Year-Long Program Replaces RIL Week

Instead of holding a Religion In Life Week this year, the Interfaith Council has taken steps to present a continuing religious program on the UK campus throughout the year.

The Rev. Dick Carpenter, Christian Church minister on campus, explained that at the end of RIL week last year, a committee was set up to evaluate the effectiveness of the program.

This committee, composed of the executive committee of Interfaith Council and several faculty members, recommended a program which would last throughout the year instead of the one-week program used in former years, he said.

Three committees have been formed by Interfaith Council to work on the new program. Included are an articles committee, a special events committee, and a speakers bureau.

The purpose of the articles committee is to stimulate student interest in writing articles of a religious nature which would be suitable for the Kernel, Rev. Carpenter added. Ann Swartz and Bob Adler are co-chairmen of this group.

The special events committee, with Marg Richlin as chairman, was formed to arrange religious events as often as possible throughout the year.

As a part of this series, Dr. James W. Gladden, professor of sociology, will speak Nov. 19 in the SUB on "Interfaith Marriages."

On Dec. 4, a fun night will be held in the Student Union Ballroom. This will be open to all UK students and will feature square dancing, entertainment, and refreshments.

Also in December, an imported religious art exhibit will be presented, and later in the year, a program of religious music is planned.

"It is hoped that every student in the University can be reached by at least one of these programs," Rev. Carpenter stated.

Bob Mattson heads the speakers bureau committee. At present, 18 qualified speakers are available to talk on 71 subjects to non-religious campus groups.

A file of these speakers is being created as a service to all University groups, and no charge will be asked.

Letters will be sent this month to all campus groups and those desiring a speaker can request either a particular subject or speaker by contacting the YWCA office.

Dickey To Attend Missouri Meeting

President Frank G. Dickey and a group of faculty members will attend the 73rd annual convention of the American Association of Land Grant Colleges and State Universities next week in St. Louis, Mo.

President Dickey said the convention will be attended by representatives of programs connected with federally backed land grant institutions.

The convention will primarily consist of a business session dealing with the actions of land grant institutions, Dr. Dickey said.

"One of the major ideas for discussion centers about the relationship of land grant institutions with the Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C.

Other ideas include the relationship of the military through ROTC, on a land grant institution campus, plus contract research and its impact on the graduate study of a land grant institution," Dr. Dickey said.

SuKy

SuKy announced yesterday that students interested in giving the UK Wildcats a send-off for the Vandy game may meet at the main entrance of the SUB at 10:10 a.m. today.

Dr. Dickey will participate in a panel entitled, "Problems of the ROTC in a Public Institution."

Dr. Abby L. Marlatt, director of the School of Home Economics and chairman of the division of Home Economics for the entire Land Grant Association, will preside at her division's meetings.

Dean of the Graduate School, Dr. H. E. Spivey, will moderate a panel dealing with the identification of good college instructors and teaching.

There will be a report from the centennial steering committee of 1962, President Dickey added. The 100th birthday of the founding of land grant institutions will be celebrated in 1962.

The centennial convention will be held in November of 1961 in order to "kick off" the 1962 birthday.

The convention, which will be held in the Sheraton Jefferson Hotel, will extend from Sunday through Wednesday of next week. Approximately 85 institutions from the 50 states will be represented with over 1,000 people attending.

Others who will leave Sunday for the required meeting, Dr. Dickey said, include Dr. Frank J. Welch, dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics; and Dr. M. S. Wall, associate dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

Dr. E. J. Nesius, associate director of Agriculture Extension Service; Dr. A. D. Albright, executive dean of Extended Programs; Dr. Merl Baker, director of university research and industrial relations; Dr. H. L. Donovan, past president of the University; and Dr. F. D. Peterson, vice president.

WUS Begins Drive, Sets Goal At $1,000

Aiming at a goal of $1,000, the campus' annual fund raising drive for the World University Service will begin tomorrow.

WUS is a program in which students and professors combine their efforts in helping students in refugee and relief areas throughout the world to help themselves.

Over 700 major colleges and universities in 36 countries sponsor WUS on their campuses.

Through its relief program, it provides food, clothing, books, equipment, and scholarships to students, and proves for the students' health and other welfare problems.

With the money raised by WUS, the students build their own shelters and medical centers, mimeograph their own books, organize cooperative stores and try to raise more money in their own destitute communities.

According to Dr. John Kuiper, head of the Philosophy Department, the aid given by WUS to students will effect future leadership of their countries.

He said, "In aiding the education of these students, we are helping to develop leadership. From the universities helped by WUS come the potential leaders of these particular countries."

Dr. Kuiper is faculty representative and treasurer of the campus WUS organization.

A direct descendant of a relief organization set up in Europe after World War I, WUS is divided into 41 national committees, coordinated internationally by a general assembly with headquarters in Geneva.

WUS is interreligious, international, interracial, and strictly non-political. Its relief work is carried into Asia, the Middle East, Africa, and parts of Europe.

On campus the WUS drive is sponsored by Student Government Association, Interfraternity Council, Interfaith Council, and Panhellenic Council.

Nationally it is sponsored by B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations, National Newman Club Federation, U.S. National Student Association, and the United Student Christian Council.

Solicitors for the drive are representatives of all sororities, fraternities, and housing units. Last year approximately $800 was raised by UK students and faculty.

Officers of the WUS organization are Barbara Wall and Dick Lowe Gormley, co-chairmen; Dick Lowe, solicitations; Norman Harned, Ethelee Davidson, Carolyn Sulier and Jean Marie Goulett, publicity; and Garryl Sipple, student treasurer.

Block And Bridle

The Block and Bridle Club will sponsor the annual Fall Festival of the Agriculture and Home Economics College today at 7:30 p.m.

Main attractions are catching the greased pig contest for fraternities, the milking contest for sororities and the announcement of the Festival King and Queen.

Journalism Professors Attending KPA Seminar

Three faculty members from the School of Journalism are today attending the Kentucky Press Association seminar in Bowling Green.

The seminar is one of a series being held throughout the state to inform Eastern Kentucky newspaper editors about the pitfalls in presenting the news.

The faculty members attending from UK are Dr. Niel Plummer, director of the School of Journalism; Victor Fortmann, assistant professor of Journalism; and Perry Ashley, part-time instructor of Journalism.

Dr. Plummer will be the main speaker at the banquet tonight. The title of his address is "Write it and Weep." He also will give this speech to a Journalism class at Western State Teachers College this afternoon.

The three faculty members left yesterday to attend the meeting.

The two-day seminar is divided into morning and afternoon sessions. Each session will be divided into four panels.

The panels will discuss problems in reporting the news, such as access to records and contempt of court.

Saturday's session will be held at Murray State College.

Thomas L. Adams, president of the Kentucky Press Association, will preside over the seminar.

Martin's Award

James W. Martin, director of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Kentucky, holds a lifetime honorary membership he received while attending the 57th annual convention of the National Tax Association in Houston, Tex. Martin, 66, is the only person under 75 ever to receive the award.

President Decides To Shift Army's Missile Agency

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower decided today to transfer the Army ballistic missile agency to the civilian National Aeronautics and Space Agency (NASA).

Eisenhower announced he will ask Congress in January to approve the shift. Congress could veto the plan for taking the Army missile team out from under pentagon control.

The President also announced that under the contemplated transfer the Army missile team's program of development of super-thrust missiles—including the Saturn program—will be consolidated in the civilian agency under direction of the Army team.

Eisenhower's announcement came against the background of a fresh wave of criticism of the administration's space program by the Army's two top missile men—Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris and Werner Von Braun.

Future mining engineers must be more specialized, according to Walfried Been of Michigan College of Mining and Technology (Science Newsletter). Graduate engineers will be facing problems requiring more specialization than in earlier years.

Been said, "Intensification of science background must be made at the cost of relinquishing time in some other area of training. However, the danger of subordinating engineering qualities to a preoccupation with scientific studies must be recognized."

U. S. State Mottoes

CHICAGO (AP)—Hawaii's statehood brings a new language to the list of those used for official state mottoes.

Montana, using Spanish, says "Oro y Plata" (Gold and Silver). The only American Indian motto is Washington's "Al-ki," which means "Bye and Bye."

The island state's motto in Hawaiian is "Ua Mau Ke Ea O Ka Aina I Ka Pono." It means, "The life of the land is perpetuated in righteousness."

"THE WORM TURNS"
Shakespeare said it this way: "The smallest worm will turn, being trodden on." But Miguel de Cervantes boss him to it in "Don Quixote", Part II, Book 3: "Even a worm when trod upon, will turn again."
"MUSIC HAS CHARMS"
The 17th Century playwright, William Congreve, was the first to set down this classic metaphor concerning the powers of sound and rhythm. You'll find the whole quote in "The Mourning Bride", Act I, Sc. 1: "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast, To soften rocks, or bend a knotted oak."
"RHYME OR REASON"
Edmund Spenser, 16th Century poet, expected a pension. He didn't get it. So he wrote this rhyme: "I was promised on a time/To have reason for my rhyme;/From that time unto this season,/I received nor rhyme nor reason."

UK Computing Center Is Model

The University computing center, still in its infancy, is already serving as a model for other Southern universities.

Representatives of four schools have visited the year-old UK center to gather ideas for similar installations at their own institutions.

Groups from Vanderbilt, Louisiana State, Alabama, and Tennessee have seen the center in action and Auburn officials are among those who will visit it in November.

In just over a year of operation, the computing center has become one of the busiest spots on the UK campus.

The center opens its doors around 8 o'clock each morning with the computer being used most nights till midnight and frequently all night by campus researchers.

"There aren't enough hours in the day to do what we need to do," Dr. John W. Hamblen, the director, said. "Our 650 computer averaged 12 hours per day for 31 days in October and that's exclusive of maintenance time."

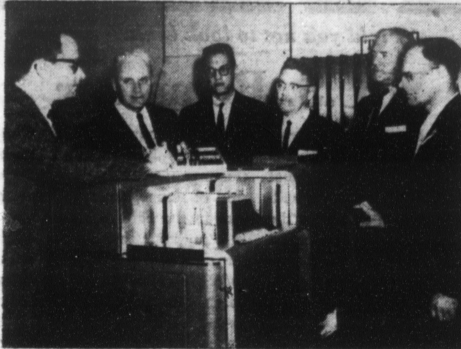

"The trend toward numericalized research is making our machines more and more important on the college scene," Dr. Hamblen added.

In addition to computing research data, the UK center is used for a variety of other things. Among them are instruction in machine use, computing center accounting, and the development and maintenance of a library of problem instructions.

"The computers make it possible for the researchers to use more powerful statistical tools in the analysis of their data," Dr. Hamblen said. "In addition it frees them from the drudgery of computation and allows them to devote more time to other problems."

James F. Thompson, an associate economist in the College of Agriculture, said the center speeds up projects in agricultural economics, allowing him to do twice as much work on farm problems. "Since we deal mostly in figures, the center helps us do a more thorough job, too. We don't have to leave much to judgment," Thompson added.

Dr. Silvio Navarro, left, assistant director of the University of Kentucky Computing Center, explains the workings of the center to a group from the University of Tennessee and the International Business Machines Corp.

Medical Exam Site Changed To Euclid

The site for the national medical college admission exams set for 8 a.m. Saturday has been changed from the College of Pharmacy to the Euclid Avenue Classroom Building.

Dr. Ernest McDaniel, director of the UK Testing Service, will conduct the examinations.

Some 70 persons are expected to take the exams.

Spare Those Pledges

The Interfraternity Council, in a burst of unaccustomed activity, has shifted its attention from sending pledges out to solicit money from unsuspecting Lexingtonians and registering disapproval of a local bistro's displeasing prices by nonpatronage to investigating grade standards.

Don't get us wrong. We are all for IFC's investigating ways of improving pledge standings to keep fraternities off probation. It seems, however, that the council is attacking this problem in a round about way.

Acting President Charles Schimpele expressed approval of a plan calling for dropping pledges who fail to have a 2.0 standing at mid term. If those pledges dropped would be repledged after making their grades, this plan might be feasible.

But such a plan would still miss its mark, though, for even actives have a habit of sometimes not making their grades. If a provision were made to also drop fraternity actives who failed to make their mid term grades, the "democratic" nature of fraternities would be preserved and grade averages would be astronomical.

Any such action on the part of the fraternity system will repudiate a point so beloved in rush—that fraternities build scholarship. While this high sounding phrase may not always hold true, it does sound nice and should not be scrapped without careful thought.

To illustrate a prime fallacy in the plan, let us make an analogy. If a man has a broken leg, it is the practice to treat the injury and restore the leg to use, not to amputate it in the hope that it will someday heal itself and be reattached to the body.

We realize that fraternities have to conform to standards set in part by women whose grades run higher than men's. While this is unfair, what is done is done and, until a better system is approved by the University Faculty, IFC will have to live with the situation.

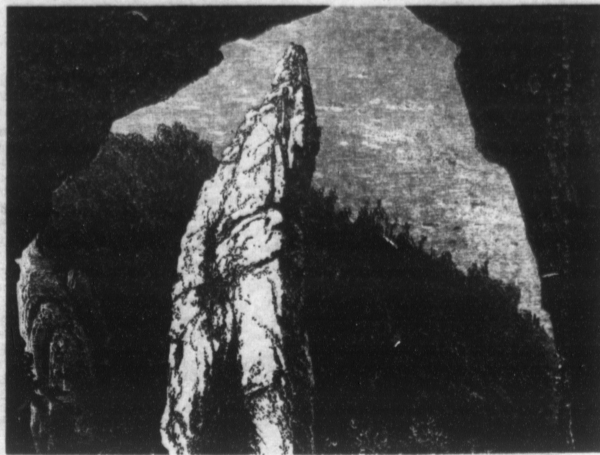

We should like to recommend that in attempting to improve fraternity grade standings, cutting off "thine hand because it offendeth thee" will only weaken the fraternity system. By cutting off these pledges without giving them a fair chance to prove themselves, fraternities can only lose the confidence of future pledges and the strength of numbers.

The stakes are high and the odds of winning are slight.

Kernels

Since the passing of the veterans' bonus, UK students have come up with all kinds of ideas for bonuses for other campus factions—such as ROTC, Student Congress, and Young Republican Club.

But a faculty member passes along a suggestion for helping pay for the bonus—a 95 per cent income tax on all bonuses financed through a sales tax.

"I told you not to look back."

A W.U.S. Reminder

No generation of students has ever been so seriously confronted with the necessity for developing international understanding. We must also be willing to accept the responsibility for the welfare of fellow students all over the world. World University Service is an international, voluntary agency which operates a program of material assistance and international education to aid the world university community. This organization is non-sectarian and has no political purposes or activities.

World University Service will operate effectively only if we support it to the fullest extent. The work of this organization is under the leadership of some of our outstanding persons in the field of higher education. It is my hope that the fund drive on our campus for W.U.S. will be a most successful one. The results of this campaign can mean the difference between developing a real leadership for our world or pushing some deserving student into the hands of the enemy.

Please give this campaign your full support.

Football Players Privileged?

To The Editor:

Had I been the one who was caught stealing the exam there is no doubt about whether I would have been suspended from school. Of course I wouldn't have left my calling card, but nevertheless it is the principle involved that should be considered—the principle of stealing.

The University of Kentucky is on its way up scholastically and a great improvement has taken place in the last couple of years. However, along with this rise, certain standards and precedents should be set and maintained. One has been set, but a wrong one. A student can now be caught stealing an exam and expect to remain in school. And who would hesitate now to set about stealing an exam?

Dean Martin's decision is almost an invitation to crime. There must be a right precedent set for the future. I ask you: in the future when a student is caught stealing an exam and you suspend him, will he not have every right to refer to this case and say, now here, that boy was allowed to remain in school, so shouldn't I be allowed to remain in school also? What then will you say? I'm sorry but you don't play football; you're of no use to us so we must suspend you.

As Dr. Dickey said, "The individual deserves some consideration in this." Yet I remember last Spring when Bobby Slusher, a boy with great potential as a basketball player, was caught and his name was released. He was suspended from school. Where was the University policy of not releasing names or decisions in this case? I ask you Dr. Dickey, where were you and your statement then. I ask you Dean Martin, your statement of "consideration-and-same-procedure-of-any-other-student" applied then shouldn't it also apply now?

Stealing is stealing whether you steal a wrist watch or a printed test exam. The penalty for stealing one dollar or one million dollars from a bank is the same. It is not what was stolen but the act of stealing that one is punished for.

Are football players privileged? Do the rules not apply to them? Can they do what they please and get away with it? Are we as students and citizens going to sit idly by being satisfied by just reading about it, doing nothing? Are we going to let this become a joke? It seems to me that the University is making its own rules as it goes along.

I believe that the students, meaning the Judicial Committee, should have the authority of decision in such cases. But I imagine they were dictated to by high University officials who have been dictated to by alumni, who are more interested in football than they are in the University of Kentucky's intellectual and moral standards.

Graduate Record Exams

To The Editor:

A salute and toast of methylene blue to congratulate those clever devils at the testing service. The ingenious secret last minute switching of the medical college admissions test testing center from Pharmacy to the ROTC building without notifying the testees and hence necessitating that exhilarating a.m. quarter-mile sprint across campus in a soft, warm drizzle added just that extra increment in motivational level necessary for optimal performance.

Not to mention the added subtlety of interpolating intermittent proctor bull sessions so as to obtain a better measure of selective attention for those of us in the front rows. It is indeed stimulating to note the great strides in test sophistication since the meager days of Binet. But just keep in mind boys, someday should you ever find yourself sliding down that great normal curve of a distribution of scalpel blades, that at three standard deviations may lie of a 16 Molar HNO₃.

Looking forward to an even greater graduate record exam atop the sun-deck of Jewell, weather permitting. Until then, my ego ideals.

Justice Is Blind

To The Editor:

According to the Kentucky criminal code, a felony is a graver offense than a misdemeanor. Illegal parking or over parking is a misdemeanor and is subject to fine (re: the little Kernel printed in Nov. 4 issue of your paper).

Breaking and entering is a felony. However, on the University of Kentucky, a state school, the perpetrator of the aforementioned felony is orally reprimanded, and a person guilty of overparking gets a two-buck fine. Justice certainly is blind.

Vandy Game To Leave Campus Vacant

By ALICE AKIN

Since last week's big misprint was obscenely embarrassing to yours truly, it is with extreme caution that I endeavor to deliver this weekend's events.

Just wanted to tell you now that if your sense of humor is tainted with the evils of vulgarity, you might as well cast your Kernels away, sinners, for no more profane print shall embellish my byline.

Looks like the campus will be abandoned as soon as today's classes are over. Tomorrow is the Vandy game, you know, and every 'ole bag on campus is packed and ready to go.

It's always been the tradition for UK students to turn out in full force for this sports event. A few weeks ago there was some mention of fraternities chartering buses, but as it is now, the Kappa Sigs are the only ones traveling en masse.

But it's safe to say that everyone will finally get there and after they do, it is assumed that one big blast of a weekend is going to be had. Nashville is a wicked city and there's all sorts of entertainment available.

Don't forget that this is the town of the Grand 'Ole Opry and "Sister" Kemp tells us that there's no better way to spend an evening. (Give my regards to Minnie Pearl and Little Jimmie Dickens, "Sister.")

Maybe you're not going to the Vandy game. Well, don't feel too bad about it. "Peeping Tom" isn't exactly elated over the fact that most of the sorority houses will be deserted. 'Afrald poor Tom is up against a pretty dull weekend.

Since the football game is about the only spectacular to be seen in the weekend activities, and since this column just can't end without taking up a little more space on page five, let's glance back at what has already happened.

The Chi O's have been doing their share of partying. There was last Friday night and their Lambda Chi O party, and then just to add a little life to their dessert with the Kappa Sigs, they challenged them to a tug-of-war contest last night.

By the way, before we desert the dessert topic, my apologies to the AGR's who were really the ones that had the picnic with the Alpha Gams Sunday. Sorry, boys, last Friday just wasn't my day.

Moreover, today might turn out just as bad if I don't come up with some sort of means by which to terminate this mess. Oh, rats! Why try to think of a clever ending when the majority of you never read this far anyway?

Oh, well, have a good time in Tennessee, drive carefully, and don't forget the latest bulletin from the Sig Ep house.

If you don't have one, and would like to get one, the Sig Eps will have a whole shipment in a few days and you can get one from them.

On the other hand, if you have two, give one to one of your friends because there won't be that many available, and since it has been called off in Louisville, the whole thing depends on us.

Halfbacks Hold Key Tomorrow, As Cats Seek First SEC Victory

By JOHNNY FITZWATER
Calvin Bird and Charlie Sturgeon, the one time golden twin halfbacks of the University of Kentucky Wildcats, may hold the key to tomorrow's Southeastern Conference game with Vanderbilt in Nashville.

The two halfbacks have been up one week and down the next all season, but chances are if they get together at 2 p.m. on Dudley Field Saturday, the Cats can take a big step out of the conference cellar.

After the last two games the statistic sheets show that Bird is rapidly coming out of the slump that hampered him the first half of the season. Last week he ran at will over the Miami team to lead the Cats to their second season win, 22-3.

After racking up 144 yards on the ground against Georgia two weeks ago, and making several All-America check lists, Sturgeon had a minus two yards against Miami.

The Commodores of Vanderbilt also have a halfback that turns in an all-star performance one week and is down the next. Tom Moore was clipping along at a rapid rate during the first half of the season only to be held to a minus one yard in the loss to Minnesota Saturday.

If past performances are any indication, the game should prove to be a thriller, but so far this season both squads have only managed to win twice. The record for the series in the last three years is 1-1-1. UK squeezed out a one point win in 1956, lost by five in 1957 and then battled to a scoreless tie last season.

Despite good showing of Kentucky in games with top-ranked teams, Coach Blanton Collier isn't putting much faith in past performance to carry the Cats to victory.

"Sure we have looked awfully good in winning the statistics and losing on the scoreboard, but they don't pay off that way. We just can't depend on past performance to scare Vanderbilt.

"They are going to be keyed up for us, and it is going to take an effort equal to our game against Cannon and LSU to stop Moore and Vandy." Kentucky held Cannon to 11 yards and LSN to 141, before losing 9-0.

Collier rates Moore as "only a shade behind Cannon in speed, and virtually his equal in power-running ability."

Kappa Alpha Wins, Advances To Finals

Kappa Alpha is the 1959 fraternity I-M champion in football. The Rebels copped the crown Wednesday night by socking Phi Delta Theta 19-12.

The finals set for last night, between the KA's and the Independent BSU champs has been called off due to rain. In late afternoon the field was covered with water and more rain was forecast. The game has been rescheduled for Monday night.

David Parrish was the whole show for the KA's, scoring all 19 points, against PDT. The big end took pass after pass to push the Phi Delt's back time and again. Bill Tway, John Bifuss, Bill Smith and Freddie Miller handled the attack on the ground for the winners.

Monday night football will be replaced by basketball on the I-M slate, as the free throw tourney starts. Qualifications will be held Monday night and all interested persons should contact the I-M office.

Fitz's Facts

By John Fitzwater

Anyone who has ever attended a Kentucky football practice session has noticed and remarked that "the hardest working man on the field is that reheaded manager." Timing drills, bringing out needed equipment, carrying messages, moving the sprinkler system around in hot weather, always busy is Dickie Steckler, former Louisville high school athletic star.

During his freshman and sophomore years at UK Steckler was heralded as a real prospect at halfback, and a possible track great. Then injuries struck. In football practice one afternoon he received a head injury when hit by Lou Michaels and that was all for the grid sport. Later that same year he had a badly pulled muscle that ended his track career.

Instead of letting a good man out of the UK athletic organization, the coaches made Dickie student manager.

A real campus leader Steckler, a mechanical engineer with interest along aeronautical lines, is vice president of Wildcat Manor, a member of the Newman Club, a member of the Lexington Flying Club, President or Squadron Commander of the Arnold Air Society with the rank of Major, and a Captain in Air Force ROTC. He is also a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Dickie will graduate in June of 1961 and it seems that he has a bright future ahead. Hats off to Dick Steckler.

Frosh Set For Baby Vol Tilt

This afternoon the University of Kentucky Kittens will close out the regular season with their first game of the season on Stoll Field. In town for the 3 p.m. battle will be the Baby Volunteers of the University of Tennessee.

The stakes will be high for the Kittens as they will be shooting for their third straight win of the season and the fourth straight undefeated year. In earlier games this fall the UK yearlings have topped Vanderbilt 13-6 and Cincinnati 20-12.

The Tennessee team is considered one of the best frosh teams in the South. Although losing the opener to Georgia Tech's freshmen 7-3, they came back to slam Vanderbilt 16-0.

For the Blue-White Kittens will be Jerry Woolum, another high school All-America and Bill Davidson. The two Kitten quarterbacks have thrown at better than a .500 rate while picking up 166 yards in the two games. So far Monte Campbell and Tommy Hutchinson have been the favorite targets.

Going into today's game Howard Dunnebacke, a rugged fullback, is leading all Kitten ground gainers. In 18 carries he has rolled up 63 yards for a 3.5 average. Second is Herb Conley, a fullback-halfback, with 33 yards and a 3.5 average. In only five tries Bobby Reeves has picked up 32 yards for a 4.4 mark.

End Tommy Hutchinson is leading the scoring parade with 12 points. Both touchdowns by the New Albany, Ind., product have come on passes. Second is Mayfield with two field goals and three conversions. Conley and Davidson have a touchdown each to round out Kentucky scoring.

students and up, will remember papa Larry from last year's Kernel sports staff. Watch out for the 1978 Wildcats.

Tomorrow the Cats will hear a lot of cheering in their behalf, even though they will be playing away. A large group of UK students will be on hand for the game.

Kittens Score Win In Cross Country

Keith Locke set a new freshman record of 10:17 for the Picadome cross country course Wednesday as he led the UK frosh to a 22-23 win over Trinity High School of Louisville.

Allen Cleaver, who set several state high school records while running for Bourbon County, finished second with a 10:47. Charles Owens and Bill Cunningham, both of Trinity, finished third and fourth with UK's Olin Cox fifth.

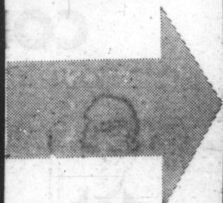

Other finishers were: 6. Jim Bealmer (T), 7. Jay Henthorne (K), 8. Dickie Clark (K), 9. Jim Snawder (T), 10. William Jones (K), 11. Jim Cunningham (T), and 12. Bob Fusco (K).

The Kittens now have a season mark of five wins against one defeat. They will meet Butler here on Nov. 10 and the Shamrock Athletic Club in Louisville on Nov. 26.

DIARY OF A COED

MONDAY: Prof. Pomfritt sprang quiz in English lit this morning. If Shakespeare didn't write Canterbury Tales I'm a dead duck . . . Lunch at the house—turkey hash. Question: how can we have turkey hash when we never had turkey? . . . Smoked a Marlboro after lunch. I dig those better makin' the most! . . . Played bridge with sorors in afternoon. When game was over, my partner stabbed me several times with hatpin. Must learn weak club bid . . . Dinner at house—lamb hash. Question: how can we have lamb hash when we never had lamb? . . . Smoked a Marlboro after dinner. What filter! What flavor! What pack or box! . . . Chapter meeting at night. Motion made to abolish capital punishment for pledges. Motion defeated . . . Smoked more Marlboros. Quelle joie! . . . And so to bed.

TUESDAY: Faculty tea at the house. Spilled pot of oolong on Dean of Women. She very surly. Offered her a Marlboro. Still surly. Offered skin graft. No help . . . Dinner at Kozy Kampus Kafe—24 hamburgers. But no dessert. Have to watch waistline . . . And so to bed.

WEDNESDAY: Got our marks in English lit quiz. Lucky for me Shakespeare wrote Canterbury Tales! . . . Afternoon date with Ralph Feldspar. Purely platonic. Ralph wanted to consult me about love trouble he's having with his girl Nymphet Calloway. I assured him things would get better. Ralph said he certainly hopes so because last four times he called on Nymphet, she dumped vacuum cleaner bag on him . . . Smoked several Marlboros. Wonderful cigarette. No confusion about which end to light. Saves loads of time . . . Dinner at house—bread. That's all; just bread . . . And so to bed.

THURSDAY: Three packages from home—laundry, cookies, records. So hungry I ate all three . . . Quiz in American history. If Millard Fillmore didn't invent cotton gin, I'm in big trouble . . . Dinner at house. Big excitement—Nymphet Calloway announced her engagement to Ralph Feldspar. While sorors flocked around to congratulate Nymphet, I ate everybody's side meat . . . Then smoked Marlboro. Oh, what a piece of work is Marlboro! . . . And so to bed.

"I put on a bathing suit, on top of that an evening gown."

FRIDAY: Got our marks in American history quiz. Was shattered to learn that Millard Fillmore did not invent cotton gin. He wrote Canterbury Tales . . . How very odd! . . . Lunch at the house—bread hash . . . Marlboro after lunch. Great smoke. Must send valentine to manufacturers . . . Spent entire afternoon getting dressed for date tonight with Norman Twonkey. Norman is dall, dark, loaded—a perfect doll! Only thing wrong is he never tells a girl where he's going to take her. So I put on a bathing suit, on top of that an evening gown, and on top of that a snowsuit. Thus I was ready for a splash party, a dance, or a toboggan slide . . . So what do you think happened? He entered me in a steeplechase, that's what! . . . Would have taken first prize easily if I hadn't pulled up lame in the last furlong . . . And so to bed.

Yes, the college life is a busy one and you may be having trouble choosing the cigarette that's right for you. Here's a handy guide: For filter plus flavor—Marlboro. For flavor without filter—Philip Morris. For filter plus flavor plus coolness—Alpine . . . All made by the sponsors of this column.
