Methodic madness

Add/Drop process really isn't all that complicated

Centralized add-drop, which begins tomorrow in Memorial Coliseum, is one of those procedures that has gotten a poor name over the past few years. Sort of like a flu shot, it does a lot of good, only it hurts like hell.

But the process is fairly simple. According to associate registrar George Dexter, it usually takes about 10 minutes and only in extreme cases can it last as long as an hour. But there are three basic rules to remember before heading to the Coliseum.

First, bear in mind the reason for the semantic change of titles from "drop-add" to "add-drop" (yes, there is a reason). Simply, officials are trying to say a student shouldn't drop a class until he or she has something to add in its place.

Second, check the schedule to see when your name is allowed into centralized add-drop. If you're early, you have to wait. Latecomers are allowed to proceed.

Finally, pick up an add-drop slip from your advisor or in the dean's office of your college.

Now you're all set to enter Memorial Coliseum and begin adding and dropping. The procedure is as follows:

1. For adding a class, check at the table of the appropriate department to see if the desired class has any openings. If there are, pick up a class card and hang on to it. For dropping a class, pick up a drop class card at the department table for the class being dropped.

2. After you have collected all the appropriate class cards, take them to your college's table for approval. The college tables are in the right concourse.

3. Keep your copy of all documents until the end of the semester in case the computer doesn't register any of the changes. Dexter said students should check with the professors early in the semester to make sure their changes have been processed correctly, rather than at the end.

A map will be given to students entering the Coliseum showing the location of tables for the various departments and colleges. Generally, all departments in the College of Arts and Sciences are on the west concourse and all others are on the east. Tables for the English and History departments are on the Coliseum floor.

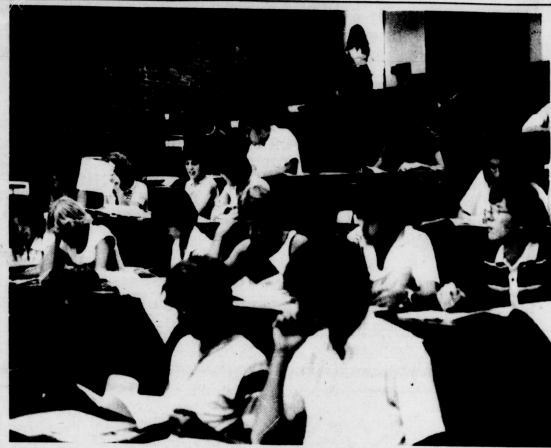

If you miss tomorrow's centralized add-drop, the procedure is only complicated by the fact it becomes de-centralized. All slips and signatures are handled through the individual department and college offices. The lone exception is the College of Arts and Sciences, which will keep its operation under the single roof of Buell Armory on Wednesday.

In certain cases, the addition or loss of classes changes a student's fee assessment. Dexter said those students who have already paid their fees should come to 107 Gillis Building (formerly the Administration Annex) for reassessment or refund. Those that have not already paid can have their fees reassessed when they pay in the Student Center Ballroom.

Dexter said more than 3,000 students will use the add-drop program this semester and urged students to make changes only "if there is absolutely a valid reason." Dexter added that class spaces are tight and "there simply isn't that much left."

Any questions concerning the procedure can be answered by listening to Nexus tape number 106, available by calling 257-3921, or in Dexter's office at 110 Gillis Building, phone number 257-2661.

Those who register late may face long walks

By ANITA R. STURGILL
Kernel Staff Writer

There are two types of late registration for students who have not yet selected class schedules for this fall.

New undergraduate students who were cleared for late registration will attend an advising conference in the Classroom Building this morning at 7:45 and, along with new graduate students, complete their scheduling in Memorial Coliseum beginning at noon today.

The other division of late registration is for those returning students who did not go through advance registration last spring. These students will be charged a $20 late registration fee and will register for classes Aug. 30 through Sept. 6.

Late registration will be held Wednesday and Thursday on the mezzanine of the Patterson Office Tower from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Scheduling on the remaining days will be held in 2 Miller Hall.

The operation for late registration is time-consuming and requires a pair of sturdy walking shoes to travel the distance of campus several times.

First a student must check-in at the above locations and then pick up class cards for the desired classes at the respective department offices.

After obtaining all the necessary class cards, the student returns them to his or her college.

The difficulty arises in that many classes will be closed since most students have already registered.

Ann Cox, in charge of late registering students, said that returning students did have the option to advance register and didn't, so the process of registering is a little more difficult.

Give!

From tuition to parking permits, fee payment is a big item this week

During the first week of the semester, the Student Center Ballroom will be alive, but it won't be with the sounds of music.

From Aug. 28 to Sept. 1, students who registered for the semester in advance may pay their tuition, room and board fees in the Ballroom. On the final two days, Aug. 31 and Sept. 1, those students who registered in Memorial Coliseum on Monday may also pay their fees.

Tony Day, of the Billing and Collections Department, said fee reassessments may be done at the registrar's table in the Ballroom. Day said if a part-time student changes to full-time status or from full-time to part-time status, he must have his fees reassessed. He also said part-time students who change their course load must also have their fees reassessed.

Parking stickers for the C1 and C2 lot will also be sold during the week. On Aug. 29, C1 stickers for the commuter lot between Columbia and Clifton streets will be sold between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. in the Student Center Art Gallery.

Only juniors, seniors and graduate students are eligible for stickers and are given out on a first come, first serve basis. Stickers cost $20 per academic year.

After the C1 stickers are gone, C2 stickers for the Memorial Coliseum lot will be sold. After the C stickers are gone, resident lot stickers (R1, R2 and R3) will be given out to junior, senior and graduate student dorm residents.

Stickers will be given out through Friday in the SC Art Gallery from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., except on Tuesday when the office opens at 9 a.m. and on Friday when the office closes at 2:45. The office will be closed during the lunch hour each day.

We goofed

Because of incorrect information received from the bank, The Kernel reported in its Freshman Edition that First Security Bank offers free checking accounts to students. A spokesman for the bank said First Security has no such policy. The Kernel regrets the error.

CELEBRATE BACK-TO-SCHOOL

WITH collage

There are a lot of parties around this week and we want to get in on the celebrating with one of our own. Collage invites you to come in Mon., Aug. 28; Tues., Aug. 29, or Wed., Aug. 30 and meet us. There will be door prize drawings, refreshments, informal modeling and, best of all, savings on our new fall fashions. Look around campus for girls handing out Collage balloons on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. What religious denomination was the first in the United States to ordain a woman?

It was the Universalist's Church of America, which ordained Olympia Brown in 1863.

*Unitarian Universalists have no creed or interpretation of the Bible to which all must give assent.
Religion for us is a search for knowledge,
tied to respect for the beliefs of others.*

*You may be a Unitarian Universalist without knowing.
Why not visit us and find out?*

WELL, EXCUSE ME!

But I hadn't heard about all the things that are going on at the Newman Center this week. Have you?

It all starts with a chicken barbecue on Tuesday evening, Aug. 29, and it will not be over until we have square danced, volleyballed and wine and cheese our way to Saturday, Sept. 9.

Want to find out more? Call 254-1733 or stop by the Newman Center at 320 Rose Lane.

Attention-Fellow Humans!
ANTHROPOLOGISTS TALK ABOUT WHERE WE'VE BEEN AND WHERE WE'RE GOING.

Are you interested in The social, cultural, and genetic impacts that would arise if cloning became possible? How modern medicine is altering the genetic composition of the human population? Why all humans have language and why there are so many different languages in the world? Why most anthropologists believe that races of humans do not exist?

Come see us... we talk about things like that.

Anthropology may be used to meet a number of basic requirements, such as:

 friend-raising
 That's what the UK Alumni Association is all about!
 Among students
 The Student-Alumni Council is a student organization sponsored by the UK Alumni Association. It serves as a link between alumni and the campus and promotes better understanding and friendship between them. The Council keeps alumni in touch with campus life and works to make students aware of their potential as alumni. Upon graduation one may become involved in any of the UK alumni groups throughout the United States giving them an avenue for new friends nationwide.

And Parents
 The Parents Alumni Council is a special friend for Mom and Dad, a pipeline to the campus scene that you may be too busy to notice or to write home about. For $12 ($10 for single parents), Mom and Dad receive ten publications a year, two written just for them, and are eligible for the benefits of general membership in the UK Alumni Association. Among the benefits offered are discounts on University Press books and Wildcat paraphernalia, overseas tours, opportunities to purchase tickets to UK athletic and fine arts events, use of the Alumni House and occasional guest privileges at Spindletop Hall faculty-alumni club and much more.
