Billy Thompson

Billy Thompson, sports editor of the Lexington Herald, has commented on Coach Rupp and each of the Wildcat basketball players in the pages which follow. Thompson has kept an eye on the Wildcats as a newspaper man for more than 12 years. His daily sports column in the Herald is closely followed by sports fans over the state.

Information in this book compiled through the cooperation of Ken Kuhn, University of Kentucky director of sports publicity.

This Basketball Guide Book was published by LDON PUBLICATIONS, 1750 Alexandria Drive, Lexington, Kentucky. LDON PUBLICATIONS also published the 1964 Wildcat Football Booster Book to supply sports fans with information on the University of Kentucky Football squad. The publication of the 1964-65 Wildcat Basketball Guide Book has as its goal to supply sports fans with information on the University of Kentucky Basketball team.

Adolph Rupp

Head Coach

Adolph Frederick Rupp has many nicknames — “The Baron”, “The Man in the Brown Suit,” etc. — but perhaps the most fitting is “Mr. Basketball.”

Perhaps no man who ever lived has meant more to the roundball sport than Kentucky's Adolph Rupp. When you travel through the South and see great arenas where basketball is played, you can say — and you'll be 100 per cent right — “Adolph Rupp is responsible for that building.”

And why is that statement correct? Well, Rupp's raiders have gone through the South so often and rocked basketball teams so frequently that the alumni got tired of losing to Kentucky and to Rupp. “Let's do something about it,” they said. And so basketball rapidly blossomed throughout the South . . . just as have magnificent buildings where basketball is played.

Therefore, never let it be said that anyone has meant more to basketball — especially in the South—than Adolph Rupp. He is to basketball what Babe Ruth was to baseball. “The Bambino” saved baseball; Adolph Rupp has saved basketball.

He is the nation's winningest coach — both in the number of victories and in percentage. His Kentucky Wildcats have registered 705 victories in the 34 years under Rupp. And by losing only 140, it gives Rupp-coached teams an unbelievable .834 average.

Rupp twice has been national "Coach-of-the-Year." He was co-coach of the U.S. team in the 1948 Olympics . . he produced more Olympic goal medal winners (7) than any other cage coach . . He has registered an all-time record of 21 Southeastern Conference championships . . He was elected to the Helms Hall of Fame in 1946 and to the Naismith Hall of Fame in 1959 . . He twice was elected an honorary citizen of the City of New Orleans . . His Wildcat teams have won five Sugar Bowl championships, an NIT title and a record four NCAA crowns plus seven triumphs in the 11 University of Kentucky Invitational Tournaments.

Kentuckians are mighty proud of Adolph Rupp and what he has meant to our state.

John Adams

CENTER

SENIOR

215 LBS.

6-6½

AGE 21

RISING SUN, IND.

The second biggest Kentucky Wildcat basketball player is John Adams, a 6-6½ senior center from Rising Sun, Ind. A great deal of Kentucky's success rests on Adams' shoulders. It isn't a secret that basketball teams these days need a big man. Adams isn't a big man, as many college centers go, but if he can continue to play in the manner that he closed out the 1963-64 campaign, he could take a lot of pressure off some of the other UKats.

Adams hasn't been a high scorer since his freshman year, when he averaged 16.6 points a game. As a high schooler, "Big John" averaged 21 points and 22 rebounds a game.

"Big John" played in 16 of Kentucky's 27 games last year and hauled down 28 rebounds and scored 31 points. His best game was against Loyola of Chicago, against whom he scored nine points.

Brad Bounds

SOPHOMORE

205 LBS.

6-5½

AGE 19

BUFFTON, IND.

When the final tabulation was made among Indiana high school scorers two years ago, at the top of the list was: Brad Bounds, Bluffton High, 28.4 point average.

The 6-5½ sophomore center is a good shooter from the outside, which is unusual for a person his size. A native of Detroit, Bounds was All-Conference at Bluffton three straight years and scored 1,666 points in 73 games for a career average of 23.8 points a game.

Proving his ability to hit from outside, Bounds posted a 47 per cent accuracy rating in field goals and hit 88 per cent of his free-throw attempts.

Because of the color of his hair, Bounds reminds fans of Cotton Nash, the three-time All-American who was graduated in June. And when Bounds reported for the first day of practice, he was wearing No. 44 — the same number that Nash had worn for three seasons.

Larry Conley

FORWARD

JUNIOR
170 LBS.
6-3¼
AGE 20
ASHLAND

One of the leading basketballers in the Southeastern Conference this season will be Larry Conley, a popular fellow who is expected to be one of the top cagers in the nation before he is graduated. Larry is a 6-3¼ junior forward from Ashland, who first made fame as a center on Ashland High's state championship team in 1961.

Conley started just about every game the UKats played last season, although he came in as a reserve in the opening game. He was the third-leading scorer on last year's club and is expected to be the leading point producer on the current crop of cage Cats.

Larry was an All-America high school cager at Ashland and his father, George Conley, formerly coached at Ashland and now is regarded as one of the top basketball officials in the nation.

Although Conley is listed as a forward, he can play all three positions. He did in high school and scored 1,475 points.

Larry was third last year in rebounds, with 162, and in scoring, with 331—an average of 12.2 points a game. His best offensive output was against Florida, when he pitched in 20 points.

Louie Dampier

GUARD

SOPHOMORE

165 LBS.

6-0

AGE 19

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

If Louie Dampier lives up to expectations, he's going to be a fan-favorite before his playing days are over. The 6-foot sophomore from Southport, Ind., was a tremendous high schooler and was sought by several leading universities throughout the country.

When the Olympic basketball squads were practicing in Lexington, Dampier filled in when one of the players was injured. "Louie the Great" was so impressive that the Olympic coach tried to persuade officials to permit the adding of Dampier to the Olympic squad—one of the greatest tributes that can be given to anyone—especially to a fellow who was a college freshman at the time.

The guard shattered a sectional tournament four-game record which was set by Oscar Robertson, when "Big O" was playing at Indianapolis Attucks. Dampier was president of his senior class and is a very good student in the classroom. He had a tremendous year as a freshman and big things are expected of him in college.

Randy Embry

GUARD

SENIOR

170 LBS.

5-11

AGE 21

OWENSBORO

The smallest cager on the Kentucky roster is 5-11 Randy Embry, a senior guard from Owensboro. But he plays a lot like his former high school coach, Bobby Watson, who was a fan-pleasing guard for the UKats. Embry makes up in hustle and desire what he lacks in height.

The "Little Man" — as Coach Adolph Rupp calls him — played in 24 of Kentucky's 27 games last season and was the fifth scorer with an average of 7.2 points a game. And he also hauled down 53 rebounds, despite his size.

He is a quarterback-type guard. Passes well and directs traffic like the veteran that he is. He's typical of the good little men who have often been a vital cog in Kentucky machinery that ground out some of the school's best basketball records. He has good speed, is an elusive dribbler and a long-range bomber. His best offensive game as a sophomore was a 12-point output against Tennessee and his best night last year was a 20-point production against Tulane.

Ron Kennett

GUARD

SENIOR

172 LBS.

6-0

AGE 22

LAWRENCEBURG, IND.

One of the team's fastest cagers is Ron Kennett, a 6-foot senior guard from Lawrenceburg, Ind. He is an excellent shot and hopes to see considerable action this season.

While a high schooler in the Hoosier state, Kennett was regarded as one of Indiana's best playmakers, and he was a basketball standout when the basketball campaign ended — just as he was for the Kentucky baseballers last spring.

Kennett's top offensive performance last season was four points against Tulane and he scored only one other point while seeing action in five games.

He is a good "feeder" and could work into Kentucky's plans as a good spot player.

Tommy Kron

GUARD

JUNIOR

204 LBS.

6-5½

AGE 20

OWENSBORO

The fellow who made the "point" defense go last year for Kentucky was 6-5½ Tommy Kron, the tallest guard Kentucky has ever had. Kron hails from Owensboro now, although he played his high school basketball at Tell City, Indiana.

Fans never will forget his performance against the Tennessee freshmen in 1963. He put on a one-man show out of necessity as ineligibility had sidelined three other scholarship starters. When teammate Larry Lentz fouled out with three minutes to go, Kron had to hold the fort with three "students." He personally controlled the ball most of the time and finished up with 18 points. He averaged 16.6 points as a freshman and was the sixth-leading scorer on the varsity as a sophomore last year with 138 points. He also grabbed 92 rebounds, fifth highest on the team.

It appears that Kron excels against Tennessee. In addition to 18 against the Baby Vols as a freshman, "Tom the Bomb" scored 17 for his top night against Tennessee last season.

Larry Lentz

CENTER

JUNIOR

220 LBS.

6-8

AGE 20

LAKEVIEW, OHIO

Kentucky's tallest basketballer this season will be 6-8 Larry Lentz, a junior from Lakeview, Ohio. Lentz had his best collegiate night against Tennessee as a freshman two years ago when he dropped in 16 points. Last season he failed to score in the only game in which he played.

Lentz hasn't gained the form that Kentucky had hoped when the big youngster was signed after doing well in high school. Lentz reminded fans of Spivey when he came to Kentucky, although Lentz, at 220 pounds, weighed considerably more than "Spiv."

If Lentz could round into a dependable cager, he could be used as a "spot man" for a limited amount of duty to rest Kentucky's regular center.

Terry Mobley

GUARD

SENIOR

192 LBS.

6-3

AGE 21

HARRODSBURG

Terry Mobley has been forced to overcome various and sundry injuries during the past few months. First, he suffered a knee injury while playing with the "Victory for Christ" program in the Far East. Physicians there said that Mobley had suffered a fractured knee cap and he was returned to the United States. It was learned that the knee cap was not fractured.

Then a few days before the practice season opened, Mobley was engaged in an informal practice and a teammate struck him in the eye while going for a loose ball and Mobley had to undergo an operation.

The 6-3 senior guard from Harrodsburg was the team's fourth leading scorer and rebounder last season. He tallied 255 points and grabbed off 140 rebounds and his best games were against North Carolina and Loyola of Chicago—he scored 21 against each.

Mobley, who played under former UK All-America Aggie Sale at Harrodsburg High, is particularly impressive with his poise under pressure. Proving this, he hit a free throw against Duke to win the Sugar Bowl title on Dec. 31.

Pat Riley

FORWARD

SOPHOMORE

202 LBS.

6-3½

AGE 19

SCHENECTADY, N.Y.

To play basketball or football in college?

That was the big question which confronted Pat Riley, as the 6-3½ all-sports standout from Schenectady, N.Y., faced when it came time to enroll in college. He was an All-America high schooler in basketball! He was an All-America quarterback in football.

He is the No. 2 point-producer in Schenectady's history, missing by only four points of equaling the record set by Barry Kramer, who later made All-America honors at New York University. And it was Kramer who played a big role in Riley's coming to Kentucky. Kramer reportedly told Pat, "Don't make the same mistake I did. I have wished a 100 times that I had gone to Kentucky to play for Coach Rupp. Don't you go some place else and then start wishing that you had gone to Kentucky. Go there and don't consider any other school."

About 85 colleges and universities beat a path to Riley's door, but Coach Rupp personally signed the sturdily built sports standout.

Gene Stewart

FORWARD

SOPHOMORE

190 LBS.

6-2

AGE 19

BROOKVILLE, IND.

The leading scorer on his high school team at Brookville, Ind., Gene Stewart is expected to help the Kentucky Wildcats considerably before he is graduated.

The 6-2 forward led his prep team three straight years in scoring although on numerous occasions he was double and triple-teamed by the opposition.

Few athletes ever equal the record established by Stewart as a high schooler. He was captain in four sports and is one of the very few persons ever to achieve that distinction.

Stewart shows a lot of promise and is heavily counted upon in the UKat cage plans.

Frank Tully

FORWARD

JUNIOR

190 LBS.

6-3

AGE 20

RIVERSIDE, ILL.

One of the few junior college transfers to wear the Blue and White of Kentucky is Frank Tully, a 6-3 forward candidate.

And Tully is hoping that playing for a Lexington, Ky. team is just as successful to him as playing for a Lexington, Mo., team.

Last season, Tully played for the Wentworth Military Academy in Missouri and he is hoping to duplicate the 1963-64 season.

Wildcat Team

Front Row - Adolph Rupp, Head Coach; Frank Tully, Louie Dampier, Randy Embry, Ron Kennett, Gene Stewart, Harry Lancaster, assistant coach. Back Row - Joe Brown, Trainer; Terry Mobley, Brad Bounds, Larry Lentz, John Adams, Tommy Kron, Pat Riley, Larry Conley, Hub Metry, manager.

HARRY LANCASTER

Assistant Coach

A three-sport standout at Georgetown College, Harry Lancaster has excelled in two sports at Kentucky. He is the basketball assistant coach and head baseball coach of the UKats.

He admits, however, that his best sport as a player at Paris High School and at Georgetown College was football. He was assistant coach at Georgetown College in both football and basketball following his graduating in 1932. Then he spent the next nine years as a coach of several sports and served as a high school principal for six years before taking an instructor's position in physical education at UK in 1942. After a stint in the Navy, Lancaster returned to Kentucky in 1946 as a part-time assistant to Adolph Rupp and in 1948 he became Rupp's right-hand man.

His duties now include being head freshman basketball coach, varsity assistant coach and head baseball coach. And his freshman teams in the past several years have excelled against outstanding junior college teams, good service teams and top-flight independent cage clubs.

NEIL REED

Assistant Coach

Neil Reed came to Kentucky two years ago after two highly successful seasons at Wauconda (Ill.) High School, which won for him "Conference Coach-of-the-Year" honors. Prior to Reed's going to Wauconda, the school's basketball team had lost 28 straight games and had won only seven times in seven years.

Reed played freshman basketball and baseball at the University of Illinois and holds degrees from Illinois, Millikan and Kentucky.

Among his duties are recruiting high school prospects for Kentucky and he signed many outstanding youngsters who are currently on the UK freshman team.

JOE BROWN

Trainer

Thirty-one year old Joe Brown is trainer of the basketball squad. Before coming to the University two years ago, Brown gained experience at Southern Illinois University, Southeast Missouri State College and in the service. He has a bachelor's degree and the MA in Education.
