War World

By Dr. Charles M. Knapp

The German Airmen: The American people have been shocked this week by the receipt in this country of photographs and word pictures from correspondents portending the ghastly conditions which Allied soldiers had discovered in German concentration camps.

It would seem that the German people have outdone the beasts of the jungle in their treatment of the slave laborers which they had conscripted from the occupied countries.

The German nation seems to have descended into a state of barbarism. In the determination of the Allies to be accorded a defeated Germany that is not to be a part of the world.

The Canadian First Army has trapped perhaps 100,000 German troops in the northern Netherlands. The British Second Army has been driving hard against German troops that have fallen back toward the Baltic coast for the defense of Bremen, Kiel and Hamburg near the mouth of the Elbe river.

The American Ninth, First and Fifth Armies appear to be linked up along the west bank of the Elbe opposite Berlin, with the Ninth pushing at least one mile bridgehead across the Elbe. At that point it is now expected that the Ninth will meet contact with the Russian driving west from the Oder.

There will be eight no-break dances in the following order: "A Little On The South Side," "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes," "Let's Go and Par' Away," "Sentimental Journey," "Always," "I Dream Of You," "Crazy Rhythm," "Dreadful" and "Stardust." These no breaks were selected by the AST and ASTRP branches.

The Pacific Battlefield: Bombing raids upon Japan increase in size and frequency. Destruction by fire of the tinder box Japanese cities continues and must disrupt the Japanese war industry in far greater degree than those of Germany and Europe.

General MacArthur has reported that except in northern Luzon and southern Mindanao Japanese forces of any consequence in the Philippines have been destroyed. (Continued on Page Four)

1918 Armistice Edition Missing-And Why

Last week a Kernel headline proclaimed that the "1918 Armistice" was "Too Exciting For The Kernel." That's what an examination of Special editions in the year indicated for no newspaper appeared in our 1945, it looked like a tremendous undertaking.

Students State Ideas On Peace Problems

Russia's position and demands was most often stated as the biggest question. How much will she give in the fight against Japan? Will she gain territory at the expense of Poland? One of the few students interviewed who said she read no national news in the papers stated that the "greatest thing to be done is to make nations more Christian in order to decrease race prejudice. This is an ideal."

With a one of guarded optimism, students avoided stating that what is accomplished at the conference would prevent future wars. "It will be a great step for peace but we have to get all people conditioned to the idea of world cooperation,"

Blake, Akers To Present Third Graduation Recital

The University Music department will present Laura Jean Blake, soprano, and Joan Akers, organist, in the third of a series of graduation recitals at 7 p. m. Sunday at Memorial hall. He was a Spanish-American war veteran and a member of Calvary Baptist church.

Pvt. Spear also says, "To speak out boldly and claim a letter is malicious is to assume immediately dictatorial control of perhaps the only surviving essence of democratic liberty on a college campus."

No member of the faculty reads any of the copy that appears in The Kernel, or the page proofs of The Kernel, unless he is asked for advice. The members of the faculty do not see The Kernel until the students do, on Friday morning.

For three years I have been as closely associated with The Kernel as any student on the campus. I have worked on the copy desk for more than a year and through my hands passes the copy which appears in The Kernel, with the exception of material on the editorial page.

I would like to refer Pvt. Spear, and any other persons who feel the way he does about the fact that The Kernel refrained from publishing a letter which it considered libelous, to paragraph eight of the Bill of Rights in the Kentucky Constitution.

It is with quaking thumbs that we type this, our thirtieth or fortieth column, for we fear that we have lost the courage and fortitude necessary for a columnist. We started writing it with hopes of reaching the top in something. And now, according to an ardent admirer overseas, we have finally reached the top—in "pantless literature".

Another notice was then put up at the mail boxes. The Post Hall girls had placed it there for the Boyd Hall girls, who share their post office. It read: "Please be quiet in the morning." We'd say that the poor little freshmen haven't learned how to spell, but we saw a Boyd Hall girl add "Please loin to spell" to the sign, so there is little left to be said.

The following notice was posted in Boyd Hall this week: "Girls can have guests in Boyd Hall on week-ends only." It was a woman with a small child. The whole situation grew more and more confused, but finally Nan learned that they thought that they were in the Good Samaritan hospital.

To all those who don't wear glasses, we sincerely say: by all means, do. They're wonderful little things. We'll never forget the day when the optimist poured nitric acid into our eyes in order to dilute the pupils.

The Tri-Delts are very happy, now that they have George back. George, their houseman, had been in jail on a framed-up robbery charge since February, and the girls decided that they needed him. So the whole sorority marched into Circuit court Wednesday, dressed in their pearls and wigs, (they said that they wanted to "influence the jury" the way it's done in the movies) and, with the help of Scott Reed and Stud Stoll, they won the case. Now everybody is happy.

Once inside, we crawled across the floor till we reached the teller's window, and then we presented the check which we wished to have cashed. After waiting for quite a while, some one said informed us that we were standing before a portrait of the first president of the bank.

Student Selected—This Time

When the University's annual election for new officers of the Student Government Assembly takes place in the Union building, hardly a student on the campus passes the polls without having some idea of what is going on. The posters hanging in the Book Store or in the Grill attempt to tell part of the story, and the discussions between ardent Independents and Constitutionists are evidences of the fact that one of the big demands for student cooperation is the important factor.

But knowing just what doesn't seem to be enough. What does the SGA do? What are its main functions? How are the students as a whole benefiting when they place their check mark before the name of a candidate for office? A good per cent of these questions are answered when they see that the organization stands behind Red Cross, Community Chest, Clothing, and War Loan Drives, when they represent the problems of a majority of students, or when they bring leaders of world-wide importance to the campus.

The first attempt by SGA to bring these guests to the campus was during the winter quarter when a round table forum, composed of WLW foreign correspondents and news commentators, addressed nonpeople and students in an evening discussion in Memorial Hall. The program was unlike a convocation because it was not held during the day, classes were not dismissed, and the speakers were not selected by officers of the University. In fact, it was the first official student government-sponsored program.

And now SGA is presenting another wholly student-organized program, this time in the form of a regular convocation to be held Tuesday. When the newly elected officers of the assembly are installed in their offices then it will be the first time in the history of SGA that such a activity shall be made a public ceremony; and when Dr. Robert J. McMullin, president of Centre College at Danville, speaks to the student body this also will be the first time that a convocation speaker was chosen by the students themselves.

As past president of a university in China before his internment in a Japanese prison camp, Dr. McMullin has experiences well worthy of an hour's entertainment.

The success of the first student selected convocation depends on one thing—your support.

BOX CARS

By Adele Denman

I suppose there is one thing we had better get settled before we go ahead this time. Maybe I didn't make myself clear about the policy of this column. I want to be printed in this space every week comes from the students themselves. This space is reserved for the publication of as many dirty cracks as possible.

I like people. I don't just sit around and scheme about other things to say about them. In the past I have tried to give everyone a square deal, and if I wanted to get real nasty, I certainly wouldn't leave my name at the top. The column also is not a political weapon which I wield for the express purpose of making myself and my friends presidents of the University. There was some misunderstanding about something I wrote last week, and if I hurt anyone's feelings, I am sincerely sorry.

There is a little more in the column about one group than others. It is because I came in contact with those persons more during the week, so I suggest we forget our grievances, and all I can do is say I am sorry. You wanted this column and I want you to enjoy it! Arriving soon is Dick Ogden. Bob Ogden's little brother. From what I hear he is really worth meeting girls!

Wedding bells will ring for Jimmy Beale and Francis Murphy in a couple months of June. Mae Kenney feels that what he says about his newest love, Carol Held, must only be said in poetry. In spite of his cuts and bruises, Charlie Taylor still looks good in pictures.

Geometrically speaking, the newest triangle is Beale, Symposon, Carolyn Gibson, and Bob Purvier, who is home on leave. Jane Carol Barnaby wastes no time, and Wilbur Noble doesn't seem to be wasting any of his, by spending three dates a week with her.

Interesting dates for Les Brown dance are Margaret Higginson and Logan Savage. The dates have been rather weekly lately.

Congratulations to our new band sponsor, Eva Singleton! I know she will do the job well. Dorothy Johnson had a picture taken of her—one of those candid shots, taken of her climbing off a tractor in overall. She tried to throw it away, but instead it found its way overseas, and she received a letter from an unknown soldier, saying she had been selected "pin up girl" for his company. That picture sure got around! Another one will be presented in celebration of national poetry week, but well heck, I'm feeling sentimental!

Since variety is the spice of life, it is almost impossible to own too many novel bits of jewelry. An eye-catching lapel pin or clip can change your suit's whole outlook on life, and there are so many new kinds to choose from.

Gold-plated keys, some of them honest-to-goodness ones, are gaining in fashion favor because they can be worn in so many different ways. Some are pins and clips while others hang from chains.

Jeweled crowns and royal-looking crests are adding a touch of glory to lapels and pocket flaps, along with the newly revived chateaine. These chateaines are the most versatile contribution of the year. They look equally attractive worn on the waist of your skirt, the shoulder of your suit, or on the neck of your plain black dress.

One of the most popular of the new jewelry styles is the color or iridescence which is worn with both afternoon and evening dresses. Next week when the Wildcats whipped Florida 32-9. The first intercollegiate football in Kentucky was played 70 years ago. Mississippi State and the University football teams which met in Memphis, Tenn., November 4 last year, figured in one of the most humorous incidents recorded in southern football history. In 1914, Kentucky charged that the Mississippi coach greased the ball with axle grease.

DID YOU KNOW THAT? The first spring football practice session at the University of Kentucky was held in 1909.

The University of Kentucky team became the Wildcats in 1916. A sports writer used the appellation in referring to the Kentucky eleven after it defeated the Kentucky Wesleyan team 42-0. Earlier the team had been variously known as the Cadets, Colonels, Corncrackers and the Thorobreds.

A measles epidemic was blamed for the poor showing in 1927 of the University of Kentucky football team against the Crimson Tide of Alabama. The Tidesmen suffered the measles epidemic on the Kentucky campus officially was at an end the Brave little Hearts that will Never Forget!

Hard and cruel have been the lives of young ones in war-torn countries. Children like these—30 million of them—are hungry, homeless, nearly naked. Deaths from exposure are often as many as deaths from starvation. Tuberculosis and typhus run rampant among them. Never will their brave hearts forget the horrors of war. Never will their grateful hearts forget your gift of the clothing they so sorely need—clothing which now hangs unused in your closet—or reposes forgotten in your attic. And remember, these pitiful children of today will be our proud partners of tomorrow in keeping the permanent peace we are all fighting for! Isn't their everlasting friendship worth your spare clothing? America must help clothe about 125 million men, women, and children in Europe alone. This month, America must collect 159 million pounds of serviceable used clothing to take care of part of their needs. Some of that clothing must be yours—as much as you can spare. Will you do your share today?
