MRAP MEETING IN KNOXVILLE

Ruth Brown, John Bryant, Bill Gardner, and Dotty Green attended a one day workshop sponsored by the University of Tennessee and the Office of Management Studies of ARL on the University of Tennessee's experience with the Management Review and Analysis Program (MRAP). The program was divided into two parts; 1) how the study was carried out, and 2) what were the results at Tennessee. Staff members who participated in various phases of the study presented the program. Several copies of the Evaluation of the University of Tennessee/Knoxville Library based on their MRAP, Sept. 1, 1972-May 31, 1973, have been placed on reserve for interested staff to read.

OMBUDSMAN'S REPORT

As noted in a recent memorandum, my term as Ombudsman has ended early, the result of a position change. It has been my pleasure to serve the staff in this capacity. In the first six months I have handled three cases which required consultation, interviews, investigation and a report. In addition to the above cases, I have had several staff members see me about minor problems. Those matters were resolved at that time. The number of cases requiring serious attention were few; however, the total involvement of personnel, resulting in interviews, investigations and reports, numbered near thirty.

It is my sincerest hope that all parties served by this office have gained some satisfaction from our joint effort.

John Bryant
