A Passing Thought On The Thanksgiving Setup

In view of the overwhelming student sentiment—and plain common sense—in favor of it, it was unfortunate that the two-day extension of Thanksgiving holidays could not be granted officially by the University, because of previous commitments and the necessity of having schedule changes approved by a state board.

Study In Insect Life: The Reserve Book Hider

It certainly is too bad that the shelves in the library are so stout. The other day we had to read a chapter in a book for a quiz, and had the unfortunate occasion to have to look for it in the reserve room. We looked on the proper shelf, but it wasn't there. Nor was it on any of the desks or the trucks, and we were told by the boy at the desk it was not out of the room.

We Come Across With A School Spirit Editorial

There is abroad in the collegiate world, we hear, a rather mystical something usually called School Spirit, whose chief manifestation is cheering at football games, and which is especially noticeable hereabouts because of its absence.

Survey Shows American Students Definitely In Ranks Of Isolationists

American college students are definitely in the ranks of the isolationists, but no longer can they be considered as balking idealists trying to hold against the tide of events. An intercollegiate survey conducted last week, using the Gallup Poll questions, indicates that they have swung toward the national stand on questions of war and national defense. Considering youth's characteristic liking for extremes, it is not impossible that during the coming year opinion in U. S. colleges will easily swing over to the interventionist side with student opinion leading rather than following that of the country as a whole.

They have, just as any humans have, a desire to holler and scream when the action of the game is exciting; anyone who was at Saturday's game couldn't help but notice the noise when the going was tense.

But the point is, that this steam only rises above normal pressure at certain times, and should be harnessed at these times. Over-enthusiastic cheer-leaders, in their well-meaning attempt to stir up vocal support for the team, often overdo their jobs by trying to get the crowd to burst into cheering every four or five minutes, whether there is anything to cheer about or not.

It's just like slapstick comedy in the movies. A little now and then always manages to draw a big laugh, but a picture-full leaves the audience thoroughly apathetic.

If the cheerleaders keep a close eye on the crowd and observe closely the football game for the tense spots when everyone is on edge, we bet they get fine results.

We would also like to suggest that, instead of competing with him, they invite Sam Neely down from the law school and engineering section. He may not have the technique, but anyone sitting in his section of the stands can testify that he has a crop of original cheers and a contagious enthusiasm which goes over with the crowd.

From the extensive plans made by Sukey, the band, and the cheerleaders, it appears that there should be a considerable amount of excitement stirred up over the Tennessee game. If it is organized efficiently and not overdone, there ought to be "school spirit" aplenty.

Another Fine Tradition Has Its Annual Rebirth

One of the University's most appreciated traditions—the annual series of Sunday Musicales—began its thirteenth year Sunday, and if the large and enthusiastic crowd in attendance is any indication, it is headed for another successful one.

State Legislature Note: Memorial Hall was so crowded that many persons either had to stand up all through the performance or were turned away.

The musicals not only bring to the campus outstanding professional artists but also provide an outlet for the musical expression of the University philharmonic orchestra, concert band, men's and women's glee clubs, little symphony, choristers and the University chorus.

How A Cat Was Annoyed And A Vol Was Mauld

Calls For More Pep And 'Maul The Vols'

Students, here's your last chance to show what you are, men or mice, because this week, starting today, everybody is having a pep campaign. So eat your soup and come out of your shells to yell "Maul the Vols."

It is not wholly your fault for not turning out vim, it is the fault of tradition. We are embarrassed to yell, because the one next to us doesn't yell. Let's change this situation and everybody yell. That means you, you, and you.

Don't think your bit won't help. It will encourage the timid souls to let loose, so come on, peppers, and try it once and see what fun it is. The pep campaign plans are as follows:

- 1) Tuesday morning—this morning—remember to pass the slogan "Maul the Vols." Let it be a "hello" to a "goodbye" this week. If you are stumped in class for an answer, just say "Maul the Vols" and you will be O.K. I'll guarantee you an A.
- 2) Sing! Sing! Sing! Everybody sing "On, On, U of K." In front of buildings, before classes, after classes, after classes in the grill. Everybody sing!
- 3) Be a politician. After all this is a campaign. Use strategy. Build up your candidates for the Thanksgiving football election with tales of untold victory. If we believe enough, the team will believe, Tennessee will be scared and won't believe. Come on, you introverts, send your candidate on to victory.

4) They say dress makes the man. Let it make the school. Be proud wear the UK colors—blue and white in case there are any antisocial case readers. If you are in doubt as to where to display them here are a few suggestions: For the men, blue socks and ties and blue and white stripes (she will really like that) and girls, blue and white hat bows always give a feminine appeal to the men. Last of all decorate your ears, you puto-crats, decorate your houses, colleges and in general any place you can stick blue and white, go to it.

The finale will be Friday night at our super-duper pep rally at 7:15. Be there with your colors and vocal chords.

Let's give this campaign a final fling at the national convention of "University Peppers." If every UK student would do his part, the old gem would rock with excitement for better days to come.

That's all students. I'll be waiting to hear you yell "Maul the Vols."

Regulation Of Labor Needed

"Should student employments be subject to administration regulation?" The first time somebody asked us that we said "no!" very emphatically, because the idea of government regulation of labor crossed our stereotype of what is democratic. In other words, because such an intimation smacked even faintly of Socialism or Communism, we rationalized against it.

We did not even pause to ask what was meant by administration regulation.

The question, however, cannot be cast aside that easily. For even a cursory survey of the conditions of student employment shows much evil. There are many, too many, cases of long hours and low pay.

For instance, we know of several instances in which students' handling "meal jobs" are waiting tables and washing dishes seven days a week, six hours a day for less than $30 a month, in 188 hours.

Not by the furthest stretch of imagination could some of these students get by on $30 a month. But let us assume they are. At $30 a month, in 188 hours, that averages little more than 18 cents an hour.

This is one example. We could cite the case of a university sponsored enterprise which pays students doing technical work a far lower than union wage.

Or we could, had we the space, cite a number of other examples. But these might take a whole page.

We have noted also, in talking to students, that some of their employments are definitely detrimental to their academic work . . . and even to their health.

Such jobs, night jobs for instance, should be given to non-students, who are capable of handling them without endangering their personal welfare.

Then we can count with the contention that such jobs ought not to be the best they can get. If the student's situation is such that he cannot make contact for any position, then he is capable of handling them without endangering their personal welfare.

We would suggest a board, which if organized right, could not only furnish jobs to needy students but also set employment standards.

We would suggest a board, which if organized right, could not only furnish jobs to needy students but also set employment standards.

VICE OF THE PEOPLE BY FRD HILL
They regulate the bad, corrupt, unhealthy labor situations which we have found already too prevalent on the campus.

Such a board, if set up, could pool the types and forms of student jobs, including in their poll wages received, hours worked, and the academic record of students holding recorded jobs.

From such a statistical record they could derive a set of fair standards, by which to rule on the individual and group cases.

And in any case, they would find the employers unfair to the students or the students unfair to themselves in holding such positions, they could first attempt mediation with the employer and if that failed, order the student to abandon that position.

Undoubtedly this would seem a harsh way of dealing. Nevertheless, if the student is furnished a "replacement" job by the board which is of more advantage to himself, who can complain.

Certainly not the student. And not the employer, if he has been guilty of what an honest and unbiased board rules to be the maintenance of a bad labor condition.

If such a plan as this could be practically put into effect it would save untold hours of mental strain, of lost sleep and education opportunities for over-worked and under-paid students.

In view of the present labor conditions on the campus we would heartily recommend it.

Shaw Cancels 32 Dates For Negro Trumpeter

MUSICAL MUTTERINGS BY BILL PENICK
Swingdom's most noteworthy character, Mr. Artie Shaw, is in the headlines again. Artie has most recently added Oran "Lips" Page, colored hot trumpeter extraordinary, to his already tremendous organization and has gone on a semi-concert tour of the country.

Page has been featured both as an instrumentalist and as a vocalist ever since Artie took over his 32-piece group late in August. Other featured artists now with the Shaw band are George Auld on tenor sax, Billy Butterfield on trumpet, Jack Jenney on trombone, Les Robinson on alto sax and Dave Tough on drums.

Artie's large string section's getting its share of attention for the excellent background it provided for the leader's fine clarinet rides.

Best of the band's late recordings are Beyond the Blue Horizon and Rockin' Chair. Horizon is a grand old tune, blossoming forth with a tremendous new kick in this tremendous Shaw setting. Rockin' Chair rides along in moderate tempo, a little less of the strings, more brass and sax, hot trombone, much more rhythm and Shaw's scintillating black stick mean dancer's kicks in this modern version of Hoagy's perennial favorite.

Count Basie gives us a beautiful version of Moone Nocturne, with saxist Earl Warren stealing the show. A pretty sax solo and an excellent vocal show that the Count can play street music with the best of them.

From Duke Ellington's score for the musical production "Jump For Joy," Benny Goodman gives us a fine version of the Duke's tune I Got It Bad. This paced tune glides in a fascinating groove with good grouping of the reeds and brass. Reverend's Pound Ridge, written by Benny, and features the sparkling Goodman clarinet and Coote Williams' biting trumpet. Big Sid Catlett's smashing drums round out one of the best Goodman platters in months.

Bandsman Waxes Poetic Concerning Fate Of The Band

To the Editor of The Kernel:
This crude poem is intended to awaken the student body to the fact that although the band is not granted, its members nevertheless are only human and appreciate student encouragement as well as any other athletic organization on the campus.

A BANDSMAN'S REWARD
To the heroes of the game,
Who risk pain, and sweat and
Go the glory and the fame
When the victory's won.

To the members of the band
Who play and march and yell
Go the jeers of the stands—
"You oughta go to hell!"

To the giants of the court
Whose shots the hoops do cleave
Go the cheers and support
When triumph is achieved.

To the members of the band
Who play and march and yell
Go the jeers of the stands—
"You oughta go to hell!"

Law Students Disrupt Yelling, Offend Crowd, Writer Says

To the Editor of The Kernel:
"United we stand, divided we fall." This is the emblem that many of the buildings, bookshelves, pennants, and many other articles around the campus. In fact, it is our code.

How does this apply to? Does it apply to the entire institution, or to one certain, concealed, self-reliant, little organized "law-abiding" little group that makes up one college?

I saw this particular group demonstrating at the last football game. They congregated in one section. If you were not in their college, you were asked to move. I was one of those who was asked to find another place to sit. This was not the worst, however. They refused to join the college yell. They had their own yell leader and their own set of yells. They sat silent while the University yell attempted to give a yell. After this had died away, these individuals infested the air with such yells as:

"Assault and battery!"
"Seduction and rape!"
"Law, law, law!"

Those words are OK for courts or law classrooms. But were those words appropriate for a college football game, students?

AN OBSERVER

EDITOR'S NOTE: It is interesting to note that "An observer so considerably shocked because such nasty nasty words were used at a football game should submit them for publication in the newspaper."

Can I Quote You On That

By VIRGINIA BASKETT
Question: Do you think that today's student generation is more serious than previous generations?

Julia Ann Waters, A & S sophomore: "Today's generation is made to be more aware of the issues because they are constantly brought up before them, but I think that they are really just about the same. It is possible for them to be a little more serious, and a little less churlish."

Mike Eitelman, Engineering freshman: "I think the present generation is less serious because they pay no attention to the war; you never hear it discussed. They pay too little attention to school and studies and too much to loafing in spare time."
K. S. Bruce, Commerce sophomore: "I think the present generation is shot to hell."

BY MARGARET CANTRILL

Oh dear me! I have so much studying to do and yet I think I'll call Helen. Maybe she can tell me a little something. Hello, Helen? Hope you are not busy. I just called up to see if you had any news. Oh good, but wait, let me get this straight. It was a Chi Omega party. Cider and doughnuts. Sounds good! That is what they had to eat at the open house after the game. Was Hilda McClaran in charge of arrangements? I thought she would be—she's social chairman.

Musical Soloist Is Honored At Reception Sunday In Union

The members of the Union music committee, Phi Beta, and Phi Mu Alpha entertained with a joint reception Sunday afternoon in the Great Hall of the Union building in honor of Miss Harriet Henders of New York City.

Miss Henders was featured soloist for the first of the Sunday afternoon musicals in Memorial hall. The young American soprano made her debut in New York at the Metropolitan Opera house singing the part of Sophie in Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier". Prior to her New York debut, the younger singer traveled in Europe where she sang 27 leading roles in the cities of Vienna, Leipzig, Prague, Hamburg, Budapest, and Graz. She has been soloist with leading symphony orchestras in this country and has just completed her second engagement with the Worcester festival.

Thompson To Play For Hall Dance

Jamie Thompson's orchestra will play for the women's residence hall Thanksgiving formal which will be held from 9 to 12 p.m. tomorrow in the social room of Patterson hall.

Sponsored by all three dormitories, the dance will be held in Patterson hall instead of Jewell, as was previously announced. Admission to the dance is by bid from residents of the dormitories.

The decorations will carry out the Thanksgiving theme through the use of leaves and corn stalks. The members of the decorating committee are Louise Jones, chairman; Josephine Glasscock, Esther Johnson, Martha Kitchart, Martha Obitz, and Mary Jane Watt. Joyce Archer, Barbara Rehm, Betty Pugh, Betty Rose, Betty Arent, Mary Agnes O'Leary, Louise Ewan, Ann McMillen, Virginia Haynes, Josephine Bald, and Ida Schone, Doris Reichenbach, Rita Sue Leslie, Mary Riem, Emily Olgan, and Mable Warnecke. Sue Pan Gooding was in charge of the arrangements for the committee, and Carolyn Hill is in charge of refreshments.

Dean Sarah Holmes, Miss Jane Haselden, Dean and Mrs. L. J. Horstcher, Dr. and Mrs. M. M. White, Dr. and Mrs. Niel Plummer, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Ratliff, Miss Rebecca Van Meter, Miss Margaret Lester, Miss Rankin Harris, Miss Adele Gensemer, and Dr. J. Rafter have been asked to serve as chaperons.

To Kappa chapter of Phi Kappa Tau—Stanley Sauner, Lexington; William Claywood, Hartford, Conn.; and Elwood Jaegers, Independence.

What A PR Sponsor Thinks About Men, Courting, Career

By DAWSON HAWKINS

Okay stings here's the dope on Julia Johnson, statusquo blond sophomore from Lexington, who was crowned sponsor of the Pershing Rifles company at Saturday night's PR ball.

Surrounded by uniforms in the Union grill yesterday afternoon, this potent Tri-Delt paused for a Kernel interview. This is what she thinks about—boys, dates, careers, and stuff.

"Say, Julia, do you think a college boy and girl should . . . uh . . . court?"

"Why, No," and she blushed, "it's necessary, and a boy who tries to kiss a girl on the first date shows lack of consideration for his date."

"Only for social reasons," was her opinion of drinking. She doesn't smoke because she's never tried it, but she doesn't object to it. Julia thinks pinning is a bad thing for college students for, she explained, both the boy and girl lose the thrill of being young and free. People sometimes get the wrong impression of pinned students, she said.

Tommy Dorsey is her favorite band and radio program. She spends her spare time at the movies or finding a new heart . . . sorry . . . for her charm bracelet.

"I love screwy hair-do's as you've probably noticed," she volunteered, adding that she was majoring in English but didn't plan to teach.

"What are you going to do when you graduate?"

"Get married," she said, "or if I have to work, I like to be a model!"

Bits of Biography

A BIZ FOR LIZ

Elizabeth Jones, a senior in the commerce college from North Middleton, is majoring in secretarial work. She likes to swim, sun bathe, dance, travel, and do crazy things. Before coming to the University, she worked in the gay sophistication of Stephens college for two years. After Liz graduates, she would like to be a buyer of fine clothes for the ladies. Of course, if the right guy comes along, marriage is always the preferred alternative.

LIZ JONES

HEY TEACHER!

After graduation, Rita Sue Laslie, education senior from West Point, wants to teach.

This versatile English major is a talented musician. She writes poetry and participates in young Leabon minister, and Dr. John Kuiper, head of the philosophy department, January 14. Each will be encouraged to discuss the respective merits of the two fields.

'Let's Talk About It' Forums Will Be Sponsored By Union

First of a series of bi-weekly "Let's Talk About It" forums on various vocations will be "Let's Talk About Teaching," to be conducted by Mrs. Cleo Dawson Smith, Lexington, November 26. Each forum will be presented at 3:30 p.m. on alternative Wednesdays in the Music room of the Student Union Forum committee.

The series will not aim at vocational guidance, but at presenting highlights of the various professions to be presented.

Mrs. Smith, a former member of the University English faculty, and a free-lance lecturer and book-and-play-reviewer, will describe the satisfaction and interest she has derived from teaching. In this, as in all the forums, the latest talk will be followed by a longer period of discussion.

CLEO DAWSON SMITH says "Let's Talk About Teaching."

PERSONNEL WORK

M. M. White, assistant dean of the arts and sciences college, and Miss Rankin Harris, head resident of Boyd hall, will lead discussions in the "Let's Talk About Personnel Work" forum planned for December 10. After talks by Miss Harris and Dean White, the former on the individual and the latter on less personal aspects of such work, the usual discussion period will be held.

"Let's Talk About Religion and Philosophy" will be discussed following talks by Olaf Anderson, young Leabon minister, and Dr. John Kuiper, head of the philosophy department, January 14. Each will be encouraged to discuss the respective merits of the two fields.

Bill Cross, student dance band leader, and Donald Irvine, English instructor, will lead the "Let's Talk be the topic of the forum March 10.

Two types of writing—journalistic and creative—will be included in the "Let's Talk About Writing" forum March 24. Dr. Williams Francis Callaway, associate professor of English, will discuss creative writing.

The staff of "The Thoroughbred Record," Lexington-published horse magazine, will present the last of the series, "Let's Talk About Horses," and the raising and racing of them, April 7.

Frosh Will Hear Potter On Health, Scholarship

Professor M. E. Potter, head of the physical education department, will address arts and sciences freshmen on "Health and Scholarship" at the Matriculation lecture Monday in Memorial hall.

This is the second meeting of the arts and sciences freshmen since they have been awarded into one group for matriculation lectures as in previous years. The first half of this semester the class was divided into groups under leaders in vocational fields.

Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, dean of the graduate school, spoke on "Live Freshmen and Dead Sophomores" at the first of this series yesterday. The University Freshman song, composed by Alexander Capurso, executive director of the music department, was presented for the first time at the assembly.

The words of the song follow:

"THE CLASS OF 1945"
We're the class of '45,
Fresh in U. K.-Y,
Going to show the sophomores
They're not so wise, Hah! Hah!
Hah!

When the four years roll along,
We will ever sing this song,
Hail to the class of 1945!

The schedule for matriculation lectures for the remainder of the semester follows:

December 1, Nyram Young, director of safety of Greyhound lines, will speak on safety.

December 8, Bill Carr of the State Highway patrol will discuss safety.

December 15, President Herman L. Donovan will address the students in a "Family Chat."

January 5, Sgt. Lee Estes will conduct a safety program.

January 12, Peter Kurachek will talk on safety.

January 19, Robert Odear, Billy Black, and John Clark will discuss "What the University Means to Me."

Music will be furnished for the meetings by members of the freshman class.

Kittens Drop First Tilt As Baby Vols Win

Volunteer Frosh Strike Through Air For 13-0 Triumph

Kentucky freshman footballers closed their season with a record of two wins and one loss as they were knocked from the undefeated rank Friday afternoon at Knoxville when the Baby Vols of Tennessee took to the air to defeat them, 13-0.

The Kittens' two victories of the season were at the expense of Cincinnati and Vanderbilt.

Both Tennessee's touchdowns were scored through the air, with 150-pound Junior Whitaker tossing both the scoring aerials, and Caldwell, big Vol end, on the receiving end. It was the first victory of the year for the Baby Vols, who had previously fallen before the Duke and Vanderbilt frosh teams.

KITTENS OUTPLAYED

The Kittens were outplayed throughout, although they threatened seriously once in the early part of the game after a Tennessee punt had been blocked on the 20-yard line. However, the Kittens were unable to gain, and their biggest threat of the afternoon ended.

In the third period the Kentucky yearlings recovered a Tennessee punt on the Baby Vols' 35 but after three plays had been run the Kittens were set back to the 46 to terminate this threat.

Tennessee's scoring came in the second and last quarters, and each time penalties played a part in the Baby Vol advance.

FINEST VOL DRIVE

The Baby Vols started their first drive from the Kittens' 45, and after Whitaker had tossed to Caldwell for a first down on the Kittens' 23, the Kentucky frosh were pushing to the 19. From there Whitaker tossed to Caldwell, who went over.

Their second tally came in the early moments of the final period after a roughing penalty against the Kittens had given them a first down on the Kentuckian's 45. From there Whitaker uncorked another heave to Caldwell who scampered across the Tennessee completely bottled up the running and passing attack of the Kittens as they held Tunstall and Meeks to a standstill. As a result they chinked up 13 first downs while the Kittens were making four.

Latin American Study

The Institute of International Education, New York City, has announced that a limited number of competitive maintenance grants for study in a Latin American country, from March to December 1942, is available to American college and University graduates or young instructors. Information concerning these grants may be obtained here from Dr. A. E. Bigge, head of the German department.

CATS SCHEDULE MEXICAN TEAM FOR JANUARY 24

UK Has Beaten Latin Americans Twice Recently

By HAROLD WINN

Kentucky's Adolph has come his conquering namesake one better. The Wildcat ambassador will take on Latin-America on his own battlefield when the Blue and White basketball team meets the University of Mexico in Alumni gym January 24.

The Wildcats have met the Mexican team twice before recently and both times Rupp's charges have chalked up wins. In 1933 the Wildcats smacked down the visitors 81-26 and in 1935, they defeated the Mexico City team 68-30.

Rupp said yesterday that very little was known about Mexico's strength, but added that they played teams in the East last year and won about half of their games.

"We had a couple of open dates and they were coming this way to take a crack at them," Rupp said.

Brown university will fill in the other date on the Wildcat schedule if present plans work out. If Brown agrees to play the game, it will be January 20 in Alumni gym.

WAA Glamour Cats Will Meet Transy

The WAA "Glamour Cats" will try for their second victory of the season at 3:30 p.m. today when they meet the Transylvania hockey team on the field behind the Union building.

The first game was a 4-0 victory over Centre college.

Starting for the Cats in today's game will be Darrs Reichenbach, center forward; Lida Belle Howe and Sylvia Siegel, inners; Ida Jane Vaughn and Rita Sue Linn, wings; Lida Stoll, center halfback; Mary Kemp, and Jennie Sullivan, halfbacks; Wilma Salmon, fullback; and Agnes Smith, goal guard.

Substitutes include Martha McCauley, Ann Hatter, Leah Calhoun, Betty Dew, Helen Harrison, Arminia Roberts, and Mary Searcy. Sylvia Siegel is WAA hockey manager.

Referees will be Miss Margaret Warren, physical education instructor and WAA faculty adviser, and Transylvania physical education instructor.

To Attend Meet

Frank Fowler, director of the Guildford theater, will attend a meeting of the National Theater conference in New York on November 21 and 22. It was announced today.

Vocational Tests Will Be Given At Reduced Rates

Tests in vocational interest may be taken at any time in room 4, Administration building. They are designed to measure the students interest in and emotional fitness for various occupations.

Fee for the test is 10 cents for the first 300 and 25 cents for all thereafter. This fee is a necessary charge made by the student committee, not by the personnel office; student committee for the vocational guidance announced. The usual fee for the test is $1.

Students who are undecided as to what occupation to follow are especially urged to take the tests, the committee said.

KERNEL SPORTS

The Sporting Way

BY JOHNNY CARRICO

Kenny Holland put on the fanciest exhibition of how to play football that has been given on Stoll field this year. The Memphis midget is a natural—and I believe Ab Kirwan would have scaped him from Southwestern if the Wildcats could ever have caught him.

The Lynx tried 54 plays and Holland figured in 30 of them. This does not include his punt returns, kickoff returns, and the reverses, spinners, etc., on which he handled the ball. He personally accounted for 170 yards on the ground and this does not include his 90-yard touchdown run, punt returns, or kickoff returns.

Govartin Kears was the greatest favorite with the crowd that we have ever seen. Bert Marshall, Johnny Butler, George Cafego, Bob Fox and the other greats who have appeared on Stoll field never drew the applause that the Memphis one-man gang received. One wag observed that the crowd deserted their half-pints in the stands for the half-pint on the field.

The biggest laugh we've had this year came after Holland ran through the Kentucky team on the kickoff. The stadium contributed its share of amusement when the small one finished his gallop. After Noah Mullins turned in his beautiful sprint, the Wildcats took a short nap and Mr. Holland proceeded to run through their dreams.

If the Wildcats play the way they did Saturday, we'll be looking toward next year for a score against the Vols. The blocking was below average in most cases and interference was poor. The line looked pitifully weak without Johnson and Wood.

In Saturday's affair, Kincer led the Wildcats with four first downs. Mullins, Allen, and Althaus made two apiece, and Catchin, Parr, Jones and Kuhn made one each.

Charles Kuhn did a good job in catching Phil Cutchin's high pass at the close of the first half. Carl Althaus put a neat finger on Allen's passes. "Gatelegs" looks like an envelope with his long slow strides.

The sins of the Kentucky coaching staff caught up with them. Junior Whitaker threw two passes for the Baby Vols that defeated the Kittens 13-0. Whitaker was here at Kentucky this fall and tried out for the freshman team.

At Kirwan should get an animal trainer for his football players if they put on any more exhibitions like the one in the cafeteria Sunday night. Some dumb football player dropped not one, but two, firecrackers in the cafeteria. It not only frightened every one out of their wits, but almost caused a big damage in dishes, not to speak of the possible injuries it could have caused. Throwing firecrackers in the dining room is crude even in high school.

Sports Whirl

By WINDY

He wasn't a great big fellow, but Southwestern's little Kenny Holland sure kept the Wildcats in plenty of Dutch Saturday.

In fact everything was Dutch-Frosh even. It looked as if every Wildcat did his share to contribute to Holland's 90-yard jaunt.

The Lynxes opened up holes so big in the UK line that the little 140-pound back actually looked lonesome when he ran through them.

Lynx coach Ed Kubsale planned to take his team on a sight-seeing tour while they were up here, but the Wildcats probably showed them all they wanted to see.

Cough Kirwan did his best to keep the injured Mullins on the sidelines, but Noah kept pacing the sidelines.

Cat Claws Lynx 33-19 In Spite Of Holland

Mullins, Althaus, Kuhn Make UK Touchdowns

Kentucky tried awfully hard to be the big noise Saturday with their 33-19 victory over Southwestern, but the loud roar set up by the snorting heels of diminutive Kenny Holland drowned out the Wildcat attempts at crescendo.

The 140-pound sophomore scored two touchdowns, completed all of the Lynx passes, made eight of their 14 first downs, gained almost three-fourths of the yardage, and did practically all of the kicking.

In addition he made the longest and finest run of the afternoon and was easily the outstanding player on the field. On defense he showed up also, once averting a Wildcat touchdown by snaring Eric Hoyer, who appeared to be headed for a certain score.

ALMOST UNNOTICED

Amidst the fireworks set off by Holland, the exploits of the Wildcats went almost unnoticed. Noah Mullins and Althaus each scored two touchdowns. Ermal Allen three.

two scoring passes and interlarded to Mullins for another.

Charley Kuhn made a picture catch of a high strike from the arm of Phil Cutchin in the waning seconds of the first half to score the Wildcats' fourth touchdown.

Interspersed with the Southwestern attack was the hard running of John Bolling. His 20-yard scoring jaunt in the second quarter was one of the highlights of the Lynx offense.

MULLINS, ALLEN LEAD

Noah Mullins was the leading ground gainer for the Cats with 137 yards in 13 tries, while Ermal pitched good for 153 yards.

Kicking totals were: Kentucky, 235 yards on seven kicks for a team average of 33.1; Southwestern, 217 yards for an average of 30.6.

The absence of Clark Wood and Clyde Johnson in the Wildcat forward wall was conspicuous. Southwestern repeatedly ripped holes in the Kentucky line for their backs to move through.

George Schlegel and Bob Oenbrink, replacing the ailing Wood and Johnson, turned in creditable performances.

Kentucky meets Tennessee next Saturday in their final game of the season. The Vol's defeated at Boston College 14-7 Saturday.

OUR COATS make the goal

- Tweeds
- Shetlands
- Cheviots
- Coverts

Overcoats have made tremendous gains in the last few years. They've lost weight but gained warmth and comfort. It's all in the fabric. We've combined the fleece of the lamb with llama, alpaca or camel's hair . . . and the results are fabrics fine to handle, light on your shoulders and warming as a hot toddy. Why not come in tomorrow and go into a huddle with us over the proper coat for your needs.

Let's Celebrate
It's CHESTERFIELD

Pass around the Chesterfields and it's pleasure time for everybody . . . smoking pleasure that only the right combination of the world's best cigarette tobaccos can give you. Chesterfields make good friends . . . they're milder, definitely better-tasting and cooler-smoking. Everybody who smokes them likes them.

They Satisfy
