

a soul I want to see -

Believe me when I say I left you with a heavy heart last night. Each time I leave you it seems harder to bear than before.
When I am with you
I feel so "inadequate"
and after I have left you I am in the depths of despair.

Of course you can't help being so sweet
and loving, and making
me feel so happy
when I am with you

My dear Miss Helen:
Again I am located at home (pro tem) in New York - but unhappily - I have never been bored about this place, and this time less than ever. I do hope my work will soon be so engrossing that I will be too busy to think about being here; for there is not
