TERMINALS ARRIVE!

The long awaited SOLINET terminals finally arrived last Mon., May 19. U.K. Libraries are now officially on line!

All staff members are invited to come up and see the terminals in the Solinet Processing Unit, 2d floor, King North. We'll give you a demonstration (of sorts) and tell you all we know about on-line cataloging in a few brief minutes! We'll know a lot more and be able to conduct better demonstrations after the training workshop to be conducted next week.

SOLINET TRAINING WORKSHOP

Ms. Michele Dalehite of the SOLINET Office in Atlanta will be here on June 3 and 4 to conduct a terminal training workshop. SOLINET requests that the workshop attendance be limited to core staff who will be operating the terminals most frequently. Participants in the workshop will be:

Gail Kennedy, Lynn Shrewsbury, Marilyn Seiler, Marsha Britton, Libby Giles, Rita Tongate, Tom Sibley and Margie Palmer, all of the Solinet Unit; Bess Clotfelter, Cataloging; Bernie Baldini, Med. Center; Becky Heath, Agriculture; Ellen Mawhinney, Law.

These people will in turn conduct workshops and demonstrations for the rest of the library staff in the near future. Staff members who have questions pertaining to SOLINET, the terminals, their capabilities, etc. should submit them to Gail Kennedy before Tuesday, June 3. Hopefully, all of our questions can be answered during the workshop.

APPLEGATE REPORT

A report done by Howard L. Applegate on "Some Current Problems in Governance, Management and Decisionmaking in the Academic Libraries of the State University of Tidewater System in 1972" is on file in the Director's Office. U.K. Libraries is one of 16 library systems which were visited and interviewed for this report. Some of the staff will remember Mr. Applegate who was here in 1972. As a consultant with a grant from the Council on Library Resources, he interviewed various staff members for background information for his report and recommendations. Anyone interested in reading the final report may see Pat Lloyd in the Director's Office.
