

Guignol's Veteran Cast Displays Good Acting

It will probably be the last legitimate stage production for chance for many of you to see a some time, and those of you who...

As far as the thrill and suspense type of entertainment is concerned, "Watch on the Rhine" doesn't offer much, but if you like to watch good acting and general theater technique, the current play is certainly worth its price of admission.

"Guignol" played a veteran cast in this play—Fowler, Little, and Rodes—and gave them a chance to exhibit acting which they enjoy, acting which an audience enjoys also.

"Watch on the Rhine" isn't the type of play and it won't come close to the attendance record set by "Arsenic and Old Lace" recently, but it will make you conscious of good production.

The story in the play, which isn't particularly important, is based on an anti-Nazi leader's escape from an extension plot. The ideological swiftness is the demonstration of the usual Nazi ruthlessness and the contrast of current European and American ethics.

Awards Granted Ag Students At Twelfth Annual Banquet

Dr. Sherwood, G'town President, Delivers Address

Awards to the outstanding students in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics and recognition of faculty members were given at the twelfth annual get-together banquet last night at the Union building.

"The World We Want" was the subject of a talk which was made by Dr. Henry Noble Sheward, assistant editor at the Experiment station and president of Georgetown College for eight years.

Priscilla Graddy, Lexington, sophomore with a 2.4 standing, was winner of the Cornell award made by Phi Upsilon Omicron for the highest standing during her freshman year.

Myrtle Binkley, president of the honorary home economics fraternity, presented the award.

Robert Hutton, Stamping Ground, whose standing was 2.85 for eight quarters, was given the Jonas Well Memorial scholarship, which is awarded to the junior male who has the highest scholastic standing for his entire college work.

Dean L. J. Horlicher introduced the following new faculty members: R. W. Flier, assistant professor animal husbandry, and E. S. McConnell, instructor in poultry.

Recognition of Professor George Roberts, retiring head of the Agronomy department and assistant dean, was made by Dean Cooper. It was a native of Burdette, he graduated from the University and worked for three years at the California Agricultural Experiment station.

Dr. Morris Scherer, head of the bacteriology department, spoke on "The Pasteurization of Milk" at the third open class of the quarter held Thursday in the Biological Sciences Building. Dr. Scherer replaced Dr. R. H. Weaver, who was originally scheduled to speak, but was unable to appear due to illness.

Pasteurization, which is the process of purifying milk by destroying the disease-producing bacteria, is the method most used in safeguarding milk today, Dr. Scherer said.

It consists simply of raising the milk to 145 degrees Fahrenheit for a half-hour and then cooling. This will kill even the most resistant germs, he explained.

Dr. Scherer discussed the objection that some people have to pasteurization, but with each fact that had been claimed, he gave his reasons for disproving their theories.

One of the chief objections opponents of the process offer is that pasteurized milk is not as good as the original. To this argument, Dr. Scherer answered that dirty milk might not necessarily contain disease germs which the cleanest looking milk may be polluted with poisonous bacteria.

Other points that were discussed at length by Dr. Scherer were the number of diseases that can be transmitted either directly or indirectly from cows to human beings through milk, and the different diseases that can be transferred by milk through the handling of cows or milk.

RED CROSS TO MEET TODAY TO START DRIVE

Goal To Be 47 Per Cent Above Last Year

The first meeting of the Campus Red Cross will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the University High School auditorium to discuss the Red Cross drive which begins for Fayette County yesterday.

The goal of the campaign will be $60,000, which is $24,000 or 47% above the amount the county was asked to raise last year.

Principal speaker at the meeting will be Clinton Harbison, head of the Fayette County drive.

The University Red Cross will be set up with the aim of reaching every member of the faculty and student body.

Members of the faculty who will be asked to serve in the drive are: Dr. A. E. Blige, Mable Moores, Dr. C. S. Waltman, Dr. Earl Young, Miss Grace Snodgrass, Dr. P. H. Edwards, Dr. Alexander Capurso, Major Gerald Griffin, Professor Alfred Brainerd, Professor Ely Marie Barkley, Dr. Lawrence Quill, Dr. Roy Morland, Bessie Boughton, Mrs. Alberta Sear, Dr. Dana Card, Prof. Perry West, Miss Catherine Owens, Charles Shout, Prof. B. B. McIntire, Dr. G. C. Jones, Dr. M. C. Brown, Rosalie Gales, Prof. A. J. Meyer, Prof. E. Asher, Prof. W. S. Webb, and Miss Rankin Harris.

The Red Cross needs an increased sum this year because of the increased number of troops which the organization is facing, Mr. Peak stated. It is the one organization outside government agencies that travel with the troops in the field.

January, the Red Cross has given $175 U. S. Army and Navy hospital recreation rooms, and the strange best of the music were most effective in this number. Third of the Russian competitors were Reinhold Gliere's "Russian Sailor's Dance" from "The Red Poppy".

Colorful also were the South American numbers, "Aguro Paso Doble" by Franco, and "El Guarany Overture" by Gomez.

The full concert band including cello, harp, bassoon, and oboe was in the March Trocense from the Opera "The Taking of Troy" by Hector Berlioz. The scurrying notes of Strauss' "Perpetuum Mobile" provided an interesting variation in the program.

Sousa's popular march, "Stars and Stripes Forever," provided a fitting finale for the program, and as everyone of the group played a patriotic selection, "Hail America."

Considerably reduced in number the band appeared on the Sunday afternoon Musicales program in a concert of the music of our allies and featuring Jean Lowery, cornetist from Tennessee State College, as soloist.

Miss Lowery, a former student of C. V. Maguire, director of the band, played as her solo Rossini's "Innamorata." Though not a difficult selection, the number did give Miss Lowery opportunity to demonstrate good breath control and clarity of tone.

The work of the band was most noticeable in a group of Russian numbers including the "Dance Orientale" by G. Lubomirsky. Excitement mounted as the musicians turned out to "Cortège Du Sardanapale" by the "Caucasian Sketches," by Ippolitov-Ivanov. The weird twang of the oboe and the strange best of the music were most effective in this number.

"Best Band In Dixie" Features Jean Lowery In Musicales

Yet another juncture of the changes that are coming to the University was delivered yesterday afternoon as the "Best Band In Dixie" made what will probably be their last formal appearance for the duration.

Considerably reduced in number the band appeared on the Sunday afternoon Musicales program in a concert of the music of our allies and featuring Jean Lowery, cornetist from Tennessee State College, as soloist.

Miss Lowery, a former student of C. V. Maguire, director of the band, played as her solo Rossini's "Innamorata." Though not a difficult selection, the number did give Miss Lowery opportunity to demonstrate good breath control and clarity of tone.

New Officers To Be Installed Early Next Quarter

Dorothy Jack Ecklar and Carolyn Spicer, arts and sciences juniors from Lexington, are the nominees for president in today's YWCA election, which is being held until 8:30 p.m. at the counter opposite the information desk in the Union building.

Helen Harrison and Virginia Lipscomb, also from Lexington, have been nominated for the office of vice-president; Wanda Scrivner and Elizabeth Faulkner, both from Lexington, for secretary; and Virginia Baskett, Casper, Wyo., and Eloise Bennett, Williamstown, for treasurer.

Installation of the new officers will take place early in the next quarter, according to Miss Rosalie Oakes, YWCA secretary. She explained that in today's YWCA election, members would be chosen before the end of the quarter, and would be installed with the new officers.

The cabinet is made up of the committee heads of the YW and includes chairmen of the following committees: worship, social service, public relations, publicity, inter-racial, library, campus service, economics and labor, and membership. Also on the cabinet are a freshman adviser, sophomore commission representative, and junior-senior president.

63-year-old plant, was originally worth fifty cents, but now has a retail value of five dollars.

Some care is necessary for successful flowering of the plant. The bulbs, planted in May, must be dug up before frost and placed in basins for a four- to six-week period. They are then kept in a cool dry place until the middle of January when exposure to warm air causes flowering. The Lily on exhibition has blossomed since January 25.

The curator related several experiences centering around the plant, and recalled one occasion when the Lily, placed in White hall, died. Dean Edward West of the Commerce college on a search for dead rats.

So if you want to take a look at a snake lily in bloom, stop in the greenhouse and give your eyes a treat. But unless you have a cold and can't smell anything, we advise you to stay on the opposite side of the glass.

Confidentially - well, you know what!

NEWBERRY WILL CONDUCT LAST OPEN CLASS

Heredity Will Be Subject Of Discussion

"Insanity and Intelligence in Twins," the topic of the last open class to be held this quarter, will be discussed the second hour of this morning at 10 o'clock in the psychology hall by Prof. Edward Newberry of the Psychology department.

Heredity and its influence on insanity or intelligence in twins will form the basis of the discussion and Professor Newberry will point out how the study of twins has aided in determining this question.

Various family relationships such as twins have been studied and compared by psychologists. Professor Newberry will explain, who have been able to determine to some extent the influence of heredity and environment in the cases studied.

These serious inquirers to be re-qualified serious enough to require confinement.

Professor Newberry will also explain that measuring intellectual performances and spotting mental disorders among twins found in the literature gives the modern student of psychology experiments ready-made by nature, for covering questions of heredity and environment.

This lecture is part of the course entitled Genetic Psychology.

Samples Taken

Three of the samples on exhibit in the Music room of the Union building last week in connection with the Textile display were taken from the room, according to Rebecca Van Meter.

If they are returned at once by mail or in person, no changes will be pressed.

Band Banquet Will Be Held In Union Tonight

The annual banquet of the University band, originally scheduled for Thursday night, will be held tonight in the Biogress room of the Union building. The change was necessitated because of several members leaving for the armed forces tomorrow.

Doris Smith, recently elected sponsor of "The Best Band In Dixie" will be formally presented during the evening, and outstanding junior and senior bandmen will be awarded UK band keys.

Men who have given three years of faithful service will receive silver keys, while those with four years to their credit will receive gold ones, according to C. V. Maguire, director of the University band.

Those men who will be awarded the gold keys are Jack Goddard, Benny Boone, and Marshall Smith. Juniors to be presented with silver keys are George Langstaff, Newell Hadden, Robert Cundiff, Arthur McFarland, Amelia Mason, and William Lamasters.

Guests of honor at the banquet will be Dr. J. H. Sulzer, and Mrs. C. V. Maguire.

Freshman club will meet with the Junior-Senior YW group at 7 p.m. today in the Social room of the Union building for discussion on "What Do You Want In Life?"

Bart Peak, YW secretary, will be the speaker. He will give a report on the area YMCA meeting which he attended in Atlanta, Ga., a week ago.

Questions: What are you planning to do with your civilian clothes when you enter the Army?

Coleman C. Clement, Engineering Junior: Will them to my kid brother.

Joe L. Massee, Commerce, graduate: I'm wearing out my last pair of civilian pants right now.

Robert Meyer, Arts and Sciences, Junior: Give them all to Dad and let him wear them if he can.

Harold Pace, Arts and Sciences, freshman: I'm not going to do anything with mine.

Charles D. Rhoads, Commerce, Junior: Sell them for the best price offered.

Donald Morgan, Arts and Sciences, freshman: Bend them back home and let them wait for me.

Freshman Club Elects Embury

Bill Embury, Lexington, was elected president of the Freshman club at a recent meeting. He succeeds City Lancaster and was again exceptional for little theatre.

The following committees were chosen: Program, Claudine Gibson, chairman, and Harry Coover, secretary; membership, Joe Ford, chairman, and Jean Crabbe, secretary; social, Brewster Pledge, chairman, and Dick Dillon, secretary; publicity, Howard Morgan, chairman, and Audrey Danks, secretary.

Former UK Student Becomes Hero After Combat In Pacific

ELLINGTON FIELD, Texas, Feb. 27—Ellington Field officers today recalled four stout-hearted former Aviation Cadets who trained here—two bombardiers, one navigator, and one pilot, who became heroes in combat aerial action on the South Pacific front.

Two of the four men, all of whom received training at Ellington before they were sent to the front, and commissions, were members of the crew of a United States heavy bomber that blasted a 5,000-foot Japanese transport to a standstill in a mid-afternoon battle on February 12 off Cape Orford in the Solomon Islands.

They are: Lt. William A. Woods, 21, Louisa, Ky., the bombardier, and Lt. Hyman Orman, 28, 5828 Drexel Ave., Chicago, Ill., the navigator.

Lt. Woods, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Woods, of Route 4, Louisa, was a student at the University of Kentucky before entering the Army Air Forces as an Aviation Cadet on July 17, 1941.

While in college he was active in ROTC work for two years. The battle, which took place while the sage plane was in armed reconnaissance, resulted in heavy damage being inflicted on the enemy transport. Lt. Woods reported he dropped his bombs in the face of considerable anti-aircraft fire and saw at least one bomb score either a direct hit or extremely near just off stern. Unable to inflict further damage because because all their bombs were gone, the Americans flew away from the smoldering ship.

The other two Ellington ex-cadets, Lt. Albert E. Weinberger, 22, of 603 Drexel Blvd., Chicago, Ill., and Lt. Richard H. Dennis, 26, of 1829 Rosemont Road, East Cleveland, Ohio, were bombardier and pilot, respectively, on aircraft credited by the War Department with shooting down three Jap planes in different parts of the South Pacific theater.

All recall all four men very well, and remember them as the courageous type capable of such an accomplishment," said Lt. Harry Leary, Ellington commandant of cadets, upon learning of the feats of the Ellington trainees.

All were serious hand-to-hand fighters who realized they had a job to do and were out to do it. At this field, they were model cadets—respectful and liked by all who had dealings with them.

Other officers—upon flying instructors who talked Lt. Dennis' advanced twin-engine flying unit received his wings here, to classroom teachers who instructed the others in the fundamentals of a freight bombardier and navigator work—were equally high in their praises of the group.

The Whirlwind

By Ed Barnes

There's nothing like going to a war time conference game. Everything was rationed, from gasoline to UK's basket.

However, the members of Lamp and Cross don't even intend for this to happen. They believe their strength after the war will be enough to make any such attempts impossible.

Those selected for membership are Bob Landrum, H. C. Bloom, Lewis Savin, Bob Hutton, Andrew Meyer, Jerry Macke, Bart Peak, David Mahanes, Harold Lindsey, Bill Caywood, Chester Theiss, Bob Meyer, "Bud" Goodlett, Kilmer Combs, Pat Conley, Vance Owen, Carl Bell, Marion Vance, George Dudley, and Ed Barnes.

Lances members are now considering candidates for membership. According to Sara Ann Hall, Mortar Board (the women's ODK), is now observing prospective members.

Kentucky's 'Hot Then Cold' Weather Is State's Most Provoking Subject

By DANSON HAWKINS, Kernel Staff Editor. The weather in Kentucky is the damnedest!

With all apologies to Judge James H. Mulligan, author of the poem "In Kentucky," whether the summer days come offest in Kentucky is a debatable question after one day of plowing through the snow, then walking a day through mud puddles and the third day, shaking out a spring coat or eyeing a bathing suit.

"The sun shines ever brightest in Kentucky" is no doubt the opinion of many persons during those hot, sweating days of summer. But these days now would seem just like sitting down to a meal of coffee with sugar and cake with whipped cream.

The breezes whisper "bake in Kentucky." If this is true, the breeze that whispered to me yesterday had a powerful pair of lungs. Maybe he was warning me that he was going to blow my hat right into the middle of the traffic intersection.

"Thunder peals the loudest" is very true. Just gather in the Grill or the bookstore, the next morning after a thunderstorm and see the groups of students comparing tales on who kept the highest from bed after that ear-breaking crash.

The weather has a human interest value, the newspapers claim. Yes, it's like a detective story or a crossword puzzle—either it is up to you to find the answer or your guess is as good as mine.

"Fair and warmer tomorrow," the forecast reads. Jumping out of bed and lurching back again twice as fast, you peek out from under the blankets to see icicles hanging from the window sill and come blowing in the window.

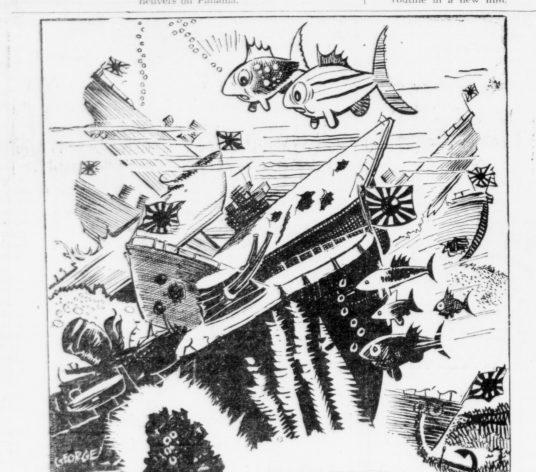

The next day you pull the long red flannels out of the mothballs to fool Old Man Winter, bundle up in all of the old clothes handy, swipe his brooder's flannel shirt and race to catch the last bus for that first hour class. By the middle of third hour, you sit in class all bundled up and slowly melting to a grease spot.

If it doesn't snow, it rains and rains and rains. So you brush the dust off your umbrella. Perhaps a few drops of water will fall to smooch your makeup and then the howling winds come and blow your umbrella inside out.

Talk about your practical jokes that old fellow, Wuter, sure carries his fun to extremes.

Interested Teachers May Enroll In W A A C s Report Says

Teachers who are interested in enrolling in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps may do so now and be called for active duty after their contract has expired. Headquarters of the Fifth Service Command at Fort Hayes announced today. Women who are attending business schools and colleges and who will complete their courses within a year are also eligible for the WAAC reserve status.

Eligible women may apply for enrollment now at their nearest U. S. Army Recruiting Office and if they pass the required physical and mental examinations and an interview by a WAAC officer successfully may be sworn into the Corps, according to the announcement. They will then be placed on a reserve status and will not be called into active service until after the completion of the course or contract for which they have been deferred.

To qualify for enrollment in the WAAC a woman must be an American citizen between the ages of 21 and 44 years inclusive, of good moral character, good physical health and mentally alert. She may be married but may have no children under the age of 14 years and no financial dependents. Women are eligible regardless of race, color or creed. Wives of men in any of the armed forces may continue to receive their government allotments while serving in the WAAC.

American co-eds would be wonderful if they weren't always trying to act," says R. Fernando Alegria, Bowling Green State University, graduate student from Santiago, Chile. "They should be themselves instead of trying to impress—I don't know whom," the 24-year-old South American explained.

It is estimated that there are 80,000,000 persons qualified to vote in the United States.
