'House Of Horrors' Cast Promises Murder Per Act

Quaranteed to out Dracula Dracula and even raise the hair on the heads of those invertebrate chill producers as Lore, Logos, and Karloff, the 'House of Horrors' French department production, will start on its gory way when the curtain rises on the first of its two performances at Outpost theater Wednesday night.

Two Showings Planned Horror addicts will have another opportunity to witness the thrills of the second showing at the same time and place on Thursday night.

A murder in every act is but one of the features of the spectacle which stars Tani, an Egyptian magician with a pet winged mystical animal which feeds on decomposed human flesh.

Shivers Guaranteed More spine shivers are produced when the blood' brilliant, regular, has estimated the number at 100.

Cooper To Preside Acting President Thomas Poe Cooper will preside at the graduation exercises, and will personally present the diplomas.

Dr. A. E. Bigge heads the committee in charge of arrangements. Serving with him are Dean Sarah G. Blending, Dr. Alexander Caprioso, Dr. and Mrs. Leo M. Chamberlain, Col. Howard Donnelly, Mrs. Frank L. McVey, Mrs. Walter A. Price, Mrs. Edith Smoot Rix, Prof. R. D. McIntyre, A. J. Ghew, and Edward W. Rannels, and selected members of the senior class.

Dr. Roland Ryland said that the French interpretation, will appear "not acted" to the audience. The Corne, a Frenchwoman, will be featured in the French cast which includes Dr. Ryland and Prof. Blake Schick.

Even the hard-hearted spectators will have shivers run up their spines," according to Dr. Ryland.

Trustee Honored By Organization

Judge Richard C. Stoll, vice-chairman of the University board of trustees was chosen as one of 79 founders of the Beta Kappa Association at the organization's first annual meeting in New York city recently.

The purpose of the organization, which is not yet a year old, is to provide working revenue for the united chapters of Phi Beta Kappa and to place emphasis upon the contributions of those who rise to positions of eminence can only pay their debt to society by a high degree of devotion to public service.

Judge Stoll was honored for his numerous activities as lawyer, judge, composer, director, and educator.

Lipscomb To Head Chemistry Group

William Lipscomb, Lexington, was elected president of the Chi Sigma professional chemistry fraternity, at a meeting of the organization Monday night.

Robert H. Mendenhall, vice-president; Alvin C. Isaacs, reporter; Robert H. Mendenhall, secretary; and Frank E. Orbin, Dayton, master of ceremonies.

Re-elected were Dewey E. Waters, Lexington, treasurer; Karl E. Rapp, Lexington, secretary; and Dr. M. H. Bedford, Lexington, faculty adviser.

Cheaper, Better Grade Foods Promised By New Manager

Food at the Union cafeteria, now the Commons cafeteria, will be cheaper and better from now on, Miss Alberta Limbach, new manager, promises.

The cafeteria, now under the management of the University, is making its purchases with the University-operated women's dining rooms and by buying goods in bulk, is getting them at low figures.

In addition to the low purchasing cost, the University managers are lowering the margin of profit according to the manager. They are setting prices so they'll just about break even.

Specials Offered A "special price" on some foods will be offered each meal, Miss Limbach says. Sometimes it will be a combination luncheon of two or three dishes for 15 or 20 cents, and sometimes it will be a 20 cent dish for 15.

These specials, the manager expects, are served to appeal to students who want a nourishing, inexpensive meal, Wednesday's lunch, for instance, offered as a "special" chop sally, salad, and a drink for 15 cents.

BACCALAUREATE SPEAKER NAMED

Dr. J. E. Herrmann To Address Seniors

Dr. Jesse E. Herrmann, pastor of Second Presbyterian church, Lexington, will deliver the baccalaureate address at mid-year graduation exercises at 4 p. m. Sunday, February 2, in Memorial Hall, it has been announced.

The "Three-Fold Task" will be the subject of Doctor Herrmann's address. The University chorists will sing during the service.

Dr. Raymond A. Kent, president of the University of Louisville, has chosen "And So, What Now?" as the topic for his commencement address at 3 p. m., Monday, February 3, in Memorial Hall, it has been announced.

Although for definite number of graduates will not be known until grades are in, Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, registrar, has estimated the number at 100.

Cooper To Preside Acting President Thomas Poe Cooper will preside at the graduation exercises, and will personally present the diplomas.

Dr. A. E. Bigge heads the committee in charge of arrangements. Serving with him are Dean Sarah G. Blending, Dr. Alexander Caprioso, Dr. and Mrs. Leo M. Chamberlain, Col. Howard Donnelly, Mrs. Frank L. McVey, Mrs. Walter A. Price, Mrs. Edith Smoot Rix, Prof. R. D. McIntyre, A. J. Ghew, and Edward W. Rannels, and selected members of the senior class.

MARIONETTES TO PLAY IN UNION

Art Benefit Show Will Be Held Today

Marionette acts, including the traditional Punch and Judy comedy, will be presented in a 45-minute program beginning at 4 p. m. today in the Young room of the Union building as a benefit show of the art department.

Oscar Patterson, arts and sciences editor, will put strings on the puppets which he built. He toured the East and Middle West with his marionettes last year.

Tickets for the performance are on sale at the Union information desk, and in the art department of the Biological Sciences building.

Proceeds from the show will be used to buy drapery for the drawing rooms of the department.

Cosmopolitan Club Will Meet Tonight

Miss Martha Huber, employment secretary of the YMCA, has arranged a New Year's program for the monthly meeting of the Cosmopolitan club at 8 p. m. tonight in the Young lounge.

The club is composed of 54 foreign and American-born faculty and students. Countries represented in the group include the United States, with 12 members; Canada, 6; France, 3; China, 3; Cuba, 2; Japan, 3; Mexico, 2; Panama, 2; Porto Rico, 2; England, 2; South America, 2; Hawaii, 1; Egypt, 1; Tibet, 1; Africa, 1; Italy, 1; and the Netherlands, 1. Jean Ewers is president of the club.

Plans Discussed By Home Ec Club

Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics honorary, will hold its future meetings in one of the basement rooms of the home economics building, it was decided at a meeting last night. Work for the year will be the refashioning of furniture and the making of drapes to decorate the room.

Dr. Stalle Erickson, head of the home economics department, entertained the organization at dinner in her home preceding the business meeting.

Religious Council Will Discuss Plans

Arrangements for acquainting new students with different ministers during mid-semester registration, and the possibility of a Religious Council, will be discussed at a meeting of the campus religious council at 4 p. m. Monday in the Union building.

Jeanne Lancaster, Lebanon sophomore, is president of the council, which is composed of representatives from local Lexington churches with student groups and the YWCA and YMCA.

Catholic Club Mass Set

The University Catholic club will hold mass at 8 p. m. on Sunday, in St. Catherine's academy Sunday at 9:30 a. m. in the Rev. George J. O'Shea, chaplain, announced.

DR. RAYMOND A. KENT DR. JESSE HERRMANN They will deliver the commencement and baccalaureate addresses, to approximately 100 mid-year graduates.

UK Simfonieta To Perform At Sunday Afternoon Musicales

Piano Soloist Ogle Will Appear With Orchestra

The University Simfonieta, which has been recently organized by Dr. Alexander Caprioso, executive director of the music department, will present its initial program at the weekly Sunday afternoon musicale, held at 4 p. m. Sunday, at Memorial Hall.

Maud Miles Ogle, piano soloist, will present Mozart's "D Minor Concerto" with this organization. Madame Ogle has been awarded first prize in the Tennessee State Music Teachers association contest three times, and she received first prize in the contest conducted by the Tennessee Federation of Music Clubs under Neta Teachers.

Madame Ogle has studied under such outstanding teachers as Rudolf Smith, Leo Konus, and Dmitri Mitroponoff, pianist-conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra.

The Simfonieta has been developed primarily to give the students in the music department an opportunity to perform and hear the chamber works of the great masters, which are not ordinarily presented in the larger musical organizations.

The instrumentalists selected to participate are the more advanced musicians who are ready to perform not only on a high technical plane but also on a more natural artistic level.

Students Make Up Personnel With the exception of Mary Kapp Alton, concertmistress, the personnel of the Simfonieta is made up of undergraduates and graduate students of the University.

Plans Discussed By Home Ec Club

Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics honorary, will hold its future meetings in one of the basement rooms of the home economics building, it was decided at a meeting last night. Work for the year will be the refashioning of furniture and the making of drapes to decorate the room.

Dr. Stalle Erickson, head of the home economics department, entertained the organization at dinner in her home preceding the business meeting.

Class Work Shown

A display of work done by art students in the introductory drawing course is on exhibition in the hall of the art department in the Biological Sciences building. The display reviews the first semester of the class and shows the sequence of work done in the course.

Funny Papers Go Begging As Students Cram For Tests

With every room crowded about, like this, the library slipped quietly into the busiest period in its history this week.

Fiction works and magazines are gathering dust on the shelves, libraries say, and Life and the latest funny papers are practically unopened. Meanwhile, political science and history books and similar weighty tomes are passing over the loan desk in record numbers.

A student survey for a Kernel reporter Wednesday afternoon showed that students are setting down to the business of preparing for examinations and turning out term papers.

At 4 p. m. there were 40 students in the reserve room, 50 in the reference room, and 15 in the periodical room, all apparently deep in study.

PERSHING RIFLES TO HOLD FORMAL SATURDAY NIGHT

Sponsor of Unit Will Be Presented At Annual Dance

The Kentucky State Intercollegiate, color orchestra from Franklin, will provide music for the Pershing Rifle night, first dance of the year, to be held from 9 until 12 o'clock Saturday night in the Bluegrass room of the Union.

The band, which has played for many Hop club dances in this vicinity, will feature four vocalists in its appearance here.

The decorations will be carried out in a military motif. Lieutenants Oscar Sellers and Chester Brown are in charge of arrangements for the affair.

The band, which was this year's sponsor of the Pershing Rifle unit, will be presented at a brief ceremony during the dance.

Tickets at $1 per couple of stag may be obtained from the Pershing Rifle unit, candidates for the drill unit and members of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

DOUGS, ADDICTS TO BE DISCUSSED

Reichard Will Give Illustrated Talk

Dr. John Davis Reichard, head of the United States Public Health hospital, Lexington, will give an illustrated address on "The Nature and Treatment of Drug Addiction" before engineering faculty and students at 10 a. m. today in Memorial Hall, according to an announcement from the engineering college.

The address will be illustrated with moving pictures of the health problem. The films will show the organization and administration involved in the treatment of drug addicts.

Doctor Reichard, who has been in charge of the Lexington hospital since 1929, has had extensive experience in public health problems, both here and abroad. He has held positions in immigration and quarantine work in the United States, Germany, and Poland.

The address has been scheduled especially for freshman engineering and mechanical engineering students. Interested persons have been invited to attend.

Novelty Number Will Be Introduced At Sweater Swing

Next Tuesday's sweater session will introduce a novelty number in the form of a "spot dance."

During one dance, which will be designated as the "spot dance," a spotlight will be flashed on a section of the floor when the music is stopped. Whichever couple is on or nearest to the spot, which will be chosen beforehand by members of the house committee, will receive a prize.

If the spot dance is a success, the house committee is considering this a regular feature of the dances.

Meeting Postponed

The regular meeting of the Graduate Women's club has been postponed from today until 6 p. m. Friday, January 17, it has been announced.

The program for the meeting, which will be held at the Student Union building, will be announced next week, the secretary of the organization said.

Petitions Are Circulated For Passage Of Loan Bill

Students, Faculty Members Sign Papers, Urging Enactment Of Proposed Bill

Students and faculty members opened a petition campaign Tuesday in support of the recently proposed student loan bill, which is now being considered by the Student Government Association rules committee.

Approximately 100 petitions are being circulated on the campus, and by yesterday afternoon 500 students and 20 faculty members had already signed the documents.

Members of the student committee in charge of the circulation said that the signatures would probably reach 800 by Monday night, when the bill will be submitted to a joint meeting of the SGA rules and finance committees.

At the joint committee meeting which opens at 7 o'clock in the Union building, the recommendations and proposals of the rules committee will be discussed and acted upon, and the finance committee will present a financial report.

Members of the petitions committee will meet at 8:30 p. m. today in the Union building to plan and organize for further support of the bill.

Provisions of the bill, introduced by Jack Lovett and Donahip Burns, include:

1) Appropriation of $2,000 for the loan fund, to be administered by the Student Government, with a maximum of $500 to be used as a special fund and $1,500 to a general fund.

2) Granting of loans up to $100 with no interest, from the special fund, provided that the student has a minimum of 2.0 in his college work.

3) Granting of loans up to $100 with no interest, from the special fund, provided that the student has a minimum of 2.0 in his college work.

4) Granting of loans up to $100 with no interest, from the special fund, provided that the student has a minimum of 2.0 in his college work.

National Defense To Be Theme Of Farm, Home Meet Speaker

Stockdale Heads List Of Speakers For Convention

National defense will be the main theme of discussion by Dr. Allen Stockdale, National Association of Manufacturers, New York, during the 29th annual Farm and Home convention January 28, 31 at the agriculture college.

"The America We Defend" will be his topic at the first general session. Later in the week he will discuss the problems of the American home and women's stake in democracy.

Head Speakers Bureau A graduate of Boston university school of theology, Doctor Stockdale is head of the manufacturers and a member of the Board of Trustees of Boston university and has filled extensive lecture engagements, including several lectures on the soldiers of the Mexican border.

During the World War, in 1919, Doctor Stockdale was in France six months as a Red Cross field director.

Exhibits Displayed Demonstrations will be held on each of the four days from 12:40 to 1:25 p. m. in the Agriculture Engineering building. These include displays on lighting tobacco stripping rooms, mower adjustments, the furrow seeder and corrugated roller seeder, equipment and use of a farm shop, electric brooding, better poultry houses, making concrete, and roofing materials for farm buildings.

The purpose of these conventions is to bring about the improvement of farm and rural community conditions, and discuss the best methods for raising livestock, poultry, and crops. Last year's attendance reached a total of 2,000 in spite of bad weather.

Besides engaging speakers from other states and from various portions of Kentucky, convention officials have called upon approximately 60 professors and field agents connected with the agriculture college.

Ag Dance Set For Tonight

The third agriculture dance of the year will be held from 10:30 to 11:30 p. m. today in the stock judging parlors, according to an announcement made by Helen Horlacher. Admission will be 25 cents, stag or couple.

Club Organizers Will Meet Monday

Secretarial students interested in organizing a club under the direction of the College Chapter of the National Student Reliance Association are requested to meet at 5 p. m. Monday, in room 301, White Hall, it was announced yesterday by Helen Powell, who has charge of organizing the group.

CAGE CATS WIN AS MILT TICCO GETS 26 POINTS

Kentucky Triumphs Over Musketeers By 48 - 43 Score

With Milt Ticco bombarding the hoops for 26 points in a sensational scoring exhibition before a packed throng in the Xavier university field house, last night, Kentucky's Wildcats overcame their usual rally and staged an early Xavier lead and then staved off several Musketeer threats to win a hard fought battle, 48-43.

Re-live Ovation The big sophomore forward did not enter the fray until it was nearly three minutes old, and he went two minutes remained to be played in the first half. It was in the game the nets were kept scorching hot by his hooping set shots from the side-arms to get a terrific ovation from the Xavier fans when he was replaced by Keith Parsley.

Two Take Up Teten dropped in a free throw and Robbins followed with a field goal to make the first half 17-16. Huber, however, scoring in a short fielder to break the scoring ice for the Wildcats, Huber dunked in the other two-point to pull Xavier back into a three-point advantage, but goals by Teten and Huber put the Cats in front for the first time, 21-16.

The lead changed seven times before goals by Robbins, Himmler, and Teten gave Xavier a 17-10 lead in the first half. At this point Ticco cut loose with a barrage of three fliers from far out on the side to tie the score at 17-16. Kuppen's follow-up shot sent the Rutgers back into the van at 18-16.

Ticco continued his sensational scoring streak, and at the half Kentucky held a five-point lead 22-17, with the sensational Ticco having 18 of these to his credit.

Himmler dropped in a field goal for the Muskies as the second half opened. Xavier again regained Kentucky's five-point advantage. Ticco took up where he left off in the first half and dunked in a foul shot.

Wildie's follow-up shot, following Kuppen's, tied the Cats margin to 22-26. But Hubert and Teten racked up a basket apiece to pull the Wildcats into a 26-26 tie at the midpoint of the last period.

Lead changed by King and three-point spree by Ticco gave the Rutgersman a 28-23 lead with six minutes remaining. Xavier again regained its lead with three minutes left but Ticco came through again with a shot to tie the score at 28-28. Ticco's shot sent the game for the Wildcats.

The Wildcats will entertain for the first time, the return of a West Virginia Mountaineers in a return engagement.

Another 'Little Theatre'

MUSICAL MUTTERINGS

By BILL PENICK

The King is back. Benny Goodman's latest approach to a King of Swing, returned to the band with a new short time ago with a new band, his third, and, he says, his best. This, we doubt, since it seems hardly feasible to think of a group of musicians better than Benny's first and most famous aggregation. After a couple of months' rest, the clarinet playing maestro started organizing his new group back in the fall. He signed Cootie Williams, Duke Ellington's featured trumpeter, to a one year contract, added former band leader George Auld on tenor sax, kept Fletcher Henderson to handle arrangements, and filled out his personnel with leading instrumentalists from other bands.

BENNY GOODMAN

Back in the swing with Band III.

After rehearsing the band for a couple of months and playing one-nighters in the East, Benny announced to the music world that he was ready with his greatest band. While, as we have said, we wouldn't go quite that far, we take our hats off to the Chicago leader for a grand comeback. Few musicians could get together as fine a group as he has in any length of time, much less in as short a time.

His first recordings with his new band and sextet show little difference in his style, the change being toward the sweet side if any. Henderson Stomp, written and arranged by Fletcher, shows a powerful brass section and a wonderful arrangement. Frenesi, modernized Mexican ballad and probably top tune in the country today, features Goodman's clarinet, and a mellow sax section. Helen Forrest, formerly with Artie Shaw, sings completely Cabin In The Sky, while Gus Bivona takes a nice one on alto sax.

The sextet, with Count Basie at the piano, gives the spotlight to Cootie on Benny's Bugle, backed by bassist Artie Bernstein and drummer Harry Jaeger, formerly with Red Nichols. Best side yet released is a full twelve inches of Benny Rides Again. A wonderful arrangement by Eddie Sauter, this one shows the sax section backing Benny in the prettiest passage we have heard come from a Goodman band. The brass tastes of Sing, Sing, Sing near the end with Jaeger backing Benny on drums.

Everything considered, we think the new edition of Benny Goodman and his orchestra definitely near the top of the band world. Whether or not it will climb to the peak remains to be seen.

Managing Editor Speaks His Mind On Sports Policy

To the Editor of The Kernel:
The appearance of a letter in The Kernel from Mr. Petro regarding the "running off" of Kernel reporters from the newsmen's table at a recent basketball game has given us the courage to take our pen in hand and give voice to some long-dormant complaints against the athletic department in respect to their relations with the campus newspaper in particular and the student body in general.

Not that Mr. Petro's letter represents the cause celebre, but merely because the incident of which he writes is typical of the manner in which the powers that be are in at-

Program For a Real 'New South'

By BOSE BROOKE

Wearily trying to cast off the blackout which descended—assisted by various outside influences. Chief barrier is that of the farmers, whose standard of living should be raised to urban level without draining "essential farmhands and even whole families to the cities to work in a sweat shop textile mill."

Most striking editorial in the exchange came from the Daily Tar Heel of North Carolina. Everyone plus a scraper, especially a guy who heads the lion in his own den, Bose Bingham, has been writing for Louisville Courier-Journal, tossed a case of dynamite into a whole jungle some from the top of Chapel Hill just before the Christmas holidays by telling the annual conference of "Tomorrow's Children in the South" just what was wrong with the South: lack of leadership.

There was the expected hemming and hawing in the editorial, but a surprising number one economic problem "was to boost our part of the nation up with the decent out-of-the-schooling system."

Publisher Bingham laments the fact that too few great Southern leaders have been produced in proportion to the people and potential development of the New South. Leaders seem to be on top, but the paper says so, but how can good leaders be produced in an inadequate educational system? Stimulated by letic circles on this campus have treated the students and the representatives of the student newspaper. To put it mildly, the relations between the paper and the athletic department have not been of the best, though on the surface there has been no evidence of conflict. It has been impossible to secure passes for our photographers and athletes from the department. It has been impossible to depend on borrowed tickets and cars; only one press box passport is available for The Kernel athletic staff and when in distant towns, this only if he is lucky enough to find Mr. Boles in that town on the day of the game.

On the other hand, it is a fact that the daily newspapers and even those in other towns receive greater consideration than does the student body. In the latter respect, we see one of the best football and basketball games of the season shifted to Louisville for the edification of the paying public, while the equally paying student body suffers added expense and inconvenience.

All in all, it seems fairly evident that the athletic department is much more concerned with the public at large than it is with the students on the campus. Their aim seems to be to please and attract as many of the paying public as possible, to cater to the tastes of the public, and keep them better informed as to athletics on the campus than the

Letter To The President

Mr. Franklin Delano Roosevelt
White House,
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. President,

For some months the American people—every rich man, poor man, beggar man and thief of us—have been watching and pondering your efforts to arouse the country from its complacency and to lead it in a program for national defense. And at long last we have become convinced and have made up our minds that things democratic must and shall be saved.

The great majority of us, by this time, are agreed that the line-prims which you and your advisers have drawn up for the job are sound, and we have set to work to make aims realities. One of the principle phases of these plans—in fact the most important phase right now—has to do with the shipment of war materials to Great Britain. It is with this subject that this letter is to deal.

Few of us, it seems, would disagree with the premise that aid to England is vital, that it is to our own interest as well as theirs to send it to help the British people defend their homes and hit back with ever-increasing vigor and eventually restore autonomy to Europe's conquered nations.

But there are some of us who believe that material aid alone is not enough.

We believe that certain acts must be done and words spoken to guarantee that when and if this war is fought to a successful close, the evil system which bred it will never have sole sway again. We refer to the mean, petty, grasping brand of mercantilism that prevailed during the 1920s and 30s; the selfish Toryism which forgot its proletarian promises of 1918; which, together with France's "200 Families," prevented the German demagogue from working; which played with Mussolini and mouth-fed the Nazi and Fascist movements.

The same Toryism which used the Empire to line its own pockets and sold out the League of Nations and dismissed those who tried to prevent the sellout. The Toryism which was amazed to find its Fascist friends had turned on it, which tried to "defend democracy" with the motto "business as usual"; which sent green, ill-equipped militia to be massacred at Namsos and Stenjkjer. The Toryism which the British people finally realized after Dunkerque did not "know" instinctively what was best for England.

Happily, Mr. President, the grip of this super-conservation was relaxed a bit last May, and members of the Labor and Liberal parties were admitted to the Government. These parties, contrary to widespread belief, number some excellent statesmen: men like Ernie Bennet, Clement Attlee, Arthur Greenwood, Herbert Morrison, Ellen Wilkinson, Sir Stafford Cripps, Sir Walter Citrine, Lord Harold, As well as the famed political scientist, Harold J. Laski, whose recent book, Where Do We Go From Here, has been termed "the most stirring answer to Mein Kampf yet written."

These men are proving daily that they are competent and capable of political administration, and with them sharing Government positions alongside the Conservatives, the little people of England have taken new heart. Today it is nothing, correspondents tell us; to see bantam Cockneys standing beside their levelled homes, shaking their fists at the Dorniers overhead and urging the Spitfires to "give 'em 'ell!" Nothing to see the plain folk of London sitting in the bomb shelters with stubborn thumbs upturned, singing the "Bear Barrel Polka" and "There'll Always Be An England."

Such people are today fighting democracy's battle, and proving over and again that they deserve a guarantee of security and equal opportunity—even after the war is over. They really don't ask so much: simply a chance to work, a decent home, three square meals, perhaps a ball game on Saturday afternoon and a couple of beers on Saturday night. How can these things possibly undermine the position of the British nobility and aristocracy—especially when some of these groups are spending the war sunning at Palm Beach and propagandizing in New York?

Mr. Roosevelt, you are in a position to help those people; and we think you would like to, since you gave evidence of it in your speech of Monday. You will recall that you said in part:

"As men do not live by bread alone, they do not fight by armaments alone. Those who own our defenses, and those behind them who build our defenses, must have the stamina and courage which come from an unshakable belief in the manner of life which they are defending. The mighty action which we are calling for cannot be based on a disregard of all things worth fighting for . . ."

"Certainly this is no time to stop thinking about social and economic problems which are the root cause of the social revolution which is a supreme factor in the world."

There, Mr. President, is the crux of the argument for aid to Britain; aid in things ideological as well as military. The nation is giving the arms; you yourself can help immensely to supply the ideals if you will say directly to the British Government: "We are helping you because we believe you to be a sincere democracy. You can prove to the world that you are—even more than you are proving now—by giving your people (and us in the United States as well) guarantees that your necessary wartime social and economic gains will be permanent gains when the war is over." They'll listen to these words all right; they'll have to listen. And the resultant faith will do more to snuff out this dumb, brutal Fascism than all the Bardias image, inable . . .

So go ahead and tell them, Mr. Roosevelt; tell them, and we Americans will back you up.

Yours sincerely,
JIM M. CALDWELL

SGA Should Pass The Loan Bill

BEHIND IVIED WALLS By ALLENNY E. WINER

The student loan bill faces a final test next Tuesday when the Student Legislature puts it up to vote. The measure has been beaten once and its originators and supporters have been conducting an earnest though ill-organized campaign to push it through on second try.

There is little room for criticism of this bill. One cannot deny that there is an urgent need for a loan fund on the campus. Yet, a minority group on the campus seems to be striving twenty hours a day to devise devious means with which to defeat the measure. In our own observations of campus opinion we have noticed that the majority of students want this bill to be passed.

Some persons, however, have remarked that they didn't favor the measure because they "weren't sure just who was behind it." This objection has cropped up more than is necessary, and it is said to say that the bill has been subjected to the cheapness of fractional jibes. A bill such as the one under consideration need be considered simply from the basis of its merits and demerits as a bill and its consequences in campus affairs.

As to "just who is behind it," it is regrettable that that should make so much difference. If the Sheiks of Arabia are behind it, then the Sheiks of Arabia certainly have a good cause. Or even if the centaurs are behind it, then they're certainly smart individuals. It makes not the bit of difference who is behind that loan bill, it is the worthwhile measure that has yet appeared on the legislative record, and if it fails to pass on Tuesday, the student legislature might just as well pack up and go back home.

It seems to us that these legislators on the campus have become too impressed with the idea that they are legislators and have forgotten why they were put there. They have spoken about the business end of the bill and this and that, but being practical. That is nonsense. There is nothing more practical than the spirit of helping somebody in need.

It will not be long before you legislators are succeeded by others and they in turn will also pass on. And new students will come to this campus, and among them will be some who could use a little financial aid. What you are debating on and trying your best to delay is something that, if given your approval will be appreciated by students five, ten and twenty years from now.

We don't profess that the bill is perfect. No bill is and no legislative measure ever will be. But the spirit of the bill is unimpeachable and it is doubtful that the Kentucky Student Legislature ever will be given another measure as deserving of consideration as this one. If this loan bill fails, the system of student self-government itself stands indicted.

STOP! LOOK! and LISTEN!

By JANE BAYNHAM

Now that we've officially inaugurated and welcomed in the year of '41 in our usual gay manner, and have made said, of course, broken our usual resolutions in the equally gay manner, it's quite a let-down to put the old nose to the grindstone once again, worse still to see the approach of exams! But be that as it may, that reassuring phrase comes to our rescue, "if winter comes, can spring be far behind?"

This spring comes to the aid of the style-conscious femmes with the drapery, alterations, and accessories newest and most flattering colors, to make your wardrobe attractive for as little or as much as you wish to spend.
You may be surprised to know that the bolero is making a quick comeback this year and is being shown in thin wool, preferably black, over the ever-popular white plique pleated blouse.
Wood dresses will be run in a patriotic and military vein, with brass buttons, golden eagles, and star-studded belts make. Shoes will also take on a military aspect.
Your new spring suit will be plaid in lovely light shades of pink, blue, lime and tan. A cape thrown over your shoulders in a solid color tweed will be the newest flair of smartness. Skirts May Get Longer.
Here's the real news: The 1914 skirt drapery will be echoed in 1941, with slit skirts to facilitate walking and dancing. Dipping hemlines will put in appearance for the first time in years. Style mangers believe that this may mean skirts will be longer, instead of shorter. They have in the past!
There's a new "slant" on shoulders this year and though it was looked

Running Wild

By ROY STEINFORT

Kentucky's number one ambassador of good will, roundish Adolph Rupp, has scored another diplomatic field goal.

The dead-panned basketball mentor stepped into the nation's hardwood limelight last week after his flu-infected Cats had dropped a nip-and-tuck 48-43 decision to Indiana's Hoosiers in the Sugar Bowl classic.

It all started when Whitney Martin, led high mogul of Associated Press sports paraphraser, was assigned the Sugar Bowl basketball and football games. Martin attended a session of the local New Orleans Quarterbacks club.

Rupp attended. For the veteran scribe it was just another occasion to hear football coaches blow the breeze to a gathering of drug store quarterbacks. Rupp appeared briefly at the Quarterback club, which is primarily a football organization and on this particular occasion was all wrapped up in the Sugar Bowl football game between Tennessee and Boston college.

Rupp, with his dead-panned hill-billy drawl, was asked out of common courtesy to say a few words. And according to Martin, Rupp "wowed" the members.

It was one of those informal affairs where the audience is privileged to ask the speaker any question. Rupp drew this one: "Do you proselytize your basketball players?"

Adolph elucidated: "According to Martin's coast-to-coast account of the story, Rupp, without batting an eyelash, explained:

"Well, you see, we just have a little bunch of mountain boys who come down out of the hills to get a little education. You know, we're poor folks up there in Kentucky, and these boys get an acre of ground up on a hill or down in a hollow and plant corn."

"Of course, they have to liquidate their crop to get money to come to school, and we have to help market the crops for them sometimes. That's as far as we go in proselytizing."

"They're just a skinny, scrawny bunch of boys doing the best they can."

Asked to Pick Winner: Finished with that story, another inquisitive listener probed further by asking Rupp who would win the Sugar Bowl football game.

"Well, now, I'm glad you asked me that," he drawled. "There's a game I know something about. I'm probably the only football coach with a perfect record. I've never won a game. But, you know I'd like to try coaching football again. I've figured out a lot of good plays I'd like to try out. I understand there are several good jobs open."

Rupp with his hill-billy talk and his usual stories has done much to spread the good name of the University. Several times Rupp has been offered more money to coach at another school, but the disciple of Phog Allen, has always turned them down, preferring to stay here at Kentucky.

Here's Another Tale: Here's a paragraph that Whitney Martin never knew about or he would have included it in his story of Rupp that appeared in more than

Aging Celtics Outlast Edentide To Win Charity Court Classic

"They grunted and they groaned," they wheezed and they moaned" but despite their antiquity, the New York Celtics bested a surprisingly strong Edentide five from Louisville, 44-41 Monday night in Alumni gym.

Although their arteries are beginning to harden and their joints to ache, the Celtics reached back into the past for the fire of youth and outlasted the Kentucky State amateur champions.

Tide Takes Lead: The Tide took an early lead over the Celtics through the accurate shooting of Mickey Rouse and Warfield Donahue, former Kentucky cage stars. Aided and abetted by Harry Blanford, lanky Tide center, they led the professionals 28-21 at halftime.

In the second half Nat Hickey and Paul Birch pushed the Celtics into a third quarter tie, 34-34. The final quarter was nip and tuck until Hickey put the game away with long and short goals.

Hickey was the offensive star of the contest with 16 points. Blanford was next with 16 points. The failure of Ed McDermott to appear in the game was disappointing. McDermott was kept on the sidelines because of injuries.

The game was planned by the Lexington Lions club for charitable purposes. Originally scheduled as an exhibition, the 2,500 persons present were surprised by the militant contest that ensued.

SUB Christmas Carnival Led To Real Benefits

(Editor's note: we have been asked to publish the following letter addressed to Elizabeth Jones, chairman of the committee which staged the Union building's first annual Christmas Carnival last month.)

My dear Miss Jones: Although your generous donation arrived on December 24 so that some of it was not used for Christmas, we want you to know how much pleasure part of your money gave at the holiday season.

We discovered on the day that we received the money that one of our best families with six children had no provision for Christmas as its name had been omitted from lists for baskets and toys.

The mother had lain awake all night of December 23, worrying because the children would have no Christmas. Three dollars ($3.00) of your money was given for the purchase of food and four dollars ($4.00) for clothing to be used as gifts since all of the children were over ten years. We supplemented this with clothing from our office so that the family had a very happy holiday.

Two dollars ($2.00) of your money went to a family of four small children who had watched the Boy Scouts deliver toys to all the other houses on their street—but pass them by. As their father was not able to work, they had only the toys which your money provided and a basket given by another organization. There were 5000 miles of petroleum pipes laid in 1939.

We want you to be assured of our appreciation of your interest in our work.

Sincerely yours, (Miss) Muriel Cavis Executive Secretary Family Welfare Society.

THE SMOKE'S THE THING!

EXTRA MILDNESS EXTRA COOLNESS EXTRA FLAVOR

AND ANOTHER BIG ADVANTAGE FOR YOU IN CAMELS—

the smoke of slower-burning Camels contains

28% LESS NICOTINE than the average of the 4 other largest-selling cigarettes tested... less than any of them... according to independent scientific tests of the smoke itself

WHEN all is said and done, the thing in smoking is the smoke! Your taste tells you that the smoke of slower-burning Camels gives you extra mildness, extra coolness, extra flavor.

Now Science tells you another important—and welcome—fact about Camel's slower burning.

Less nicotine—in the smoke! 28% less nicotine than the average of the other brands tested—in the smoke! Less than any of them—in the smoke! And it's the smoke that reaches you.

Mark up another advantage for slow burning—and for you!

Try Camels... the slower-burning cigarette... the cigarette with more mildness, more coolness, more flavor, and less nicotine in the smoke! And more smoking, too—as explained below package, right.

"SMOKING OUT" THE FACTS about nicotine. Experts chemists analyze the smoke of 5 of the largest-selling brands... find that the smoke of slower-burning Camels contains less nicotine than any of the other brands tested.

By burning 25% slower than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—Camels also give you a smoking plus equal, on the average, to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!
