."

But Senate President Pro Tem Ashley Boyd said that the blame was Crosbie's alone because of his unwillingness to compromise with the senate. She said "hurt feelings" contributed to turbulence between the two SGA branches.

Sparks proposed in their platform last year, he said.

"One thing we would have liked have done (this year) was create formidable social outlet on cam-us for students to gather at," he

He said he would have liked to have established a campus restau-rant or pub to "encourage students to stay on campus." But that would have been a "very extensive pro-ject" that he couldn't accomplish in one year, he said.

ABC will broadcast SEC Championship

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — ABC ill televise the Southeastern will televise the Southeastern Conference football champion-ship game through 1995, SEC Commissioner Roy Kramer an-nounced vesterday.

The inaugural game will be played Dec. 5 at Legion Field in Birmingham. Kickoff will be at 2:30 p.m. CST.

SEC Notes

The champions of the Eastern and Western divisions will meet for the title and the right to represent the conference in the Sugar Bowl, Under an amendment approved by the NCAA, the game will go to overtime if the score is teld at the end of 60 minutes.

The terms of the SEC-ABC agreement were not disclosed.

"We are pleased that the SEC football championship game will be showcased on national television for the next four years," Kramer said.

ABC is the network for SEC regular-season games, along with the Sugar Bowl and Florida Citrus Bowl, which feature the conference champion and runner-up.

Dye says investigation will yield no winners

AUBURN, Ala. — Auburn coach Pat Dye said "everybody's going to come out a loser" when the NCAA and the school complete their investigation of the Tiper football program.

booster.
"It's certainly hurt Auburn," Dye said, "It hurt our football team last season. It's hurting me. It's hurt Eric Ramsey and his family. I think it's hurt Donald Watkins and his family. I think it'll hurt the NCAA the way it's been benefited."

been handled."

Dye and Joseph Boland, chairman of Auburn's committee on intercollegiate athletics, said the school and the NCAA have been school and the NCAA have been conducting a joint investigation of Ramsey's allegations. Both said they did not know when the probe would be completed. Dye would not speculate on how se-vere Auburn's penalty could be:

KNOXVII.LE, Tenn. — Tennessee basketball players Corey Allen and Orlando Berry were indicted yesterday on misdemeanor shoplitting charges.

The two junior college transfers were arrested Jan. 16 and charged with shoplitting a pair of stereo headphones worth $37.97 from a K mart store in Knoxville.

$37.97 from a K mart store in Knoxville.

Tennessee coach Wade Houston said at the time he would take no disciplinary action against the players until the judicial process had run its course. Houston suspended Berry indefinitely a month later for an unspecified, but unrelated, violation of team rules.

Allen, a Nashville native, transferred from Aquinas Junior College and stepped immediately into the starting lineup at forward. He averaged 12.5 points and 6.8 rebounds per game.

Berry, a point guard from Ohio who played at junior college in Odessa, Texas, and at H-wassee in Madisonville, Tenn., averaged 3.1.5 points and 2.8 assists per game.

Softball club best bat-wielding squad on local diamonds

By MARK SONKA

If pressed to identify UK's win-ningest aluminum bat-wielding squad this year, most students would quickly point to Coach Keith Madison's Bat Cats. They also would be wrong. Surprisingles, that desired to Madison's Bat Cats. They also would be wrong. Surprisingly, that distinction belongs to UK's softball team, coached by Kathy Pogharian. After expliciting Tucsday's doubleheader at Woodland Park against Lindsey Wilson College, the Lady Kats sport an impressive 10-2 record the slangther rule, in which they led heir opponents by 10 runs or more after five intings. UK's offensive assault is led by three returnees from last year's 147 squad — shortstop Carla Chipton, left fielder Sheita Botts and utility player Deanna Levenbagen.

Clayton, an Owensboro, Ky., native, is doing a pretty good Ty Cobb imitation with a cool .639 batting average. Botts follows at an even of the cool while Levenhagen, who has played second base, third base and in the outfield this season, stands at 500. Despite the trio's Hall-of-frame-like numbers, Pogharban said the team has no individual stars.

"The best thing about our team is that all of the players are very good," Pogharban said, "You can't really have a star on a team like ours, because it's a club and we can't excuse the players from classes.

"We go every game without one or two starters. And that really helps us to work better as a team." The newcomers to the softball team include Jamie Smith, who plays first base and outfielder Cindy Aubrey, a Lafayette High School graduate.

Chris Wise, the club's top pitcher as a sophomore, is another former Lafayette student. Wise had started every UK game going into Wednesday's twin bill, in which she pitched the second game.

UK's 17-member softball club plays most of its home games Woodland Park. The team is currently 10-2. students, including Pogharian, who would be incligible by NCAA guidelines. But varsity or not, this talented UK squad just loves to play the game. And win.
