1917 KENTUCKIAN IS READY FOR PRINTER

Copy In Hands of Editor
One Month Earlier
Than Usual

MANY NEW FEATURES

The 1917 Kentuckian will mark a new era in college annual work in our State. Work on the book began before September registration was under way, and practically all the copy is now in the hands of the editors, fully a month earlier than usual, and with the added time given the printers the publication should be the nearest to mechanically perfect that has yet been gotten out at the University.

Less than ten members of the Senior class have failed to pay their dues and a larger representation than ever before will appear in the Senior class section.

The view section of the book has been made up of pictures selected from a large number of State and campus views. This section is to be run in color and should prove an attractive addition to the book.

The book has been dedicated to the Commonwealth of Kentucky. In effecting this idea the editors have had a three-colored spread of the State Capitol prepared that will be one of the most elaborate designs that has ever appeared in the Kentuckian.

The make-up of the fraternity section book is along a new line that will be a radical departure from the usual method of handling this section.

The feature section has been the means of settlement for many a grudge held by the feature editor and taken with the pages of snaps of all phases of college life, the pages of cartoons, and the take-offs of campus organizations, it promises to rival any part of the book for popularity. To predict what is to appear here is beyond the power of the reporter. The editor of "Lykelle Poems" is likely to say most anything about you.

The athletic section has been given more of the time of the editor than any other part of the book. Splendid pictures of all forms of athletics have been secured and very careful work has characterized the make-up of these pictures in the composing room. That the engravers are doing their part has been testified to by all who have seen the proofs that have come to the office. More than half the engraving has been completed.

Probably the section that should make its strongest appeal to the general public and the alumni is the two-page insert Jubilee section. In this

WILDCATS HAVE STIFF GAMES ON SCHEDULE

Tennessee and Cumberland
Will Prove Real
Opponents

REVENGE IS CRAVED

The schedule of the Wildcat basket-tossing aggregation when they journey southward this week-end will be stiff. Cumberland College, of Williamsburg, Ky., will be the first boulder in their path. Whether it will be removed with ease, whether a lively scrap will ensue or whether the savage feline will stomp his big toe on it remains to be seen.

Bright and early Friday morning they will take their departure, leaving Williestown to invade the camp of the real enemy. An eager, excited, heart-in-their-mouth crowd sitting straight, expectant on their bleacher seats; a cool, impartial voice—"Ready Kentucky?" "Ready Tennessee?" And then the winsome Wildcats will endeavor to do what they so hope they will be able to do, that is, hold their enemies' noses and pour into their mouths a dose of the same medicine prescribed by them when they were acting as doctors a fortnight or so ago. Can't you imagine the grimace on Jacobs' face, now? Kentucky will have the same designs on Tennessee Saturday night as on Friday night. The Cats will be allopaths and homeopaths at the same time.

Besides the above combats, it is probable, but not certain, that on Monday night Kentucky will engage the Tusculum College quintet. The team is expected to line-up as follows: Ireland and Campbell, forwards; Longworth, center; Schrader and Rodes, guards. Bart Peak and Boone Simpson will make the trip as utility men. The team leaves this morning.

KY. AND CINCY LAW SCHOOLS TO DEBATE

"Resolved, that Congress should enact a law providing for one year compulsory military service for all male citizens nineteen years of age," is the subject that has been chosen for the annual debate between the Cincinnati Law School and the College of Law of the University, which will be held in chapel on the evening of April 8.

There will be two teams chosen to represent the Law College. One team will go to Cincinnati, and on the same night the other team will debate with the Cincinnati lads here. Try-outs for places on the team will be held on the evening of March 7, at which time six debaters will be selected.

McBRAYER WINNER OF UNION LIT. CONTEST

J. J. McBrayer, a Junior in the College of Law, added another star to his crown Thursday night by winning the Union oratorical contest. His subject was "The Modern Paradox." After the contest President Barker presented him with a handsome gold medal, as has been his custom many years past. The Judge made a presentation speech which called forth the highest admiration of all those present. The other contestants were Messrs. T. L. Creekmore, L. F. Bischoff, E. E. Hardin and Roy Barnhill.

The winning of this contest entitles Mr. McBrayer to the honor of representing the Union in the inter-society contest between the Patterson and Union Societies, the winner of which will represent the University in the Intercollegiate contest to be held at Winchester some time in May.

UNIVERSITY BAND TO PERFORM IN CHAPEL

The University band, which has made quite a reputation for itself this year, will give its first public concert in the chapel tomorrow at the regular hour. Professor Lawrence Cover, the director, will be in charge and solos will be rendered by Mrs. Ralph McCracken, soprano, and Professor Fred Loomis, cornetist.

This is the first time in some years the band has attempted such an ambitious program, and both the director and the students deserve great credit for the progress that has been made so far. The program follows:

1. March—Montezuma—Chambers.
2. La Poloma—Spanish Dance—De Gradiar.
3. Bargo—Hansdel.
4. Cornet Solo—"Turn Back the Universe and Give Me Yesterday"—Ball. Professor Fred Loomis.

SNODDY RECOMMENDS LIFE IN THE COUNTRY

Transylvania Prof. Says
Agriculture Builds
Character

READS RILEY POEMS

"The very basis of Americanism is the stable, well-defined individualism characteristic of agricultural life," said Professor Snoddy, professor of philosophy at Transylvania College, in an address to the students at convocation Tuesday morning, on "Agriculture and Character."

The following sentences by Professor Snoddy are descriptive of the influence of agriculture upon character building.

"First hand contact with nature gives one a vital outlook on life. The great philosophers of the past have thot in the city with a city man's outlook on life. But the time is coming when philosophy will have the country as its place of origination. The great prophets of the olden time were from rural communities; so was the Christ.

"Intellectual rural life is going to help us to understand the Bible; to get the feeling of reality. There's an instinct for the soil. Whenever you come in contact with the soil you feel as if you are in the presence of something real.

"In a rural community, one is in contact with a real home. Three times a day the family collects round the table and dines together. You can never build a great national life that has not its root in a real, genuine home.

"In our older years it gives us a sentiment for our youth. When a poet spends his youth in a city, he does not eulogize it, but, if he spends it on a farm, he lauds it highly."

The lecture was brought to a close with readings from Eugene Field and James Whitcomb Riley, who, in the opinion of the speaker, described rural life and the influence of its elements better than any other poet.

ELECTRICAL EXPERT ADDRESSES SENIORS

W. M. Hannah, Kentucky representative of the Louisville branch of the General Electric Company, lectured to the Senior Mechanicals in Mechanical Hall, Tuesday morning. His subject was "The Development of the Electrical Utility in the Last Twenty-five Years," and he brought out in the physical valuation not only the value of property, but also the value of the business in the process of development as related to the amount of property installed.

BIG STUDENT NIGHT FOR STROLLER PLAY

Actors' Work Surpassing
That of Other Years In All Respects

TO GO ON THE ROAD

The Strollers have made all arrangements for the production of "The Lion and the Mouse" at the Lexington Opera House, and Saturday evening, March 10, is destined to be one of the biggest get-together nights of the year for the students of the University.

No student can afford to remain away; no student in former years who stayed away failed to regret it, and no student who went to see his friends perform was ever heard to say that he regretted his attendance. The Strollers want all Kentucky students to attend because they are their friends, but that is not the real reason why they suggest their presence. They guarantee that their performance is worth all and more than they charge for it. A long list of successes, beginning with "Brown of Harvard," and continuing thru "Father and the Boys," has made for the Strollers the reputation of being easily the best amateur dramatic club in Kentucky and one that equals in its efforts the best of similar college societies. A word or two to the wise is always sufficient. Make that date and get your seats while good ones are to be had!

To give a further review of "The Lion and the Mouse" at this time is not necessary. The full story of the play and the cast who will play the parts has been announced already, but the Kernel is of the opinion that full justice has not been done the work of the actors in the rehearsals. For more than four weeks almost daily meetings have been held, and under the efficient and tyrannical management of John Marsh, stage manager, the players have been whipped into shape that is really remarkable. The production is ready to go on now, but the next week will be devoted to smoothing the rough spots and making the characters move like clock-work. Capable judges who have seen the rehearsals declare that this cast as a whole is better than any the Strollers have had in recent years, while several members stand out as of real professional calibre.

The leading roles are played by Emery Frazier, a veteran of several successes, and Mamie Miller Woods, a newcomer in the ranks, but one of superlative excellence. Their work, especially in the dramatic scenes in

SPECIAL RATES TO University Students

ANNUAL TO CONDUCT SUBSCRIPTION CONTEST

Three Cash Prizes and Copies of Kentuckian Offered

ALL ARE ELIGIBLE

A subscription contest for the Kentuckian, to the winners of which cash prizes will be awarded, together with copies of the Annual, will begin today and all students in the University are eligible to compete. To the one securing the largest number of subscriptions, a prize of $20.00 in gold will be given. The second prize is $10.00 in gold and the one finishing third will receive $5.00. The conditions of the contest follow:

1. Every student in the University is eligible to enter this contest, with the exception of the members of the Kentuckian staff.
2. The contest will begin today and all subscriptions must be entered in the manner and form here announced before 3:30 p. m., Thursday, April 5.
3. If 350 or more subscriptions for the 1917 Kentuckian are entered by the contestants, during the time set out in No. 3 and in the manner and form to be set out in No. 4, the contestant in whose name is entered the most subscriptions will be awarded $20.00 in gold and a copy of the 1917 Kentuckian.
4. If 175 subscriptions are entered as above mentioned the contestant in whose name the most subscriptions are entered will be awarded $10.00 in gold and a copy of the 1917 Kentuckian.
5. If 100 or more and less than 175 are entered as set out above, the contestant in whose name the most subscriptions are entered will be awarded $5.00 in gold and a copy of the 1917 Kentuckian.
6. If less than 100 subscriptions are entered as first set out above the contestant in whose name the most subscriptions are entered will be awarded a copy of the 1917 Kentuckian.
7. Those wishing to enter the contest will be supplied with two kinds of blanks. One of these when filled out and duly signed by the one subscribing, will authorize the one soliciting the subscription to subscribe for him a copy of the 1917 Kentuckian and to apply the $1.00, which he, the subscriber has given the solicitor as part payment on the subscription price of $2.50.
8. The other when filled out and signed by the solicitor, the undersigned will agree to subscribe for the person mentioned therein for a copy of the 1917 Kentuckian and acknowledge the receipt of $1.00, which he promises to apply as part payment on the subscription and to give the subscriber a receipt signed as required by the business staff.
9. Those contesting will file with the subscription manager or the business manager the first blank mentioned in No. 4 and the $1.00 as required part payment on all subscriptions they secure. Each one so entered will count a vote which the contestant may enter in his name or in the name of any other person who is eligible to enter the contest. Those soliciting will at all times be considered as the agents the third and fourth acts, is of the kind that makes thrills run up the spine of the most blasé spectator. Gus Gay, football player and graduate in dramatics from Lexington High School, has a part scarcely second in importance to that of the "lion" and the "mouse," and he is playing it in a manner that brings joy to the hearts of the older Strollers.

Martha Buckman gives a very accurate representation of a society leader, and Freda Lemon, as the wife of Judge Rossmore, plays a difficult role in a manner that makes amateurism seem a far cry. Angela Morancy, as the fiancée of Jefferson Ryder, gives a comedy performance that is up to the mark in every respect. Several of her scenes, particularly those with Bagley, the Englishman, played by William Shinnick, are excruciatingly funny.

Eliza Spurrier, as a country "kitchen mechanic"; Vennie Duley, as a prim spinster, and Peggy Wilkinson, as a small town "society leader," have comedy parts that are sure to go over in wonderful style. Mary Turner, altho her part is not quite so important as the one she had last year, will certainly linger in the memory of the audience as a real actress.

Herdon Evans, as Judge Rossmore, the impeached jurist, gives an excellent representation of an old man broken by a powerful enemy, and Tate Bird, as his friend, Judge Stott, is very effective. Preston Cherry, who was a member of the cast last year, has a better part this year, and as a politician, Senator Roberts is proving quite successful. Grover Creech, as the Reverend Pontifex Deetle, opens the show with the same facility that Homer Combest opens the door to Patterson Hall. His part is very funny. W. C. Draddy and Gordon Marsh have small parts, but they play them in a manner that indicates they will have larger roles in future years.

Arrangements are being made to take the play to several Central Kentucky towns, and it is probable that a contract to play Nicholasville next week will be signed before Saturday. Tickets will go on sale at the Opera House next Wednesday, but those who desire to do so may reserve seats with Emery Frazier after Monday. This is done to give students the first chance at the choice locations, as a large number of Lexington people always attend. The University orchestra will furnish the music.

Tickets are priced at 25 cents to $1.00. Make that date and get in early!

of those from whom they secure subscriptions.

The Kentuckian office is room 3 in the basement of the Education Building. The office will be open every chapel hour and every afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Blanks and full information will be supplied by any of the business staff. See C. R. Smith, W. W. Owsley, C. M. Hubble, F. O. Mayes or Miss Martine Ratican.

SILVER JUBILEE IS PLANNED BY PHILOSOPHIAN SOCIETY

The silver jubilee of the Philosophian Literary Society will be celebrated this month beginning Wednesday, March 14 and ending Saturday, March 24. A series of programs have been arranged and the society hopes to make this a gala occasion.

An open meeting to which all girls on the campus will be invited, will open the jubilee. Wednesday night will be given over to old members and all former members will be invited as far as it is possible and it is hoped that many of them will attend. The program will be a repetition of the one presented twenty years ago and the girls will be in costume of that period.

Thursday morning chapel exercises will be held at which the methods of present-day society will be portrayed and a program which promises to be entertaining will be given. Saturday night will be given over to a joint meeting of all the literary societies on the campus in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, when a real St. Patrick's Day party will be given.

During the jubilee Miss Frances Jewell will entertain the society with a book reception at which the girls will come representing books and the closing affair of the week will be a play to be given in the armory, March 24.

* AG. SOCIETY NOTES *

Dean Miller, who was scheduled to give an illustrated lecture at the meeting of the Agricultural Society, Monday night, did not appear, disappointing a large crowd assembled to hear him. After the roll call a business meeting was held and the society adjourned.

At the meeting of the society Monday night, March 5, Prof. W. S. Anderson will speak on "Constructive Breeding of Farm Animals."

EXPERT ADDRESSES
SENIOR MECHANICALS

"The whole country has its eyes turned upon this institution because the methods employed by Dean Anderson differ from those of any other engineering college," said Theo Weinschank, of Indianapolis, expert in heating and ventilating. In his address before the Senior Mechanicals in Mechanical Hall Tuesday afternoon.

The speaker said that Dean Anderson first gave students training in common sense, which is essential to success, and does not allow them to specialize until after they have finished college. He stated that much practical advantage was gained through having prominent engineers and men-of-affairs to address the mechanical students.

"Be honest," was Mr. Weinschank's advice to engineers, who said that success was impossible without honesty. In explaining this, the speaker related personal experiences, saying that he had outlived seven competitors who had used dishonest methods against him.

* TERRELL ATTENDS ENGINEERS' MEETING *

Professor D. V. Terrell, returning from a conference of State testing engineers in Washington, D. C., where he represented Kentucky, states that the standard tests for all road building materials to be used in roads constructed with federal aid have been determined upon and will be submitted to the Department of Public Roads of Kentucky and all other States of the Union.

Representatives of nineteen States attended the conference. No permanent organization was effected at the conference, but the members will be subject to the call of Mr. Hubbard, chief of the division of testing materials and research, for further consideration and action on the problems of road building.

STUDENT OBSERVATORY.

Hobos.

Our contemporary publications have devoted a good many "feet of space" to that element in our country known as hobos.

The Hobo Club, at the University of Montana, showed true hospitality to college hobos this fall. They offered free board and lodging to all students from rival schools who bummed their way to Missoula to see the games.

A conductor on the Santa Fe announced, through the columns of a college publication, that he preferred college hobos to soldier boys. He said college men were content with confiscating signs and other movable articles, while the soldier boys removed glass from the windows, brass knobs from the railings, and cushions from the seats.

And the success of a hobo college has been announced:

"The first term of the college for hobos, which is sponsored by James Eads Howe, the millionaire hobo of St. Louis, opened in Chicago recently. A building has been purchased and furnished by means of a $30,000 endowment fund. The term "hobo" is to be discarded in favor of "migratory unskilled labor." Sanitation and moral values, vagrancy laws and the rudiments of economics will compose the curriculum."—Miami Student.

FOOTBALL DISCUSSED
BY "HURRY-UP" YOST

Famous Michigan Coach
Addresses Seniors Friday Afternoon

"TAKES GRIT TO WIN"

"You will get out of the game just what you put in it. The spirit of the contest is half of the battle. Play a clean game and you will have much more confidence and enthusiasm in your work," said Fielding H. Yost, the noted Michigan football coach, Friday afternoon in a lecture to the Senior mechanicals, a class in educational athletics and members of the football squad. A man without courage and confidence is licked before the game begins, he said. A man who can come back after he has encountered difficulties is made of the right stuff. It is team play and only team play that will yield and no eleven can succeed without it.

Yost spoke for more than two hours, beginning with some observations of sport in general, continuing with an application of the principles involved in football to life and concluding with an account of some of the most important games and plays in which his teams had participated. A section of his address was given over to epigrammatic linkings of life and football.

The following is taken from "Hurry-Up" Yost's philosophy:

"Someone has said that 75 per cent of football is above the neck. In other words the most important thing in the game is the proper use of one's knowledge and intelligence. So it is with life.

"The universal rule for tackling is never to let anything get away from you. Be aggressive on the offensive and defensive. Carry the fighting to the enemy's territory. Think of a football player who is not aggressive!

"Be an asset, not a liability. Know your part in each play, offensively and defensively, and do it. Eleven men constitute a football team and the failure of one man to do his part will defeat the best efforts of all his teammates. If you have failed in your part, and feel the game is going against you keep your head up, set your jaws and go at it all the harder. This will determine the stuff that is in you."

In closing, Mr. Yost said: "As you go into life, young men, may your kick-offs be far toward your opponents' goal; may your punts never be blocked; may you never fumble; may you never get out of bounds; may you keep ever advancing toward the goal; may you never be turned backward; may your team-play be perfect and full of determination, spirit, confidence and loyalty; may your aims and score be high ever and always."

ESSAY CONTEST IS ON.

Great interest is being displayed in the essay contest by those who are competing for the prize offered by the Bennet Fund, bequeathed to the University by Philo Bennet. The essays are to be written on "The Origin and Development of Parliamentary Institutions," and "Essential Foundations of Republican Government." All essays must be completed by April 1.

* Y. M. C. A. NOTES *

The Rev. R. T. Gillespie, pastor of the Maxwell Presbyterian Church, addressed the meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms last Sunday evening. The substance of his talk was an evangelistic appeal in which he emphasized the value of surrendering one's life to the Almighty.

The Rev. Mr. Gillespie, who has been in Lexington but a short time, sincerely hopes to become better acquainted with those who attend the Y. meeting. He comes recommended to his new parish as one of the most able men in the Southern Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. T. B. Roberts, of the Centenary Church, will be the speaker at the next Y. M. C. A. meeting to be held Sunday evening. The Rev. Mr. Roberts is a graduate of Cornell University and has traveled extensively in Palestine and other foreign countries.

Students who have any available time to give to the promotion of athletics in the Lexington public schools are requested to see Secretary Johnson, of the Y. M. C. A. Several students are wanted to coach baseball and track teams and help with playground work. Services of any student interested will be greatly appreciated.

Two Events of Interest.

Two events of considerably more than ordinary interest to the students of the University are scheduled in the near future. They are the concert tomorrow morning in chapel by the University band and the Stroller play at the Lexington Opera House the evening of March 10. No student who knows a good thing when he sees it will allow either one of these attractions to go by without his patronage.

The cadet band in past years has had its ups and downs; its personnel has been varied and its directors have ranged as widely in their ability to direct as the musicians have on the scale. This year, under Professor Cover, some real progress has been made. New instruments were bought and the cadets seem to have caught a part of the enthusiasm of the director. They have worked hard and they deserve a big house tomorrow when they appear for the first time in a purely entertaining capacity. The program as announced is not a trashy one. It contains real music, such music as a poor band would not attempt. The members of the band have worked hard; the students owe it to them to attend the concert if they cannot understand music. If they can understand they owe it to their artistic souls.

As for The Strollers, little need be said about their ability. For the past six years this organization has been giving its annual play to the satisfaction of everyone. These plays have always been liberally attended by the students, and it is a difficult task the morning after the show to find a man who will confess that he did not see the performance. The writer has never heard of any person who was not willing to say the Stroller play was well worth the small price asked for admission. The staging and production of the plays has never been gone about in a hap-hazard manner. Everything is systematized and business-like; the club has money in the treasury and it does not beg any one to buy a ticket. It is in a position where it warns everybody not to miss the play. The Kernel joins with The Strollers in warning students not to miss "The Lion and the Ouse." The news columns have the story of the play and the gossip of the cast; we only say that this play will be up to The Stroller standard. That is sufficient for those who know the dramatic club.

Both the band and The Stroller play have the support of the faculty, for the faculty knows that the students are benefitted by such organizations. In order to enjoy the benefits and to show these organizations that their efforts are appreciated, every student should attend their public performances.

Sad Story.

The cub reporter assigned to "cover" a local wedding sauntered back into the editorial rooms of his paper.

"Where's your story?" called the impatient city editor. "Hand it across!"

"Sorry!" said the cub, nonchalantly, "but there was nothing to report! The bridegroom never turned up!"—Christian Register.

Practical.

When our esteemed President Barker made reference to the fact that Governor Stanley faced the angry mob at Murray without even a pen-knife in his pocket he was of course unaware that our chief executive had such an expression as "political tergiversation" concealed in his gubernatorial vocabulary and ready to be pulled in an emergency.

Advice From a Stag.

(By R. R. F.)

If you ask a girl on February 1 to attend the Military Ball with you on February 22, and she puts off her acquiescence until February 21, it's a sure sign that she was crazy to go with you all the time.

It is a wise plan to make several tentative dates for the same dance so that in case your partner returns an unfavorable answer, you will not be in an embarrassing predicament.

It is a fact that most girls will go to a dance with anybody if they find out they can't go with somebody.

Don't attempt to start a conversation with your partner unless the dance is a no-break. If you leave it unfinished you might hand her a different line upon resuming.

If you see a couple dancing off by themselves in a remote and inconspicuous corner, with a don't-you-dare-to-interfere expression on their faces, break them up immediately and if the girl shows signs of chagrin at your intrusion, tell her it is as much your house-party as it is his.

No Law Against Carrying Them Concealed.

She: "The dean always lines us up for inspection before she allows us to go to a dance."

He: "What for? Firearms?"

She: "No. Barearms."

Pfingstag LEAVES COLLEGE.

Vivian R. Pfingstag, a Senior in the College of Agriculture, left Tuesday night for College Park, Maryland, to take up his fellowship work in the Maryland Agricultural College, located in that place.

Pfingstag is specializing in soil chemistry and will take up work in his new location along such lines as will lead to a master's degree. He will return to graduate with his class in June.

WHERE'S FRANK GOTCH?

Harold McGregor, champion wrestler for his size in the University won two straight falls from J. P. Jenkins at the Lexington Y. M. C. A., Saturday night. He took the first fall in twenty minutes and the second in one minute, winning both with his famous hammerlock. A large crowd witnessed the match.

STUDENTS' FORUM
WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT IT?

There are a number of students in the University of Kentucky who are wondering just now if some sentiment can be aroused against the foolish and absurd practices of lavish expenditures on social functions in the University—particularly some of the dances. We realize that we are slaves to custom and are wondering if there might be a possible emancipation from such a tyrant. While many may oppose any such departure from precedent, the question no doubt has received considerable private thought on the part of every thinking student who has had to bear his share of the expenses of these dances.

Whatever may have been the reasons or excuses for these heretofore—and there is no denying they have their place and merit some praise—they all vanish in the face of conditions now existing in the world and in our own nation. Thinking people everywhere are daily reminded of the gravity of the times. Probably today is without its parallel in the history of the nation. In the midst of our boasted prosperity, thousands of people are in a state of starvation and are living in constant want of the bare necessities of life. Upon this is added the fact that the prospect of war is hanging over us. There is also the high cost of living among the students. A large part of the students are compelled to work their way in school or are dependent upon some one at home who is making no little sacrifice to maintain them here. Is it not ridiculous to think of young men in these circumstances spending from fifteen to twenty-five dollars for the sake of a few hours of incongruous gaudy show? And the young ladies are forced to spend in proportion.

Can't this condition be alleviated without very serious loss of dignity and enjoyment on the part of any one, particularly in such a time as this? Reckless extravagance is rather unbecoming at this crisis, to say the least. We are University people and are expected to think a little; should we not be the first to adjust our pace to suit the times in which we live?

Costly programs are nice souvenirs, but would not much simpler ones serve the same purpose? The dress suit with all its necessary appurtenances adds dignity and formality to the occasion; but is not this grossly exaggerated? Decorations are too often carried to the extreme, and many other things might very well be dispensed with entirely or in part.

Many universities, already seeing the folly of such lavish expenses on such functions, are gradually eliminating many things once that necessary. It should be remembered that extravagance is not in harmony with the American spirit, and particularly with the normal spirit of the University of Kentucky. We are not a wealthy university. The fact is most of our students are poor. Oriental splendor or medieval brilliancy is no part of ours. And while this proposal may seem radical and provoke no little satirical comment, nevertheless it is sensible and no doubt meets the secret approval of most of the students.

What do you think? M. F. O.

Never.

"Did you ever!"

In the course of the afternoon a George Washington quiz was given and several poems were written in the name of the father of his country. A delicious luncheon was served and every one had an enjoyable time.

Those present were Misses Claybrook, Helen Morris, Margaret Tuttle, Austin Lilly, Elizabeth Kastle, Elizabeth Crow, Louise Turner, Jane Crawford, Jane Dickey, Ruth Beard, Eleanor Eaker, Frances Sharp, Mildred Graham and Miss Orley.

ATTENDANCE CHART DEvised BY GILLIS

A chart showing the daily record for attendance in each college of the University, and the enrollment of each department has been devised by Professor Ezra L. Gillis, registrar. The chart will soon be ready for active use and will continue to be used in the University.

This chart will be a concise condensed daily report of the administration of University affairs. It will show a comparison of growth in the various colleges and their departments. This will tend to raise the standard of efficiency, by indicating the growth or decline of the various departments and showing the reason for the growth of certain departments and the stability of others.

SIGMA NU ALUMNI ENTERTAIN WITH BRILLIANT DANCE.

Friday evening the Sigma Nu Alumni Association of Kentucky entertained several hundred guests with one of the most brilliant dances of the season. Nothing was spared that contributed to the pleasure of those present and the hospitality brought forth many a word of commendation. Handy's orchestra was behind a screen of ferns and palms at one end of the hall and at the opposite end beneath the fraternity pin in electric lights were two tables of favors. For the girls were exquisite Sigma Nu hat pins in gold besides the other souvenirs of the date, tissue paper caps, whistles, canes, boutonnières and horns. The three cotillion figures were led by Mr. Guy Huguélet and Miss Mary Lovell Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Marr, and Mr. Collis Ringo and Miss Elizabeth Stears, of Nicholasville.

Supper was served at midnight in the dining room. Japanese lanterns and flowers were artistically arranged in garlands and the illuminated fraternity pin on the balcony rail together with the American flag draped between the windows at the other end of the room completed the charming scene long to be remembered. The surprise of the evening was the cabaret stunt presented during supper by professionals who are engaged at the Ada Meade Theatre this week.

The programs were booklet souvenirs of the fraternity, tied with a black silk cord and gold pencil attached. Everyone seemed to move in an enchanted fairyland and the fun continued until 4:30.

SIGMA NU BANQUET IS IN OLD ENGLISH STYLE.

Saturday night the Phoenix Hotel ballroom was converted into an old English tavern in honor of "Ye Sigma Nu Banquet." The floor was covered with sawdust. Each guest was provided with an empty beer keg for a table and a camp stool. The sixty-five kegs were arranged in two circles around the speaker's keg in the center. All of "Ye Sigma Nus" wore their white kitchen caps and aprons. Guy A. Huguélet was the good old English toastmaster. Toasts were responded to by Sir Morrie Crutcher "Ye Sigma Nu Chapter"; Sir Priest Kemper, "Ye Knights Errant of the Can"; Squire Neal Knight, "Ye Serviceable Squires"; Sir Harold Pulliam, "High Ho, We Worthy Gallants"; Sir Lem Givens, "Ye Old and Honored Knights"; Sir Collis Ringo, "Ye Good Old Faithful Alumni."

The menu consisted of sirloin steak, baked potatoes, Roquefort cheese and coffee.

Members of the active chapter of the fraternity are H. B. Combest, M. J. Crutcher, M. E. Pendleton, E. J. Hackney, J. M. Gibson, C. H. Matherly, C. C. Shrader, C. E. McCormick, M. M. Montgomery, A. W. Davies, P. D. Davies, N. H. Aaron, W. S. Moore, T. L. Wilson, C. J. Haydon and G. H. Creech.

Pledges are J. W. Coleman, E. V. Murphree, W. L. Bruner, N. W. Knight, T. L. Gorman, W. C. Draddy, L. E. Eish and J. G. Heber.

AND MAYSVILLE SURVIVED.

FARQUHAR ADDRESSES Y. W. C. A. ON RELIGION

Tells Origin of Worship, Explaining Why It Is Necessary

"Our religion must be a dynamic force in our lives or else there is no good accomplished in its name," said Professor Farquhar in his talk before the Y. W. C. A. Sunday night upon the subject, "Religion and the Educated Woman."

"The first known religion was that of the sun worship," the speaker said, "and that was a very natural thing as the sun was the most important and mysterious power to the people."

Professor Farquhar pointed out the other three points in the development of our religion as we have it now. After the sun worship one finds in ancient times the worship of mythical gods and in time this was changed to the monotheistic conception held in the Old Testament in which the attributes of these various gods were centered in Jehovah. This in turn, changed in Christ because people needed and still need a model for living and therefore one finds the incarnation valuable.

"The best religion of all," according to the speaker, "is the one that leads us to see that God is incarnated in every one. This would strengthen love and democracy and also place a great responsibility of individualism upon each of us."

Miss Burkholder and Miss Nelle Crawford added greatly to the meeting by a musical selection.
