

Students To Stage Welcome Pep Rally

Coach 'Bear' Bryant Arrives Here Today

A mass meeting of the student body will be held in front of the Alumni gym at 12:45 this afternoon to greet the University's new football coach, Paul (Bear) Bryant, who will arrive here today from the University of Maryland.

"He left the University of Maryland under the protest of 2,000 students, and we want to have a strong welcome for him when he arrives at the University of Kentucky," according to Cornell Clarke, president of Su.Ky, who stated that an extensive advertising campaign has been carried out on the radio and in the newspapers.

Students will not be excused from 1 o'clock classes, however, Clarke said.

Athletic Director Bernie Shively said that Bryant is driving to the University but will stop at Ashland before continuing here tomorrow.

Sororities, fraternities, and other student organizations are asked to have placards welcoming the new coach.

Bryant is a graduate of the University of Alabama, received his B.S. in 1935. He was All-Southeastern Conference for two years, played in the North-South game two years, and played in the Rose Bowl in 1934 for 36 minutes. Immediately after graduation he became assistant coach at the University of Alabama for four years and in 1940 he was appointed line coach at Vanderbilt. He entered the service in 1942 and served 42 months in the Navy, 16 in the European theater. He was appointed coach of the North Carolina Pre-Flight School and in practice games beat Duke twice, 12-0 and 14-0, and defeated North Carolina twice, but the team was disbanded before they played a regular game. He coached the rank of lieutenant commander when discharged.

He reported as head coach at the University of Maryland September 15, 1945. During the two previous years Maryland had won only one game whereas his team won six last two and tied one game during the season.

His three assistants are Carney Leslie, Frank Moseley and Kenneth Whitlow. Moseley is not new at the school.

University as he came to Kentucky in the fall of 1934 where he was assistant coach in football and baseball coach until March 1942, when he entered the Navy. He is 34, was married on the Alabama team for three years and All-Southeastern in 1932. He reported at the University of Maryland in October, 1945 as assistant under Bryant.

Larrie attended the University of Alabama and was on the football team in 1930, 1931 and 1932. He was assistant coach at Alabama and at Y.M.C. before entering the Navy in 1942. He served 18 months and was assistant to Bryant after his discharge.

Whitlow, 29, is the youngest of the group. He played on the Rice Institute team in 1930, 1931 and 1940, and was All-American center in 1940. He entered the Navy in 1941 and after 29 months service was assigned to take up coaching duties at Maryland as Bryant's assistant.

Dr. Donovan concluded by announcing that the financial campaign is a success as over $60,000 has been raised for the Athletic Association.

22 Prelabs Are Ready For Tenants

46 Other Units Expected To Be Available Soon

Twenty-two of the prefabricated temporary dwelling units in Cooper Village on the Experimental Station farm are ready for occupancy today and tomorrow, University officials announced. Another 46 of the units should be completed soon.

Because of the severe shortage of houses facing student ex-servicemen and 120 families, houses will be made available in lots of ten as soon as they are completed. T. T. Jones, dean of men, said today.

New Units Obtained

Approximately 325 veterans attending the University asked for houses before it became necessary to halt applications, Dean Jones said. If the University succeeds in obtaining an additional 100 structures, Dean Jones said that applications would be taken again just before March 25. These new units would take care of two families, making a total of 200 apartments available for married ex-servicemen.

Apartments Furnished

The apartments will be furnished with electric stove, coal heating stove, toilet, showerbath and other necessary furniture.

The 68 houses, which the 22 are a part, stand near Rose street. The other 42 dwellings approach Woodland avenue. Half of the 220 houses contain one bedroom; the other 100 are furnished with two bedrooms for veterans with children.

Five of the six finalists, chosen in December as queen candidates, will be named attendants and presented with roses after being escorted to the throne at the north end of the ballroom by Veterans' club members. Col. G. T. Mackenzie, head of the University military department, will make the announcements and presentations.

Six Contestants

The six finalists, selected from a field of 38 contestants last quarter include: Sally Branch and Sylvia Mayer, Kappa Alpha Theta; Ruth Damron, Delta Zeta; Joan Ruby, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Marian Slater, Alpha Delta Pi; and Nancy Catherine Taylor, Alpha Gamma Delta.

All table reservations have been sold, according to Joe Beard, ticket chairman. No general admission tickets selling at 11.50 may be bought today at a booth in the Union great hall.

Bob Blidit, Navy veteran, will furnish music for the dance. His orchestra, the Blue and Gold, features vocalist Jean LeCompte and Bill Paynehouse at trombone. A soft-rock concert will be operated by veterans.

Ceremony 21 Years Old

According to Byron Reed, Jr., publicity chairman for the dance, the queen-crowning ceremony was initiated 21 years ago at the University.

Chairman who arranged the dance after consulting Kentuckian staff editor Mary Lillian Davis and business manager Jean Shirley Crabber, are: general chairman, Bill Karaker and Freddie Kastner; tickets, Joe Beard; decorations, Jack May, and publicity, Byron Reed, Jr. and Henry Ford.

UNO Assembly Meeting Has Been Most Successful

Vandenbosch Lauds Choice Of President

The first meeting of the United Nations Organization assembly in London has been successful so far in its effort to complete the structure of the organization, according to Dr. Amy Vandenbosch, head of the University political science department and a member of the American secretariat at the San Francisco conference last year.

Especially has the organization made an excellent choice in the election of Paul-Henri Spaak, delegate from Belgium, as president of the first assembly. Dr. Vandenbosch recalled that Spaak made a great impression on the assembly while head of the Belgian delegation at San Francisco. "The assembly couldn't have made a better choice," he added.

Security Council Choices

As to the United Nations choice of its six non-permanent members of the Security Council, those chosen were Australia, Brazil, and Poland for two years, while Mexico, Egypt, and the Netherlands were elected for one year. These nations were elected to serve with the five permanent members, Great Britain, France, Russia, China, and the United States.

At this first meeting the United Nations Assembly will elect 18 members on the Social and Economic Council, whose function is to improve the social and economic conditions of the world. If the standards of living are improved there is less likely to be war.

Secretary-General Important

Another important election will be the choice of a secretary-general for the United Nations Organization. Dr. Vandenbosch said. This is a very important position because the success of the organization depends on his abilities. He will be nominated by the Security Council and voted on by the assembly.

Advanced ROTC Signs Forty-Four

Forty-four men have signed up for the advanced ROTC infantry courses and seven have signed up for the advanced signal corps work being offered this quarter for veterans of World War II. These men will take physical examinations Jan. 22.

Four Army officers have reported to the University to instruct in ROTC courses. They are: First Lt. Joseph P. Ross, Capt. Edward Gedrick, Capt. Alvin Von Halle, and Capt. Robert R. Ellison.

Lieutenant Ross is replacing Capt. Robert R. Duggan, who will receive his discharge from the Army at the end of this month.

All new officers combat veterans, having served either in the European or Far Eastern theaters of operations.

Delegated To Speak On 'United Nations'

Mrs. William Sporborg, representative of the National Confederation of Women's Clubs, will be presented on January 22, under the auspices of the Koffee Club. Her topic: "United Nations General assembly in Action," will deal with the present meeting of this assembly which is being held in London.

As a delegate to the San Francisco Conference, Mrs. Sporborg worked with all the women delegates to the United Nations which will be held in the Union building at 4 p.m. Jan. 22.

We're Very Proud

Yes, the University of Kentucky is proud, not only of our new coaching staff, but of our radio station, WKY, and our paper, The Kentucky Kernel. We're proud of them for their splendid coverage of the announcement Monday night of the new head coach.

WBKY claims an exclusive scoop on the nation on the story when they interrupted their broadcast at 7:17:15, and O. C. Halvay Jr., of the station's sports staff, flashed the news to the press.

The name of Paul "Bear" Bryant was released to WBKY listeners than ten minutes later. Dr. Donovan made the name known, and while he was still talking to the press conference about the new coach.

Later, at 4:45 p.m. still before other stations in this vicinity had reported the news, they gave a five-minute report on the coach, his biography and record.

The Kernel had a staff standing by alone with men at the print shop and started working on an extra as soon as the news was released.

Three stations will be heard at 7:30 p.m. and by 8:30 p.m. they had the press rolling with complete coverage of the news and the results of the Wildcat game with Xavier.

Immediately the staff hopped into cars with the papers and had them delivered to all the dormitories. Fraternity houses, sorority houses, and the Student Center were all given a paper in the vicinity had an issue on the street. In fact the staff delivered copies of The Kernel to local newspapers as a joke, some 45 minutes before the down-town papers went to press.

University Accepts City Radio Towers

Elmer G. Sulzer, director of public relations of the University of Kentucky, last week notified city officials that the University has accepted for its own use the two radio towers which are now part of the police department radio system.

The towers will be removed at the expense of the University when the present police radio system is replaced by new FM radio equipment.

One of the towers will be used in connection with the University's FM station, WBKY. Mr. Sulzer said, it will be located at a place designated by President H. L. Donovan and will replace the present antenna system atop McVey hall.

Because FM radio reception is dependent upon height of antenna, the tower will insure coverage of a wider territory, Mr. Sulzer said.

'Tain't Funny

When the newcomer to dormitory living is first short-shorted or finds cracker crumbs in his bed he has been initiated into the fine old institution of pranking. As much a part of college as the books and old buildings, are the water fights and ghost stories told over the loud speaker system.

It's a lot of harmless fun. But sometimes these little tricks go further than the funny stage. Remember the siege of goldfish scalloping? That was foolish instead of funny.

Last week when some of the girls in Boyd hall rolled a trash basket down the steps, rousing the quiet hall, the supervisors laughed indulgently. But Saturday night the pranksters went further and upset a fire extinguisher in one of the corridors, which was not only destructive but also dangerous.

And at 1:30 a.m. a fire alarm was turned in. The fire department screeched to Boyd hall and no fire! The girls in both Boyd and Patt had been evacuated in the cold night for nothing.

It was necessary to threaten the residents of the entire dorm with a "campus" before the pranksters confessed. They would have been the cause of getting about 150 girls in trouble. Of course they didn't intend to cause real trouble; they just didn't stop to think. The idea seemed like a huge joke.

Now, this is only a very mild example of when jokes go too far, but a lesson has been taught. Fun is fun, but collegians should be careful not to be careless in their pranking.

Letter To Editor

TICKET SHORTAGE EXPLAINED

To the editor:
As a member of SuKy, I have been asked many questions in the past two weeks regarding seats at basketball games, both at home and for the Kentucky-Notre Dame game in Louisville.

I have attempted to find out the answers to the various questions I have been asked. These questions were brought about by the crowded conditions at the Wildcat Ohio U. basketball game, and the inability of the students to secure tickets for the Notre Dame game in Louisville.

The Athletics department, working with Dr. Chamberlain, estimated the approximate number of students for the second quarter at about five hundred short of the actual enrollment of 3,600 students. Of course, there was no definite way of knowing early in the fall that there would be 1,200 veterans enrolled here this quarter.

The Athletics department has sold only about eight hundred seats for the basketball season to the general public. A few years ago, when the University had its peak enrollment of 3,800 students, only about 2,000 of that group ever attended a basketball game. So, the crowded conditions in the gymnasium are due to an increased interest by the student body and the large enrollment of veterans which was not altogether anticipated.

This past fall, the University football team played the University of Alabama in Louisville. This game was a home game because the University of Alabama is played on a home-and-home basis, one year in Alabama and one year in Kentucky. Therefore, the students were admitted to that game on their student books. The Notre Dame basketball game is not played on a home-and-home basis. The two schools have simply agreed to play in Louisville, and the game belongs to Notre Dame as much as it does to Kentucky. Therefore, the student books will not admit a student to this game. However, the Athletics department in the past has saved some tickets for the student body to purchase. Last year there were only two hundred students that bought tickets for this game. This year the Athletics department saved more than 200 tickets for the student body, and, of course, the first students that applied for these tickets secured them.

As a member of SuKy, I realize that we as students here at the University get to see our team play ten or eleven games each year, and very few people outside get to see the games. The attitude of the Kentucky Alumni and the general public is that the students should give them a chance to see the Wildcats play at least once during a season. Of course, all of these crowded conditions will be remedied when the new field house is built, which will seat approximately 12,000 people.

I hope this explains the information that I have secured as a member of SuKy.

Something Called School Spirit

What is that certain something called school spirit?

Would school spirit include a desire to learn? After all, the purpose of a university is to educate rather than to amuse, bore or otherwise disconcert the student. A real desire to learn on the part of the students and an equally wholehearted desire to get across knowledge to the students on the part of the professors will go a long way to raise educational standards in a university.

School spirit should consist of preparing assignments well, learning to think clearly, and obtaining a background of knowledge to be expanded later on.

Would school spirit then take in campus activities? Definitely, an interest in the university can develop only if students participate enthusiastically in campus organizations.

Student government, the YM and YWCA, the Student Union Board, SuKy, all need active members willing to sacrifice a little time, thought, and effort for the improvement of the University. Specialized activities such as the Phi Kappa club, French club, WAA, and the Kentuckyian help the student learn things not taught in formal classes.

Wouldn't spirit include respect for school property, buildings, and grounds? Students can not have pride in battered walls, scarred desks, and littered walks.

Doesn't school spirit mean the backing by the student body of the football team, the basketball team, Gunguip productions, the campus newspaper, campus drives, and convocation?

How about following campus regulations as to parking cars, getting to class on time, paying attention to notices sent out, and keeping up standings?

Wouldn't a little school spirit arouse a desire for higher pay for professors? Kentucky cannot improve her status when she pays teachers so little that many of the best move on to greener fields. More classes should be demanded because many closed this year before half the students had registered. What the students need and want is within reach even though a high spirit demands much.

Finally, don't we mean by school spirit, the consolidation of all groups and divisions, sororities, fraternities, and independents into a compact student body with one purpose in mind—the improvement of our University?—J.G.

And Now—

- Hoot Combs would like to make a public statement to the effect that he does not have 150 tickets to the Notre Dame game, at $20 each or at any price, never did have, and doesn't expect to have. In fact he'd like to buy one—"cheap"—if anyone has one to sell.

- speaking of $20, there's a coed who has kept some books out of the public library so long she owes the library that much. Now she's afraid to take the books back.

- there are table-sitters in the Grill, who finish eating and then just talk and smoke and talk, all through the noon hour, while others must eat lunch standing up to get to 1 o'clock classes. It would ease the congestion and certainly be more considerate if students would finish eating and vacate the tables as soon as possible.

- we have a new coach and an athletic organization that should produce good football teams. But if next year, or the next, the team still loses, let's not blame Mr. Bryant. Enthusiasm and optimism are high now, but if things should go wrong, the biggest boasters now will be the first to criticize the coach. University students should not be guilty of such injustice.

New Fraternity Policy:

Excerpt from an Editorial at West Virginia U.

With an eye to the postwar future the National Interfraternity Conference, representing sixty national fraternities, has released a three-fold program to rehabilitate Greek-letter organizations which suffered during the war.

Its general plan calls for the effective functioning of fraternity chapters in campus and community life, serving substantially the war veteran in school and, in the process, establishing the chapters in a new position of campus and general esteem.

The conference's chief concern, however, is with the elimination of "the old college-student" type of broadening fraternity membership. Verling C. Enteman, conference chairman, stated, "By this act, returning war veterans, as well as students not in the service, will find fraternities a 'true manifestation of the democracy for which the war was waged.'"

"To best serve the needs of the colleges and universities and their active student bodies"—that is Mr. Enteman's desire for the future local and national fraternities. The fraternities have been hit hard by World War II, and face difficult times. This program, advocated by Mr. Enteman and the Interfraternity Conference, however, is a good sign that Greek-letter organizations are wide awake to their responsibilities. They are making efforts to adjust themselves to the postwar campus life and its problems with the way they wish to establish their future success.

It's the Law:

Speaking of rules and regulations: Two freshmen women at Michigan State College recently approached their housemother with a look of hopeful questioning, and asked if they might take a bath. Very baffled by this request (naturally) she inquired why they should ask such an unusual thing. The girls answered that the handbook stated that there could be no tubbing without the permission of the housemother. It's the law, believe it or not.

Males:

The south wing of Woman's Hall at West Virginia U. had a scare the other evening when a young man was freely roaming through the halls. After he left, the doors were checked to see how he could have gotten in. And those who had been hard by World War II, and face it. One of them asked how old he was and received the reply, "Oh, ten or twelve." From some of the exclamations one would have thought the girls were disappointed.

Reading in Bed:

Reading in bed is no longer considered a hazard to one's eyes, it is stated in Pathfinder magazine. Dr. H. Grant, lighting professor of Columbia University, says that if the lighting is right, eyestrain is no greater when lying down than when sitting in a chair. Nor does it make any difference whether light comes over the left shoulder or the right.

Slippers:

"We have heard of 'snipe hounds' in the woods or almost any place, but we never heard of having one in the dorm. Leave it to the women of Woman's Hall at West Virginia U. They talk of everything. Recently, in one of the ball sessions, the girls were talking about 'snipe hunting' and so innocently young thing asked what it was. Her mischievous friend couldn't resist the temptation so they decided to go hunting right then. The girl didn't want to go, but she was so no explanation was necessary. They led her, with a box to catch them in, up to a regular feature of the ball sessions and went off to chase the snipe down to her. She alertly watched from the sidelines for a few minutes and then caught on to the joke.

Pearce Pulled No Punches

By Jim Wood

Back in the dead dead days when a spade was a spade and some Kernel writers called it a steamshovel, a columnist by the name of John Ed Pearce, who was recently made editor of the Somerset Journal, wrote for The Kernel.

Returning veterans and students who were on the campus before the war may cringe and others may include in a nostalgic laugh at the mention of John Ed and his "Pick-Up" in The Kernel, or "Soar Mash," a "Soar" magazine, which he edited in 1939 through 1941.

"Pick-Up" For the first three months of 1939 John Ed intermittently wrote a column for The Kernel called the "Pick-Up," which, though it didn't cause any grey hairs, it did cause some to gasp. Said column brought letters to the editor (and John Ed threatening all sorts of retaliations if the columnist didn't stop on the phone for a date, Miss Hume, but lately an ardent Irvineite, turned the tables and sent out a report of his own.

The next week Mr. Irvine demanded a verbal recant.

... and a BMOG ... and about one of the fraternal BMOGs of the period: "Williams, by the way, was absent from the Junior Prom because his tails were in hock."

When Pearce became editor of the Wildcat, student humor magazine of constructive and non-constructive criticism, the publication changed drastically.

In one instance each fraternity was rated in terms such as the following: "The establishment is an example: 'What they date: country girls; Condition of house: farm house; What they do: hold hands; What they drink: hog wash; What they need: a laxative; What they look like: hoppers; Where they go: to the outhouse."

John Ed even took the faculty to task, and it's said that John Ed received the vice-versa treatment by the same.

... and the Faculty "Horse of a Different Color . . . Or . . . Your Grades, Professor," in a regular feature of The Wildcat which purported to grade University professors on their various activities. Thus the Wildcat proceeded to do with no holds barred.

The following was written about one fellow: "The subject is . . . I don't think . . . is trying to teach . . . is trying to flunk the whole class . . . knows . . . (the subject) all the way back, but when . . . starts teaching, (the subject) becomes so tired that he can't even remember the assignments, grades hard. Class attitude none too soft and many students fail. Annotate this one if you have access as a prerequisite. There are easier and better ways of getting it."

Some Good, Some Bad Nor were all the comments on Pearce derogatory. They were described as prejudiced, high school teacher, a wizard, knows subject, likeable in classification card, the student is responsible for seeing that his schedule is complete and that each of his instructors has a class ticket for him. Regardless of attendance, credit cannot be allowed if the student is not properly enrolled in the course.

All Right, So You Can Write

By Martha Yates

Now that the grueling first weeks of the quarter are past, there's a chance for new students to start looking around to see what extra activities on the campus they would like to participate in. Continuing the series of articles on campus organizations, this week Journalism is the interest.

It's ethical enough to begin with The Kernel, the Kentuckian, and all extra work in the Department of Journalism. The rapid growth in enrollment and interest in the Journalism department fully justifies giving it the limelight.

Pencil pushers should know that The Kernel is a weekly publication supervised by the Board of Student Publications. The editor, managing editor, news editor, and business manager are selected every year and receive a salary for taking responsibility of editing and printing the paper. Mildred Long, Mary Jane DeRose, and Peggy Watkins hold these offices in the order previously named. They organize the staff and the editorial policy of the paper, make-up and in general, work like beavers. By the way, the $80,000 Kernel plant is student owned.

The Kentuckian office is just around the corner from the Kernel office in the sub-basement of Mary Lillian Davis, Tommy Gish, and Jean Crabbs, the annual is produced. Miss Davis has also revealed that positions will be open on the Kentuckian to interested students.

If anyone is interested in creative writing, there's a chance for her in Chi Delta Phi, literary honor society for women. This organization is publishing a campus magazine, the first of its kind in years, and will welcome contributions.

Theta Sigma Phi, honorary fraternity, is the professional organization that recognizes outstanding women maintaining a certain standing in the journalism department. Before the war Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity for men, was active. Future members of the Patterson Literary Society, which recognized creative writing among the men students, Theta Sigma Phi is active.

Everyone to whom writing is a hobby or ambition or business will find ample opportunity at the University for association with students who share his interests, and en-

Clayton Cruise and Allan Cloyd

By Merle Weathers
At least two of the hundreds of discharged GI's on the campus this quarter have no adjustment problems whatever. For the last twenty-one years, come the Army or high water, Allan Cloyd and Clayton Cruise have been inseparable.

Both flight officers, they trained at the same fields, received identical battle awards, even had consecutive serial numbers. Discharged in October, they enrolled this quarter in the commerce college and boosted the strength of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity of which they were both members before they entered service.

Same Birthday
The similarities go even farther: Both Lexingtonians were born at the same hospital in 1924, within 90 minutes of each other, lived a few blocks apart, went to the same junior and senior high schools, graduating from Henry Clay high school, they entered the University in 1943, they enlisted together on August 6 of that year.

Both earned flight officer bombardier-navigator commissions at Kirkland field, Albuquerque, N. M., Cloyd wearing wings only a minute and a half ahead of Cruise.

Together they were shipped to Naples in March, 1945. Based in Italy, they flew missions over Austria, Yugoslavia, the Po Valley

FROM THE GREEKS

By Janet Sulzer

As the rush week fog lets up, the rapid re-activating of many pre-war fraternities may be more clearly perceived. Once again, the Delta Tau Deltas, Kappa Alpha Gamma Gamma Rho, and Sigma Nus are on the campus. The Delta and Sigma Nus have their own houses that are now leased out, but the KA's and Alpha Gamma Rho are in the familiar predicament of house hunters.

These four groups have wasted no time in getting started: the KA's entertaining with a dance in the Pireside room of the Phoenix hotel, Tuesday night; the Delta entertaining with a party last Friday night; the Sigma Nus having a meeting in their own house Wednesday night; and the Alpha Gamma Rho electing the following officers: Irvin Overall, president; Cliff Ledford, vice-president; Matt Williams, secretary, and Harold Webb, treasurer.

Attention men: The following open houses will be held in your honor: From 4-6 Friday afternoon, the Chi Omega will hold open house for all fraternity men on the campus. Saturday afternoon, the ADP's, Alpha Gamma, and Kappa will have open houses for all men on the campus. The Alpha Gamma and Kappa receptions will be from 8-9, the ADP from 4-5.

All men on the campus are invited to the Kappa Alpha Theta open house from 4-4, Sunday afternoon. Mary Frances Meade is in charge of the arrangements.

The Tri-Delta entertained with a meeting Thursday afternoon in honor of their new housemother, Mrs. Lois Mattison Cox. Guests were housemothers, head residents, and friends. Miss Tea Holland made arrangements for the event.

The following SAE's have entered school this quarter after serving in the armed forces: Keith Brubaker, Ed Taylor, Buddy White, Allen Cloyd, Clayton Cruise, Howard Willard, Bob Montgomery, Stewart Mahurin, Dick Young, Jim Masterson, Pete Triplett, Bob Perry, and Fred Wachs. Besides

Big Blue Takes Spartans, Musketeers In Stride

By Don Towles

The University of Kentucky cage team won its 10th and 11th victories over Michigan State and Xavier University last week-end. The Cats overcame a jinx that had plagued them for years in beating Michigan State on its own floor. They rang up an 11-point margin over the Michigan boys, beating them, 55-44. The following Monday night the Spartans on the home court, 66-45. The Wildcats defeated the Musketeers and walked away with a 62-36 victory.

Michigan State has now dropped six games to the Kentuckians while winning five times from the Cats. Last year the Wildcats defeated the Spartans on the home court, 66-45, only to lose to them on the Michigan court, 66-50.

Ralph Beard, freshman flash from Male high school, scored 18 points as high point man for the night. Beard, losing his hitting power to the favored Michigan team, hit the basket from all angles. He stole the ball several times and broke away to drive under the basket for a fast trip shot.

The Xavier boys had given up all hope of winning before the Kentucky team arrived, but Coach Rupp, still in doubt about the situation, said that anything could happen. The Kentucky boys hit the floor like a ball of fire and started

Students Protest

About 2,000 students of the University of Maryland started a strike and picketed class rooms Tuesday morning after they learned that their coach, Paul Bryant had been signed to a five-year contract by the University of Kentucky. Classrooms were suspended and meetings held at the University of the President. H. C. Byrd, and student leaders followed.

President Byrd, clad in pajamas and dressing robe, appeared before about 200 students shortly after midnight, when the news became known, and told them that he was as surprised as they to hear that Bryant had signed the Kentucky contract.

In the dining hall Tuesday morning, the students decided to hold their demonstrations. They scheduled a protest meeting for that afternoon to be held in the school gym.

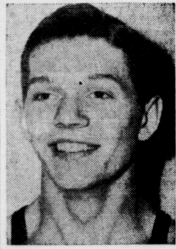

It was rumored around the campus that Bryant was leaving because of disagreements between him and Byrd. Byrd was a football coach before he became president of the school. However, none of the student leaders accused the president of not being able to get along with Bryant. The students carried placards during their demonstrations and to an early morning bonfire and snake dance. The placards bore protest of the leaving of the coach, who had given Maryland their best football season in a number of years. Some read, "Down with Byrd. We Want Bryant." Others advertised student board petition blanks.

Prince George's county police were summoned to the campus after the strike began, but they said students were orderly and made no arrests.

Cosch Bryant appeared before the mass meeting Tuesday afternoon and quitted the crowd with the remark, "The type of thing that has happened here is bad—it's bad for the school, for you, for athletics and for me. It's putting everyone in a bad light." Later he told newspapermen that "spread of this strike psychology to classrooms is mighty dangerous."

The mass meeting scheduled as a protest against Bryant's departure turned into a roasting farewell party for the coach.

He denied rumors of friction between he and the president, and asked the students to go back to

Introducin'

By Charles Taylor

Ralph Beard, diminutive guard who specializes in stealing the ball and confusing the opposition, hails from Louisville where he attended Male high school.

Ralph is one of the few who has gained the distinction of being a four-letter man from Male. He captained the basketball team in his senior year and also won all-state honors in leading his team into the coveted place as 1945 champs of Kentucky. Ralph also holds letters in football, track, and baseball.

In his senior year at Male he led the team in scoring by dropping in 509 points. In early games this year Ralph was slow in breaking into the scoring column but now he has hit his stride and is third now in scoring, headed only by Jack Parkinson and Jack Tingle. In 12 games he has scored 119 points.

During the summer, Beard teamed with Wallace Jones, another Kentucky freshman, to lead an All-Kentucky team to victory over a group of Indiana All-Stars. The game was played at Indianapolis. Beard scored 14 points to gain high-scoring honors for the Kentuckians.

Ralph is a great "break-away" player, who is very adept at driving under the basket for errips. He is acclaimed by many coaches as the fastest man to perform on the hardwood and can keep this pace until the final horn. He can always be seen rubbing his hair head and chewing gum when things aren't going so well for him team.

He was voted the "player of the week" by the United Press when the Wildcats appeared in Madison Square Garden against St. John's. He is a favorite with the Kentucky fans by his size, aggressiveness, ball handling and fight.

"I'm going to Kentucky of my own free will," he said, "I think it's a better job and a better future for me."

Byrd said that he could not offer Bryant a long-term contract at the University of Maryland because he could not commit the state beyond the annual budget period. Bryant had only a verbal agreement with the university.

President Byrd also said he did not want any punishment for the students, about 50 per cent of whom did not attend classes. He also told news men he felt no animosity toward the students because of the players.

TIME OUT!

By O. C. Halyard, Jr.

This week's column is dedicated to the enthusiastic eleven who worked diligently Monday night to get out the Kernel extra and have the news of the new coach on the streets before any other paper in the vicinity.

Special thanks to the three men, Don Grote, Karl Davis, and Bill Kruse, in the print shop, who worked late to get the paper out. The staff members, who made up the rest of the crew, included Mary Jane Dorsey, Betty Tevis, Casey Goman, Martha Yates, Dick Lowe, Hugh Collett, and your humble reporter who seemed to be constantly in the way.

The news that Kentucky fans have been waiting to hear is out. Not only did we get the name of the new head football coach, but we got the names of four new coaches, who will be working at Kentucky. They are Paul Bryant and his three assistants Carney Lasie, Frank Moseley, and Kenneth Whitlow.

Almost simultaneously to Kentucky's announcement that they had signed Paul Bryant, Mississippi released the fact that they had signed Harold Drew, who had been one of the prospects for the Wildcat job. . . . At the present time this leaves only the University of Florida in the Southeastern Conference without a head mentor.

With over 3,500 student books and about 1,000 reserve seats sold for the Cats' home games, and with Alumni gym seating approximately 3,100, someone is certainly going to have to stand out in the cold. . . . There have been several suggestions offered to solve the problem, probably the best one and the one most likely to be used is to let half of the student body in at a time to see the games. . . . Anyway something is definitely going to have to be done, since we can't get our new field house until 1948 at the earliest, and we'll probably have over 5,000 students here long before then. . . . Maybe that group of veterans who wanted to sleep in the gym were ever smarter than people figured. At least, they would be assured of seats to the games—if they awakened early enough.

The sale of student tickets to the Notre Dame game has definitely become a black mark against an otherwise clean slate possessed by the ticket sales department. However, all is not lost. Those who do not have tickets undoubtedly will be able to buy a ticket from one of our fellow students who bought five or six, unless they succeed in getting their mothers and fathers, etc., into the game on student tickets. That is if you have enough of that green folding stuff and act quickly.

The Wildcat cage team added another feather to their cap last Saturday night when they became the first Kentucky team to defeat the Spartans on their home floor. . . . Ralph Beard who is headed toward an All-American berth—took top honors in the game with 18 points. . . . "Wah! Wah!" Jones, who saw only 15 minutes of action in Monday night's game against Xavier, rang up 15 points.

With the count now at 11 to 1, the Cats take to the road again this week-end to meet the Vols Saturday night and to tangle with Georgia Tech next Monday night. Both games are on foreign courts, and will definitely put some light on the Southeastern conference standing. Kentucky will be favored in both contests, but Tennessee and Tech are strong contenders for top honors in the SEC. In three meetings last year with the Vols, Kentucky came out on top in two and dropped the other by one point. They won two out of two against Georgia Tech, but had to fight all the way. However, the man who picks 'em for us says Kentucky will skin by and add two more victories to their count. He was quick to add that he was afraid of the Tennessee game, and said, "Anything can happen."

Navy Calls Granitz

Hartford, better known as "Rusty" Granitz, one of Kentucky's passing running, kicking quarter backs, received a long-distance call from his home in Pennsylvania Wednesday night telling him to report to Louisville immediately for the Navy. "Rusty," who has gained 17 pounds since football season closed, has been on 24-hour call since December 11, 1945, when he enlisted in the Navy for a two-year hitch.

Hol Phillips, Babe Ray, and Jim Williams, all backfield men on last year's squad, are in the Navy now. They left either just before the holidays or during them.

W. A. A. News

The state-wide "Basketball Play Day" that was announced in last week's Kernel will be held Friday and Saturday, February 15th and 16th. These colleges have been invited and are expected to participate: Centre, Union, Nazareth, Kentucky Wesleyan, Berea, Morehead, Georgetown, University of Louisville, Murray, Transylvania, Eastern, and Ursuline.

The Intramurals between the different sororities and the W.A.A. will be held Friday, February 22. Both the Play-Day and the Intramurals will be round-robin.

Bowling, which has so far been held on Tuesday night from 7 to 9:00, will be changed to Monday night from 7 to 9.

Wildcats With 11 Victories Dream Of S.E.C. Crown

By "Scop"

The University of Kentucky basketball team returned home Tuesday morning with two more victories to their credit, and got down to work that afternoon in preparation for the coming week-end. Victors over Michigan State last Saturday night by a 55-44 count, they easily overcame Xavier Monday night by scoring 31 points in each half while holding their opponents to a grand total of 38.

This week-end promises to be a tough one for the Cats, since they are on the road again and play Saturday night in Knoxville against their arch rival, Tennessee. After the game they travel to Atlanta to meet the Engineers from Georgia Tech.

Tennessee and Kentucky are top favorites among the pre-season pickers to cop the title in the Southeastern Conference. However, Georgia Tech has a strong aggressive attack and is not to be regarded as a snap team.

Last year Kentucky and Tennessee split in regular Southeastern Conference play, but Kentucky defeated the Vols in the play-off of the SEC, to make it two wins for Kentucky and one for Tennessee. This gives the boys with the odds-pod something to worry about as Tennessee figures to be 15 points better by comparative scores. Another factor in the Vols' favor is that the game is being played on Tennessee's floor, which is very small and decidedly to their advantage.

Kentucky came out on top in both games with Tech last season, but had no easy going in either game. Again the Wildcats will be at a disadvantage as far as the floor is concerned, but not as great a disadvantage as at Tennessee.

At least, the results of this week-end of basketball will give the fans something to figure on in the Southeastern conference standings. The Wildcats will have tough going this week-end as well as the rest of the season, but that's what will tell if they really have the team that it appears they have.

Intramurals

By Jim Maynard

Intramurals are active again after a state of animated suspension of five years. Prior to the war Intramural sports were highly organized and presented keen opposition. Post-war Intramurals are slipping above the '41 mark.

Six fraternities and three Independent teams have signed up as competitors for the basketball championship. Representing the Fraternities are Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Phi Delta Theta, Kappa Sigma, Sigma Nu, Psi Kappa Alpha, and Sigma Chi. Representing the Independents are the Veterans Club, Brockbridge hall, and an unknown team called the "Wildcat Manners." Fifteen teams are expected to enter before the deadline, which is 5 p.m. Friday, January 18.

Basketball will run for a week under the "round robin" system with elimination starting the second week. If the expected number of teams enter they will be divided into two leagues. This measure will eliminate any one team playing twice in one night, and reduce the amount of time required to complete the tournaments.

Referees will be Charles Rose and Victor Varney. Rose is a veteran of World War II and a student in the College of Law. Varney, who is working on his master's in the College of Education, has done previous officiating. Officials will pick an All-Campus Intramural team from the various Fraternal and Independent groups, of which each has a storehouse of material.

At the close of intramurals in 1941 the K Club was the University champion in basketball with Sigma Nu taking second place.

Teams may now be registered for volleyball. Applications are to be made at the Intramural office of the men's gym. Entries are eligible for acceptance until February 8.

We take this opportunity to clarify a technicality which was brought to our attention. Any person who has earned a varsity letter in a certain sport cannot participate in intramurals of that particular sport. Basketball will start Monday, Jan. 21.

COLONEL Of The Week

Tennis Begins Soon If Weather Permits

"As soon as weather permits it, the University tennis team will begin to play," Court Coach H. H. Downing announced yesterday. Downing added that this year's team will be made up of four veterans, Al Reynolds, Bill Fawn, Bill Sturgill and Tom Asbury.

After suffering through a manpower shortage, tennis like every other sport will be boosted this year by the upped UA enrollment. Candidates who have already expressed interest in the team include John Balzola, Tom McKinley, Waco Days, Bill Sullivan, Robert F. Harris, and Wing Campbell.

First game for the UK team will be against the University of Cincinnati at Cincinnati on April 24. Michigan will play here April 27, and Notre Dame on May 11. Another game with Cincinnati and a contest with Berea have been planned but not scheduled. Downing says the team may make a jaunt south to tackle other schools later in the tennis season.

Coach Bryant stipulated that Kentucky must find him a place to live when he penned his name to the contract. Luckily, said Dr. Donovan, we found one.
