Dr. Otis A. Singletary
University of Kentucky President

Now in his ninth year as president of the University of Kentucky, DR. OTIS A. SINGLETARY is a Mississippian whose route to the Bluegrass State curled through Louisiana, Texas, North Carolina and Washington, D. C.

He came to Lexington from a position as University of Texas vice-chancellor for academic affairs. Previously, in Washington, he had been director of the U. S. Job Corps in the early stages of its development before moving to the American Council on Education as vice-president. He had gone to the capital in 1964 after three years as chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

The UNC appointment terminated Dr. Singletary's first association with the University of Texas, this a seven-year stay that saw him, as a young historian, rise rapidly in rank from instructor to full professor and begin the shift to administrative work, first as associate dean and later as assistant to the president.

The Kentucky president, and his wife the former Gloria Walton, met when both were students at Millsaps College. He later earned master's and doctoral degrees at Louisiana State. The Singletarys have two daughters, Bonnie and Kendall, and a son, Scott.

Cliff Hagan Director of Athletics

"I've been preparing for this all my life," CLIFF HAGAN said before taking over as athletics director at the University of Kentucky in 1975. Hagan succeeded Harry Lancaster as director after serving as assistant director for three years.

Hagan's path to the athletics directorship began in Owensboro, Kentucky, where he established a then state high school tournament record of 41 points in leading Owensboro to victory over Lafayette in the championship game of the 1949 high school tournament.

At UK, he played on teams that won 86 of 91 games and an NCAA championship (1951). The 1954 team, undefeated in 25 games, elected not to participate in the national tournament.

Under his leadership, the UK athletics department continues to develop success in all areas of endeavor including a strong dedication to the academic well-being of the athletes.

JOE B. HALL

Joe B. Hall University of Kentucky Wildcats Head Basketball Coach

JOE B. HALL is beginning his seventh season as mentor of the Wildcats, coming off a year in which his senior dominated team captured the 1978 NCAA Championship. Since becoming head coach in 1972, succeeding the legendary Adolph F. Rupp, Hall has accumulated a record of 135 wins against 42 losses. His eleven year coaching record stands at 211-98. Broken down, it shows a 57-50 five year mark at Regis College, a 19-6 record at Central Missouri, and a 135-42 record at UK.

Hall became Rupp's top assistant in 1969 when Harry C. Lancaster was named athletics director. His record as freshmen coach was 60-15, including an undefeated (22-0) season (1971-72) which resulted in the Kittens being crowned National Freshmen Champions by Basketball News.

A popular personality on the clinic and convention circuits, Hall also has had much international exposure. In addition to the Globetrotters tour in 1951, and the "Down Under" tour in 1974, he has helped conduct basketball clinics for the U. S. Army in Anchorage and Fairbanks, Alaska (1968) and at Ramstein Air Base in Frankfurt, Germany and the RAF Base at Mildenhall, England in 1975. He also was Olympic Trials coach under Hank Iba at the Air Force Academy in July 1972 and was a member of the 1976 Olympic Basketball Committee. In 1978 he coached the U.S.A. team that hosted the first International Invitational Tournament.

LEONARD HAMILTON is beginning his fifth year at Kentucky after serving three years as assistant coach at Austin Peay. An outstanding recruiter with seemingly tireless energy, Hamilton has contributed heavily to maintaining a high level of young talent at UK. Specializing in coaching defense, Hamilton has had a positive impact on Wildcat defensive philosophy. A native of Gastonia, N. C., he lettered three years in football and twice in basketball. An outstanding collegiate player, he starred at Gaston Community College in Dallas, N. C., and at University of Tennessee-Martin. He is married to the former Claudette Hale. They have a son, Lenny, 7.

JOE DEAN, JR., played against the Wildcats for three years at Mississippi State University, before serving as Bulldog assistant coach while earning a masters degree in physical education. An outstanding student, Dean was named to the 1976 Academic All-SEC second team. A native of Baton Rouge, La., he attended Baton Rouge High School where he earned letters in basketball and football. In addition to regular coaching duties with the Wildcats, Dean's primary responsibilities will be recruiting and scouting. He is married to the former Ellen Elizabeth Anger of Jackson, Miss.

DICK PARSONS

DICK PARSONS, in his seventh year as Joe B. Hall's No. 1 assistant, returned to the University as baseball coach in 1969. Before giving up his position to join the basketball staff on a full time basis, he molded a baseball team (1971) which established or tied 15 school records. He is a graduate of UK where he played guard under former Coach Adolph F. Rupp.

Parsons came to the University in 1958 after an outstanding career as a four-sports star at Harlan High School, where he had a three-year basketball scoring total of 1,276 points.

He was a two-time (1960-61) recipient of the coveted A. B. Chandler award, given annually for the player best exemplifying the qualities of leadership, scholarship, character and ability. Only four other Wildcats have twice been so honored since the award was originated in 1951.

He is married to the former Celia Cawood of Harlan. They have a daughter, Kathy, and a son, Ed.

FRANK HAM
Assistant Director
of Athletics

FRANK HAM became Assistant Director of Athletics in July 1975 soon after Cliff Hagan succeeded Harry C. Lancaster as Director of Athletics.

A native of Scranton, Pa., Ham came to the University in 1969 as Administrative Assistant to football coach John Ray, and was reassigned to the Athletic Director's staff in 1972 when Ray resigned.

Ham graduated from high school at Niles, Michigan, and completed his undergraduate work at Olivet College. He did graduate work at Indiana University and coached high school football and track at John Adams High in South Bend in 1944-46 and then returned to Olivet as athletic director and head football and basketball coach.

In 1951, he became assistant to the president at Olivet, with responsibilities in public and alumni relations. He was in private business from 1954 until 1968.

SUSAN FEAMSTER
Assistant Director
of Athletics

SUE FEAMSTER joined the athletics association July 1 with the merger of the men's and women's programs. Feamster had been the director of women's athletics prior to her appointment as assistant director of athletics.

A native of Frankfort, she came to the University as a graduate student in 1970, was named assistant director of campus recreation in 1972 and director of women's athletics in 1974.

Feamster graduated from Franklin County High School where she was an outstanding tennis player and athlete. While in college she earned letters in tennis, field hockey, basketball and track from Indiana University and Kentucky State University, where she earned her B.S. degree and graduated with honors.

LARRY IVY
Assistant Director of
Athletics For Finance

Adding a new dimension to UK athletics was the appointment two years ago of LARRY IVY as Assistant Director of Athletics for Finance.

Ivy, who came to the University as Director of Housing in 1969, is involved primarily with the administration and management of financial aspects, and develops and initiates policies for accounting procedures and related business management activities of the department.

1978 NCAA CHAMPIONS

Will Denote Rupp, UK Basketball

Public Donations To Build Museum To House Memorabilia

Adjacent to the entrance to Rupp Arena in the Lexington Center will be located the Adolph F. Rupp-UK Basketball Museum.

The purpose of the museum is to re-live some of the past Wildcat teams' exploits and those of its great players. Included in the museum will be photographs, trophies, tape recordings, films and other memorabilia reflecting on past Kentucky teams.

"We have a unique opportunity to perpetuate the legend of the late Adolph Rupp and the rich basketball tradition that has been established by the University of Kentucky," commented DeWitt Hisle, chairman of the museum. "The museum will give basketball fans everywhere a fascinating insight into what this game has meant to followers of the UK Wildcats."

Rupp coached teams compiled an 880-190 record. He guided the Wildcats to four NCAA titles, an NIT championship and 27 SEC crowns.

The museum will cover Kentucky basketball teams from the first season in 1903, when the team recorded a 1-2 record, through the most recently completed season.

A small theatre area will be located in the museum and used to show films on the changing style of basketball over the past 75 years.

The material found in the museum is coming from the official archives of UK, Memorial Coliseum, the family of the late Adolph Rupp and from the public.

"Obviously one of the major advantages we have in establishing this museam is the fact that we can build it around a central figure, the late Adolph Rupp, whose 41 seasons as UK head coach resulted in some of the greatest accomplishments in the history of collegiate basketball," said Charles Atcher, archivist of the University of Kentucky.

Atcher says one of the guiding principles in planning for the Rupp-UK Basketball Museum is that the museum will show the continuing history of basketball at UK, which means the museum will be capable of expanding to display accomplishments of future teams.

The UK tradition is being continued by Joe B. Hall who replaced Rupp as head coach beginning with the 1972-73 season. In six years, Hall has led the Cats to four SEC championships, an NIT championship, the 1978 NCAA title and an overall 135-42 record.

Costing an approximate $200,000, the projects' funding will come from tax-deductible donations from the public. Operation of the museum will be funded by a small admission charge, "not to exceed $1," according to Hisle.

Donations to help establish the museum may be mailed to: Rupp-UK Museum, P. O. Box RUPP, Lexington, Ky. 40512.

Behind the Scenes:

Planning, Organization Keep UK Road Trips Uncomplicated

It is late in the week and the University of Kentucky basketball team is preparing to leave on a road trip. Inside Memorial Coliseum, equipment manager Bill Keightly, student manager Donnie Sullivan and trainer Walt McCombs are waiting for the chartered bus to arrive that will take the team and its equipment to Louisville. Coach Joe B. Hall and his assistant coaches are in their offices making last minute checks to be certain that all of the trip arrangements are complete.

This is the business portion of college basketball. This is the part of the sport that is void of awards and cheering throngs for certainly no one gives credits for being able to move 12 talented players from town to town without losing one or for getting them there safely, comfortable and on-time.

The team has eaten breakfast at 10 a.m., packed its luggage and strolled the one block's distance to the corner to meet the bus. The bus arrives, the equipment is loaded and the team and staff are gone as quickly as a group of early morning commuters.

For short trips, like the annual game in Louisville or pre-season exhibition games, the team travels by bus. For trips outside the state, it usually travels on a chartered airplane.

Once at its destination, the team checks into a hotel that is relatively close to where it will be playing. On arrival the players are given keys to their rooms with check-in procedures previously taken care of. The hotel always has dining facilities and has been given menus and schedules for the team meals.

Equipment bags and personal suitcases are tagged UK Athletic Association and move with the team on the planes or buses in order to avoid anything being lost. Once at the hotel, the players carry their own bags and the staff pushes dollies loaded with the remainder.

Every member of the staff has responsibilities. There are people responsible for diet, tickets, transportation, hotel rooms, itinerary, arranging for practice times and for what type refreshment is available on the bench during the game. Every consideration is planned down to who is going to stand up on the bus

"WHAT YOU SEE IS WHAT WE'VE GOT?" NOT HERE!

If you've ever had to sort through a dozen or so packages of meat to find the exact size or price cut you'd been looking for, then "given up" in disgust when it wasn't available, you owe it to yourself to visit FOODTOWN (and check out our meat cases).

We proudly cut and package only U.S. CHOICE meats and poultry, and our meat department personnel naturally try and anticipate the cuts and sizes most folks want. However, if what we offer isn't what you need . . . ring the service bell and ask for help . . . we'll custom cut whatever you need without charge.

after practice and count heads to make certain no one is missing. There are people responsible for every logistical consideration and they do their jobs expertly.

When possible the bus loads and unloads the team away from the main lobby of the hotel. However, that situation doesn't present itself often and the players move about the public areas like tourists.

In every city there are Kentucky fans that wait at the team's headquarters to collect autographs. Some fans travel from Lexington to each away-game and stay in the same hotel. A few relatives of the players are sometimes there but the majority of the UK fans at the team hotel are just special supporters.

Occasionally, opponent fans wait at the hotel and on rare occasions try to harrass the team by such actions as making noise near the players' rooms in order to make them lose sleep prior to the game. However, a small group of volunteer security people, made up of State Police Troopers and UK campus police, prevent any serious intrusions.

Sometimes autograph seekers try to invade the reserved portion of the hotel during a time when the players are sleeping, changing clothes, or eating and must be barred from the hallway. However, serious incidents have been almost non-existent and the trips are usually extremely quiet.

The team arrives the day before an away-game and holds a workout in the arena. It then eats dinner in a private dining room. Afterwards, it watches game films of the next nights opponent or goes to a movie and relax. When possible the players are allowed to take short walks near the hotel. On such walks, they shop for souvenirs to take home to family or friends or simply look at the city.

The players, however, are there to win basketball games and the coaches limit their outside activities to avoid them getting tired or distracted.

In hotels that feature movies via each rooms television, the players are given a choice but can watch but one if more than one is available. If there are coin operated vending machines in the rooms, they are turned off. Bed checks are made and trainers and managers wake the players in time for breakfast. The team has a little shooting practice, eats a light lunch, rests, eats a pre-game meal and plays the game. If the game is in the afternoon or early evening, the team returns immediately afterward to Lexington and is required by Coach Hall to be in class the next morning.

Dual-Degrees Give Students Added Preparation For Careers

"It's great in that you get two degrees," says Steve Hinkle, 22, who when he graduates with his B.S. degree in electrical engineering from the University of Kentucky will also be awarded a bachelor's degree in applied science from Kentucky State University in his hometown of Frankfort.

Carolyn Morehead, 22, of Louisville, was "always interested in science" and, like Steve, was counseled at KSU by an academic adviser about the dual-degree program in the UK College of Engineering.

Steve and Carolyn are two of the six KSU students currently on the UK campus under the innovative program; another 80 at the Frankfort university are aiming this way, as well as dozens of other undergraduates at eight other state colleges.

UK's "3-2 program" as it is popularly called, has been successful for nearly ten years. Since 1969, eight Kentucky colleges and universities have approached the UK College of Engineering and, one by one, arranged dual-degree programs for their students.

Carolyn Morehead uses an instrument in UK engineering mechanics lab. She will be graduating with an engineering degree from Kentucky and an applied science degree from Kentucky State University.

Thomas More College was the first to sign an agreement with UK, in 1969. KSU signed in 1973 as did Eastern Kentucky University and Georgetown College. Union College and Cumberland College followed in 1976.

And this year, UK President Otis Singletary has signed agreements with Morehead State University and Northern Kentucky University. Agreements with two other institutions of higher education are also in the works, according to Dr. T. Richard Robe, UK associate engineering dean.

The UK-KSU dual-degree program is similar to the others, except that a good number of KSU participants are minority students who are eagerly sought by the engineering profession.

Dual-degree candidates in their first three years on their "home" campus take engineering "basics" (mathematics, chemistry, physics, for example), which also give them credit toward their science degree. The last two years at UK—are given to concentrated engineering studies and enough other classwork to complete requirements for both the science and the engineering degrees.

Often credit is given by both colleges for the same course, "an efficient use of time," as Robe puts it.

To date, 12 dual-degree engineers have been graduated and there are some 25 students, including Hinkle and Miss Morehead, currently at UK for their final two years.

Colleges sending 3-2 students to UK, after first conferring with the UK College of Engineering, have created some new classes and modified existing ones, "always designing around what they already have," says Robe.

UK engineering faculty members and advisers work together with their counterparts at the other schools in academic advising and counseling. At most of the "feeder" schools there are pre-engineering clubs for the dual-degree students.

Robe says dual-degree students are attractive to employers. "These students are likely to be more mature and they've gotten a fine education at two different institutions," he explained.

Generally, the groundwork is done in a smaller, more personalized environment before the onset of the final two years of demanding and specialized upper division engineering studies, Robe added.

A Year At The Top

A Year
At The Top
Kentucky Wildcats '77-'78

by John McGill and Walt Johnson, photography by Walt Johnson

This book is not just about basketball nor just about Kentucky basketball. In 144 pages, including 45 color and 170 black and white photographs, you can follow the Kentucky Wildcats from the beginning of the 1977-78 season to the finals of the NCAA Basketball Championship in St. Louis. Many inside stories reveal the pressures associated with being the nation's #1 college team from the start of the season to the end. Only once in the weekly polls was Kentucky ranked below #1 and proved in March that they deserved this ranking by winning the National Championship. It was truly a great year for the players, coaches and fans. You can relive these exciting moments in "A Year at the Top." Also available, our new 33 1/3 LP album, "Wildcat Basketball '77-'78". The highlights of the '77-'78 basketball season are recalled with exciting play-by-play excerpts from Cawood Ledford's game broadcasts and comments by Coach Joe Hall.
