University AST Program Has Trained 2,280 Soldiers

The University AST and ASTP programs have trained approximately 2,280 soldiers and 17-year-old reservists since May 10, 1943, in addition to the hundreds of Reserve Officer Training Corps men who have received military instruction here. When the trainees of the ASTP and ASTRP began coming to the University campus in 1943, students wonder if they will be going to be allowed to enter into school activities; even more, they wondered if the army was going to take the University over completely, until after the war.

The theme of the conference will be "Christian Resources for Faith and Action." Dr. W. W. Westphalen, of Nashville, Tennessee, will be the main speaker. Dr. Westphalen was formerly president of the YMCA college at Nashville and is a prominent educator and speaker. Local ministers and secretaries of the attending groups will lead discussion bodies among the delegates. The conference will terminate Saturday night with a dinner meeting which will be held in the Student Union building. Norman Chirman, University student and president of the State Student YMCA, will act as conference chairman.

University AST Program Has Trained 2,280 Soldiers

When they have completed their training here, they are sent where the army can use them most effectively. Those who have completed their training are scattered all over the world—the European fighting front and in the Pacific. Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, dean of the University and co-ordinator of the program, acts as a go-between, between the Military department and University proper. Colonel Chipman, who has been in charge of the Military department since last August, when he succeeded B. E. Brewer, retired, and Dean Chamberlain work together on problems concerning the Military department and the University.

Mona Paulee Reveals Voice Of Outstanding Quality

Mona Paulee, Metropolitan Opera mezzo-soprano, presented a beautiful and well-selected program at the University on Sunday afternoon before an audience that quickly realized the outstanding abilities of the young singer. She presented a program as designed that within an hour she was able to sing four groups of songs, each outstanding. Her first group, including "Dido and Aeneas," from Purcell's opera, was highlighted by her excellent presentation of Rossini's lovely alto aria, "Dido and Aeneas." A general vocal range, lovely tone quality, and dramatic power was demonstrated by Miss Paulee.

The Future of Sports

The existence of sports events and whether or not they will be allowed to hold the spotlight in entertainment seems to be the target of those who want to change the civilian scene.

Opinions are divided. If athletes are able to participate in such rugged activity as football, basketball, and basketball, argue some, they should be able also to fight in the front line of battle; others upholding the rights of athletes and the millions who depend vastly upon sports for their sole entertainment insist that such activity has done much in maintaining stability during a war time crisis.

It is evident that the civilian population believes that without the normal relaxation obtained from seeing a good football game they become tired and war weary. These people want sports preserved as one of America's "great institutions." And their arguments seem to have sound facts and a good basis for such an idea. Sports in general have made it possible to throw open the gates of parks free to servicemen; have supplied a multitude of equipment for servicemen; have sent teams to entertain soldiers in camps, sometimes offering competition themselves; send leaders on overseas tours; and inspired the sale and purchase of millions of dollars in war bonds.

If such a nation-wide ban on professional sports should become necessary, there will undoubtedly be an increased interest in high school and college athletics.

Since the discontinuance of football at the University in the fall of 1943, we have seen how much the sport is needed on the campus. To a college student, horse racing is not important, transportation regulations are not too strict, but sports must continue to have a future.

Surprised To See The Old "Box Cars?"

From "Box Cars" to "Measuring Up" and back to "Box Cars" again! You ask, "What's up?" but the whole change can be traced directly back to you and what you want to read. College papers are constantly full of gossip—just plain "who-was-seen-with-who-last-night" gossip—and maybe that's all right. Anyway, we took a chance for imagining it in your old file. To a college student, horse racing is not important, transportation regulations are not too strict, but sports must continue to have a future.

UK—Way Back When

Mr. A. O. Whipple, superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, says that the new Men's Dormitory at the University has been completed and is the finest building of its kind in the whole state. It is a four-story brick building with concrete floors. It is abundantly equipped with all modern conveniences and is absolutely fire proof. The total cost of building and equipment was $150,000.

THE SALT SHAKER

Not until we looked at some matches we had acquired in the Book Store (and sadly thought of the good old days when people had a need for matches) did we realize that there is a tower on top of Memorial Hall. Something should be done about this. It should be expanded. There should also be some sort of tradition or legend connected with the tower. We will explore the tower and write a legend about it. It seems that the only person who was not thrown into a fit when we said that a certain person on the campus bore resemblance to a certain domestic quadruped, in last week's column, was that very same person. In fact, she was delighted to find that she had so many friends who were willing to stick up for her. Let us assert that the remark was not meant as an insult, and was not intended to start a feud. It is against our policy to fight with a person who can fight back. At the convocation Tuesday, Norman Cousins recalled an occasion when he was given a very long and complimentary introduction before his speech. He was slightly shocked to hear himself introduced, after all that, as Norman Thomas. This must have made a deep impression on Betty Lee Fleishman, for afterwards, she walked up to him and said, "I enjoyed your speech very much, Mr. THOMAS." She's still a rather off-color red. Actor Frederic March once found himself alone with his host's little seven-year-old son and, to pass the time before the boy's parents entered the room he asked him, "What do you want to be when you grow up, sonny?" The boy looked him straight in the eye and replied firmly, "A sex perv."

Grand Old Man In the heart of the University which he had loved and served so well, James Kennedy Patterson died August 15. In the forty-one years of his presidency, James Kennedy Patterson saw the institution grow from the Alma Mater of a graduating class of one to the inspiration of a class of ninety, and finally to one that numbered two hundred and twenty. William Benjamin Smith, executor of the biography of James Kennedy Patterson, is spending several months in Lexington preparing a memorial volume of the life and services of Dr. Patterson in respect to education and culture.

Emergency Program Our emergency program includes educational, cultural, and recreational services to students who are among the 6,000,000 prisoners in prison of war camps around the world, to break the demoralizing monotony of captivity; relief to student refugees in Switzerland (3000), Sweden, and in the United States; participation in the program of relocating loyal West-coast Japanese-American students in American colleges and universities. In China, we are helping keep 15,000 university students and 1,500 outstanding high school seniors, in school, in a vast undeveloped land where trained leadership is so imperative. China has 72,000 university students, or one in 6,500 in the population, as against one in 150 in the United States. Their colleges have been evacuated from the coast because of the advance of the occupying forces; some of them as many as six times, to establish themselves in the most primitive fashion one to two thousand miles inland. In Europe, war devastation has ravaged the universities. The great

BATTLE REPORT TO ALL HANDS

EVERY seaman and officer aboard our Navy's fighting ships instantly hears the call to action, follows the battle's progress over a special type of announcing system made by Western Electric. On carriers the entire crew, topside and below deck to officers and ammunition passers, can hear first-hand accounts direct from the pilots themselves on how it went "upstairs." Meeting the communication needs of our armed forces requires all available manpower and manufacturing facilities. That's why telephone equipment cannot be built for civilian use. After the war, Bell Laboratories' scientists and workers at Western Electric will turn again to their peacetime jobs of designing and making telephone equipment for the Bell System.

GEORGE PARTRIDGE... WHAS' Special Events Producer and Director, came to us from out of the blue at Bowman Field. He had helped produce "All Clear," Air Corps big show, weekly "Barricades" and Bowman Field's "Flying Time" to WHAS listeners.

A native New Yorker, George had been on Eastern radio stations before the war. He has produced and directed War Bond, War Fund and Blood Donor's programs and likes G.I.s in unhearsaid appearances. Right now, he is helping produce thirty-minute transmissions for boys on all fighting fronts, as per request of General Eisenhower. "A big hunk of hometown on a platter," these discs include current songs, topical conversation, speeches and post-war plans for soldiers. In twenty-seven American communities assigned to perform this important service, local stations are cooperating to make the discs fully representative of life "at home" in the states.

Big Blue Defeats Engineers 51-32 For Second Time This Season

Come Back To Win In Easy Fashion

The Kentucky Wildcats defeated the Georgia Tech Engineers for the second time this season, for their third conference win and 14th victory in 16 games by a 51-32 score, Saturday night at the Alumni gym.

The rebounding of Dutch Campbell, Jack Parkinson and Bill Sturgill was the feature of the game as the tight defense of the Wildcats kept the Engineers out in mid-floor most of the final period and their shots were not up to par from the distance.

Fancy Shooting Team

The Tech Engineers were the fanciest shooting team that has been seen on the home court so far this season and their fancy dribbling and fast interception of Kentucky's passes kept the score to a minimum during the first part of the game.

The visitors scored first when Billy Williams grabbed the opening tip-off and tossed in two points with a jump shot from the foul circle and then after Schu made a foul shot good, Dick Collier and Holladay dropped in four shots and Broyles arched one in from far out to give the Engineers a 4-1 advantage. Captain Jack Tingle and Campbell closed the gap to within one point and then Sturgill put Kentucky out in front for the first time at 8-8 with a set shot. Both teams fought back and forth for the lead with the 'Cats able to sustain a 17-14 advantage at the half-time intermission.

Come Back Strong
The Big Blue came back strong to start the second half as they scored nine points in a lurry before the Tech quintet could right themselves or come out of the trance. The 'Cats whipped the ball around them in whirling fashion into the basket. Broyles broke the spell with a foul shot and then Campbell and Tingle tossed in two goals from under the basket. Sturgill scored a free throw as the 'Cats drew away to more than double the score at 31-15.

Substitutes Freely

The first team ran the score up to a 42-26 margin and then Coach Adolph Rupp began to substitute freely, using 10 men throughout the game. The second team played the remainder of the game in excellent form as they scored nine points while holding the opposition to four.

Tingle paced the team with 17 points by virtue of eight field goals and one free throw. Wilbur Schu's play under the basket, was on the spectacular side and he was second high point man for the 'Cats as he tossed in three fielders and three foul shots, good for nine points. Billy Williams was held to just 10 tallies for the Yellow Jackets. Every one of the Kentucky players contributed to the scoring except Allin.

Three Games Remain On 'Cats' Schedule

The Wildcats have only three games remaining on their schedule before the close of the regular season and the start of the Southeastern conference tournament at the Jefferson county Armory in Louisville, March 1, 2, 3. They engage the Tennessee Volunteers at the Alumni gym, February 17, the Ohio University Bobcats at Athens, Ohio, February 19 and mind up the season in Cincinnati when they play the Bearcats on February 24.

The tough game left will be the encounter with the Orange and White from Knoxville, a team with only one loss and holding a one-point victory over the 'Cats. The Bobcats have won eight games in 13 attempts and were decisively beaten by Kentucky earlier in the season.

The University of Cincinnati has had a mediocre season and should not prove too tough a competitor. The Blues defeated the Bearcats by a marginal score in Lexington as the third opponent of the year. With a good rest during the weekend, the 'Cats should come back strong to clay the opposition and finish the schedule on top.

YMCA Delegates

are invited to participate and YMCA members are especially urged to attend the conference meetings to serve as hosts to the visiting delegates. A detailed program will be announced later. All men students on the campus

'The Lowe-Down'

In a letter from the Orange and White, the official student newspaper of the University of Tennessee, Mr. Charles Martin, business manager, writes, "I have read with a great deal of amusement your column of January 29th in which you so 'nobly' attempt to justify your team's defeat at the hands of our Volunteers. Particularly interesting is the point about our poor sportsmanship which you and your 'great' Coach Rupp seem to feel abundantly in this institution. Considering the fact that such a statement came from the mouth of Rupp, who is recognized annually as the worst coach as far as being a good loser and possessing a fair sense of sportsmanship is concerned, one is forced to stop and enjoy a good chuckle."

He goes on to say, "Such tripe! The idea that a sports editor is so partisan to his school team that he thinks the only reason they can be beaten is by foul play of the opposing team is nothing short of disgusting to this writer. Your inference that we can't accept defeat only brings to my mind this proverb, 'Judge not solely by your own standards.' While our conduct might not have been perfect in winning, the conduct of your coach and team down here was nothing short of awful. In closing, I would like to add that the above opinions are strictly my own, but I feel quite sure they are held by many of my fellow students."

The best answer to this young gentleman is an old proverb that states, "If the shoe fits you, wear it" and he seems to do so, nicely, as the truth seems to hurt deep in the South. He refers to our poor sportsmanship as awful and yet the following night we played the Georgia Tech Engineers, who claimed along with their coach that Kentucky was the cleanest team that they had played against. It has never been known of a Kentucky crowd to swarm out on the floor, 300 strong to tangle with the 15 members of the visiting team, or to be so discourteous as to hiss when the other team was shooting foul shots. We lost another game and this one also by one point, but what was said—nothing except that the best team had won. The whole stands may have been asleep—but no one said that the Kentucky fans swarmed on to the floor to mob the Notre Dame team.

I still say the best dose of medicine for the University of Tennessee is to pay them no attention, whip them on the basketball court, and not to give them the satisfaction of pulling us down to their level of poor sportsmanship. Win or lose they will have no excuse of accusing us of having a low standard of Southern Hospitality that wasn't shown our team when they played a team that is lower down—the map.

The scores made by the WAA Independents in the Women's Basketball Intramurals compare with the tallies made by our high-scoring Wildcats. In their game last week with the Chi 'O's, WAA scored 78 points to the opponents' 7, which runs a close second to the 75-6 score by which the 'Cats trimmed the Arkansas State quintet. . . . The next game, with the Alpha Xi Delta, resulted in a 68-8 victory and Tuesday the Independents defeated the Tri Delta 60-14.

I stated that Bill Sturgill was playing his last game against the Tech Engineers, but because of different arrangements with his draft board and the drafting of farm labor, he was able to make the trip to Michigan for the game with the Spartans and will be available for the Tennessee battle.

During the intermission of the Georgia Tech game, the football team displayed an unusual brand of basketball. They played the game with boxing gloves, wrestling and tackling on the floor as if it were the gridiron. Could this entertainment have been solely for the amusement value, or could it have been a conditioning practice for a coming tilt in the near future?

Autograph Puzzles

two editors wanted him to write books. Why didn't he appear in public and who was Lamartine? When people began to claim the acquaintance of Lamartine, Norman Cousins revealed that Gustave Lamartine was Norman Cousins. In our interview, Mr. Cousins told us that it all began in an elevator when a feather that was sticking out from a woman's hat almost poked his eye out. Right then and there Gustave Lamartine was created, but it wasn't until Mr. Cousins saw a lady struggling under a hat which resembled the flight deck of an aircraft carrier, that Lamartine decided to write the letter to the Saturday Review of Literature protesting against these hats. And as we were leaving, Mr. Cousins said that when his daughters, Amy and Andrea, are old enough to wear hats, their heads won't be adorned with feathers and lassels and fixtures that look like stove pipes and fire plugs. Lamartine the hat designer may be dead, but to all autograph seekers, Norman Cousins is still Gustave Lamartine.

Scientific equipment has been generally confiscated; more than fifty per cent of the Dutch students have been living illegally in the resistance movement, without access to the insufficient ration cards; self-respecting professors at the University of Oslo and elsewhere have been dismissed. Education Enslaved
Education in the universities in the occupied lands has been enslaved. Eight thousand Greek students live on one meager daily communal meal of beans with oil. At the last registration 742 were liberated hearts. The promise in Inter-culture. Three thousand French students in the re-occupied University of Paris have no rooms, beds, or blankets, in one of the coldest winters in years. Paris is the "utopian capital of Europe."

High Scorers 'Make' Team

Jack Tingle

Jack Parkinson

Wilbur Schu

Captain Jack Tingle and Wilbur Schu and Jack Parkinson are the three members of the Wildcats responsible for the majority of points in the win column that has made Kentucky one of the top ranking quintets in the nation. All three were members of last year's great team and were chosen on the All-Conference team. They have accounted for 513 points and are the three high point men of the team.

Tingle leads with 215 points followed by Parkinson's 163 and Schu with 134. Tingle's 216 points make him the leading scorer of the Southeastern Conference.

The facts speak eloquently to enlightened minds and to compassionate student solidarity is immeasurable. Surely the students and professors of the University of Kentucky, in untouched and beautiful Kentucky, will respond generously, imaginatively, and fraternally.

Michigan State Defeats 'Cats 66-50 In Upset

Third Loss For Kentucky

By Tommy Gish
The Wildcats were upset by the Spartans of Michigan State Monday night 66-50 at East Lansing. The underdog Michigan State team took the lead in the first three minutes of play and maintained it throughout the game.

Sixth Victory
It was Kentucky's third loss of the season, and the sixth victory for the Spartans. Kentucky had lost its two previous games by single points. Michigan State, which had lost to the Wildcats 53-35 earlier in the season, could do nothing wrong in their big game of the year. They were so cool and self-assured that there was no resemblance to the team the 'Cats had previously beaten.

'Cats Start Scoring
The 'Cats started the scoring in the first minute of play when Tingle tipped in a basket, followed immediately by another by Sturgill. Beyer and Rapchak then tied up the game 4-4. Both teams then scored and tied the score at 7-7. From there on it was Michigan's game.

Fake 'Cats Out
Starting the second half, Wilbur Schu drove in for a crisp and again. But then the Northerners got hot as they faked the 'Cats out of position time after time and after five minutes of play had run the score up to 44-26 in favor of State.

Tingle connected with a free throw, and then two field goals in quick succession. Rapchak and Fortino led the Spartans to victory.

He had been in service since October, 1940 and overseas since August.
