Ellsworth Bid Made Too Late

The Associated Press Bank of New York officials testified in depositions filed Monday in U.S. District Court here, that the bank sold Maine-Chance Farm to the University because it had submitted the only written bid on time.

The depositions, seven in all, were filed in connection with a $30 million suit against UK and the Keeneland Association, who are charged with conspiring to purchase the 720-acre Bluegrass farm.

The suit was instituted by California horseman Rex Ellsworth and Lexington veterinarian Arnold Pessin.

Bid Too Late

The bank officials said the competitive offer of $1,942,000 by Mr. Ellsworth and Mr. Pessin, arrived too late for consideration. The Bank of New York handled the sale of the Lexington horse farm as one of three executors of the estate of the late Elizabeth Arden Graham.

The University bid $2 million on the farm.

Two other depositions were also filed by Clay Maupin Jr., assistant treasurer of the UK Research Foundation, and Edward S. Dabney, chairman of the board of First Security National Bank and Trust Co., Lexington, and a director of the UK Research Foundation.

Bid Before Negotiated

Mr. Maupin testified that UK submitted its bid before it attempted to negotiate a loan with any lending institution. He said the UK Research Foundation tried at the time to arrange financing through the Federal Land Bank.

First Security National Bank & Trust Co., with Commonwealth Life Insurance Co. of Louisville as a co-holder, lent the UK Research Foundation $1.5 million to finance the purchase.

Atty. Gen. Robert Matthews has filed suit against the University to block the sale of the farm. The University received the deed to the farm Oct. 11.

40 IU Students Jailed In Protest Against Dow

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI)—Anti-Vietnam war protestors staged a sit-down demonstration Monday in the Indiana University School of Business to protest job interviews by the Dow Chemical Co. Forty students were arrested.

Some of those arrested had to be carried to a bus which took them to jail.

The Dow firm produces napalm for the Vietnam conflict.

A state police riot squad and six carloads of Bloomington city police broke up the sit-in.

The demonstration came on the eve of an appearance at Indiana by Secretary of State Dean Rusk. There had been indications that groups both for and against Vietnam policy would stage demonstrations Tuesday morning when Mr. Rusk speaks in a campus auditorium.

Booked For Trespass

Authorities said the students have been booked in the Monroe County Jail on charges of malicious trespass, and in some cases, assault and battery.

The students gathered outside the Business School building about 2 p.m. and began their demonstration.

They threatened to enter and stage a sit-down strike unless the chemical representatives stopped the interviews and left the building.

Later, the students marched into the structure and were arrested minutes later when authorities converged on the scene.

Similar demonstrations occurred last week at the University of Illinois and University of Wisconsin, forcing the Dow Chemical Co. to cancel its three-day recruiting campaign at Wisconsin.

Dr. John Oswald, University president, Lexington mayor Fred Fugazzi and Student Activities Board chairman Robert Walker mourn over the grave of a West Virginia Mountaineer, UK's homecoming opponent. In the services conducted Tuesday in front of the Administration Building Rev. T. Douglas Sanders read a eulogy, Fugazzi proclaimed this week as "Boost the Wildcats" week and President Oswald asked the student body for support of the football team as a small crowd of students and University dignitaries looked on.

Grambling Orders 25 Off Its Campus

By FRANK BROWNING

GRAMBLING, La. (CPS)—Grambling College suspended 25 students Monday who have been leading demonstrations and class strikes aimed at upgrading the school and de-emphasizing sports.

The students, 22 men and three women, were given two hours to leave the campus. Among those suspended were the student body president and the editor of the student newspaper.

The mass suspensions, however, did not end a student boycott of classes which began Oct. 25. The college, which is predominately Negro, has a total enrollment of 4,200 students, but only 200 attended classes Monday. Student leaders said the strike will continue indefinitely.

The tense situation here last week came to a head Saturday when Louisiana Gov. John McKeithen ordered 500 National Guardsmen to blunt possible student uproars. The troops never arrived at the campus, but are still standing by at Ruston, a town six miles away.

Came As Surprise

The suspension of the student leaders Monday came as a surprise. The students were called before a joint meeting of the college's Disciplinary Committee and the Interdepartmental Council. Three minutes after the meeting began the suspensions were announced.

Three students are members of the Disciplinary Committee, but two of those — the student body president and vice president — were among the 25 suspended. Other members of the committee are faculty members and administrators.

Grambling President Ralph Jones, who doubles as baseball coach, refused to make any comment on the week of demonstrations. However, Noldan Thomas, a member of a 12-man faculty mediating group selected by the students, characterized the school as ranking academically among the "lowest of Negro colleges in the country."

Athletics Overemphasized

Mr. Thomas said athletics are definitely overemphasized at Grambling. "Athletics are prioritized in funds, the yearbook, and public relations materials, and even the president has made the baseball Hall of Fame."

Grambling has a nationwide reputation for its athletic teams. The school has produced a number of professional athletes, among them Willie Davis of the Green Bay Packers, Ernie Ladd of the Kansas City Chiefs and Willis Reed of the New York Knickerbockers.

About 3,500 of the school's 4,200 students met in a mass rally Sunday night and decided to continue the boycott of classes this week. Students said the strike will continue until their demands of the administration are met.

Dissent Cheers Hanoi, Rusk Says In Indiana

COLUMBUS, Ind. (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Monday night that recent peace demonstrations in the United States undoubtedly encouraged Hanoi to continue its fight in Vietnam.

In a hard-hitting defense of the administration's Vietnam policy, Mr. Rusk acknowledged that "we must guard carefully our precious rights of free speech." But he expressed the "hope that good Americans would realize that all we say here is heard in Hanoi — and Peking.

"Hanoi undoubtedly has been encouraged by the peace demonstrations in this country," Mr. Rusk said in an address at a high school gymnasium here.

"A few days ago a high North Vietnamese official called the peace demonstrators in this country comrades-in-arms," Mr. Rusk said.

Soldiers 'Real Spokesmen'

"How can he be brought to realize that the comrades-in-arms who really speak for the American people are our soldiers, sailors, marines and airmen in Southeast Asia?" the secretary asked.

Mr. Rusk said critics of President Johnson's Vietnam policy advocated adopting "the bankrupt ideas which led my generation of students directly into the catastrophe of World War II."

He said it was imperative that the United States remember the lessons "we learned at such heavy cost" during World War II because, "We shall not have a chance to draw the lessons from World War III — there would not be enough left."

Mr. Rusk denied accusations that he changed his explanation for U.S. involvement in Vietnam at an Oct. 21 news conference when he placed new emphasis on Chinese aggression.

"Obviously we did not enter into treaties of mutual defense with Japan, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand, the Republic of Korea, the Republic of China, and through SEATO in contemplation of aggression by the Eskimos," Mr. Rusk said.

Some of the administration's critics in Congress have accused Mr. Rusk of raising the ancient fear of "yellow peril" in that news conference when he said the United States was fighting to contain Communist China.

The principal question in the world, Mr. Rusk said, was how to find and enforce a lasting peace. "It cannot be achieved by wishful thinking, or by passing pious resolutions, or by carrying signs with slogans," he added.

"The loss of Southeast Asia to hostile power or powers would be a weighty shift of the balance of power to the disadvantage of the free world, and would affect adversely the world situation as a whole," Mr. Rusk said.

Nunn, 'Coming To Save The People,' Runs Fast

By LEE BECKER

A Republican gubernatorial campaign in Kentucky is many things.

It is hand-shaking on a sunny street in a small town. It is "working the crowd" at a court day rally.

It is speaking before 10,000 people in Louisville's Freedom Hall. It is talking with students at the state's colleges and universities.

It is references to the Bible. It is accusations thrown the opponents. It is appeals to the Democrats.

It is appeals to new Republicans, Republicans in the cities, and it is appeals to old Republicans, the die-hard Republicans in the mountain cities and counties of Eastern Kentucky.

Louie B. Nunn, Republican nominee for governor in 1967, has made his campaign all of this.

Visited All Counties

He has shaken hands across the state. He has been in all of the 120 counties, many more than once.

In Monticello he told a crowd about the coming of a Man 2,000 years ago. Mr. Nunn said he was coming to save the people, too.

Campaign '67

He called the people in Barbourville has "friends and neighbors," and talked about the "mamas and papas" before him.

He blamed the Democrats for the wrongs in the county. He pumped his hands.

Before a University audience of 500, his attacks on the Democrats were less frequent.

And before businessmen, he is much the same as he is on campus.

Although the racial issue has not been predominant in this election, as it was when Mr. Nunn opposed Ned Breathitt in 1963, it still comes up.

Henry Ward, Democratic nominee for governor, has accused Mr. Nunn of exploiting the race issue. Opening housing has provided the battle grounds.

Opposes 'Forced' Housing

"My position is clear and unwavering," Mr. Nunn says. "I oppose forced open housing in principle, but I would not deny a community the right to set its own course."

In May primaries, racial and religious bigotry charges were thrown at Mr. Nunn, but he defeated Jefferson County Judge Marlow W. Cook. The primary was the first really bitter intra-party contest the Republicans have had in years.

Although Mr. Nunn did win the primary, he failed to carry his ticket with him. Every candidate on his slate is a Cook candidate.

The Republican nominee stresses that all differences have been solved. "Primaries don't mean anything," he told a Barbourville crowd. "It is just the big one that counts."

But if Mr. Nunn loses Louisville, he could lose the race.

The main strategy of the campaign, according to people in the campaign headquarters, is first to show the failure of the present administration, and then to propose the Nunn team programs.

Mr. Nunn quotes three studies extensively to prove the first point. He has used a Midwest Research Institute study, which campaign people claim first came to their attention through a story in The New York Times.

Louie B. Nunn gets to the grass roots of Kentucky politics, hand-shaking and back-slapping, on a recent trip to Eastern Kentucky.

The study ranks Kentucky 42nd in status of the individual, 50th in the democratic process (defined as based on public administration), 48th in education, 45th in agriculture, 46th in health and welfare and 46th overall.

Seldom quoted is the ranking for equality (efforts to eliminate discrimination) in which Kentucky was 33, economic growth, in which it was 26th, and technological change and living conditions in which it was 30th and 27th respectively.

Mr. Nunn also has quoted from U.S. Department of Agriculture and U.S. Department of Transportation studies.

'Link' Strategy

The Republicans have tried to link Mr. Ward with the "unpopular" Breathitt administration and Johnson administration in Washington.

Bumper stickers have appeared stating "A VOTE FOR NUNN IS A VOTE AGAINST LBJ," and Mr. Nunn frequently refers to the Vietnam war. He does not take a clear-cut stand, but says that the administration is not handling the war properly.

In addition, Republicans have brought into the state a flock of national Republican figures who can be seen as President Johnson's political enemies.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan spoke in Louisville. Senate minority leader Everett Dirksen spoke in Lexington. California Sen. George Murphy spoke in Covington.

Also in the state to aid Mr. Nunn were Florida Gov. Claude Kirk, Sen. Paul Fannin of Arizona and Sen. John Tower of Texas.

Mr. Nunn has predicted that he will win by 60,000 votes Nov. 7. He likes to use polls to prove it.

He especially likes college polls, but uses others too — like the one in Northern Kentucky recently which gave him a slim 5,000 vote margin.

After citing a poll, such as Georgetown College's which gave him 73 percent of the vote, he usually pauses, looks at the crowd and states his campaign slogan: "It's time for a change." The crowd likes it.

Ward Won't Look Back At Gap-Closing Nunn

By DARRELL CHRISTIAN

When Henry Ward gained the endorsement of Gov. Edward T. Breathitt's administration for his gubernatorial hopes last spring, he gained an advantage no other candidate would have throughout the current campaign.

With administration backing, Mr. Ward could run on his record and shake off criticism from his Republican opponent, Louie B. Nunn, as "desperate politics" and "part of the silly season."

But many political observers, particularly in Ward-controlled Louisville, feel the former highway commissioner is making a mistake by refusing to look over his shoulder at the fast-closing Nunn.

Ward campaign headquarters in Louisville admits, "We don't willingly respond to anything Mr. Nunn says."

'Easier' Campaign

And, on the surface, it would seem Mr. Ward has run the easier campaign — or at least covered less ground than Judge Nunn, who lost by a mere 13,000 votes to Gov. Breathitt in 1963. While Republicans have traveled in all 120 counties of the Commonwealth, Ward campaign aides estimate he has visited 100.

If anything, Mr. Ward has based his entire campaign on a clean record spanning more than 20 years in state government.

At the UK Law School earlier this month, he declared, "I am my own man — not the product of any kingmakers." And, on occasion, he has taken steps to substantiate this claim by criticizing previous administrations.

But he confines his comments and promises to the state level, constantly reiterating his "program for progress and advancement of Kentucky."

Vietnam Injected

Republicans have capitalized on every opportunity to inject the Vietnam war into the race, possibly hoping to ride the tide of increasing dismay with President Johnson and his domestic and foreign policies.

Campaign '67

But Mr. Ward pays little attention to his opponents' charges that he will have to support the President if he is elected.

Instead, he says Kentuckians should devote their efforts to improving the state.

One political observer, after a visit to Kentucky, said Mr. Ward "is keeping maximum distance between himself and the President."

No 'National' Aid

And Mr. Ward himself says he has made no effort to get national figures in the state to support him. His opponent, however, has attracted such prominent GOP figures as Senate minority leader Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., and California

Gov. Ronald Reagan, often mentioned as a potential presidential candidate.

When Mr. Ward hits the campaign trail, he usually is in full swing from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m. Things don't always turn out as planned.

For instance, at Eastern Kentucky University, the Democratic nominee was behind schedule, but a local women's club supporting him had planned a luncheon in hopes he would attend. Although it wasn't on his agenda, he accepted the invitation and delivered a short speech.

That same day he was at Berea College, busy shaking hands with students, faculty and city officials. Then one young man pushed his way through the crowd to display his "It's Time for a Change—Vote Nunn" button.

Constant Tone

Mr. Ward is always in touch with his campaign headquarters — checking in a minimum of twice a day and sometimes as often as 10 times.

Except for the issues treated, he rarely changes tone in his addresses — whether he speaks at UK or Sandy Hook in Eastern Kentucky. This, he believes, enhances his image as the common man rather than a politician tied by strings to those behind him.

And he goes even further with the image. Last May, while primary ballots were being counted, he confidently mowed the lawn of his Louisville home.

Next Tuesday, when the final votes are being counted, he says he probably will rake leaves "until time to report to headquarters for a victory celebration."

The Kernel, The Herald, Ward, and Numbers Who Is Playing Footsie With Figures, Fellows?

The Kentucky Kernel was misquoted on the editorial page of The Lexington Herald Sunday Oct. 29.

In its editorial headlined "Rigged" Murray S. U. Poll And "Nunnism" The Herald made the following statement about The Kernel:

"The Kentucky Kernel, which has been highly critical of The Herald and Leaders' 'Your Opinion Counts' polls, conducted its own poll at the University of Kentucky and reported these results: Ward 1,143; Nunn 553."

As Kernel readers know, we asked a random sample of the student body "If the election were held tomorrow whom would you vote for, Nunn or Ward." The results of this poll were printed in the Tuesday, Oct. 24 edition of The Kernel, and the story clearly stated the following facts:

1. That 36 percent of our random sample were not polled on the gubernatorial race because they said they were not registered in Kentucky.

2. That the poll was conducted in early October.

3. Of the 64 percent of the random sample who were registered to vote in Kentucky, 57 percent favored Ward, 36.1 percent favored Nunn, and 6.1 percent were undecided.

Only percentages as stated above were reported in The Kernel. 380 students were called. 137 students answered not registered. 243 registered students responded.

So where did the figures attributed to The Kernel originate?

Herndon Evans, editor of The Lexington Herald, said the erroneous figures came to his attention in a press release prepared by Foster Ockerman, general chairman of the Ward-for-Governor campaign.

At the Ward campaign office in Louisville, no one knows where the figures attributed to The Kernel originated. Greg Smith, a member of the Ward staff, told The Kernel that he thought the figures 1,143 and 553 had appeared in The Kernel story.

While there is a pleasant satisfaction to be on the shouting end of the phrase "misquoted," there is a more important facet to the erroneous figures which were attributed to The Kernel.

On their front page Thursday, Oct. 26, The Lexington Herald accurately repeated the poll results which had previously appeared in The Kernel.

Without a subsequent Kernel story, however, and the mere intervention of a press release with startling figures, there appears a Sunday editorial in The Herald.

The Young Democrats at the University say they did not furnish the figures 1,143 and 553 to the Louisville office. At first it was thought that the results of The Kernel poll and figures obtained by the campus group had been merged.

Either The Herald believes everything it receives in the mail, or they are careless with figures in Louisville. Neither is a good practice.

Letters To The Editor

Off Campus Student Association, The Rules

To The Editor Of The Kernel:

I wish to commend The Kernel for its efforts in behalf of the Off Campus Student Association. The recent article which appeared in the Oct. 24 issue and self-centered policies of the "student newspaper?" which would be better called the daily "tissue." Your clever addition of a pro-letter conveniently tucked into a corner and with no headline, while running David Holwerk's lie-filled and misrepresenting article with banner headlines clearly indicated the editors' position. The Kernel does not represent the opinion of the student body in this unreasonable attack on the OCSA, as it never holds the student opinion on any subject.

As president of the OCSA, I would like to give a proper picture of Mr. Holwerk and his motives and the actual state of the OCSA.

First, as to Mr. Holwerk. Some of the students may remember him as the last president of the Appalachian Volunteers, an organization which died under his leadership. Or, perhaps he is remembered for his cape and toilet bowl cap that he wore so proudly while making speeches predicting the collapse of the OCSA last year. I think Mr. Holwerk's twisted mind and the failure of AVs under this leadership, motivated him to predict the doom of such organizations as OCSA, so as to justify his own repeated failures. Finding the OCSA almost dead last year after a year of poor leadership, he decided that the death of the organization would help his bruised ego. Unfortunately this year OCSA has not died, but has achieved much to be proud of.

Now, to the lies and misrepresentations in his Kernel policy article. First, the OCSA has suffered from people who "had no intention of attending any of the council meetings, but was willing to run so that the election" would feed their egos, in particular Mr. Holwerk's. Secondly, our elections last April drew almost five hundred votes, and this is almost twice Mr. Holwerk's figure of the election held last November. Thirdly, the OCSA has not only provided a place for people to sign up for sports, but now has about 165 participants involved in our programs. Fourth, the OCSA has demonstrated that it is working. Thus far we have printed two newsletters, which gave a list of events that were coming up, not past events. When Mr. Holwerk told how half of the events were over by the time the newsletter came out, he must have been reminiscing of the time last year when he was associated with the newsletter. In so far as activities are concerned, we have held a horse show which drew over three hundred horses from some five states and there was a very large number of off-campus students involved in this event. So many that over half were sent home at lunch time to start a victory party, while the other half worked and later joined the keg. Of course, The Kernel gave full coverage, one picture and no story, days after the event; while just two weeks ago a physical education horsemanship class received a two center page spread. We are now trying to work around our lack of funds with these projects: a car rally, a chess tournament, a bridge tournament, a project to aid students in the med-center, a summer employment service, and a housing list. Our graduate project, our jam session and several other programs which would have aided the student directly were cut by Student Government. As any student should see, the OCSA needed the funds that Student Government cut, to get anything done. The reasons why the Greek controlled Student Government cut our funds are all too obvious to be discussed here. Also, as any student should see, Mr. Holwerk has used his irresponsible tool, The Kernel, for his own personal aims. A truly typical and expected use of the "campus joke."

As a last point, I would like to expose this rag for what it is, a self-centered, forced student-financed blot on our University. Mr. Joe White's letter was submitted on Oct. 6, eighteen days before Mr. Holwerk's misguided personality was vented. In other words, our beloved Kernel held a 'timely' letter to the editor until such time as it could find time to let loose its own irresponsible attack. Students, The Kernel is supported by your fees and yet it has little student news and holds no student opinions. We, as owners of The Kernel, should demand The Kernel hold student opinions above its own, and if it cannot do this, we should get new editors or discontinue this paper.

Thom Pat Juul
President Off Campus Student Association

To The Editor Of The Kernel:

In answer to Miss Mueller's "Rules," which was seen in the Inner Wall Art Supplement. At least she spelled my name right. To the best of my knowledge, I have never met Miss Mueller, so how can she accuse me of being a "dancing Bear?" When I wrote the guidelines, I wasn't trying to depreciate anyone's name, particularly someone I've never met. I could have written the guidelines as "Modified Rules for Women, Ladies, and Angela Mueller . . ."

Miss Mueller mentioned that it isn't always the girls who start the dancing and implied that the ones who started the pelvic thrusts were the boys.

At a recent jam session I observed that the girls (for the most part) were the ones who started the pelvic jerks. Besides, if the girl doesn't like that form of dancing in the rare cases in which the boy starts, why doesn't she leave the dance floor and let the boy stand there with egg on his face?

Since Miss Mueller has never danced with me, how can she put me in the same category with the boys who hold girls too tight? Perhaps she could put herself in my place or, better yet, in my arms.

As for necking on the dance floor, remember that it takes two to tango, so why put the entire blame on the boy. Miss Mueller also mentioned that boys don't ask girls to dance. I say they do. A boy gets discouraged after hearing excuses like "I'm sitting this one out," "I'm with someone," or the best one yet "I'm going steady with a pre-med student at Stumpwater University in West Virginia."

Miss Mueller's remarks about using mental telepathy ring true because some of the girls can't get the message after a boy voices the invitation to dance.

I'm getting tired of hearing girls say that boys are preoccupied with sex. If girls are going to exploit the bodies that God gave them, then they deserve the remarks and thoughts concerning them. Any American male with a half-way decent blood count is going to be interested in the spectacle that is presented on the dance floor.

It is revealing how a person will read over something and think he or she got the true meaning or the idea the author is trying to express. Miss Mueller picked out the parts of my manuscript that, perhaps, hit home. I am led to believe that Miss Mueller agreed with the majority of the guidelines which I constructed from extensive research into the Ann Landers and Dear Abby columns. It seems that she forgot I mentioned the way of acting in the right manner with a gentleman.

Miss Mueller will probably write another letter criticizing me, but I say that:

- 1) My friends know the truth.
- 2) The people who don't know me couldn't care less.

President Kilcoyne Alters Agreement

Success Of Brooklyn College Strike Unclear

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (CPS)—Thousands of students at Brooklyn College have returned to their classes, but just how successful their five-day strike will be remains unclear.

Students called off the strike after a faculty committee appointed by President Francis P. Kilcoyne approved a list of seven student demands. But Dr. Kilcoyne now wants to change the wording in some of the demands.

Many students who felt they had made significant progress when the faculty committee approved the demands now fear technical changing may take the steam out of their statement.

Agreement Altered

President Kilcoyne plans to send a revised list of demands to the full Faculty Council for its approval. Some students feel that in changing the statement, Dr. Kilcoyne is not living up to his agreement when he appointed the faculty committee to work with students.

Most of the changes wanted by the president are relatively minor, but some feel even minor changes may alter the intent of a few demands.

One of the student demands, for example, say police will not be called onto campus except in regard to personal injury, theft, or natural disaster, and then only under the direct responsibility of the president. Dr. Kilcoyne reportedly changed this to read, "Police will not be called onto campus by the college to settle internal campus matters."

Either way, however, the students have made significant progress in their drive for more rights. Leaders say the strike shows that students, by uniting for a common cause, can initiate important changes in university or college policy.

Students, Faculty Participate

The Brooklyn strike started last Thursday after police invaded the campus to break up an antiwar demonstration. Of the 10,000 day students at the school, from 60 to 80 percent participated in the strike, depending on the day. About 250 of 800 faculty members also were involved in the strike.

In the Thursday demonstration, more than 60 students and three faculty members were arrested by police. The students were staging a sit-in in the Administration Building to protest the presence of Navy recruiters on campus.

Student leaders initially worked with representatives of the faculty and Dr. Kilcoyne in drafting a statement. Five of the eight provisions in this first statement were rejected by the student body at a mass rally. A 15-member student committee drafted the second list of demands, which then was approved by the special faculty committee. This second statement is the one which Dr. Kilcoyne is revising somewhat.

In addition to keeping police off the campus, the second agreement also provides that legal due process will be observed in all student disciplinary matters. This includes a requirement that hearings must be held before any disciplinary action can be taken against a student for an alleged offense. The hearings would be conducted by a student court made up of five students elected at large, and the court would have authority over all non-academic disciplinary matters.

No Reprisals

The statement also says the college will intercede on behalf of the students charged by police in Thursday's incident and will provide legal aid to the arrested faculty members who request it. No reprisals will be taken either directly or indirectly against any of the protest participants.

Another student demand is that outside recruiters not be provided with table space in the corridors of the Administration Building or on campus grounds. Recruiters instead would be placed in rooms or offices.

Grass In Chancellor Heyns' Garden

BERKELEY, Calif. (CPS)—The official residence of the chancellor of the University of California at Berkeley is one of those super-stately mansions set on a little hill and surrounded by meticulously manicured shrubbery.

The unique feature of the house is an outdoor clock that lies in the middle of a beautiful garden area. Various flowers make up the face of the clock.

On Monday a new flower was discovered in the garden, a flower called "cannabis sativa," occasionally known as marijuana.

Said Mrs. Roger Heyns, the chancellor's wife, "I don't think I'd know it if I saw it."

Said campus police Sergeant Joseph Halloran, "It wasn't blown in by the breeze."

Like A Greased Pig . . . skin

The football acted as if it was a greased pig at times in Saturday's UK-Georgia tussle as Georgia's Ronnie Huggins (43 at left) lets the ball squirt loose (one of 13 fumbles in the game) after intercepting a Wildcat pass in the final quarter, but a fellow Bulldog recovered it. At right, UK's Joe Jacobs lets a Dave Bair pass slip from his grasp.

Proclaims Breathitt

This Is Wildcat Week

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt, joining a student-motivated movement to get more support for the University football team, issued a proclamation Monday declaring this week as "Boost the Wildcats Week" and that the Lexington-Fayette County area be known as "Wildcat Turf."

Breathitt noted that the Wildcats are "ambassadors of the Commonwealth of Kentucky and their record this season (0-6) is not indicative of a winning Kentucky spirit, and . . . we as citizens of the Commonwealth must in part share the responsibility."

versity will be celebrated during the period Oct. 31-Nov. 4 and alumni and freinds of the University will be returning to the campus to see a victorious team on Saturday.

"Now, therefore, I, E.T. Breathitt, governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, do hereby proclaim the period from Oct. 31-Nov. 4 as Boost the Wildcats Week.

"In Kentucky, I further proclaim that the Lexington-Fayette County area be known hereafter as Wildcat Turf," the proclamation continued.

The proclamation was part of an over-all, long-range effort being sparked by Robert Walker, chairman of the Student Activities Board; Sandy Bugle, chairman of Homecoming '67, and other campus leaders.

The proclamation read, "Homecoming week at the Uni-

Rupp Draws A Few Conclusions

From Combined Dispatches

With Wildcat basketballers beginning their third week of drills for the season opener against Michigan at Ann Arbor, Dec. 2, coach Adolph Rupp has begun to draw a few conclusions as to a starting lineup.

Rupp, preparing for an attack on the all-time collegiate coaching victory mark, said it is "hard to come up with any conclusions at this stage."

But he added that from ball-handling drills and organizational work, "there may have been a trend established with senior Cliff Berger and sophomore Dan Issel at center, junior Phil Argento and sophomore Terry Mills at guard and senior Thad Jaracz at forward."

The open spot at forward may go to sophomore Mike Casey, but Rupp says he has not decided whether the stellar Shelby County product should play at guard or forward.

"Our strength is greater at guard than it is at forward," Rupp noted. And Casey will be working at the forward slot all this week.

Rupp, who needs 12 victories to break the all-time collegiate coaching victory mark set by his own mentor, Phog Allen of Kansas, said he has not been able to come up with any definite conclusions about the other players.

Gamble Looks Good

However, he did add a complimentary report on senior Gary Gamble, who he says has "looked good" in the "little organizational work done so far."

He noted that Gamble's "offensive and defensive work have been much better than last year."

Concerning Jaracz he noted that the big senior is "much faster this year but not shooting as well . . . he is definitely showing qualities of floor leadership that Kentucky lacked last year."

The old master summed up by citing the first two weeks of fall practice as "filled with desire and enthusiasm."

By TOMMY WADE

UK dental student Rick Chace won the inaugural Blue Grass Invitational Tennis Tournament Sunday held at UK's new courts by defeating Mike Whitty of Murray State University 10-8, 5-7, 6-1 in the finals of the A division.

Chace, a former all SEC selection at the University of Florida, broke Whitty's service in the 17th game of the first set and then held his own delivery to take a one set lead in the best two out of three set match.

Marty Robinson and Dave Eddy of Western Kentucky won the A division doubles by upsetting top seeded Chace and Billy Evans 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Transylvania netter John Mack won the B division singles by defeating Buddy Watson of Richmond 6-2, 6-4. The B doubles title went to Bill King and Dick Thurston over Bob Loring and Allen Price 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

50% Of Students Think Farm Sale Illegal, Poll Shows

By DICK KIMMINS
Almost 50 percent of the respondents in a Kernel poll conducted the first week in October thought the University was in violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act in its purchase of Maine Chance Farm.

Naming the University as a violator of the law was first suggested by Fayette County Judge Joe Johnson when he first went on record against the sale during a meeting of the Fayette County fiscal court.

Twenty-seven percent of students polled disagreed with Judge Johnson, and 26.1 percent had no opinion.

The University's position on the land transaction involving 720 acres on Newtown Road was generally supported in the remaining questions polled.

'No Conspiracy'

Fifty-six percent thought the University worked in its best interest in the purchase. 52 percent thought the University was not involved in any kind of a conspiracy, and 43 percent thought the University wanted the property for future plans.

It was evident in studying the percentages that University students were mostly ignorant about implications of the Sherman Antitrust Act; the element of conspiracy is inherent in violation of the act. While it was generally agreed that the University was not in a conspiracy, a strong percentage agreed with Judge Johnson's criticisms.

The poll was taken two weeks before the University filed the deed to the property. At the time of the poll, there was some question whether the University would eventually get the property, and 61.7 percent of the sample said they thought UK would end up with the property.

Since that time, Commonwealth Attorney General Robert Matthews has filed a suit blocking the sale in Fayette circuit court.

Many Without Opinion

Throughout the poll, some 20 percent had no opinion on the questions. The majority of people in the "no opinion" group were entirely ignorant of the sale, and not at all familiar with the controversy surrounding the transaction.

One student commented that the University was probably in a conspiracy in the deal, but that it "was good business anyhow."

This seemed to be the feeling expressed by the poll as a whole.

Below are the questions asked of the sample, and the percentages of answers received:

Do you think the University worked in its best interests in bidding for Maine Chance Farm?
Yes..... 56.3%
No..... 23.7%
No opinion..... 20.0%

Do you think the University was in a conspiracy with other interests in bidding for Maine Chance Farm?
Yes..... 24.3%
No..... 52.6%
No opinion..... 23.1%

For what do you think the University wanted the property?
Future plans..... 43.9%
Protection of existing holdin..... 14.5%
Football Stadium..... 4.7%
Investment..... 5.2%
Other..... 13.3%
No opinion..... 22.7%

Do you think the University will eventually be awarded the property?
Yes..... 61.7%
No..... 16.6%
No opinion..... 21.7%

Do you think Fayette County Judge Joe Johnson's criticism that the University is in violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act is valid?

Yes..... 46.9%
No..... 27.0%
No opinion..... 26.1%

Juul Attacks University Housing Plan At Student Association Meeting

About 25 students sat back last night and listened to Thom Juul, chairman of the newly formed Student Association, lash out at the University and its new requirement that students must live in dorms until they are juniors.

"I recommend that a petition be started to see what students think about the two-year housing program," Juul said.

If a petition fails, "more direct action in the form of protests to officials will be necessary."

There is a statement in the student handbook that sophomores will be required to live in dormitories starting in 1968, but Vice President for Student Affairs Robert L. Johnson said Oct. 26 that the University would probably not be able to enforce the requirement at that time.

Juul said that the proposal is a "direct assault by the University on personal rights." "If they regulate us on two-year housing, they'll regulate us on other things," he said.

Juul recently resigned from his position as president of the Off-Campus Student Association after Student Government cut his budget request in half. He then formed the Student Association, but is running for reelection in the special OCSA election to fill his office.

Juul said that the purpose of the Student Association is "to provide action for student problems. It literally allows any student problem to be discussed and acted upon," he said.

He said that the emphasis of the association would be on action rather than resolutions. "That is why so many groups never get anywhere," he said, "they make resolutions but have no action."

UK Nuclear Reactor Is In The Planning

FRANKFORT (AP)—The state Science and Technology Commission has made a pitch that would vault Kentucky into the nuclear energy industry by seeking construction of the nation's first fast breeder reactor.

The reactor is planned for the University.

The move was announced when the commission made a $2 million budget request Monday, including the advanced nuclear reactor, and a coal conversion facility.

Commission Chairman James N. Neel, Ashland, said the fast breeder reactor would be the first of its kind in the United States.

Mr. Neel said the commission has asked for $600,000 to construct a fast breeder "test loop" that could lead to a $70 million fast breeder reactor demonstration facility.

The "test loop" is a facility utilized for research and development of fast reactor energy systems.

The later development at UK of a fast breeder reactor would depend on successful testing on components of the "test loop," Mr. Neel said.

Mr. Neel said the nuclear program should be initiated at UK because the University already has persons working in the area of heat transfer and fluid flow research, basic ingredients for "nuclear hardware" systems.

TODAY and TOMORROW

Announcements for University groups will be published twice—once the day before the event and once the afternoon of the event. The deadline is 11 a.m. the day prior to the first publication.
