LSO MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The Library Staff Organization is a social organization open to all library personnel, both professional and classified. Some of the annual social events include:

- the Valentine's Day bake sale
- the summer picnic
- the Christmas luncheon

Other events, like the Pet/Owner Match-Up Contest, are held in response to members' suggestions. LSO also has a booth at the annual Library Book Sale.

LSO responds to the needs of the library community by sending cards to staff members when appropriate and memorials when a staff member or someone in a staff member's immediate family dies. When a library staff member retires, LSO presents the person with a gift. LSO responds to the needs of the Lexington community by organizing collections for a Thanksgiving basket and Christmas gifts for those less fortunate.

For only $5.00 per calendar year, you can help support the Library Staff Organization. Please send the form and your $5.00 check made payable to LSO to Maggie Johnson today. You will be glad you joined.

BEGINNING JAPANESE OFFERED FALL, 1990

There will be two special sections of Beginning Japanese offered in the fall. The instructor is a native of Japan especially trained to teach Americans. The format will be intensive and stresses oral proficiency. Sections will be limited to enrollment of ten each. Students, faculty, and staff with a career interest in Japanese (e.g. business, engineering, agriculture, pharmacy, as well as the social sciences and humanities) are especially encouraged to apply for enrollment.

Selection for enrollment in these sections will be made by Japanese Area Studies Initiative Committee. Applicants are asked to submit a short description of their interest in Japanese to the Initiative Committee in care of:

Dr. Roger Anderson
Chair, Russian & Eastern Studies
1055 POT
257-3761

Dr. Michael Kane
International Business Center
227 Business & Economics Bldg.
257-4544

For more information about this special opportunity to study Japanese, please call Dr. Anderson at the number listed above.

ACCESS TO LOCIS FOR UK/FACULTY/STAFF/STUDENTS

LOCIS, the Library of Congress Information System, will be available on the UK campus through May, 1990. The UK Libraries are participating in a pilot project to make this system available via remote electronic access outside of Washington, D.C., for the first time since its development. The system provides access, not only to all of the books, serials, manuscripts, maps, music, and AV materials available in the Library of Congress, but to all copyright registrations, LC's internal research referral files containing information on over 14,000 research organizations, the Congressional Research Service's (CRS) bill digest system for tracking historical and current legislation, and CRS's own list of sources used to write reports for Congressional offices and committees since 1976.

To gain access to this system, see your branch librarian or the staff members in either the Government Publications (GPD) or Reference Departments in King Library South. You may either have them do the search for you, do your own searching in the Search Room in the Reference Department, or register to be a remote user from your office or home.

To inquire about a training session, or to register to be a remote user, you may either call your branch librarian, Government Publications (7-3139), or Reference (7-1631), or, send an e-mail message to either govpub@ukcc (GPD) or refdesk@ukcc (Reference). You may use the UK network (ukcc) to access LOCIS or dial-in directly. Either method will require a personal computer and a modem. For additional information regarding this announcement, please contact Sandra McAninch at 7-8400 or mcaninch@ukcc.

OTHER ANNOUNCEMENTS FROM GPD

The Library's LEGI-SLATE subscription includes access to their press release service and a very sophisticated voting analysis package, but we will only have these two services during 1990! Too expensive to continue at current pricing! Consequently, if any faculty members were contemplating such research, this would be the year to do it.

Also, GPD's new e-mail address for use by faculty who want to ask us questions. It is govpub@ukcc.

ABOVE AND BEYOND

Paul Willis received this letter from Betty Voit, Librarian, Jefferson Community College:

This letter brings you and your interlibrary loan department a chorus of thanks from Jefferson Community College (Downtown) students and faculty for your extraordinary interlibrary loan service. We are overwhelmed by the efficiency of Jodi Carter and the entire interlibrary loan department; our numerous ILL requests to you are being handled with the greatest possible speed and the materials are returned to us promptly. The resource sharing made possible by the FAX and the LS 2000 is of inestimable value to our college; thank you for helping to make it possible.

A similar letter from Betty Voit was received by Omer Hamlin:

. . . We are overwhelmed by the efficiency of Winn Theirl, Rita

Tobin, James van Huss and the entire ILL department. To cite one example, our first faxed ILL request to you was sent on a Friday at about 4 p.m.; the article requested arrived here at 4:30 p.m. the same day. Incredible! . . .

Jim Birchfield has received several letters commenting on the latest issue of the Kentucky Review. Here are excerpts from three of them.

From Patrick Snadon, School of Architecture, Mississippi State University:

Thanks so much . . . for the new issues of The Kentucky Review. Congratulations on a marvelous conclusion to a difficult task. The issue is superb. I am extremely happy with the organization and layout of the Loudoun article. The illustrations look better in reproduction than I recall the originals. I also see your expert editorial touches: making the notes more consistent, etc. I wish I had you to edit everything I write!

I enjoyed Clay's and Sam's articles, but the real bonus is your article on Bell House. . . It is delightful. At last we have an accurate and scholarly architectural history of the house, and a delicious social history of Clara Bell Walsh...

From Clay Lancaster, Salvisa, Kentucky, to the Lexington-Fayette Urban Co. Government:

. . . Also submitted are xerox copies of James D. Birchfield's splendid article from the Autumn 1989 issue of THE KENTUCKY REVIEW, entitled "Some Muniments of Bell Court, Lexington." It derives from materials recently acquired by Special Collections of the University of Kentucky Libraries, the acceptance of which in itself indicates the esteem that Bell Court enjoys. I highly recommend your careful consideration of this fine study.

From Joseph G. Smoot, Vice-President for Development, Pittsburg State University, Pittsburg, KS:

I cannot resist writing to you to tell you how much I enjoyed your article on Bell Court in the current issue of the Kentucky Review. As a graduate student at UK, I lived at two different times on Bell Court East. . . I always go back to Bell Court when we return to Lexington which has not been often. Now I have a better understanding of how it all came to be.

Joanne Filkins, Microform Services, P/N/M/, received the following letter from Lee Frances White, Forest Hills, NY:

I am grateful to hear of your service from the Kentucky Historical Society. I spoke with Ann and she was most kind and helpful...congratulations on having such fine students. I am doing my genealogy and find that I have names but no information about my mother's side of the family. . . Thank you again for this service! I'm excited.
