RESETTLEMENT PROJECT NEEDS CONTINUED EFFORT

Photos: The Wummers, Jerry (above) and Rose Rita (below) recently received the CKJF Chai Award for their ceaseless efforts on behalf of the Resettlement Project. More volunteers are needed.

Several years ago the Jewish community of Central Kentucky decided to participate in the international effort to integrate Jews from the former Soviet Union into Jewish communities in the United States and Israel. We made this commitment eagerly and sincerely. And, for the initial months, we responded generously with time and effort.

Now, it seems, our enthusiasm has waned. The idea of resettlement still is important. We remain committed to the notion of saving Jews from lands of oppression; but we have relegated the work of resettlement to a loyal few.

To continue this life saving mitzvah we must have additional volunteers. Consider your human obligations to other human beings and let us know how you will help.

We are in dire need of two people to serve as Volunteer Co-ordinators. These coordinators maintain lists of people in the community who have volunteered to drive or translate or help with tax preparation or explain how to use Lextran or to assist the new Americans in coping with the details of a new and different way of living. When the Program Director calls for assistance in any of these areas, the coordinator arranges for a volunteer to provide that assistance. The coordinators have a very responsible position. At

IN ISRAEL WITH SENATOR MITCH McCONNELL

BY: STEVEN H. CALLER

On January 12, seven Kentucky couples accompanied Senator Mitch McConnell and his wife, Elaine Chao, to Israel for a week long tour. Several were travelling to Israel for the first time, although the Senator had been twice and Ms. Chao once.

Upon arrival in Tel Aviv the group was greeted and escorted to its hotel to rest and deal with the jet lag of a 12 hour flight and 7 hour time change. Several folks walked the busy streets or prepared for a dinner with Yaakov Kirschner, a famous cartoonist and satirist who gave the group a perspective of what could be expected during the visit.

The Senator and Ms. Chao went directly to Jerusalem and held several high level meetings with Israeli military officials. They were accompanied by Robin Cleveland, the Senator's chief aide on the foreign operations committee, on which he is the ranking Republican member.

The rest of the group toured the North of Israel, spending Thursday night on a kibbutz on the sea of Galilee. Friday started with a drive up onto the Golan Heights, where the group viewed the principal security issues of the area. From there, we drove along the Jordan River down to Jericho. We climbed the Tel (ancient archaeological site of the original city, thought to be 13,000 years old). We also viewed the city as the future capital of Yasser Arafat and the new Palestinian government. There was a rush of building activity as Arab speculators expect the city to grow rapidly during the transition to self-rule.

Late Friday afternoon we drove west up the ancient road to Jerusalem entering the "City of Peace" from the Mount of Olives. A light rain cleared away and the sun shone brightly on the beautiful landscape of Jerusalem, a view which has captivated travellers for thousands of years. We made the traditional blessing for Jews of the Diaspora as we entered the Holy City.

From there we proceeded to the King David Hotel, our home for the remainder of our stay. This wonderful 5 star hotel has

THE TORAH THIS MONTH

BY RABBI JON ADLAND

March 5/ 22 Adar
SHABBAT
PARAH/VAYAKHEL
Ex. 35:1-38:20

As we begin to conclude the book of Exodus/Sh'mot the portion turns its attention to the construction of the Tabernacle. At the beginning of the sidrah the people are assembled, commanded to observe Shabbat by complete rest and without kindling any fire. This is followed by the command to bring gifts for the construction of the Tabernacle.

The material required is very specific; a theme followed through from this chapter until the end of the building. God knows exactly what the Tabernacle is to look like when it is completed. God will describe this vision in incredible detail to Moses and the people. Some of this material includes gold, silver and copper, as well as blue, purple, and crimson yarns, fine linen, and goats' hair. Also, in order to construct the Tabernacle, tanned ram skins, dolphin skins, and acacia wood are required. Once the Tabernacle is completed the people must also have oil for lighting; spices for the anointing oil and for the aromatic incense.

Moses tells the people that every skilled workmen must participate in the building. He singles out Bezalel, son of Uri son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah. Evidently, Bezalel is endowed with special skills, spirit, ability and knowledge of every kind of craft necessary to building this holy place.

After choosing Bezalel, and later Oholiab and every skilled workmen, the exact picture of the Tabernacle is described including dimension, fabric, clasps to hold the fabric, tent poles and more.

Chapter 37 describes the ark and other vessels that will be placed in the Tabernacle. It is to be made of acacia wood, overlaid with gold, gold rings and acacia wood poles. Two cherubim made from gold will stand at each end of the ark. The chapter concludes with the description of the lampstand of pure gold and the incense altar of acacia wood.

The final chapter describes the altar and its utensils. The altar, made of acacia wood, had horns on each corner overlaid with copper. The utensils included pails, scrapers, basins, flesh hooks, and fire pans all made of copper.

March 12/ 29 Adar
SHABBAT
HACHODESH/PEKUDE
Ex. 38:21-40:38

Pekude concludes the book of Exodus. As in the above portion, the focus is on the erection of the Tabernacle. The portion begins with a statistical summary of the materials used for the Tabernacle. Then follows the account of producing the priestly vestments, containing a faithful repetition of earlier chapters. When everything is made, Moses blesses the people and proceeds to set up the Tabernacle. Chapter 40, in extreme detail describes the placing of everything precisely in its spot in the Tabernacle, also known as the Tabernacle of the Tent of Meeting. Aaron and his sons are washed with water. Aaron puts on the sacrificial vestments and is anointed. Next his sons put on their tunics and are anointed.

The very end of the chapter is a moment of intense spirituality. When the work was finished a cloud covers the Tent of Meeting and God's presence fills the Tabernacle. As long as the cloud remained, the people didn't journey and Moses didn't enter the Tent. When the cloud lifted, the Israelites would set out being led by a cloud by day and fire by night.

March 19/ 7 Nisan
SHABBAT VAYIKRA
Lev. 1:1-5:26

Parshat Vayikra introduces us to the various sacrifices of the Israelites people. Each chapter includes a definition of the purpose of the sacrifice and how the sacrifice was to be carried out. Few details are left to the imagination.

The first offering is the Olah - Burnt Offering. Olah Means "what goes up," because the entire animal, except for the hide, is burned on the altar. This was considered a standard sacrifice and was not used for atonement or petition. Most communal sacrifices were olot.

The minchah - meal offering - was a gift offering of grain. Flour and oil were the ingredients of the minchah. It might be uncooked, or prepared in an oven, griddle, or pan, as the donor chose. A portion was turned into smoke on the altar and the rest was for Aaron and his sons, "a most holy portion from the Lord's offerings by fire." Interestingly, no meal offering could include leaven or honey. First fruits could be brought in their season. A portion was turned into smoke and the rest was for the priests.

The Zevach Shelamim sacrifice of well-being - distinctive feature was the festive meal eaten by the sacrificer and his guests after the prescribed portions had been offered on the altar and share had been given to the priests. Often this sacrifice is referred to as the peace offering. Some Shelamim were brought to fulfill a vow, many were not.

The above sacrifices were all brought voluntarily. Chapter 4 begins describing those sacrifices that were obligatory because of incurred guilt. They served to expiate unintentional sins. Jewish law did not allow an individual to do a deliberate wrong and then make it right with a sacrifice. Proverbs 15:8 says, "The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the Lord."

In Chapter 4, the sacrificed is called chatat usually translated "sin-offering." The critical part of this sacrifice is in the treatment of the blood as a result of who incurs the guilt. If it is a priest or if the sin is on the entire community, the blood is taken into the "holy

SMALL CITIES CONFERENCE PARTICIPANTS WELCOME

The United Jewish Appeal / Council of Jewish Federations Small Cities Conference will be held in Ann Arbor, Michigan from June 3 - 5, 1994. It is hoped that a major delegation from Central Kentucky will attend and represent our community at this third Small Cities Conference in seven years.

This year's location, near the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, provides a lovely setting and is home to many excellent speakers. Professors and leaders in the community will enhance a full weekend program.

A Lion Of Judah and Pomegranate reception for women will kick off the weekend on Friday afternoon. Lectures, workshops, Saturday night entertainment and time to interact with others from small cities in the Midwest will round out a total Jewish

GIVE MORE FOR LESS

BY: MICHAEL E. ADELSTEIN

How can you give more money to charities and non-profits but have it cost you less? Simple. However, you must own stock that has increased in value. And you must have owned it for at least a year.

How does that cost you less? You see, the stock really isn't worth its full value to you because if you sold it, you'd owe a capital gains tax. An example will make this easy to understand.

Let's say that you bought 100 shares of AT&T several years ago at $30. You cost: $3,000. And let's presume that the stock sells for $55 today. Now if you gave 25 shares to the CKJF/United Jewish Appeal, it will receive $1,375 (25 shares times the price of $55). That figure would be your tax deduction.

But those 25 shares of AT&T were worth only $990 to you. Why? Because if you sold them, you would receive the same $1,375, but you would owe a capital gains tax. Assuming you're in the 28% bracket, Uncle Sam would take $385, leaving you $990.

What's the catch? There is none. You've donated $1,375 and it's cost you only $990, a savings of $385. It's a win-win situation: you win and the CKJF/United Jewish Appeal (or other non-profit organization) wins. Must someone lose? Yes, and that someone is Uncle Sam, who's out $385 because no taxes will be paid on the donation.

Sounds too good to be true? Check with your broker. Then select an appreciated stock that you've held for more than a year and give instructions to have it transferred to the CKJF/United Jewish Appeal or other charity, or pay your temple dues with it.

experience.

Mark your calendars now and plan to attend and represent Central Kentucky at this leadership event.

IN SYMPATHY

We wish to extend our sympathy to David Paritz on the death of his wife, Ethyl, on January 28, 1992 as well as to Allen Paritz and Helen Paritz, son and sister-in-law of Ethyl.

We extend our condolences to Dr. Robert Belin on the death of his mother, Florence C. Belin, on February 5, 1994, in Hallandale, Florida.

Finally, chapter 5 begins with four special cases that require a chatat offering and then we learn about the asham - guilt offering. The four special cases are:

1. When a person has heard a public imprecation and he does not give information;
2. When a person touches any unclean thing and the fact has escaped him;
3. When a person touches human uncleanness and, though he has known it, the fact has escaped the person;

4. When a person utters an oath to bad or good purpose and the fact has escaped the person.

The asham sacrifice was for deliberate misappropriation of property or by finding something lost and lying about it.

been completely redone and exudes European charm. The hotel hosts most visiting dignitaries and prior to 1948, (Israel's statehood) was the headquarters of the British Occupation of Palestine. During our stay there was resident Phil Gramm, U.S. Senator from Texas, Ron Brown, U.S. Secretary of Commerce and Dennis Ross, President Clinton's chief negotiator for peace in the region. Security was high and the red carpet was rolled out often.

We hurriedly registered and changed clothes for a special Sabbath service at the Western Wall in the Old City. Every Friday night, as the sun begins to set, thousands of Jews flock to the ancient wall to greet the coming of the Sabbath. There is great excitement in the air as hundreds of students and scholars come singing and dancing into the stone courtyard. Several services were conducted, ranging from the Ultra Orthodox to individuals praying along. From there we returned to the hotel for Sabbath dinner.

Saturday morning was a time for touring the old city, and our guide gave us a three hour walking experience through the Arab and Christian quarters. We visited the 1,200 year old Dome of the Rock, a holy Islamic shrine, where, barefoot, we saw where Mohammed leaped to Heaven on his horse, El Barak. We walked on through the bustling streets where merchants hawked their wares until we arrived at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre. We retraced the steps of Jesus along the Via Dolorosa and learned of the importance of many Christian shrines.

By then we were tired and ready for lunch. We walked to an Arab restaurant where we feasted on Arab delicacies of Falafel, hummas, tahina, salads and strong coffee. Although our bodies were telling us that night was coming, in fact it was just past noon, local time. After lunch we went to the Israel Museum and viewed the Shrine of the Book (Dead Sea Scrolls), the Billy Rose sculpture garden and many of the exhibits of religious and archaeological significance.

We returned to the hotel for a brief nap in preparation for our first official dinner. At the hotel that evening we dined with Senators McConnell and Gramm, their wives and staff. Other visitors joined the meal to listen to speeches and declarations. Following each event, we adjourned to the bar to discuss the events of the day and what to expect the next day.

During the next few days we had private meetings with Yitzhak Rabin, the prime minister, Shimon Peres, the foreign minister, as well as the finance minister and members of the opposition party. All expressed their appreciation for the U.S. role in attempting to broker a fair and lasting peace.

We gathered that Israel is prepared to exchange a great deal of its country for peace with its neighbors. We found the man on the street willing to give the peace process a

CULTURAL DIVERSITY AT UK

Celebrating Diversity: A Festival of Life is once again around the corner. The celebration is a University of Kentucky campus wide effort to share an awareness and sensitivity to all cultures among the people at UK and the entire community. The celebration includes food, crafts and entertainment from different cultures. This year there will also be a fashion show. The celebration will be held Wednesday, March 23 and Thursday, March 24 from 11:00 am until 2:00 pm.

As in the past, the Central Kentucky Jewish Federation has been invited to sponsor a booth in the Student Center Ballroom displaying various Jewish memorabilia. If you would like to be part of these educational and entertaining days or if you have Judaica that you feel would be important to display at this event, please contact CKJF at 268-0622. If you have an hour or more to talk with students on the 23rd or 24th, you can make a difference.

This is a wonderful opportunity to show our pride in Judaism. We hope there will be many in our community who will join the celebration!

UNIVERSITY TO EXAMINE HEALTH CARE RATIONING

LEXINGTON, KY (Feb. 8, 1994)--How much health care will health care rationing provide? Who will decide how limited health care resources are distributed? How can access, costs and quality be balanced and legal, economic and ethical concerns be met?

An open forum to discuss these and other issues is planned for April 6 and 7 at the University of Kentucky (UK) Singletary Center for the Arts in Lexington. The two-day program, "Health Care Rationing: Entitlements, Economics and Health Care Practices," is a presentation of the 1993-94 University Forum sponsored by the Office of the Vice President for Research and Graduate Studies and the Department of Anesthesiology, UK College of Medicine.

The forum will bring a distinguished group of national experts and Kentucky panelists together for what Dr. Michael Rie, Forum Director, calls a lively dialogue about a "politically incorrect taboo subject."

"Americans have been led to believe that they are entitled to the best health care in unrestricted quality while costs are contained. However, any thinking person can reason that universal health care cannot be all things to all people," says Rie, as associate professor of anesthesiology and surgery at UK.

The April 6 session features an overview of the Oregon Health Plan by Dr. John Kitzhaber, former president of the Oregon Senate, and a presentation about reforming malpractice laws by E. Haavi Morreim of the University of Tennessee. Rie speaks on the administrative limits of individual care in intensive care units and the Rev. Kevin Wildes of Georgetown University delivers "The Gospel of Inequality in Health Care."

The April 7 session includes presentations on "The Science of Predicting Death in Intensive Care Units" by Daniel Teres of Tufts University School of Medicine and "The Message of Oregon: Wealth Transfer, Peaceful Co-Existence and the Virtues of a Multi-tiered Health Care System in the American Economy" by H. Tristram Engelhardt, Jr. of Baylor College of Medicine. A member of the Clinton Administration has been invited to make a presentation on balancing access, costs and quality.

Each session will be interactive with audience participation and feedback from a reactor panel. The forum closes April 7 with a two-hour afternoon town meeting from 2:45 to 4:45 p.m.

Admission is free, but seating reservations are requested. Some professional continuing education credits are available for a processing fee. To make reservations or request a brochure, call (606) 323-5956.

present, our Program Director must fill it, in addition to all of her other staff obligations. We are actively soliciting members of our Jewish community to fill this position, but would appreciate your assistance in finding two Volunteer Co-ordinators.

Of equal importance is our need for volunteers to perform the many jobs that are essential to integrating our new compatriots into this different world in which they now live. If you have any time; if you have any useful skill or talent; if you are willing to "do anything"; please call Sharyn Sharer at the CKJF office (268-0672 or 268-0775) and get your name on a volunteer list. We need people for just about everything; people who can help us find jobs, who can drive the new Americans to job interviews and doctors appointments, who can help in an acculturation program, who are physically able to "schlep" and help set up apartments, and who are willing to serve as host families. If you have the time, we can find a job for you.

We are particularly anxious to move forward with our Family To Family program. This aspect of resettlement is essential to helping the new Americans become part of our community. We match a new family with two - or more - resident families who help in the acculturation of the newcomers by inviting them for dinner or for a Shabbat evening, or taking them to services or the movies or to a community function, or meeting them for a hour or two so that they can practice their English. Integration into a new society requires acquisition of new interpersonal and social skills which can be learned only from interactions with members of the group into which the newcomer is integrating. Be generous and volunteer to be part of the Family To Family program.

The future of the resettlement program of this community depends upon the members of the community. Be part of a successful future by volunteering.

GUEST CHEF OF THE MONTH

Shalom would like to include a monthly feature highlighting recipes from members of our community. It can be an old family favorite or one you just like especially well. This is not limited to women only -- we have some great male chefs out there, too. So, look through your cookbooks or just remember from your childhood and let the rest of the community in on your secret.

To begin our new endeavor, Fannie Miller has graciously contributed two of her favorite Pesach recipes. Fannie is a life long member of the Lexington Jewish community, and besides being known as an integral part of Lexington in many areas, she is also renowned for her fabulous cooking. So read on.

NOODLES AND BLINTZES FOR PESACH

Ingredients:

3 eggs	Dash pepper (only
1 1/3 cups water	for noodles)
6 tbs. potato starch	3 tsp. oil
1/2 tsp. salt	Oil for the skillet

Method:

In a medium bowl, mix the eggs, potato starch, water, salt and oil thoroughly. The mixture should look like thick cream. Heat a heavy 5" skillet. Sprinkle with a few drops of oil and grease the whole skillet with a paper towel. Continue heating until a drop of water will dance on the skillet.

Put two tablespoons of batter into the skillet. Tilt to spread the batter evenly on the surface. When the batter in the skillet looks completely dry, turn over and fry on the other side. Regulate the heat and the frying time so that each pancake will be pale gold.

Invert the skillet above a plate. The pancake will fall onto the plate. Continue making thin pancakes until you finish the batter.

To make noodles, let the pancakes cool. Roll up, and cut crosswise, to 1/8" width noodles. Use in soup.

To make blintzes, fill the pancakes with your favorite Pesach cheese filling. Roll up and heat in a skillet before serving.

Makes 12 blintzes or 6 servings of noodles.

CHOCOLATE MATZO ROLL

An Israeli version of a non-bake Pesach cake. The chocolate matzo roll has to be chilled before it can be sliced and is covered with a shiny chocolate glaze.

Ingredients:

4 unsalted matzot	1/4 cup sugar
8 oz. Pesach margarine	1 tbs. brandy or
6 oz. semi-sweet chocolate	other flavoring
3 tbs. strong black coffee	3 oz. chopped
	walnuts

Method:

Moisten the matzot under running water, then crumble into a medium bowl. Melt the sugar, coffee and four ounces of the chocolate in the top of a double boiler. Remove from heat when thoroughly combined, and add the brandy then cool slightly.

Beat the margarine until fluffy and add the melted chocolate gradually, beating well after each addition. Stir in the crumbled matzot and chopped nuts; mix with a spoon.

Pour the mixture lengthwise on a piece of waxed paper 12" long. Fold paper around the mixture and shape like a salami. Roll on a table under your palms to give a smooth round appearance. Secure the edges of the paper. Refrigerate the roll for six hours.

When hard enough to cut, peel off the paper, prepare the chocolate glaze and pour on top of the roll. Chill again. Serve the roll cold, sliced crosswise.

To prepare the glaze, melt the remaining chocolate with three tablespoons of water in the top of a double boiler.

JEWISH INSTITUTIONS ARE HIT HARD BY QUAKE, NEED HELP

BY: TOM TUGEND

LOS ANGELES (JTA) - In the wake of the earthquake here, leaders of the Jewish community are scrambling to re-establish communications and assess the toll on life and property.

Based on the list of the earthquake's 57 victims, and reports by rabbis and others, it is believed that at least 12 Jews lost their lives. The oldest was 89, and the youngest, a five-year-old girl.

The cost of property damage to Jewish communal institutions is estimated at $15 - 20 million, according to John Fishel, executive vice president of the Jewish Federation Council of Greater Los Angeles.

Fishel also believes that about 150,000 Jewish residents of the metropolitan Los Angeles area, or one out of every four, suffered some personal or property loss.

Among the hardest hit institutions have been the University of Judaism, which estimates it is looking at a repair bill of $1-2 million; the Brandeis-Bardin Institute, which lost its historic main building; and the Bernard Milken Community Campus, housing the main Jewish agencies for the western San Fernando Valley.

Conservative Temple Valley Beth Shalom in Encino sustained up to $400,000 in damages. The temple's rabbi, Harold Schulweis, likened the quake to "a dybbuk (or demonic spirit), full of sound and fury."

The Simon Wiesenthal Center and its newly opened Museum of Tolerance, built according to the latest earthquake specifications, suffered $75,000 in damages.

Because of the erratic force and path of the quake, three institutions that were closest to the epicenter in Northridge suffered only minor damage: Hillel House on the California State University campus, Chabad Center and the Abraham Herschel Day School.

Throughout the often fractious city, hit by one disaster after another, people are coming together as never before.

The people here are responding remarkably and hanging together. It's an amazing feeling," said Rabbi Gary Greenbaum, who doubles as president of the L.A. Police Commission and as Western regional director of the American Jewish Committee.

The Jewish Community Building on Wilshire Blvd. has converted a bank of telephone lines that was installed for the United Jewish Fund's February 6 Super Sunday drive to an emergency hotline, which also accepts offers of housing, food, transportation and other assistance.

Federation staff members and volunteers working the 12 rotary telephone lines were trained to quickly analyze the callers' problems and assign them to the appropriate agencies, whether Jewish, general (such as the Red Cross) or governmental (primarily the Federal Emergency Management Agency), said Terry Bell, the Jewish Federation Council's president.

In an interview, Bell and Fishel outlined some of the immediate steps and future plans of the federation, its agencies, synagogues, community centers and other bodies of the organized Jewish community to cope with the aftermath of the disaster.

In rough order of priority, the community is responding to these urgent needs: a place to stay for those whose homes have been destroyed or made unsafe; cash loans to buy food and other necessities; transportation to relief centers and agencies; and personal counseling.

To help meet immediate housing needs, the JFC and its Real Estate Division have compiled a data base to match landlords with the newly homeless.

The front-line Jewish agencies dealing most directly with those in need are the Jewish Family Service offices in mid-city, Santa Monica and the San Fernando Valley; Board of Rabbis; Bet Tzedek legal services; Jewish Big Brothers; Hillel Council; Sovat Kasher Food Pantries and the Jewish Vocational Service, which is assisting those who have lost their jobs or businesses due to earthquake damage.

Coordinating much of the federation's outreach to the community and outside agencies is Steven Windmueller, director of the Jewish Community Relations Committee.

The federation's outreach program is by no means limited to Jews, as evidenced by their full page ad in Sunday, January 23's Los Angeles Times, under the heading of "Tikkun L.A." (or Repair Los Angeles). It listed the JFC's hotline number and services.

PRIME MINISTER RABIN STRESSES IMPORTANCE OF JEWISH FUNDRAISING IN LETTER TO U.S. ORGANIZATIONS

The following is the text of the letter sent by Yitzhak Rabin to the leadership of the Council of Jewish Federations (CJF); the United Israel Appeal, and the United Jewish Appeal (UJA).

In response to recent statements made in Israel about the role of Jewish fundraising campaigns overseas, I would like to clarify my position:

Particularly at this time, I see great importance in the continuation - even more, the intensification - of fundraising efforts among the Jews of the free world, and in deepening educational activities for the strengthening of Jewish identification with Israel.

The central role of the State of Israel is to serve as a sanctuary for Jews from distressed communities, as well as to present a challenge for Jews from developed countries who wish to build their home here.

The opening of the gates of the former Soviet Union to mass aliyah, the aliyah from Ethiopia, Yemen and other countries, and the wide ranging effort to absorb the many immigrants, have placed and are placing before the State of Israel, the Jewish people and the various campaigns one of the greatest Zionist challenges since the state was established.

The State of Israel considers itself responsible for the fate of the Jewish people all over the world. Its centrality in Jewish community life is a necessary condition for Jewish continuity and the preservation of Jewish identity in the diaspora.

At the same time the Jewish communities in the developed countries are being called upon to step up their efforts in financing the great undertaking of bringing hundreds of thousands of Jews - mainly from the former Soviet Union - to Israel, and in aiding their absorption, as well as in supporting Israel's array of social and educational projects.

Therefore, I believe that the Jewish organizations in the Diaspora have a very important role to play in strengthening the Jewish and Zionist infrastructure of Jewish communities, and in the building and development of Israeli society.

We call for an increase in contributions to Israel out of economic and social strength, and out of a desire to put forward a challenge of partnership and the taking of responsibility.

The involvement of diaspora Jewry with Israel, its problems and accomplishments, is the key to reinforcing the relationship between us and deepening the connection of diaspora Jews with Israel. Fundraising should bring with it as well investment in the Israeli economy. It should be conducted as part of a comprehensive educational effort whose purpose is to make Israel the center of Jewish identity and experience in the different communities.

I know well, and admire, the great efforts made by your organization and its many accomplishments in working to realize these goals.

I would like to wish you success in the continuation of your activities.

Sincerely yours,

Y. Rabin

YEDIOT AHRONOT SPELLS OUT UNDERSTANDINGS REACHED IN PERES-ARAFAT MEETING

YEDIOT AHRONOT (2/1/94) spells out the issues which were agreed upon in the Peres-Arafat meeting in Davos, Switzerland. The newspaper is basing its analysis on various Israeli and Palestinian sources. In regard to the border crossings, it was agreed that there will be two separate terminals, one for Israelis and one for Palestinians. Israel will have the right to examine suspected individuals, in the presence of a Palestinian attorney, in a special room. According to the newspaper, Israel agreed to the use of electronic monitoring equipment to examine all Palestinians entering except those suspected by the authorities. The Palestinians gave up on their demand to have a flag and armed policemen at border crossing points, and accepted the principle that Israel has sole responsibility for security along the borders. As for the size of the Jericho area, the Palestinians gave up their demand for 340 square kilometers and an area of approximately 55 square kilometers (about 21 square miles) was agreed upon. In addition, the Palestinians will receive control over three religious sites, and the roads leading to them, which are outside of the Jericho area. Israel also agreed to establish joint tourism projects in the Dead Sea area. In regard to the Gaza Strip, the newspaper claims the two parties agreed that the Israel Defense Forces will patrol the east-west routes in the Strip, along which Israeli settlements are concentrated.

McCONNELL IN ISRAEL

The American consul took us to East Jerusalem where we met with two of Yasser Arafat's aides who presented the Palestinian view of the peace process. We had a lively discussion during which he presented the Palestinian version of the history of the region and how they planned to govern the territories.

The trip gave us a true appreciation for the complexity of the area's politics, the beauty of the land and the shared value system that links Israel and the United States to a common goal - peace in the Middle East and the world.

AMID SHELLING OF SARAJEVO THE JDC EVACUATES 296 PEOPLE

BY: RUTH E. GRUBER

ROME, Feb. 6 (JTA) - Just hours after a mortar killed more than 65 people in the worst atrocity committed in the 22-month siege of Sarajevo, a Jewish-organized, multi-ethnic convoy successfully brought nearly 300 people from the embattled Bosnian city.

The six-bus convoy, organized by the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee in partnership with Sarajevo's Jewish La Benevolencija organization, brought 296 Jews, Croats, Serbs and Muslims on a torturous overland journey overnight from Sarajevo to Makarska, on the Croatian coast, where JDC maintains a refugee center, JDC officials said.

The group included men and women of all ages, and a few children. Among the evacuees was an elderly Muslim woman who has been designated a Righteous Gentile and her family, who have been invited to live in Israel.

About one-third of the evacuees were Jewish, leaving about 300 to 350 Jews in the city, the JDC said.

Jewish evacuees who want to go to Israel are being processed in Makarska by the Jewish Agency.

"We are so happy to have been able to bring this convoy out," JDC President Ambassador Milton Wolf told the Jewish Telegraphic Agency by telephone from Makarska.

"The convoy brought out not only Jews by a multi-ethnic group that includes Christian Serbs and Croats as well as Muslims," said Wolf, a former U.S. ambassador who had flown in from New York to supervise the operation and was on hand to meet the evacuees.

"Our joy in bringing out the convoy, however, is tarnished by the terrible tragedy of the shelling Saturday," he said. "It took place as our convoy was preparing for departure, and people who just got off the buses say it was horrible."

Wolf extended thanks to the governments of Bosnia-Herzegovina and Croatia, to Serbian forces, to the U.N. protection force, and to the Jewish communities of Sarajevo and Zagreb, Croatia, for their help in setting up and making possible the evacuation.

He also thanked the government of France, The European Jewish Congress and the Central British Fund of London for their help.

Rain and Mudslides

The first of the six convoy buses was just leaving Sarajevo at 12:30 p.m. Saturday when deathly mortar shells hit Sarajevo's central market, killing and injuring hundreds.

The last bus left Sarajevo at 4 p.m. Saturday and arrived in Makarska at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, he said.

Torrential rains and mudslides on the narrow winding roads across the mountains slowed the convoy and disrupted radio telephone contact between the buses and Makarska, Wolf said.

In the first bus was Zajniba Hartaga-Susic, 77, along with her daughter Aida, her son-in-law, Branumir, who suffers from multiple sclerosis, and her 10-year-old granddaughter, Stella.

Hartaga-Susic is a Muslim who was designated a Righteous Gentile by Yad Vashem in recognition of her rescue of Jews during World War II.

Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres personally intervened to help gain permission for Hartaga-Susic and her family to be evacuated, by formally inviting all of them, in the name of the Israeli government, to live in Israel.

The evacuation convoy was the latest in a series of air and land evacuations executed by the JDC, the operational organization for overseas Jewish aid, since the beginning of hostilities in Bosnia. These evacuations have transported about 2,200 residents of Sarajevo of all religions and ethnic groups to safe havens.

Wolf said that because of the difficulty in organizing the convoys, at this time no further evacuation was planned.

KING HUSSEIN: PEACE AGREEMENT WITH ISRAEL CONDITIONED ON RESOLVING ISSUES OF SOVEREIGNTY, WATER AND REFUGEES

KOL YISRAEL (2/14/94) quotes Jordan's King Hussein who stated that peace between Israel and Jordan is conditioned on resolving issues in dispute between the two countries. the three major issues are sovereignty over several areas, water allocation and the future of Palestinian refugees in Jordan. KOL YISRAEL also reports that Israeli-Jordanian economic talks will resume in Washington on Thursday. An official of the Jordanian government said that the two parties will attempt to conclude a draft agreement on opening Jordanian banks in the Gaza Strip. Other topics to be addressed are trade between Jordan and the proposed Palestinian autonomous area and proposals for joint development of the Jordan Valley once a peace agreement is signed.

Most Jewish families who've gotten out of the former Soviet Union had to leave someone behind.

A grandmother. A son-in-law. A favorite uncle. In fact, for all the Jews who have left the former Soviet Union for Israel, 1.4 million others were left behind. They're living amid political and social turmoil, economic hardship, and fear of anti-Semitism.

You can help them come home to Israel. Where they can live fully as Jews, as human beings, as families.

Keep the promise of the Promised Land. And help families keep the promises they made to loved ones left behind. Please give generously to Operation Exodus and to the Annual Campaign.

NEWS IN BRIEF

CHAIN REACTION II

As lines spill out of the new McDonald's in Ramat Gan, other fast-food chains are looking for a piece of the action. According to a recent issue of Israel Business Today, Burger King recently announced plans to open 50 restaurants in Israel over the next six years, starting with the flagship in Tel Aviv this April. Burger Ranch, an Israeli chain, plans to open branches in the Israeli Arab towns of Taibe and Nazareth. Kentucky Fried Chicken served its first finger-lickin' Israelis recent in Rishon LeZion; the KFC Israel franchisee also owns Israel's 18 Pizza Huts. For those with a sweet tooth, Ben & Jerry's has opened a second Jerusalem branch off the Ben Yehuda pedestrian mall (the first still operates a few blocks away on Hillel Street).

SEE-SAREA RESTORED

Plans are under way to restore and develop the Old City of Caesarea over the next five years with the aim of making the site a major tourist attraction. The $25 million project is a joint undertaking of the Ministry of Tourism, the Government Tourist Corporation, the National Parks Authority and the Caesarea Development Corporation. Plans include the expansion of current archaeological excavations, restoration of the ancient port and Herod's palace, a new museum, a visitor's center, an archaeological park and a new entrance to the Roman amphitheater.

FLOATING MECHITZA?

The Ministry of Tourism has spent $170,000 to develop a new beach area on the Dead Sea. The beach, located 13 miles south of Masada, is aimed at ultra-Orthodox visitors and will feature separate bathing facilities for men and women, separate beach entrance and separate paths from the parking lot. Bikinis will be banned and bathing areas will be clearly marked by a 10-foot wall. The beach is scheduled to open early this year.

TRAVEL LOG

El Al Israel airlines recently began direct weekly flights to India and Thailand. The response was so overwhelming that the airline has added a second weekly flight. About 15,000 Israelis visit Thailand each year, a figure which is expected to increase with the new direct route. El Al officials expressed hope that the peace process will lead to permission to fly through Saudi Arabian airspace, significantly shortening flights to the Far East.

In a related development, it was recently announced that Israel and Japan will sign a mutual flight agreement in September 1994. El Al planes will land at the new international airport in Osaka (to be completed in September) rather than Tokyo. According to Japanese officials, there is not enough landing space in Tokyo's two international airports. Israel is also negotiating with South Korea for a similar mutual agreement. El Al currently flies to 45 destinations worldwide.

inundated with anecdotes, rumors and impressions, but they lack hard, practical information.

To supply this much-needed information, the JFC has held four disaster relief forums at which experts answered questions ranging from getting emergency food to the tax impact of losing a home.

Fishel and Terry said they have been heartened by a string of phone calls from federation officials in other cities - especially from Oakland, San Francisco, Miami and Des Moines offering expertise garnered the hard way as a result of natural disasters that have struck those communities during the past two years.

A delegation from the Council of Jewish Federations toured disaster sites and offered not only moral support, but concrete financial assistance.

The council has established an earthquake relief fund, as have B'nai Brith International, the American Jewish World Service and the Reform, Conservative and Orthodox movements.

You can help the earthquake victims in Los Angeles through the Council of Jewish Federations by sending your check to the CJF Earthquake Emergency Fund, c/o CKJF, 340 Romany Road, Lexington, KY 40502.

LETTERS

Dear Friends,

We do want to again thank one and all for honoring us with the CKJF Chai Award.

There are many unsung heroes and heroines who have participated and continue to do so that it is impossible to name every one. However, we would be remiss if we didn't at least mention the outstanding leadership of Evelyn Geller, Sharyn Sharer, Gail Cohen and Linda Ravvin.

Our first major problem was the urgent need for storage space, which was quickly and quietly met, on a temporary basis, by Steve Caller and Leon Cooper until a permanent facility was provided for us by Steve.

Transportation to and from English classes, for shopping trips and for all the running around necessary to acclimate the newcomers was provided by a cadre of volunteers using their own cars, time and gasoline.

The fact that we were retired and the owners of a small pick-up truck launched us into an active role. The feeling that every person should at least have a brand new pillow to sleep on roused Edie Frankel to make an ongoing commitment to supply funds for this purpose. Many of you donated furniture, beds, couches, pots, pans, kitchen utensils, knickknacks, televisions and all the myriad of items indispensable to making a home today. If we ran short of televisions, of course, we could always count on Barney Miller's to come to our rescue.

We must not forget our Christian friends and neighbors, who came through for us in a big way with donations and muscle power. There is Luke "Chip" Davenport, a recent convert, who would make a round trip of 75 miles or so from Stamping Ground, Kentucky just to help out. Bill Crain, as Christian Minister, was on the phone almost daily asking what he could do to help. And, the emigres themselves pitched in whenever they had free time.

While the names of our "heroes and heroines" are too numerous to mention, each and every one of you, Jews and non-Jews alike, who gave and gave and helped and helped in our endeavor has a share in the Chai Award. We are merely the caretakers. You know who you are and you know what you did and we know who you are and we know what you did!

We wish God's blessing on you all.

Sincerely,

Jerry and Rose Rita Wurmser

In Los Angeles, More Than Freeways Was Split Apart

In Los Angeles, a great deal more than freeways was shattered. The pattern of people's lives was disrupted, their homes, belongings and jobs were destroyed, and in some cases, life itself came to an end. The large Jewish community in the affected areas was particularly hard hit.

The Council of Jewish Federations has established the CJF Earthquake Emergency Fund to work with the Jewish Federation Council of Greater Los Angeles to bring emergency assistance to those in need and to help rebuild Jewish institutions.

Your local Federation has also established an Earthquake Fund and will forward its proceeds to the CJF Fund for transmission to Los Angeles.
