Dr. Otis A. Singletary University of Kentucky President

Now in his ninth year as president of the University of Kentucky, DR. OTIS A. SINGLETARY is a Mississippian whose route to the Bluegrass State curled through Louisiana, Texas, North Carolina and Washington, D. C.

He came to Lexington from a position as University of Texas vice-chancellor for academic affairs. Previously, in Washington, he had been director of the U. S. Job Corps in the early stages of its development before moving to the American Council on Education as vice-president. He had gone to the capital in 1964 after three years as chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

The UNC appointment terminated Dr. Singletary's first association with the University of Texas, this a seven-year stay that saw him, as a young historian, rise rapidly in rank from instructor to full professor and begin the shift to administrative work, first as associate dean and later as assistant to the president.

The Kentucky president, and his wife the former Gloria Walton, met when both were students at Millsaps College. He later earned master's and doctoral degrees at Louisiana State. The Singletarys have two daughters, Bonnie and Kendall, and a son, Scott.

Cliff Hagan

Director of Athletics

"I've been preparing for this all my life," CLIFF HAGAN said before taking over as athletics director at the University of Kentucky in 1975. Hagan succeeded Harry Lancaster as director after serving as assistant director for three years.

Hagan's path to the athletics directorship began in Owensboro, Kentucky, where he established a then state high school tournament record of 41 points in leading Owensboro to victory over Lafayette in the championship game of the 1949 high school tournament.

At UK, he played on teams that won 86 of 91 games and an NCAA championship (1951). The 1954 team, undefeated in 25 games, elected not to participate in the national tournament.

Under his leadership, the UK athletics department continues to develop success in all areas of endeavor including a strong dedication to the academic well-being of the athletes.

JOE B. HALL

*Joe B. Hall
University of Kentucky Wildcats
Head Basketball Coach*

JOE B. HALL is beginning his seventh season as mentor of the Wildcats, coming off a year in which his senior dominated team captured the 1978 NCAA Championship. Since becoming head coach in 1972, succeeding the legendary Adolph F. Rupp, Hall has accumulated a record of 135 wins against 42 losses. His eleven year coaching record stands at 211-98. Broken down, it shows a 57-50 five year mark at Regis College, a 19-6 record at Central Missouri, and a 135-42 record at UK.

Hall became Rupp's top assistant in 1969 when Harry C. Lancaster was named athletics director. His record as freshmen coach was 60-15, including an undefeated (22-0) season (1971-72) which resulted in the Kittens being crowned National Freshmen Champions by Basketball News.

A popular personality on the clinic and convention circuits, Hall also has had much international exposure. In addition to the Globetrotters tour in 1951, and the "Down Under" tour in 1974, he has helped conduct basketball clinics for the U. S. Army in Anchorage and Fairbanks, Alaska (1968) and at Ramstein Air Base in Frankfurt, Germany and the RAF Base at Mildenhall, England in 1975. He also was Olympic Trials coach under Hank Iba at the Air Force Academy in July 1972 and was a member of the 1976 Olympic Basketball Committee. In 1978 he coached the U.S.A. team that hosted the first International Invitational Tournament.

LEONARD HAMILTON is beginning his fifth year at Kentucky after serving three years as assistant coach at Austin Peay. An outstanding recruiter with seemingly tireless energy, Hamilton has contributed heavily to maintaining a high level of young talent at UK. Specializing in coaching defense, Hamilton has had a positive impact on Wildcat defensive

DICK PARSONS

DICK PARSONS, in his seventh year as Joe B. Hall's No. 1 assistant, returned to the University as baseball coach in 1969. Before giving up his position to join the basketball staff on a full time basis, he molded a baseball team (1971) which established or tied 15 school records. He is a graduate of UK where he played guard under former Coach Adolph F. Rupp.

Parsons came to the University in 1958 after an outstanding career as a four-sports star at Harlan High School, where he had a three-year basketball scoring total of 1,276 points.

He was a two-time (1960-61) recipient of the coveted A. B. Chandler award, given annually for the player best exemplifying the qualities of leadership, scholarship, character and ability. Only four other Wildcats have twice been so honored since the award was originated in 1951.

He is married to the former Celia Cawood of Harlan. They have a daughter, Kathy, and a son, Ed.

1978 NCAA CHAMPIONS

Will Denote Rupp, UK Basketball

Public Donations To Build Museum To House Memorabilia

Adjacent to the entrance to Rupp Arena in the Lexington Center will be located the Adolph F. Rupp-UK Basketball Museum.

The purpose of the museum is to relive some of the past Wildcat teams' exploits and those of its great players. Included in the museum will be photographs, trophies, tape recordings, films and other memorabilia reflecting on past Kentucky teams.

"We have a unique opportunity to perpetuate the legend of the late Adolph Rupp and the rich basketball tradition that has been established by the University of Kentucky," commented DeWitt Hisle, chairman of the museum. "The museum will give basketball fans everywhere a fascinating insight into what this game has meant to followers of the UK Wildcats."

Rupp coached teams compiled an 880-190 record. He guided the Wildcats to four NCAA titles, an NIT championship and 27 SEC crowns.

The museum will cover Kentucky basketball teams from the first season in 1903, when the team recorded a 1-2 record, through the most recently completed season.

A small theatre area will be located in the museum and used to show films on the changing style of basketball over the past 75 years.

The material found in the museum is coming from the official archives of UK, Memorial Coliseum, the family of the late Adolph Rupp and from the public.

"Obviously one of the major advantages we have in establishing this museam is the fact that we can build it around a central figure, the late Adolph Rupp, whose 41 seasons as UK head coach resulted in some of the greatest accomplishments in the history of collegiate basketball," said Charles Atcher, archivist of the University of Kentucky.

Atcher says one of the guiding principles in planning for the Rupp-UK Basketball Museum is that the museum will show the continuing history of basketball at UK, which means the museum will be capable of expanding to display accomplishments of future teams.

The UK tradition is being continued by Joe B. Hall who replaced Rupp as head coach beginning with the 1972-73 season. In six years, Hall has led the Cats to four SEC championships, an NIT championship, the 1978 NCAA title and an overall 135-42 record.

Costing an approximate $200,000, the projects' funding will come from tax-deductible donations from the public. Operation of the museum will be funded by a small admission charge, "not to exceed $1," according to Hisle.

Donations to help establish the museum may be mailed to: Rupp-UK Museum, P. O. Box RUPP, Lexington, Ky. 40512.

Behind the Scenes:

Inside the Wildcat Lair after the Game

When the game is won and the Wildcats are leaving the playing area in Rupp Arena, there is a series of activities that begin that are foreign to Cat fans accustomed to seeing the team only on the court.

In the dressing room, Coach Joe B. Hall discusses the game, congratulates them, has Trainer Walt McCombs and Team Physician Dr. V. A. Jackson check possible injuries, announces practice and meal schedules and sends the team across the corridor to the press interview room.

While the fans are driving away from Rupp Arena, the team is still far from showering, dressing and returning to the Joe B. Hall Wildcat Lodge.

While Coach Hall meets with the media in one end of the interview room, an unused team dressing room, other members of the press pair off with team members for personal comments. Previously, the press was admitted to the UK dressing room but a separate facility was set up this season. It provides more organization, more privacy and room for the press to work.

As the Wildcats leave the court after a game, they are heading for duties that will keep them busy for 30-45 minutes before they can return to campus.

"WHAT YOU SEE IS WHAT WE'VE GOT?" NOT HERE!

If you've ever had to sort through a dozen or so packages of meat to find the exact size or price cut you'd been looking for, then "given up" in disgust when it wasn't available, you owe it to yourself to visit Foodtown (and check out our meat cases).

We proudly cut and package only U.S. CHOICE meats and poultry, and our meat department personnel naturally try and anticipate the cuts and sizes most folks want. However, if what we offer isn't what you need . . . ring the service bell and ask for help . . . we'll custom cut whatever you need without charge.

We work harder... to make you happy

Junior Guard Kyle Macy carries out his locker room duty to be hospitable to notable guests such as former Miss America, Phyllis George.

As the team gathers in the press room, an outstanding player from the game is taken to press-row at courtside to be interviewed by Ralph Hacker, a sportscaster for the UK Basketball Network. After Coach Hall concludes his press conference, he leaves to do the post-game Joe Hall Show with the Voice of the Wildcats, Cawood Ledford.

There are notables that visit the dressing room to congratulate the team. They include such well-known people as Governor Julian Carroll, former Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler, former Miss America Phyllis George and an occasional besneekered youngster in a baseball cap seeking autographs.

The UK Sports Information Office staff headed by Russell Rice and Jack Perry in the meantime have been compiling game statistics, getting copies of them made and distributed to members of the press.

Now, as the Arena is beginning to empty, the lights turned down and the press begins to scurry off to develop game film and to file stories, the team returns to its dressing room, dresses and leaves for the dormitory.

By this time the stands are empty of the 23,000 enthusiastic fans. Rupp Arena is a quiet place with only the sounds of security people locking up and maintenance people working. As a player passes a guard house at the entrance to the reserved parking area, a radio echoes the final call of the game, "This is Cawood Ledford saying goodnight from Rupp Arena where tonight the Kentucky Wildcats defeated..."

Senior co-captain Truman Claytor gives a member of the press his evaluation of the night's game.

Freshman Chuck Verderber, center, jokes with a young visitor to the press room while Kyle Macy finishes signing the fan's autographed souvenir program.

UK Chemist Seeks Clues to Aid Victims of Huntington's Disease

A University of Kentucky chemist has found a clue in the membranes of red blood cells to Huntington's disease, a mysterious illness which strikes people at midlife, progressively destroys motor control and is nearly always fatal.

Biophysical and biochemical research by Dr. Allan Butterfield, working with a team which includes UK neurologist William Marksbery, suggests that Huntington's disease may be a disease of the body's cell membranes even though the main clinical symptoms arise from the brain.

Huntington's disease is an inherited disorder affecting the nervous system and characterized by progressive involuntary movements of the head, facial muscles and limbs, and often associated with dementia (loss of reasoning and cognitive power).

In Kentucky, and especially Eastern Kentucky, for reasons nobody knows, the disease is about 50 percent more prevalent (about nine per 100,000 in the population) than in the general population.

Hence, it's appropriate that the National Institutes of Health (NIH) has granted $120,000 for Butterfield's research on Huntington's disease.

Dr. Allan Butterfield uses sophisticated physical and chemical methods for his work at UK on Huntington's disease.

Butterfield and his team, which includes several doctoral students in chemistry, are working with sophisticated physical and chemical methods. By these methods, Butterfield discovered that red cell membranes of people with Huntington's disease contain proteins in an altered state.

In addition, the shapes and mechanical properties of these cells were observed to be different from normal cells.

Also, an enzyme located in red blood cell membranes of Huntington's disease victims was found to have an increased activity compared to normal controls.

Previous studies by others showed a decreased level of a chemical called GABA in brain cells of persons with the disease.

Butterfield at UK found that GABA can be added to red blood cells of persons with Huntington's disease, causing the cells to become "normal" as measured by methods used to study red blood cell membranes.

Before Butterfield began his experiments at UK with blood samples taken painlessly from the arms of persons with the disease, researchers' studies were largely confined to brain tissue taken at autopsy.

Kentuckians with the disease, or at the risk of it, have cooperated by giving blood samples and data to UK researchers; some volunteers, hearing of the UK work from their doctors, have traveled 500 miles or more to Lexington to participate in the study.

"What we are hoping for," says Butterfield, "in addition to understanding the molecular basis of Huntington's disease, is a way to arrest it, or at least to test persons at risk with it."

Right now, he adds, there's no way of knowing in advance if a man or woman will get the disease. But children with a parent affected by Huntington's disease have a 50 percent chance of contracting the disease themselves usually at around age 35.

And the cruel, nightmarish irony of this, of course, is that by age 35 persons are likely to have already married and had children of their own also with a 50 percent likelihood of getting the disease.

Graduate students working with Butterfield say their efforts are particularly stimulating. "They know," he says, "there's a human being behind every blood sample."

Persons interested in the research being done at UK are asked to contact Dr. Allan Butterfield, Department of Chemistry, University of Kentucky, Lexington (40506), telephone (606) 257-4741.

Kentucky's last meeting with Mississippi State came on Jan. 15, the second stop on a two-game road trip, which took the Cats through Alabama and Mississippi. Like at Alabama two nights earlier, Kentucky lost a squeaker, 63-61 to the Bulldogs.

With the score tied 61-61, Jim Hatfield's clan began a stall with 5:58 remaining. State held the ball until Ray White connected on a jump shot with three seconds remaining.

Mississippi State was led in scoring by Wiley Pecks' 24 points, followed by Rickey Brown who connected for 20 points and grabbed eight rebounds.

Kentucky was led in scoring by Kyle Macy who had 16 points. Truman Claytor, added 14 points for the Wildcats.

A Year At The Top

A Year
At The Top
Kentucky Wildcats '77-'78

by John McGill and Walt Johnson, photography by Walt Johnson

This book is not just about basketball nor just about Kentucky basketball. In 144 pages, including 45 color and 170 black and white photographs, you can follow the Kentucky Wildcats from the beginning of the 1977-78 season to the finals of the NCAA Basketball Championship in St. Louis. Many inside stories reveal the pressures associated with being the nation's #1 college team from the start of the season to the end. Only once in the weekly polls was Kentucky ranked below #1 and proved in March that they deserved this ranking by winning the National Championship. It was truly a great year for the players, coaches and fans. You can relive these exciting moments in "A Year at the Top." Also available, our new 33 1/3 LP album, "Wildcat Basketball '77-'78". The highlights of the '77-'78 basketball season are recalled with exciting play-by-play excerpts from Cawood Ledford's game broadcasts and comments by Coach Joe Hall.
